Expansion

◆ FIELD SECRETARY David S. Cook has sent a memorandum to all active chapters seeking a list of members of the Fraternity who are in colleges or universities where there are not now active chapters.

The letter proposes expansion by colonization. One of the three most recent chapters installed was a colonized chapter—Delta-Gamma at Miami University, Ohio.

Chapters which are dormant for various reasons include Epsilon, originally Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College, now Virginia Polytechnic Institute; Lambda, South Carolina Military Academy (The Citadel); Nu, Wofford College, South Carolina; Rho, Cumberland University, Tennessee; Phi, Roanoke College, Virginia; Chi, University of the South, Tennessee; Psi, North Georgia Agricultural College; Alpha-Beta, Centenary College, Louisiana; Alpha-Omicron, Southwestern University, Texas; Alpha-Upsilon, New York University; Beta-Nu, Oregon Agricultural College; Beta-Rho, Colorado College; Beta-Tau, University of Michigan; Beta-Chi, University of Minnesota; Beta-Psi, Mercer University, Georgia; Beta-Omega, Lombard College, Illinois, and Gamma-Beta, University of Nebraska.

Thus, of the 101 chapters which have been granted charters, all but 17 are now active.

At the recent Supreme Council meeting, expansion westward was suggested.

Part of Secretary Cook's memo follows:

"Almost all of the chapters have expressed a desire for expansion. . . . At many colleges and universities today a chapter can be established only by colonization, or by a few interested members getting together, as charter members, and starting the chapter. We have many members on such campuses as Michigan, Indiana, Oregon State, UCLA, but we do not know all of them. If you will let us know your members on these and other campuses, we can, perhaps, get an organization started, for we have strong alumni in all 48 states, every city, and faculty members at practically all American colleges and universities."

Bishop Tucker

By PARKE ROUSE, JR.

◆ It was once announced in a Virginia mountain mission that the bishop would preach next Sunday.

"Which one?" asked a lanky mountaineer. "The little one or the one who looks like us?"

"The one who looks like us" was the Right Rev. Dr. Henry St. George Tucker, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church. Bishop Tucker is given to wearing a disheveled look which is sometimes mistaken for naivete, and his simplicity is equally understandable to Japanese neophytes and labor leaders like William L. Green. He also has a capacity for not losing sight of the forest in spite of the trees.

His plainness has been notable in a complex age. When the assembled bishops of the Episcopal Church, in 1937, were looking for a man to whom they could safely entrust the new autocratic powers of presiding bishop, they passed over the three official nominees to elect good, gray Bishop Tucker.

The interdenominational Christian Century hastened to acclaim this as a victory for the "low church" element and a defeat for exponents of Anglo-Catholicism. But one bishop who considered himself one of the "exponents" hotly declared his support for Bishop Tucker. "His election," he fumed, "is a joy and satisfaction to all Episcopalians . . . they recognize in him a stalwart churchman and a great Christian, one who has never identified himself with petty partisanship, and one who enjoys the confidence of all his brethren."

Having reached the retirement age of 72, Bishop Tucker stepped down Jan. 1, and was succeeded by the Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, bishop of Massachusetts. He returned to his house on Three Chopt Road, in Richmond. There, in an environment of mission simplicity, he plans to pursue the studies which for the past 20 years have had to be slighted for other duties.

It will not be an altogether passive existence. As perhaps the No. 1 internationalist among Protestant preachers in America, Bishop Tucker is interested and active in religious developments taking place throughout the world. Though many of the current generation regard the church as an obsolete force, to Bishop Tucker the need for world Christianity and the church seems greater than ever before.

Editor's Note: This fine story about a Pi Kappa Alpha by a Pi Kappa Alpha for THE SHIELD AND DIAMOND is made possible through courtesy of the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

"The kind of world we're planning," he says, "depends more upon the church than ever in the past. It is the function of the church to develop people to the point where they live by inner control and where they obey the law—to qualify people to be citizens of Christian countries."

When people ask, "Did not the war prove Christianity impotent in its attempt to establish an international morality?" Bishop Tucker's answer is "no." Granting that some mistakes were made, he thinks the churches have made progress in creating that moral climate which is a prerequisite to successful operation of the UN or any other non-military world order.

But there are many obstacles to progress. "There never was a time," says Bishop Tucker, "when association and cooperation were so difficult to achieve in the church as now, but the spirit of unity is necessary if the church is to make its weight felt. After a war, there is a period of relaxation when everything seems to be going to the dogs."

Whatever the American church attempts to do will mean little if the United States sets the world an example of selfishness and inner conflict, says Bishop Tucker. He fears that America is not up to the challenge. "The first thing we must do is to make America more Christian. The church should take a real interest in laboring people, and it should try to create an atmosphere in which economic questions can be peaceably solved." Here again, however, Bishop Tucker stops short of the position of the most advanced element in the church.

Nevertheless, Bishop Tucker is not afraid to handle this hot potato. He presides annually over a conference of businessmen and labor leaders in Washington sponsored by the Episcopal Church. In his cleric's garb, he patiently tries to promote agreement between men like William L. Green and Jim Cary, general secretary of the CIO on one side and officers of the National Association of Manufacturers on the other.

Bishop Tucker's simple tastes are the voluntary choice of a descendant of rich and proud Virginia planter families. His mother, Anna Maria Washington, was the great-grandniece of George Washington and daughter of the last private owner of Mount Vernon. His father, Bishop Beverley Dandridge Tucker, was a direct descendant of that St. George Tucker who came to Williamsburg from Bermuda, and founded a family which, along with the Randolphs and the Lees, has been one of the most consistently distinguished in Virginia's 340 years.

Though the first St. George Tucker and many descendants have been lawyers, recent generations of Bishop Tucker's branch of the family have run to the ministry. Of these the most colorful was Bishop Tucker's father, Beverley Dandridge Tucker, a large, florid and impressive figure who was bishop of Southern Virginia until 1930 and the last Confederate soldier to sit in the Episcopal House of Bishops.

From all accounts, he was a most remarkable and beloved man. Making his home at Norfolk, he reared a family of 13 children, the oldest of whom was Henry St. George. Then came Jane Ellis, now Mrs. Luke White, of Montclair, N. J.; Eleanor Washington (Mrs. G. Winthrop Lee of Concord, Mass.); Maria Washington (Mrs. Malcolm Griffin, of Big Island, Va.); Lila Washington, of Virginia Beach; Beverley Dandridge Tucker, Jr., now bishop of Ohio; Dr. Augustine Washington Tucker, for many years a medical missionary to Shanghai; Richard Blackburn Tucker, vice-president of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, of Pittsburgh; the late Herbert Nash Tucker, a minister of Suffolk; the late John Randolph Tucker, attorney of Welch, W. Va.; Ellis Nimmo Tucker, professor of mathematics at St. John's College in Shanghai; Lawrence Tucker, a Norfolk engineer, and the Rev. Bland Tucker, of Savannah, who, as the youngest of the group, allows when questioned that he is "distantly" related to the presiding bishop.

Young Henry St. George Tucker was educated at the Norfolk Academy and the University of Virginia, and then he went to the Theological Seminary of Virginia, in Alexandria. Word got around among his classmates that the tall, dreamy-looking youth had read the entire Encyclopedia Britannica through the preceding summer, and they stood in awe of him. However, they found him likeable and agreeably mischievous. Indifferent to dress, he often went about in top boots, and brushed his hair every Sunday morning, according to his classmates.

A strong interest in foreign missions was sweeping theological schools and the Virginia seminary, which has always been a strong source of missionary interest, was in the path of it. Young Tucker had demonstrated no interest in the movement till he was elected as "the most popular man in school" to represent the seminary at a foreign mission conference. There he was fired with an enthusiasm which resulted in his volunteering for duty in Japan upon his graduation in 1899.

Arriving in Japan he was placed in charge of work in Aomori Prefecture after undergoing some preliminary training. His knowledge of Japanese was imperfect, and there were few converts to help. He started a night school to capitalize on the growing Japanese interest in American ways, but the fruit of his labors seemed to him small, indeed. Because of his interest in this work, however, he was chosen president of St. Paul's College in Tokyo, a missionary school which supplied the Episcopal Church in Japan with clergymen and lay readers. Ten years later he was elected missionary bishop of Kyoto.

In time, he won recognition as "the missionary statesman of the East," and exercised an influence second only to that of the American ambassador.

In Japan, Bishop Tucker married Miss Mary Lillian Warnock, a mission-

Richmond Alumni Observe Founding And Honor Bishop

◆ IN THEIR first Founders'

Day observance since the end of the war, the Richmond alumni and members of Omicron chapter joined to pay special tribute to the Right Reverend Henry St. George Tucker, A, who recently retired as presiding bishop, or head, of the Protestant Episcopal Church. He was given a golden chapter membership certificate at the dinner at the Hotel Jefferson, which was attended by approximately 150 active and alumni members and their ladies.

Judge Holman Willis, O, of Roanoke, formerly a member of the General Assembly of Virginia, was the principal speaker at the dinner which preceded a dance in the hotel ballroom. He entertained his fellow Pi Kappa Alphas with a humorous account of incidents encountered in his legislative and legal career.

Paul Scarborough, O, who is attached to the Virginia office of the U. S. Department of Commerce, served ably as toastmaster, and made the introductions of those at the head table. These included Russell T. Mann, president of the Richmond alumni chapter, and Mrs. Mann, and Percy Gates, head of Omicron chapter, as well as others.

The golden chapter membership certificate was presented to Bishop Tucker, who is a member of an outstanding Virginia family of Episcopal churchmen, by Guy A. Borkey, O, National Treasurer of the fraternity. The text of the certificate is as follows:

"Minister of God, scholar, and man of affairs; leader in the Christian churches' effort to preserve the intangibles of Christianity and civilization through a long and arduous war; former president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America who has steadfastly sought to bring together all Christians in a realization of the common interests and problems of all denominations and creeds; recent presiding bishop of one of our great church groups through a period of challenging foreign and domestic issues when millions of ministers and laymen looked to you for inspiration and guidance in the solution of the many problems crowding in upon them from all sides; distinguished son of a distinguished father; friend and counsellor of thousands throughout the world,

"Pi Kappa Alpha takes great pleasure in presenting you with this golden membership certificate. With it goes the best wishes of the Supreme Council, the 80 active chapters, and over 30,000 alumni of Pi Kappa Alpha."

Bishop Tucker stepped down Jan. 1 as presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States and retired to his Richmond home in Three Chopt Road, where he plans to devote the future to study and writing.

At 72, he explained, he will resume studies which he has neglected for other duties in the last 20 years. At his home, in an environment of mission simplicity, he expects to write on theological subjects, he said, with the possibility that he might pen his memoirs.

"I have nothing particular in mind; I am retired now," he added.

Having reached the retirement age, Bishop Tucker declared he had laid

K. C. Draws Big Crowd

◆ THE INVITATION of the Kansas City alumni to "See you March first" was accepted by 316 IKA's and "sweethearts" at a dinner dance held in the ballroom of the Hotel Muehlebach.

The tables for eight were lovely with the center decorations consisting of a corsage for each of the ladies present. The party was made up of a representative group of IKA's of the district, all ages being represented. Undergraduates attended from Alpha-Kappa, Missouri Mines; Alpha-Nu, Missouri; Alpha-Omega, Kansas Aggies; and Beta-Gamma, Kansas. Alumni were present from Alpha, Pi, Alpha-Zeta, Alpha-Kappa, Alpha-Nu, Alpha-Phi, Alpha-Omega, Beta-Gamma, Beta-Eta, Beta-Lambda, and Beta-Omicron.

The toastmaster was Tony Rizzo, a recent graduate of Alpha-Nu, and an accomplished performer at the "mike." The guests were welcomed by V. F. Waskeski, president of the Kansas City Alumni chapter, whose pride in being the first initiate of Beta-Omicron, Oklahoma, is second only to that of having initiated his son "Vic" Jr. into Alpha-Zeta, Arkansas, a few years ago.

The speaker of the evening, Tom Collins, BΓ, was unable to attend because of illness. An impromptu address was given by Dr. W. W. Davis, A, who was in Kansas City attending the Big Six Athletic Conference as the representative of Kansas University where he has been professor of history for many years.

The banquet was followed by dancing to the strains of George Ti Dona's orchestra. A highlight of the evening was the attractive Mary Lou Matthews, ΔΓ, of Kansas University who sang "The Dream Girl." She was introduced by her brother, Robert M. Matthews, SMC of Beta-Gamma. Among the guests she had three other special admirers: her brother, W. Kelsey Matthews; her father, C. Kelsey Matthews, and her uncle, William L. Matthews, all members of Beta-Gamma chapter.

Dr. Summey Guest at Memphis Founders Dinner

◆ UNDER the splendid elaboration and guidance of Robert H. Wright, Jr., president of District 11a, Founders' Day was observed magnificently the evening of March 1, in the great ballroom of the Peabody Hotel in Memphis.

Three hundred fifty delighted guests, perhaps a third of them women, were the celebrants. A full orchestra furnished fine music. Wright was the master of ceremonies, and he was the right man in the right place.

Large delegations were present from the chapters of Ole Miss, Mississippi State, and Millsaps. Three speakers voiced the thoughts and feelings of the great company present, Paul Crider, architect, of Columbus, Ohio, and Ira Evans, of Atlanta, telling of the proposed IKA War Memorial.

The third, and the chief speaker of the evening, was Dr. Summey, of New Orleans, the "Patriarch" of the Fraternity, Honorary Grand Chaplain, 78 years an initiate in Pi Kappa Alpha.

The viands were away above what one is wont to see in these days of high prices and limited portions and rationing, and were beautifully served.

Three "Dream Girls" were presented for crowning, by as many chapters, and attracted marked attention, being, as Dr. Summey pronounced them to be, not "sights" but "visions"! Following the banquet, a delightful social hour was passed. Then, the great hall having been cleared, the younger set tripped the light, fantastic toe until closing time, an hour before midnight.

The Founders' Day observance was a great success, from start to finish. Many prominent Memphians were present, associated in some way with the fraternities though not members of it, and expressed great delight in the entire observance, their keen interest in the Fraternity, and their pleasure in knowing that Memphis and Southwestern had been chosen for the beautiful Memorial which is to be erected on the site given by the university.

Dr. Summey's remarks follow:

History is philosophy teaching by example. So taught and so thought Lord Bacon, himself perhaps the greatest philosopher of the English race. The historiographer and the historian are not one. The historiographer is a mere narrator; the historian is a student of development. The one tells of mere events; the other tells of principles which make events.

Anything that lives strongly enough to have a history lives longly enough to

Actives, Pledges Turn Out Strong at Portland

♦ WITH Gamma-Pi actives and pledges making up more than a third of the attendance, the annual Founders' Day banquet in Portland, Ore., set a new record for both size and fellowship.

The 32 boys from Eugene practically locked up the chapter house March 1 to journey the 120-odd miles to Portland and the Benson Hotel where the affair was held. And judging from comments passed back and forth among the alumni, they were very much pleased with Pi Kappa Alpha postwar at the University of Oregon. In appearance, personality and activities the boys sold themselves as upholding the Fraternity's traditions. A live-wire group, they set the tempo for the entire evening.

An innovation this year was the idea of "twin toastmasters" and they were just that—the identical Marsh twins, Gene and Frank of McMinnville, both attorneys and alumni of Beta-Beta at the University of Washington. Gene, president of the state Senate last term and still a member, emphasized the importance of IKA's taking an interest in government.

The program, as far as speakers were concerned, was informal and limited to short talks and a few impromptu remarks from around the tables. Wendell Gray, the Fraternity's national secretary, described Pi Kappa Alpha's favorable national position, while Jack DuLong, newly elected district president, predicted a bright future for Pi Kappa Alpha in the Pacific Northwest. SMC John Gilbertson briefly described Gamma-Pi postwar, and President Arthur B. Baines of the alumni group assured the boys of alumni backing.

Immediately preceding the Founders' Day banquet, a group of a dozen or more University of Oregon alumni who had belonged to the local fraternity, Alpha Beta Chi, which petitioned Pi Kappa Alpha, held a short reunion with Harlow Weinrick as host. Brothers Gray and Baines, incidentally, were members of Alpha Beta Chi.

Group singing and specialty numbers by various of the Gamma-Pi delegation supplied the Founders' Day entertainment. Most of the evening was devoted to getting acquainted with actives and pledges, including many ex-GI's, "catching up" on the events of recent years

450 Guests Attend Founders' Dinner At Birmingham

◆ THE Birmingham Alumni chapter held its annual Founders' Day banquet on March 7, at the Hotel Thomas Jefferson. It was a gala celebration for the 450 people who attended the dinner which was followed by a dance.

Seybourne Lynn, T, was the principal speaker. Brother Lynn was recently appointed federal judge of this district, and as such holds the unique distinction of being the youngest federal judge in the South. His talk was based on memoirs of college-day fraternity life, and was enjoyed by everyone present.

The four active chapters in Alabama were well represented, with Gamma-Alpha at the university sending three chartered busses from Tuscaloosa with 80 members and their dates. Highlight of the banquet was the reports from the active chapters in the state, which were well received by the alumni present. Brothers Dan Nunnally, district president, and Hank Knight, national vice-president, made short talks, after which election of officers for the coming year was held.

William E. Taylor, T, was elected president to succeed Hobart Grooms. Haygood Terrell, TA, was elected vice-president, and Jimmy Brown, T, secretary and treasurer.

PACKER HONORED AT PITT SMOKER

◆ ALUMNI and actives in the Pittsburgh area gathered for a smoker in honor of National President John Packer at the Carnegie Tech chapter house Oct. 18.

The program stressed a minimum of speeches and "a maximum of good fellowship," according to Donald G. Havlish, BΣ, who was in charge of arrangements for the affair.

In addition to alumni, actives of Beta-Sigma and Gamma-Sigma chapter attended.

◆ THE NEWLY reactivated 945th Field Artillery Battalion, Atlanta's first postwar National Guard ground unit—will be supervised in its training by Col. Clifford J. Mathews, AΔ, former ROTC chief of the old Fourth Corps area and an Army career man.

Among the officers present for the reactivation was Capt. Lucius K. Timmas, AH.

Seybourne Lynn, T, recently appointed federal district judge, spoke at the Birmingham Founders' Day dinner.

Smythe, Packer Messages Read At Atlanta Dinner

◆ ONE HUNDRED TWELVE ΠKA affiliates in the greater Atlanta area gathered at the East Lake Country Club Mar. 1 to observe the traditional Founders' Day celebration of the fraternity.

Actives and pledges from three undergraduate chapters—Alpha-Delta at Georgia Tech, Alpha-Mu at the University of Georgia and Beta-Kappa, Emory University—were on hand to hear an inspiring message from National Vice-President Andrew H. Knight, of Birmingham. Toastmaster was Judge John S. McClelland, AM.

A message from Robert A. Smythe, honorary life president of the Fraternity, was read by another member of the legal profession, Alton H. Hollis, BK. A letter from National President John L. Packer on the War Memorial also was presented to the celebration.

The three undergraduate chapters sang songs for and against each other, and the entire crowd enjoyed several old songs, including the "Dream Girl," presented by B. E. Shields, B, composer of the famous number himself.

One of the highlights of the celebration was a short talk by Grigsby H. Wotton, A and AM, who served in the Navy, and who had the experience of rescuing a fellow ΠKA whose torpedo boat had been sunk. Wotton told of that experience among others.

son, II, and District President Field. Back row, John Williams, K, W. C. Terrill, Jr., AA, and Robert Mulholland, Ω.

Tulsa Banquet Attracts Men From 8 Chapters

♦ WITH representatives from eight chapters in attendance, the University of Tulsa chapter held its annual Founders' Day banquet Mar. 12 at the Junior Ballroom of the Tulsa Hotel.

A crowd of over 100 actives, alumni and pledges were on hand to celebrate the occasion. Principal speaker was Roy Stuart, former University of Tulsa football star. Other speakers included Alumni President Bill Dennis, and Hughey Baker, Tulsa attorney.

Chapters represented in addition to Gamma-Upsilon at Tulsa were Alpha-Tau, Alpha-Xi, Alpha-Kappa, Beta-Eta, Beta-Omicron, Eta and Alpha-Phi. Oldest member present was Ralph Stodghill, AII, who was initiated in 1911, followed by R. E. Walker, AΞ, 1916.

The program featured an air of informality, with each man standing to identify himself and his chapter. SMC M. P. Withee told of chapter plans to inaugurate a building fund program, and Alumnus Glen Smith, former SMC, led in group singing.

IIKA Goes to Miami in Ohio

By THOMAS E. JOYNER
Delta-Gamma Chapter

◆ A MEMORABLE occasion for Pi Kappa Alphas of the Buckeye state came Feb. 15, 16, 17 with the installation of Delta-Gamma at Miami University. This installation gave to Miami its twelfth national fraternity, to Ohio its seventh chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha, and to Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity its eighty-first chapter.

Miami University is located in Oxford, Ohio, 35 miles northwest of Cincinnati. Oxford, a village of about 3,000 people, is situated in one of the most scenic sections of the state, on the ridge between the Ohio and Miami river valleys.

The history of Miami extends over a period of considerably over a century, for the Ohio legislature founded the institution Feb. 17, 1809, just five days after Abraham Lincoln was born. Miami today is one of Ohio's six state universities. It has a college of arts and sciences and schools of business administration, education and fine arts, and a graduate school granting master degrees.

As might be expected, some of the buildings on the Miami campus are very old. Ivy-clad Harrison Hall with its crimson towers dates part of its structure back to 1824. It was named after President Benjamin Harrison, a Miami graduate. Elliott and Stoddard halls for men, although completely modernized, are more than 100 years old. On the other hand, the newest dormitories are the latest in design and accommodations. North Hall for women and New Men's dormitory are the newest and finest buildings on the Miami campus.

Known from early days as "the Yale of the West," and "the Mother of Statesmen," Miami became better known because of the famous McGuffey readers. William Holmes McGuffey wrote most of them while a professor at Miami more than 100 years ago.

During the recent war Miami made many new friends. Nearly 10,000 service men and women were trained on the campus for various Navy assignments. As a result of this naval training program, Miami is now one of the 50 schools in the country selected for the establishment of a NROTC unit.

Miami University probably has always been known best, however, as "the mother of fraternities," and the home of the famous Miami Triad: Beta Theta Pi, founded in 1839; Phi Delta Theta, 1848, and Sigma Chi, 1855. Years later a fourth fraternity, Phi Kappa Tau, was founded at Miami, and it is now one of the big groups throughout the nation. Delta-Zeta, the only National Panhellenic sorority founded on the campus, began its career in 1902.

Enrollment at Miami has expanded from 247 students in 1902 to a prewar peak of 3,300. There are now nearly 4,800 students on Miami's crowded campus, including several hundred at off-campus centers. Miami is co-educational, and in normal years the two sexes are about even. This year, however, there are approximately twice as many men as women. The university is making every effort to take care of war veterans first.

Before the installation of Delta-Gamma, there were 11 national fraternities on the Miami campus. With about 3,000 men students and only 11 fraternities the time seemed right for establishing a new fraternal group. Realizing this, the Administrative Council gave the Pi Kappa Alpha Club the right to organize last fall. The new group was encouraged from the beginning by Dr. Ernest H. Hahne, president of Miami, and by Dr. Robert J. Miner, director of student affairs. Fraternities, too, were cordial in their welcome. Richard J. Young, Executive Secretary of Phi Kappa Tau, was particularly helpful, giving aid on innumerable occasions.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Club was organized around a nucleus of six actives: Willard G. Conner and Bainbridge D. Parker, both of Alpha-Lambda chapter, Georgetown, Ky.; Charles L. Meserve, Donald H. Dansby, Edward T. Kirkeby and Lloyd Krumlauf of Gamma-Omega chapter, the University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla. The latter group came to Miami originally when, by a quirk of fate, a V-12 unit stationed at the University of Miami was transferred to Miami University.

The club was formed last summer after Robert D. Lynn, at that time Assistant Executive Secretary, visited the campus and consulted with alumni members and university officials. Prof. Fred B. Joyner of the history department of the university, a IKA from Delta chapter, Birmingham-Southern College, was appointed Alumnus Counselor. After the go-ahead signal had been given by the National Office and university officials, the colonizing venture began. For the first time a fraternity was to be established by colonization on the Miami campus.

In spite of encouragement from university officials and the fullest cooperation from the National Office, the members of the Pi Kappa Alpha Club found many obstacles in their way. They needed the help and encouragement so generously given by District Presidents John U. Field of Lexington, Ky., and Philip R. Heil of Cincinnati. They were heartened by the cordiality of the IKA chapters in their district and particularly by the good neighbor policy of the Alpha-Xi chapter. Its help was invaluable. They were backed at every turn by their Counselor, Professor Joyner. He was ably assisted by Dr. John D. Henry, Alpha-Lambda, a busy dentist, who gave generously of his time. Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Joyner gave the group their loyal support. The group also had the support of a IKA alumni faculty group: Profs. George W. Thatcher, AT; Delmas R. Cawthorne, AA; Clyde H. Bliss, BΦ, and John R. Dunbar, ΠΠ.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Club and its many friends rejoiced when the time of installation was set for the long-desired February date. The three-day ceremonies began Saturday, Feb. 15, with the initiation service held in the Memorial Presbyterian Church and conducted by members of the Alpha-Xi chapter from the University of Cincinnati, assisted by Executive Secretary Robert D. Lynn. The men initiated were:

Hector E. Beeken, '49, Sandusky, Ohio; Richard J. Bennett, '49, Westfield, N. Y.; John Chiappori, '47, Chicago; Robert G. Haddenhorst, '48, Quincy, Ill.; Robert W. Harrington, '48, Muskegon, Mich.; Thomas E. Joyner, '47, Oxford, Ohio; Donald L. Litzelfelner, '47, Sidney, Ohio; David J. Morehart, '49, Upper Sandusky, Ohio; Wilburn L. Morris, '49, Camden, Ohio; Marshall Mowrey, '49, Alexandria, Ohio; Arthur H. Nash, '49, Middletown, Ohio; Robert V. Pierce, '47, Germantown, Ohio; Edmund L. Russell, '47, Miami, Fla.; Robert H. Sehringer, '49, Lakewood, Ohio; Richard W. Yackey, '48, Dover, Ohio; Clarence W. Ontko, '49, Marblehead, Ohio.

These 16 men and the six colonizing members are the charter members of the Delta-Gamma chapter. At the beginning of the second semester Charles Bartels of Alpha-Xi chapter affiliated with the group, making 23 active members.

On Sunday afternoon Professor and Mrs. Joyner entertained with a tea in honor of Executive Secretary Lynn. The local alumni and their wives were guests.

On Monday evening, Feb. 17, at 6 o'clock in Ogden Hall the Pi Kappa Alpha Club was installed as the Delta-

The banquet, following immediately, climaxed the installation ceremonies. It was held at the Huddle, a favorite eating place of students. Gamma chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha. It seemed fitting that District President Field, representing the Grand President, should be the chief installing officer, for his interest in establishing a IKA chapter at Miami dates back to 1913.

Guests attending were university officials, representatives of the faculty and all campus fraternal groups, delegates from Alpha-Xi and Alpha-Rho chapters, visiting IKA officials and alumni, and all IKA alumni in the community.

In addition to Secretary Lynn, who was the honored guest of the newly installed chapter throughout the ceremonies, the out-of-town guests included District President John U. Field, Lexington, Ky.; District President Philip R. Heil, Cincinnati; Traveling Secretary Charles R. Burton, Lexington, Ky.; Earl W. Wagner and Dr. Robert Schell of Cincinnati; Harley Pults and Mr. Harry Hetrick of neighboring College Corner.

With Professor Joyner presiding as toastmaster greetings were extended to the new chapter: by President Ernest H. Hahne for the university; by William O. Shank, SX, for the Interfraternity Council; by John U. Field for the Supreme Council; and by District President Philip R. Heil for the Ohio chapters of Pi Kappa Alpha. The response for Delta-Gamma was given by its president, Willard Conner. There were many telegrams and letters of congratulation. Executive Secretary Lynn gave the main address, which was very well received. His subject was Delta-Gamma goals.

The final social festivity was a dance in New Men's dormitory the following Saturday given jointly by the Cincinnati and Miami chapters of Pi Kappa Alpha after the traditional U. C.-Miami basketball game.

The installation ceremonies were scarcely over before the new chapter plunged into hurried preparations for rush week, which started Monday, Feb. 24. Traditionally, rush week at Miami comes at the beginning of the second semester. That was the reason the colonizing group had been so eager for the installation to come the early part of

Most of the members of the Delta-Gamma chapter are veterans, some of whom have distinguished themselves in the recent war; two having received presidential citations, and two others awarded bronze stars. Some of the members have made notable records on the campus; one is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, national junior and senior men's service honorary, and three are members of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholarship honorary. Socially too the group is receiving recognition. Willard Conner was one of the fraternity presi-

Delta-Delta Installed in Florida

◆ ANOTHER chapter was added to Pi Kappa Alpha May 12 when Delta-Delta chapter was installed on the campus of Florida Southern College in Lakeland, Fla. The chapter installation, held in the Fraternity house at 801 E. Lexington street, was the highlight of the week-end ceremony.

On Saturday, May 11, initiation teams from Alpha-Eta chapter at the University of Florida and Gamma-Omega chapter at the University of Miami arrived and under the direction of the Executive Secretary, Robert Lynn, the 53 members of Chi-Rho fraternity were initiated into Pi Kappa Alpha. As new members of Pi Kappa Alpha they participated in the college interfraternity swimming meet and easily won first place.

In the evening the members and guests attended a banquet at the Haven Hotel in Winter Haven. Toastmaster Raymond Esthus, Delta-Delta's SMC, introduced the guests of the evening, and Secretary Lynn introduced the speaker, Dr. Freeman H. Hart, National Historian.

Among the guests were Frank Kerdyk, district president; Dr. Thrift, vice-president of Southern College; Prof. J. Gordon Ogden, Jr., sponsor of Chi-Rho fraternity; Dave Readdick, faculty adviser of Delta-Delta; Dean Peel, dean of men of Southern College; Sam Luce, assistant athletic director of Southern College; J. Blanford Taylor, National Editor; members of the initiating teams from Gainesville and Miami, and several Pi Kappa Alpha alumni members from Florida.

Sunday morning the old and new members attended the Mother's Day services at the College Heights Methodist Church. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the chapter installation and installation of Delta-Delta's officers took place.

The final phase of the week-end initiation was a tea given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ludd M. Spivey, the college president. Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. J. Gordon Ogden, Jr., and Norman Dando, Delta-Delta, and in the receiving line were Raymond Esthus, SMC; Mrs. Spivey, Laura Cantrell, president of Alpha Delta Pi sorority; Robert Lynn, Dr. Freeman Hart, and J. Gordon Ogden, Jr. Arrangements for the tea were taken care of by the Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Florida Southern College, now located at Lakeland, was opened at Leesburg by the Florida Methodist Conference in 1885, but was then known as the Florida Conference College. Previously, the conference had operated a small school at Orlando for two years, beginning in 1883. The college opened with Joshua Hollingsworth as president, four teachers and 58 pupils. The college remained at Leesburg until the end of the century.

In 1902, the school was opened under the name of The Florida Seminary at Sutherland, now Palm Harbor, on the Gulf coast. The school prospered from the outset and in 1906 the name was changed to Southern College. It had a faculty of 17 and an enrollment of 301.

In 1921, the trustees selected Lakeland as the permanent site of the college. Under the leadership of President Alderman, buildings were erected and Southern College opened on the Lakeland campus on the shores of Lake Hollingsworth in Lakeland in the autumn of 1922. The new buildings were a dormitory for women and Social Hall, now known as Joseph-Reynolds Hall and Edge Memorial Hall, respectively. President Alderman resigned in the spring of 1925.

Ludd M. Spivey, formerly dean of Birmingham Southern College, assumed the presidency in the summer of 1925. Under President Spivey's administration, a program of expansion was launched but, while the enrollment expanded, the general financial depression of the country delayed the building expansion for nearly ten years. However, the indebtedness of the college was removed in that period. In 1935, the name of the institution was changed to Florida Southern College, it was accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and an extensive building program was begun.

Expansion in enrollment and facilities is continuing. For the 1946-1947 school year, the enrollment was approximately 1,800 and of these 60 per cent are men. New facilities begun included an administration building and a men's dormitory project. Erection of a physics and chemistry laboratory building was completed during the winter.

In the spring of 1937, a group of men on the campus who were not affiliated with any fraternity, realized the values to be derived from fraternity life and banded together to form a local fraternity.

After drawing up a constitution and electing officers, the members of Chi-Rho began to look around for something constructive to do. As a result, a bookstore dealing in secondhand books was set up. This proved to be such a successful venture that in two years the college saw the possibilities in such a business and took it over. But Chi-Rho had established itself already on the campus and the loss of the bookstore was not detrimental to its reputation. In those two years, the members of the fraternity had gone into practically all activities on the campus and was producing leaders rapidly.

In 1939 the fraternity moved from its first home to a house just off the campus on South Johnson avenue. From then until 1946, Chi-Rho lived at the same place. The members took great pride in the house and made of it a real home. Many social functions were held there and the fraternity established itself as a promoter of highly successful social functions.

One of the campus's most cherished traditions is the serenade—when the men from the fraternities go to the girls' dormitories at night and sing to the girls. True to this tradition, Chi-Rho, from its inception serenaded at various times. But in 1940, the fraternity really became serenade conscious and as a result began to present some of the finest serenades of the years. In 1941 the fraternity was augmented by many new members who were either music majors or voice students. As a result the serenades became better and better and each month at full moon the girls of the dormitories would eagerly await the Chi-Rhos.

It was also in the period from 1940 to the present time that Chi-Rho began to be known for its athletic prowess and their teams became champion contenders in all sports.

Then came the war . . . and like all the other fraternities on campus, Chi-Rho saw the majority of her members go off to the armed forces. But unlike the other fraternities which either disbanded or dwindled to a mere existence, the men remaining at Chi-Rho carried on the traditions of the fraternity and built it up to the best on the campus in every respect. During the entire war the men of Chi-Rho all over the world were kept informed of the happenings in the fraternity and on the campus by The Chirhonicle, published by the members on campus. And in 1945, the members on campus presented the first annual Chi-Rho Follies. The performance was given at the college Little Theater and was immediately accepted by the campus as a triumphant success. When the war ended and Chi-Rho welcomed back her men in uniform, one of their first undertakings was the second annual Chi-Rho Follies. But this time it was on a much larger scale. Instead of the college Little Theater as their stage, the fraternity engaged the City Auditorium, and before a capacity crowd made the name of Chi-Rho famous both on campus and in the town.

Thus, from 1937, when Chi-Rho came into existence, to the present day, the fraternity has taken an active part in all campus activities and regularly produced leaders in all phases of campus life.

National Office Goes Modern In Keeping Up With Members

◆ You can save the National Office a lot of work and worry if you will send promptly to your chapter the information blank asking for a few facts about yourself.

Why? Well, the National Office is in the process of modernizing its records and keeping tab on 35,000 persons is no small task, either. Especially when we have just come through a war which has changed many addresses.

According to Miss Mary Lewis, secretary to Executive Secretary Lynn, "We are now in the process of preparing addressograph plates for all nonsubscribers to THE SHIELD AND DIAMOND. After these plates have been completed, we will begin preparing plates for THE SHIELD AND DIAMOND subscribers. (THE SHIELD AND DIAMOND subscribers are already set up on our present mailing list; another type plate has been used for these members.)

"The addressograph plates give the following information at the present time: Name and address of member; date plate was made (this will indicate eventually how current our addresses are); SHIELD AND DIAMOND life subscription number; and chapter.

"The plates will be filed geographically. From the plates will be made two sets of index cards, one to be filed in alphabetical order and the other to be filed by chapters.

"We hope our new system, when completed, will improve the efficiency of our records.

"We have sent information sheets to all chapters with the request that the sheets be sent to all members and returned to the chapters. The information will then be transferred to permanent preparing addressograph plates for non-subscribers so we can earlier furnish complete lists for any town.

"We will have three basic files: 1) geographical—metal plates; 2) alphabetical—card printed from the plates; and 3) chapter—cards printed from the plates. This will mean that all three files must be exactly alike and if the plate is correct, all three files will be correct. It will enable us to eliminate several excess files. We will be able to furnish information quicker and easier."

It will take several months to prepare these new plates. It is expensive. Therefore information must be absolutely accurate. An alumnus of more than one chapter should send the information sheet to every chapter where he has been a member. The chapter should add his "chapter roll number" to the sheet.

Mrs. Ann Bullock operates the graphotype, part of the new National Office equipment.

2 Secretaries For Field Work Added to Staff

◆ Two field secretaries have recently been added to the National Office staff. They are Charles N. Burton, Ω, and Dave Cook, AP. Both men spend most of their time in the field, working with the active chapters, freeing Executive Secretary Robert D. Lynn to remain in the office to direct affairs from Atlanta.

Burton was born in Carlisle, Ky., Oct. 3, 1920, but moved to Lexington in 1936 where he was graduated from Henry Clay High School in 1937. He entered the University of Kentucky in January of 1938. There he was a member of the Glee Club, manager of Kentucky's basketball team, stage manager of Guignol Theater, two miler on the track team, a member of Omega chapter, holding the office of MC. A cadet officer, in ROTC, he was commissioned in the Air Corps and was ordered to active duty on March 18, 1942, and was assigned to the 11th Air Depot Group as headquarters squadron adjutant.

Returning to the University of Kentucky to receive an AB degree in June, 1942, he sailed for England Sept. 4, 1942, and moved to Africa in November, 1942. After the Tunisian campaign he was assigned to the 15th A. F. and moved to Italy in December, 1943.

Back in the United States in September, 1944, he was assigned to the A. A. F. R. S. 2 of the Personnel Distribution Command at Miami Beach from which station he was relieved from active duty in July, 1945. He is a captain in the A.A.F. reserve.

In September, 1945, Burton returned to the University of Kentucky Law School and helped Omega chapter reactivate. He served in the capacity of IMC and SMC, was elected secretary of the Interfraternity Council and was a member of Phi Delta Phi, legal honorary fraternity.

He is a member of Lexington Lodge No. 1 of the Masonic order and also a member of Central Christian Church in Lexington.

Cook was born in Elyria, Ohio, on April 17, 1921. He entered Ohio State University in Columbus in 1941, enrolling in the college of commerce, and majoring in pre-law.

In February, 1942, he enlisted as a cadet in the U. S. Army Air Forces, and has the unusual distinction of being one of a very few cadets who were "washed out" of cadet training twice. He spent two years overseas, being based in Africa and England as NCO in charge of an air-sea rescue unit. He was discharged in October, 1945, just in time to return to Ohio State for the fall term.

He was elected IMC of Alpha-Rho at the first meeting of the new school year, and assumed the duties of social chairman. He was pledgemaster for several months of 1945-46, and was elected SMC in the spring of 1946. Alpha-Rho purchased a house in the summer of 1946, and started the fall quarter with 85 men. Dave was re-elected at the beginning of fall quarter and served as SMC until March 15, 1947, when he began his duties as ΠΚΑ Field Secretary.

He was Homecoming chairman, chairman of a committee to build a $3,000,000 Student Center, member Executive Committee of the Council of Fraternity Presidents, a member of Ohio Staters, Inc., an upperclass men's honorary, and chairman of a committee to sponsor and build a new Ohio State Fraternity Row.

He has two brothers, Les and Russ, and a brother-in-law, Wally Forbes, who were ΠΚAs at Ohio State, and two more brothers who he hopes will make good ΠΚAs at Ohio State in the fall of 1947.

Legion of Merit Award Is Given National Officer

◆ THE Legion of Merit was awarded to Lt. Col. Guy A. Borkey, National Treasurer, on April 21, 1947, for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in the Africa Middle East Theater of the European Theater of Operations during the period from Feb. 23, 1943, to Sept. 2, 1945. The award was made by Col. D. H. Mallan, Executive of the Virginia Military District, in the presence of J. G. Holtzclaw, president of the Virginia Electric and Power Company, and other officials of the company. The citation accompanying Colonel Borkey's award praised his excellent organizing ability and his tact and diplomacy in handling relations between the French, British and American armies in the African Theater.

The citation read: "For exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services as Adjutant and Executive Officer of Air Force General Depot No. 3, which was later renamed Cazes Air Depot, during the period from Feb. 23, 1943, through Sept. 2, 1945. By his excellent organizing ability he organized administratively the depot so well that it became a model for others. very friendly relationships between the three co-tenants of the Air Base, the United States Air Corps, the French and the British Air Forces. His devotion to duty, his ability and his handling of difficult situations have been an inspiration to all who have come in contact with him and reflect great credit upon him and upon the United States Army."

Prior to enlistment as a first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps in April, 1942, Colonel Borkey was district president of the Virginia chapters. He served for three years in the African Middle East Theater and was commanding officer of the 37th Air Depot Group and executive officer of the Casablanca Air Depot.

Expansion Westward Studied at Council Meeting

◆ EXPANSION, with a plea for consideration of additional chapters in the west, and more training for pledges and for district presidents were among the principal items discussed at the Supreme Council meeting March 22-25 in New Orleans.

In addition to the five members of the Council and the National Counsel, those attending included Executive Secretary Lynn, Field Secretaries Burton and Cook, Historian Freeman Hart, David C. Powers and L. Brooks Ragen of THE SHIELD AND DIAMOND Endowment Fund, P. D. Christian of the Chapter House Fund, James V. LeLaurin, Pledge Training Chairman, Ira Evans, the late Everett Oxley and District President Guyton Watkins.

Executive Secretary Lynn told the Council of applications for new chapters, of new chapters to be installed and plans for colonizations. Secretary Wendell Gray urged that consideration be given to more chapters because the present chapters are so widely separated.

In a report on pledge training, Chairman LeLaurin reported on his program and said many times alumni relations are poor because pledge training is poor. Alumni dues were discussed in a session conducted by Alumni Secretary McHaney.

President Packer urged that every effort be made to hold more district conventions.

Chapter House Loan Chairman Christian said the fund had a cash balance of $65,000 and that only four loans were in bad shape although several chapters are behind in their payments.

The jewelry question came in for considerable discussion, especially as pertaining to carrying out the convention decree of having four official jewelers.

BASIL CARLSON NEEDS THOSE LETTERS

◆ ALPHA-PHI chapter suggests that friends of Brother Basil Carlson, 2726 Jefferson, Davenport, Iowa, drop him a line.

Basil was stricken with multiple sclerosis several months ago, a paralysis similar to that which the famed Lou Gehrig had. Then he had a kidney infection to add to his difficulties.

He has overcome the kidney trouble, and is working on the other now, the chapter writes, and "he's going to win in the long run."

Guy Martin, an active alumnus worker, suggests: "I'm sure that Basil would like to hear from you fellows he went to school with. Why not drop him a line?"

McHaney Named National Alumni Secretary

◆ POWELL B. McHANEY, AN, vice-president and general counsel of the General American Life Insurance Company, St. Louis, has assumed duties as alumni secretary, replacing Lynn Waldorf, who resigned when he moved from that geographical region.

Of a real IKA family, three of his brothers are members of the Fraternity and "there is one more brother coming." They are Hal H. McHaney, AN and A, attorney at Kennett, Mo.; Dr. John W. McHaney, AN, a physician at Jefferson City, Mo., and Flake L. McHaney, AN, now studying law at Harvard. The other brother is Robert, age 14.

In addition, the new member of the Supreme Council has a IKA father-in-law. He is Judge Albert M. Clark, 2, a member of the Supreme Court of Missouri.

Born at White Oak, Dunklin county, Missouri, on June 30, 1905, McHaney was graduated from the University of Missouri, A.B. (1925), and Harvard University, LL.B. (1928), and began the practice of law at St. Louis in 1928. He was associated with the law firm of Igoe, Carroll, Higgs & Keefe from 1928 to 1933; was appointed Assistant Attorney General of Missouri on Jan. 2, 1933, and served as such until July 10, 1933, when he was appointed chief counsel to the Missouri Insurance Department and served in that capacity until July, 1936. During this period he represented the superintendent of the Insurance Department in litigation concerning the insolvent Missouri State Life Insurance Company, the insolvent Continental Life Insurance Company and the Central States Life Insurance Company. From July, 1936, to July, 1942, he practiced law in the city of St. Louis, associated with Frank P. Aschemeyer under the firm name of McHaney & Aschemeyer, and during this period specialized in insurance law, representing several insurance companies, as well as the superintendent of the Insurance Department on special matters.

In July, 1936, he was elected to the Board of Directors of the General American Life Insurance Company and was appointed by the stockholders as one of the voting trustees together with Walter W. Head and Sidney W. Souers under a mutualization program, which was successfully completed in January, 1946. Under this program the policyholders of the company, at no cost to them, became the complete owners of the company.

McHaney has served on the Board of

POWELL B. McHANEY

Directors and Executive Committee of the General American Life continuously since 1936, and in June, 1942, was elected vice-president and general counsel, in which capacity he serves in a general administrative capacity as well as the active head of its law department. The General American Life Insurance Company transacts business in 27 states, the District of Columbia, the Territory of Hawaii, has insurance in force in excess of $800,000,000 and possesses assets in excess of $150,000,000.

McHaney has been active as a member of the Second Presbyterian Church, St. Louis, having served as superintendent of the Sunday School and as an elder. He is a member of the Missouri Athletic Club, Bellerive Country Club, the Harvard Club of St. Louis, the Lions Club, the St. Louis (Mo.) and American Bar associations. From time to time he has delivered papers on legal subjects before the American Life Convention and the Association of Life Insurance Counsel and has contributed articles on legal subjects to various publications.

During the last war he served as chairman of the St. Louis USO Service Men's Center Committee, a committee charged with the supervision of the operation of a USO Club that entertained more than 5,000,000 men and women of the armed forces. This was done with the assistance of more than 10,000 St. Louisans who served as active volunteers. He also served as a member and secretary of the St. Louis USO Council.

In 1944, by appointment of the mayor of the city of St. Louis, he became a member and secretary of the Citizens Committee for Postwar Improvements and Employment in the city of St. Louis. This committee, after examining into the affairs of St. Louis, proposed a bond issue of $44,000,000 for postwar improvements and employment which was accepted by the citizens of St. Louis by an overwhelming vote. The committee continues in existence, charged with the duty of approving expenditures as made.

On April 8, 1933, McHaney married Ida Ann Clark, the daughter of Judge Albert M. and Bessie Clark of Richmond, Mo. To that marriage have been born three children, Ida Ann, now age 12, Martha Moore, now age 9, and Powell B. McHaney, Jr., born Jan. 25, 1946.

Mosse Is Heard On CBS Program

◆ BASKETT MOSSE, IT, former Tulsa (Okla.) newspaperman, is one of five Chicago radio and newspaper editors who appeared June 7 on the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand program heard weekly over 122 stations of the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Topic of the program was "Radio, the Press and the Public."

Others who appeared on the discussion program are Don Maxwell, city editor of The Chicago Tribune; Everett C. Norlander, managing editor of The Chicago Daily News; Frank P. Schreiber, general manager and director of WGN, Chicago, and Dean Kenneth E. Olson of the Medill School of Journalism, who served as moderator.

Mosse, former NBC-Chicago news editor and currently assistant professor of journalism at Northwestern, was a member of The Tulsa World staff for five years. He is a graduate of the University of Tulsa and Northwestern University, and was initiated into the fraternity at Tulsa.

◆ EDWARD I. BERND, BΨ, radio editor for the Atlanta bureau of the Associated Press, has been named to teach a summer course in radio journalism at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga.

High Honors Won By 2 Athletes Of Gamma-Upsilon

◆ ACCLAIM of great variety came to two athletic men of Gamma-Upsilon chapter at the University of Tulsa recently.

While Delta Delta Delta sorority was naming Pledge Bill Bloom, a star guard on the Golden Hurricane, as their "Bill-of-the-ball," students at the university chose Brother Clyde LeForce as the athlete of the year.

The Tri Delta "Dame dance" was the occasion for the crowning of King Bill. He was chosen on the basis of good looks. LeForce was chosen for enthusiasm, sportsmanship, team spirit and cooperation, athletic ability and accomplishments. He received a large trophy from Jack Dempsey of the Adams Hat Company.

In a period of one month, the chapter raised $1,800 and paid off its house and all other outstanding debts. The chapter began a campaign for a building fund, looking ahead to a new home on the campus, April 30.

Recent initiates of Gamma-Upsilon chapter are Dr. Harold E. Enlows, of the university geology department, new faculty sponsor; Don Forsman, Herbert Alexander, Douglas Patterson Whitt, Billy Schell, William Walker, Phil Knowland, Harry Veeder, Jim Armond, James Sesow, Ernest Senft, James Brandes, Frank Kinnie, Robert Conatser, Robert Catching, Ken Edwin Henslef, and Horace G. Dickey.

With Stanley Dixon as editor, the chapter now is publishing The Tulsa Pi Kap, a neatly printed weekly which goes to all actives and alumni of the chapter.

The traditional Bluebeard dance of the chapter was held Mar. 28 at Harwell gymnasium. Ken Williamson, who sported the best two-weeks growth of chin hair, was elected Bluebeard of 1947. The spring formal was held May 2 at Tulsa Country Club.

Gamma-Upsilon lost a heart-breaking 29-28 game to Gordon Hall in the finals of the men's intramural basketball race. IKA was the No. 1 fraternity team in the standings, as Gordon Hall represented the football dormitory, an independent organization. The IKA bowling team is tied for first, and the softball team is currently defending its championship.

Something new in campaigning was used by Gamma-Upsilon at the University of Tulsa in boosting their candidate, Dick Johnson, for New Day King. Hanging a gigantic picture of Johnson over the Stu-

Writes Medical School History

◆ IN 1886 a medical school was opened in Davidson, N. C., next door to the home of Dr. Robert H. Lafferty, B, who was then a boy eight years old.

When he became of college age, he went next door to study medicine.

When the medical school grew and was moved to Charlotte, N. C., he went along with it as registrar and professor of chemistry and physiology, and stayed with the college until it closed in 1913.

Now Doctor Lafferty has performed a final service for the old North Carolina Medical College by writing a history of it, as he describes it, "for some of the fellows."

The book represents 10 years of labor, looking up old records, and writing either on a typewriter or in longhand during his spare time.

The school educated some 340 physicians. Many of them, like Dr. Lafferty, are still practicing in North Carolina.

Gamma-Lambda men, from left, are F. A. Martin, C. A. Jones, R. A. Schillat, D. M. Oldroyd, J. R. MacLaughlin, G. L. Jones, R. J. Wiedenman, C. R. Carlson, J. J. Petrone,

With New House 'n' Everything Gamma-Lambda Comes Back to Life

By DON M. OLDROYD

◆ GAMMA-LAMBDA has undergone many changes in the past nine months—from the inactive status to its present standing with a new house, nine of the old brothers back at Lehigh and living in the house; nine new brothers that were pledges last semester; a transfer from the Cincinnati chapter; and one other fraternity man that is living in the house.

The initial steps for reactivation were taken last summer when nine of the brothers had returned, and although we had few meetings and everything was run on an informal basis, the foundation was laid for a larger and better Gamma-Lambda. One rushing picnic was held at Perkiomen Park with football and softball highlighting the afternoon's activities. Frankfurters were roasted over an open fire, and then songs of both fraternity and school were sung for about an hour; all of which brought back pleasant memories for the older brothers, and a promise of future outings that would equal or surpass this one.

Although the new house is being rented, the landlord has completely renovated and redecorated it so that it is suitable as a fraternity house for 27 men. Refinishing of the floors was completed and the furniture moved in on the Friday morning of the Fall House Party. That week end was the official housewarming, as the girls stayed at the house during the week end, and meals were served for the first time in the dining room. We were indeed fortunate in securing the services of our old cook, so we have been enjoying excellent meals.

The following week end was the Annual Homecoming week end with the Lehigh-Lafayette football game as the high spot. Two weeks later we held our first postwar initiation, with 9 pledges entering the brotherhood. After the initiation ceremony there was a large banquet in the dining room, followed by a gay party in honor of the new brothers. The last of the season's social events was held on Dec. 14 at the chapter house. This was a highly successful Christmas dance where a fine time was had by all. The living room was decorated in true Christmas fashion, which added to the beauty of the evening.

At the first formal meeting held after the reactivation, the following brothers were elected or appointed to office:

SMC, G. Frank Hewitt; IMC, Robert J. Wiedenman; ThC and House Manager, John W. Motter; SC and Pledgemaster, Richard W. Davis; Historian, E. Warren Bowden; MS, MC, and Publicity Representative, Donald M. Oldroyd.

Gamma-Lambda has several men active in sports. John J. Petrone is on the basketball squad, and Brothers Gottschall, MacLaughlin and Oldroyd are three of the wrestling managers. Garvin Jones was on the football team and played in all of the games except two, for which he was restricted due to a shoulder injury incurred in one of the earlier games.

DR. HARMON NAMED DEPARTMENT HEAD

◆ DR. GEORGE D. HARMON, BII, professor of American history at Lehigh University, has been named head of the university's department of history and government.

At Lehigh since 1925, when he was appointed an instructor, Doctor Harmon became associate professor in 1931 and a full professor in 1942. Before joining the Lehigh faculty he taught at the University of Pennsylvania and at Duke University.

A graduate of Duke in 1921, Doctor Harmon received his master's degree there a year later, and his doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1930.

A recognized authority on Lincoln, Doctor Harmon is the author of two books and many magazine articles.

Beloit Chapter Captures Honors In Scholarship

By DAVID B. HANAMAN

◆ PI KAPPA ALPHA won scholastic honors at Beloit College for the first semester. The chapter has just been reorganized and only a record of pledges was given. Their winning average was 1.84. This was nearly .3 of a point higher than the closest competitor.

Donald Sudkamp, 6-foot 8-inch basketball center, was given honorable mention in the Midwest Conference selections by United Press. Sudkamp is a sophomore, which is good news for Beloit College basketball fans.

Pledge Frank Staple has taken the physical and mental examinations for West Point and is sweating out the results.

Pledges: Douglas Mahr, '50, Reedsburg, Wis.; Ray Gulbin, '50, Chicago; Frank Staple, '51, Chicago; Roger Anderson, '50, Hinsdale, Ill.; William Quelch, '51, Glenelg, Ill.

Initiates: Frank McGlauchlin, '49, Beloit, Wis.; Wendell Cotton, '49, Harvey, Ill.; William Campbell, '49, Rockford, Ill.; James Retsinas, '50, Rockford, Ill.; Jack Wagner, '50, Loganville, Wis.; Earl Holloway, '50, Union Grove, Wis.; James Garbutt, '50, Janesville, Wis.; Roger Lyons, '49, Beloit, Wis.; David Hanaman, '49, Beloit, Wis.

IKA's Take Active Part in Nation's Politics

◆ PI KAPPA ALPHAS continue to play active roles in the political life of the nation.

Among the recent political honors to come to members of the fraternity are these:

1. Appointment of Cavendish W. Cannon, AT, '16, of Utah, as ambassador to one of Europe's trouble spots—Yugoslavia.

2. Election of Dr. Oliver Hodge, TT, as state superintendent of public instruction for Oklahoma.

3. Election of Spencer A. Gard, BT, as representative to the Kansas state legislature.

Brother Cannon is a career foreign service officer, and was named to succeed Richard C. Patterson. The United Press referred to the Yugoslavia diplomatic post as one of "two of the hot spots in the diplomatic service."

Doctor Hodge resigned his position as Tulsa county superintendent of schools to accept the new state-wide post. He received his BA at the University of Tulsa, where he was initiated into the fraternity, then later took a master's degree and his doctor's degree in education from the University of Oklahoma.

He is an active member of the Tulsa IKA alumni. His education career began as a teacher, but he changed to the administrative side of the field in 1937.

Brother Gard was graduated from the University of Kansas law school in 1922. He practiced law for 20 years in Kansas City, Mo., and then moved to Iola, Kan., in 1942. He was elected from the Iola district.

His wife and 15-year-old daughter live on a farm near Iola, and the family combines law practice, Guernseys and politics.

Other IKA's were unsuccessful in their quest for office, however. O. C. Lassiter, TT, failed in his bid for a place in the Oklahoma state senate, and Thomas A. Creekmore, A, was defeated in his race for corporation commissioner of Oklahoma.

Judge Oras A. Shaw, AO, gave Rep. Schwabe a close battle, but failed to win a place as Congressman from Oklahoma.

Said the Tulsa Tribune of Creekmore:

Creekmore's career offers ample proof that Oklahoma is still a state of opportunity with all gates wide open and a ladder ready for eager feet.

Born in West Virginia, he started working in the oil fields when 18—then worked his way through Jefferson academy and the University of Virginia.

Creekmore migrated to Oklahoma in 1914 and he sweated and froze as an oil field roustabout, until he earned enough money to attend the old Henry Kendall college—now Tulsa university.

A strapping husky, Creekmore won fame in football here the same as he had at Virginia.

Then came World War I and he enlisted, serving more than eight months in France.

Then, like so many of the success stories—and careers—which built Oklahoma, Creekmore again went to the oil fields, and came out as a partner in an oil-producing company.

When he decided to make his race for corporation commissioner, the first thing he did was unusual.

Feeling that his candidacy might cause embarrassment, he resigned from the board of directors of the National Bank of Tulsa on which he had served for 18 years.

Creekmore is married and has two children, a son and daughter. Thomas, Jr., an ex-Marine, was wounded in the Battle of Guam. He is now a student of engineering at Tulsa university and a IKA.

Meantime, Dupuy Warrick, AN, played an important role in support of James P. Kem, Republican candidate for United States senator.

One of the fraternity's most aggressive members of Congress, Rep. William N. Colmer (D., Miss.), AI, has called for a bipartisan plan "for counteracting Russian moves—a plan set down in plan words which everyone can understand."

Mr. Colmer, in introducing his resolution prohibiting any form of aid to Russia and Communist-dominated countries while they continue "unfriendly," predicted his stand would strengthen the hand of Secretary of State Marshall.

Said Colmer:

"Russia is no more interested in seeing World War III than is America. She took an awful drubbing at the hands of the invading Germans in the last war. Taking advantage of our known desire for peace, she has been waging an aggressive expansion policy since the cessation of hostilities."

Mr. Colmer said his resolution would place Congress on record on these issues:

1. No settlement of Lend-Lease accounts unless the full terms of the Lend-Lease Act have been satisfied.

2. Termination of "all aid in any form" to governments that have not carried out their commitments to the United States—particularly relief funds and deliveries of unexpended Lend-Lease material.

3. No new loans for such governments, and suspension of previously negotiated loans until they have fulfilled their political agreements with this country.

4. Action by the administration and legislation where needed to prevent such governments from obtaining industrial secrets and production "know-how" vital to United States national security.

5. Complete reciprocity between the United States and other countries on admission and access to industrial plants; and ending the policy of one-way cooperation.

Beta-Gamma Revives "Brawl" After Lapse of Five Years

♦ AFTER five years Beta-Gamma revived its annual "Twelfth Street Brawl" which succeeded in roaring through to a great success. It was a colorful occasion with candle lights accentuating the typical tavern atmosphere, a long bar from which cider flowed, an odd assortment of smartly costumed street characters, a rollicking can-can dance, and even a staged police raid.

A popular Mount Oread orchestra, dressed appropriately, provided an enjoyable evening of dancing. Chaperons and guests included Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Leonard, Mrs. Clark Mandigo, chapter house mother, and Dr. Edward Taylor, BT, world-renowned herpetologist (authority on reptiles).

The chapter is looking forward with great anticipation to the building of a new house which will serve to augment the fine spirit among actives and pledges as well as provide ample accommodations for our growing membership. A. H. Bennett, Francis Brown, and Squire Glenn, and other Kansas City alumni, are to be commended for their invaluable aid and devoted interest to Beta-Gamma chapter. The future is bright here at Kansas University.

DR. MCGREGOR HEADS MONTREAT COLLEGE

♦ NEW president of the Mountain Retreat Association and of Montreat College, near Asheville, N. C., is Dr. J. Rupert McGregor, B, formerly pastor of the South Highland Presbyterian church, Birmingham, Ala.

Doctor McGregor assumed his new duties Jan. 1, succeeding Dr. R. C. Anderson.

A native of South Carolina, Doctor McGregor holds degrees from Davidson College, Columbia Theological seminary, Atlanta, and Union Theological seminary. He has served in pastorates at Cedartown, Ga.; Lexington, N. C., and Burlington, N. C., and as moderator of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina in 1937. He is a member of various high committees of the church's general assembly and a trustee of Columbia Theological seminary and of Stillman institute, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Alpha-Lambda Chapter Chooses Dorothy Keeton As "Dream Girl"

By ROSS GUGEL
Alpha-Lambda Chapter

◆ MISS DOROTHY KEETON, of Owensboro, Ky., has been chosen "Dream Girl" of Alpha-Lambda chapter at Georgetown College, Georgetown, Ky.

Miss Keeton has been very active on the Georgetown campus as president of the Women Independents, secretary of the Student Union Council, member of the Round Table, Student Body Secretary, member of Y. W. A., the Baptist Student Union Choir, Oratorio Choir, convention chairman for the Student Union Council, and recently won the coveted title of May Queen 1946-47 in a campus election.

Approximately 180 people were entertained at Alpha-Lambda's annual Christmas party, held at the fraternity house on Main Street. The entire house was extensively decorated in a holiday theme, highlighted by candlelight. The Alpha-Lambda Choir, under the directorship of Pledge Russel Noel, presented the music for the occasion.

C. W. Terrill, Jr., Alpha-Lambda president, was named for two titles in the same election Miss Keeton won May Queen. Brother Terrill was selected as Most Outstanding Boy and Most Likely to Succeed. He, too, is from Owensboro, Ky. C. W. has served two years as president of the Baptist Student Union Council and as editor of the 1946-47 yearbook. He is vice-president of Sigma Tau Delta and served as president of his sophomore and freshman classes.

The Alpha-Lambda 1946 pledge classes have surpassed greatly those of the other two campus fraternities. The mid-term class consisted of the following men: Russel Noel, Kenneth Fendley and Edward Tharp, all of Louisville; Horace Hambrick and Robert Smith, Georgetown; Raymond Martin and Rufus Pulliam, Cynthia; Ishmael Centers, Somerset; Winiford Foster, Harrodsburg; John Brown, Whitesburg; and Reeves Fulton and Joe Madison, of Madison, W. Va.

The end-of-the-quarter pledge class consists of the following: David Wallace, Eugene Lucas, Robert Barlow, James Barlow, Richard Stoll, Floyd T. Robinson, Dennis Penn, and James Long, all of Georgetown; Asa Jones, Jack Fields, Raymond Shelton, Louisville; Robert Moore and Charles Pewitt, Frankfort; Sam Alloway, Clark Baily, and Herbert Hughes, Harlan; Fred Macklin and James Morris, Covington; William Howard, Loyall; Donald Pendleton, Erlanger; Jack Cloar, Middlesboro; Robert Seibert, Bridgeton, N. J.; and Robert Anderson, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Alpha-Lambda of Georgetown College re-elected the following officers: C. W. Terrill, president; J. C. Jones, vice-president; Earl Taulbee, secretary; Wilbur Venerable, treasurer; Ernest Bourne, historian; William Taylor, corresponding secretary; Donald Butler, house manager; R. I. Kerr, pledge master, with Henry Patton as his assistant.

Gar Wood Boat Show Sensation

◆ GAR WOOD, JR., IT, son of the famous boat builder and now a designer and builder in his own rights at the Wood Marine Engineering Co., Tulsa, Okla., created a sensation in New York recently when he unveiled a new high-performance glass and plastic boat at the 36th annual National Motorboat show.

Wood has deserted wood and metal. Out of his experiments with new materials has come a one-piece inboard-motor utility craft described as "the most radical change in small boat construction in over 30 years."

Powered with a specially designed marine engine of only 26 horsepower, so light it can be lifted with one hand, it has demonstrated speed in excess of one mile per horsepower. Its tests on Tulsa's Mohawk and Sequoyah reservoirs showed it to be handleable at maximum speeds even in rough water.

The 29-year-old follower in his father's footsteps, who formed his Tulsa company only recently, said the new craft overcomes three obstacles that long have prevented people of moderate means from owning utility and pleasure boats.

The obstacles are high original investment, lack of portability due to heavy weight, and relatively high maintenance cost.

The boat developed by Wood, and called the "Gar-Form," has a length of 16½ feet, a beam of five and one-half town, Ky., assemble for the photographer at the chapter house.

feet, and will carry six adults. It weighs less than 600 pounds—compared to 1,800 pounds for wooden craft of similar size—and is portable on a light trailer. Wood indicated the craft probably would be priced at less than $1,500.

The craft is of seamless construction, has no pressure joints, and the color is embedded in the glass-plastic material making caulking or painting unnecessary. Spring or fall overhauls are eliminated. The boat is impervious to worms. There is no leakage problem for drying will not cause shrinkage.

The material is a combination of Fiberglas, developed by Owens-Corning Glass Co., and a plastic. It is cured in one seamless piece by newly developed industrial techniques. Selection of the material and the low pressure molding methods to form the hull are the results of nearly 10 years of study by Gar Wood, Jr.

Styling of the boat is completely modern, and it will be available in several color combinations. Standard equipment, installed at the factory in Tulsa, will include instrument panel and running lights, horn, flagstaff, steps, bilge pump, all controls, mooring and anchor lines hardware and plastic-fabric covered upholstery.

Production is expected to start in March or April, at four boats per day at first. A goal of 20 boats per day has been set for 1948.

Wood also disclosed at the National Motorboat Show that he probably will produce a fast, sleek sports runabout and larger craft in the future. All will be driven by specially engined marine engines at speeds obtained today by heavier boats using twice the horsepower.

Commented the Tulsa Tribune editorially:

"Our aggressive young Tulsa manufacturer, Gar Wood, Jr., gets what we in the newspaper office call a No. 1 top of column billing in The New York Times with his new glass inboard motor boat. He has had his first craft of this radical type on display there at the National Motorboat Show and it has startled and impressed the trade.

"Production techniques learned during the war are responsible for this and several other types of new pleasure craft. They are said to be considerably cheaper to produce and likely to last longer under minimum maintenance costs than old-style wood boats and this should result in much wider ownership, more fun and more vacationing close to home since every family owning even a small cruiser will want to wring every possible hour of enjoyment out of it."

Automobile Accident Injuries Fatal to Tau Pledge Newcomer

By REX COSTON
Tau Chapter

◆ PLEDGE Fred Newcomer of Raleigh, N. C., died in November due to injuries received in an automobile accident on the Duke-Carolina week end. Pledge Worth Johnson of Raleigh and one other person were also in the car but were not seriously injured. Newcomer died several days later without gaining consciousness.

All Carolina is still talking about the Sugar Bowl game with Georgia on New Year's day. Everyone admits that the game was well played even if Carolina did get a couple of tough breaks. Tau was well represented in the U.N.C. band at New Orleans, too: Harold Cannon, Casper Lamb and Pledge Al Garvey played in our circus act and yours truly acted as ringmaster over the mike.

Hugh "Shot" Cox, Tau's varsity grid man, will play pro ball with the Green Bay Packers after he receives his degree.

Other Tau men out for teams are: Harold Cannon, swimming; John May, tennis; Dave Mackie, jayvee basketball.

While on the subject of sports we might mention that Tau's intramural basketball team was undefeated this season, under the managership of Thomas Grey Wicker, who, by the way, has just had a story accepted for publication in the Atlantic Monthly.

Eddie Allen also writes for publication. He sends UNC sports news regularly to the Charlotte Observer, and is an assistant editor of the campus daily.

Sports Spotlight Shines on IKA'S

◆ PI KAPPA ALPHAS still are front-and-center in the nation's sports arena, with members of the fraternity holding the spotlight in both professional and amateur competition.

Hard on the heels of the announcement that Lynn Waldorf, AX, had resigned at Northwestern to take the football reins at the University of California came the word that Wesley Fesler, AP, had done likewise at Pitt to return to his alma mater, Ohio State, as head coach. He was given a 5-year contract.

Fesler's selection as the Buckeyes' seventh head coach since they entered the Western Conference in 1913 came as no surprise, as the former All-American's name had been linked with the job for some time.

Wes played at Ohio State in 1928, 1929 and 1930, and was named All-American twice, once at fullback and once at end. He was captain of the 1930 team.

After playing professional baseball in the St. Louis Cardinal organization for a short time, Fesler went to Harvard as head basketball coach and football assistant in 1933. He remained there until 1942, moving on to Connecticut Wesleyan as head coach in both sports. In 1944, he joined the office of strategic services in Washington, but in 1945 was named head basketball coach and assistant football coach at Princeton. In the spring of 1946, he took over Pitt.

Elsewhere on the football coaching scene, Duane Purvis, BΦ, All-American Purdue griddier in 1935, a member of his alma mater's coaching staff for the last two years, has been named assistant freshman coach. He will continue his duties as instructor in physical education.

In professional football, Gamma-Upsilon's Sam Gray is awaiting another season with the Pittsburgh Steelers after a high school coaching tenure at Lakeland, Fla. He is now selling insurance in Tulsa, Okla.

Gamma-Upsilon also supplied two new high school coaches to Oklahoma's ranks recently, when Elmer Simmons became head coach at Enid high and Roy Stuart took over at Shawnee. Elmer was a back on the University of Tulsa team, and Stuart a guard. Roy played pro ball with the Cleveland Rams before deserting the professional game for a coaching career at his hometown high school.

On the baseball front, Harry (Swede) Lamprich, TT, a 26-year-old catcher, has been named manager of the Amarillo Gold Sox of the West Texas-New Mexico League. He was hand-picked by Bob Seeds, former big leaguer who owns the Gold Sox, because "Lamprich doesn't like to lose."

Lamprich was an all-star catcher in the league in 1946, and set a new record for putouts by catchers with 839, then returned this spring as manager.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, K and Ω, also made sports news.

Advising clean, healthy living, participation in sports, saving of money and obtaining of an education as best avenues to success, Chandler counseled newspaper carrier boys at a banquet given by the Herald-Leader at Lexington, Ky., that "the lessons you learn as carrier boys will stand you in good stead for the big game you will face in the future." Chandler could speak with authority, for he carried Lexington newspapers when a student in Transylvania University and the University of Kentucky. "When you wear a baseball, basketball or football uniform, you are wearing the uniform of peace-time America," added the commissioner, pointing out that training received on the "field of friendly strife" teaches cooperation, discipline, coordination and sportsmanship that make for finer character.

I I K A "Outstanding" On Tulsa Campus

ELMER SIMMONS

♦ Most outstanding man on the University of Tulsa campus this year, according to the Kendallabrum, student yearbook, is Pi Kap Elmer Simmons.

The honor is a new one, being bestowed for the first time this year upon four T.U. men. Simmons ranked No. 1 in the list of four. Others selected were Fred Davis, ATΩ, Wright Bomford, ΔXA, and George Brite, KA.

Candidates were chosen from members of the upper two classes who had spent at least two years at the University of Tulsa and had maintained an overall grade average of 2.500 or more.

Judging then was on a strict point system which awarded points for high scholarship, membership in honorary organizations, election to class offices, membership in Community council and its committees, and a number of other honors and accomplishments.

All four of the men chosen previously were elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Qualifying accomplishments of Simmons, a senior in the college of business administration, included: treasurer of his freshman class; president of his junior class; senior class vice president; letters in freshman football and basketball; letters in varsity football, and membership in Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science fraternity.

Although it did not figure in the selection of Simmons, he also served as I I K A president during the first semester.

Simmons was a member of the Hurricane football team which played Tennessee in the 1942 Sugar Bowl game, then competed in the 1946 Oil Bowl game after nearly three years of military service in the Army Air Corps. He was overseas for a year, and had 130 missions as a fighter pilot over Burma.

Elmer was handicapped by a leg injury most of the 1946 season, in which the Golden Hurricane won nine games while losing only one. Until the injury, however, he played an important role in several Hurricane victories during his varsity competition. He recently was named head football coach at Enid, Okla., high school, and will assume his new role upon graduation this spring.

Alumni Help Gamma-Tau Chapter In Founders' Day Observance

By WILLIAM S. MACOMBER
Gamma-Tau Chapter

Saturday evening, Mar. 1, as a preliminary celebration, an informal party was given for the returning alumni, active members and pledges of Gamma-Tau chapter. During the course of the evening Art Wheeler, a transfer from Alpha-Alpha chapter at Duke University, succeeded in initiating several brothers into the Order of Cardinals.

On Sunday, Mar. 2, a banquet was held at the house and was attended by 15 alumni, 30 active members and 20 pledges. William Marcon, SMC, presided, with Brother Stanley Wiltse, professor of electrical engineering at Rensselaer, acting as master of ceremonies.

After the banquet Professor Wiltse gave a short talk on the obligations of members to their fraternity. He was followed by Brothers Trathen and Kline, professors of mechanics at Rensselaer, and Brother Jim Lloyd, who gave a complete history of Gamma-Tau chapter from its birth in 1935 up to the present.

Other alumni present at the banquet were Lewis Coonley, head of the department of chemistry and chemical engineering at Rensselaer; William DeMers, an alumni of Beta-Theta chapter at Cornell University; John Gutmann, Vernon Bailey, Howard Phillips, Edward Haller, Ralph Wilcox, Arthur Walton, Rolf Ochsner, Robert McCray, Starrett Kennedy, Edgar Potter and Albert LaShane.

Colonel Kohloss Named Secretary Of Army Engineers

◆ COL. F. H. KOHLOSS, T, a former member of the Supreme Council, has been named executive secretary of the Society of American Military Engineers and editor of The Military Engineer.

He succeeds Col. J. Franklin Bell, resigned.

The Society of American Military Engineers had its inception in the experiences of the engineering profession in World War I. It is composed of engineers and others who believe that the lessons of the past should be preserved and studied as a guide to the future, and who deem it their duty to assist the nation in the work of preparedness, and to save it, so far as they can, from the spirit of indifference and unreadiness into which this country has so quickly lapsed after every war.

A native of Columbia, S. C., Colonel Kohloss was graduated from Alabama Polytechnic Institute in 1915 with the degree of B.S. and E.E. He was awarded his master's degree by North Carolina State College in 1927.

Colonel Kohloss entered the military service as second lieutenant, E.R.C., in September, 1917, serving in the AEF with the 38th Engineers. He was commissioned first lieutenant, Corps of Engineers in 1920. After World War I he served with the 1st, 2d and 11th Engineers, graduated from the Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, the Army Industrial College and the Chemical Warfare School. He served as executive officer and member of the Engineer Board at Fort Belvoir, 1927-30; as engineer procurement officer and assistant to the district engineer, Philadelphia, 1935-38.

Colonel Kohloss was ordered to India as a military observer, arriving in March, 1942. He served as chief of staff to General Wheeler, then commanding general, S.O.S., CBI, until November, 1942, when he was transferred to China to set up a Chinese S.O.S. for the proposed Chinese attack down Burma Road. In September, 1943, he returned to India where he served as director of works and supply, headquarters South East Asia Command.

Returning to America in April, 1944, he served in demobilization and postwar planning in headquarters Army Service Forces until his retirement for physical disability in August, 1946.

Four scenes as Beta-Upsilon resumed the annual barn dance. The new version was acclaimed the best in history. Credit for "doing the affair up right" went to Dean DeLong, Don Gunther and Bob Hamill.

Annual Barn Dance Resumed By Beta-Upsilon Chapter

By RUSSELL F. GROESBECK
Beta-Upsilon Chapter

◆ BETA UPSILON, University of Colorado, the chapter at the foot of the Rockies, got under way fall term of '46 with probably one of the largest active chapters in its history. Most of the boys weer back from the wars plus the many who had done such a splendid job of keeping things going during that four-year respite so many of us had from the chores of college.

The most outstanding event of the fall quarter, not only for the IKA's but for the whole campus, was the resumption of the traditional barn dance. Under the guidance of Dean DeLong, Don Gunther and Bob Hamill the brothers pitched in to give the best dance in the history of the chapter.

Things got rolling two days before the blowout when all IKA's on the hill broke out their comboy duds, giving rise to great curiosity. When Saturday night arrived, the guests found themselves entering the house by way of a ladder which put them at the second floor landing, from which they were whisked down a slide into the two and a half story, heavily beamed living room which had every appearance of a barn, replete with tons of hay, cornstalks, a two-holer, and haw mow filling the balcony. The front entrance had become a stall for one of the alum's goats, who did not seem to enjoy the proceedings quite as much as we did.

The basement became the Chez When Saloon made authentic by red swinging doors, sawdust on the floor, whiskey bottle candlestick holders, the proverbial brass rail at foot of a 15-foot bar, the pony express schedule, and a bar menu to end all bar menus. The bartender, Selrahc Rapsak, looking his part in gartered sleeves, black vest, and handlebar mustache, was kept busy filling whiskey bottles with cider from two large kegs placed on the bar. Confusion reigned with many guests from other fraternities and from Denver, invited and uninvited, seeming to drift in continually.

Rough estimates placed the crowd at 150 couples during the peak of the evening. At 1 o'clock the house was finally cleared, and soon the brothers began arriving to tackle the seemingly endless cleanup job, which was accomplished in the short span of two hours with all pitching in, followed by a breakfast and the sack.

Later in the quarter the pledge class pulled a sneak, leaving the actives minus silverware, and taking themselves to Denver where they had a sumptuous banquet at the Park Lane Hotel, guesting members of Sigma-Kappa sorority at DU, followed by a round of Denver's nightspots.

Winter quarter got under way with a Come As You Are party which was followed two days later by formal initiation for 20 men. At the present time the Pi-Kaps are high in running for the all-school activity trophy, an honor which we are trying our best to regain.

Beta-Pi Pledges Stage Dance To Open 1947 Social Season

By DICK SHAHAN
Beta-Pi Chapter

◆ KING FUN and Queen Happiness reigned supreme on the Pennsylvania campus as the Beta-Pi pledges pulled themselves up by their own bootstraps and produced a gala affair that was loudly acclaimed by pledges and brothers alike. It was the chapter's first social affair since we welcomed in the New Year.

Many were the praises that the pledges received for their fine display of decorations. The chapter room was decked out with garnet and gold streamers which were interwoven in an artistic manner above the heads of the dancing couples. IKA's colors were further displayed by the use of garnet and gold balloons. Red and blue bulbs created just the right light effect to make dancing that much more appealing to everyone. Decorations were not limited to the chapter room alone, but were employed in the game room and around the soda bar as well.

The most entertaining and original element of our decorating scheme was devoted to Elmer, our moose. For countless years now, he has soberly and unemotionally observed the many social affairs which have gone on under his very nose in the chapter room. But for this dance, he broke tradition and cast off his cloak of conservatism. He was suitably attired in IKA's colors and sported a pledge hat along with a huge garnet and gold bow tie. He also happily engaged himself throughout the evening by blowing bubble gum, which was synthetically produced by the use of a balloon. Everyone agreed that Elmer would undoubtedly be voted among the "ten best dressed moose of 1947"!

The highlight of the dance came at midnight when the Dream Girl of the pledges was chosen. She is Mary Levin, a lovely brunette who hails from Elkins Park, Pa. She was presented with a lovely gold compact, engraved with her newly acquired title, by Larry Hersig—our Southern gentleman from the deep South (Florida, that is) who acted as "emcee" for the evening. We don't know who was more excited at the presentation of the gift—Mary, our Dream Girl, or Art Cramer, her escort.

After the presentation, a few songs were rendered by a "volunteer" quartet made up of pledges and brothers. The dancing and party then continued until the wee hours of the morning.

◆ PI KAPPA ALPHA finished fourth in scholarship among 12 fraternities on the Emory University campus last quarter, according to figures received from the office of the dean of men.

As usual, the all-fraternity average topped the general student body average, 8.710 to 8.646 (8 equals C, 10 B, 12 A). Only deviation from this rule recalled at the dean's office occurred in the winter quarter of this year.

ALLEN BLAKE MAYS

◆ ALLEN BLAKE MAYS, M, a resident of Greenwood for 20 years and a popular student of Presbyterian College in Clinton, S. C., died Jan. 12 in the Veterans Hospital in Columbia, S. C., of injuries received in an automobile accident at Chappells, S. C., four days previous.

His two companions, fellow students at Presbyterian College, were injured also, but not seriously.

Mays had made a notable record in the aviation service during World War II, serving in the China campaign, the Ryukus campaign, the Luzon campaign, the New Guinea and Bismark campaign, the Borneo campaign air offensive, the Japan West Pacific campaign, the Archipelago campaign, and the campaign of the Southern Philippines.

He enlisted for service in the Army Air Corps at Miami, Fla., in February, 1943, and became a B-24 bomber pilot and had a long and distinguished record of active service.

He belonged to the Fifth Air Corps, and was awarded the Air Medal with seven battle stars.

Separated from the service in May, 1946, he had been a student in Presbyterian College. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Greenwood.

Surviving are his father, Arthur R. Mays, Sr., of Amarillo, Texas; a brother, Arthur R. Mays, Jr., of Atlanta; and the following aunts and uncles: Mrs. Eugene H. Blake, Mrs. D. G. Gambrell, Miss Ella Mays and Senator A. Mays, all of Greenwood, and Samuel B. Mays of Chicago.

Funeral services were held from Blyth's Funeral Home in Greenwood on Jan. 13, 1947. The members of Mu chapter served as honorary pallbearers.

JACK THORNTON

◆ PI KAPPA ALPHA lost one of its most promising young members in the tragic Texas City, Tex., explosions April 16, as Jack Thornton, IT, an employee of the Republic Oil Co. there, was reported missing and "presumed to be dead."

Thornton, a petroleum engineering graduate of the University of Tulsa in 1946, was on his first job with Republic. He had been an outstanding man on the campus, serving as president of the Engineers Club and IMC of the fraternity, and was termed "a promising engineer" by Republic officials.

Jack was one of about 20 Republic employees who were volunteer fire fighters at the docks, trying to put the Grand-camp fire under control. The crew was wiped out as the French ship with its nitrate cargo blew up.

One volunteer fighter saw Jack go aboard the ship just "two or three minutes before it exploded."

Jack's wife, Juanita, and an infant son, who lived only about a mile from the dock area, escaped uninjured and were evacuated to Galveston, Tex.

Officers elected at the meeting for the next year included Ray Bartholdi, president; Maynard Rue, vice-president; F. Willard Mortenson, secretary; and Marv Wangstadt, treasurer. A committee was appointed to investigate the possibility of reactivation of the University of Minnesota chapter. George C. Connor was named chairman of this committee.

New alumni representative of the fraternity in the twin cities is F. Willard Mortenson, BX, 739 Pillsbury Ave., St. Paul 4, Minn.

Eastman Returns To Utah Campus As Alumni Chief

◆ IT'S BACK to the University of Utah for Dan Eastman, popular ΠKA of the class of 1937, but this time he's a member of the university family.

Eastman returns to the Utah campus as director for the alumni's University Development fund, a job of no mean proportions.

Dan first achieved prominence at Utah when he was elected president of the freshman class in 1933. The following year he became sophomore class president, and he wound up an outstanding undergraduate career during the '36-'37 term when he served as student body president.

Dan graduated from West High School in 1932. After arriving at Utah he starred not only in politics but also as a frosh footballer, a member of three prom committees and finally as a member of the exclusive Beehive Club. And he also helped guide the destinies of the Pi Kappa Alpha at Utah while a student.

After graduating Dan became a claims adjuster for the Fire Companies' Adjustment Bureau, a job he held until October 1942 when Uncle Sam's navy beckoned. He rose from ensign to lieutenant (s.g.) and was discharged at Seattle last July after continuous service with the naval air technical training command.

In his new job at Utah, Dan will assist alumni groups in the organization of active alumni clubs throughout America and try to build and maintain alumni interest in the university.

◆ DONALD D. DUNN, former Army captain in the Coast Artillery Corps, has returned to a practice of law with the firm Miller, Daus and Schwenger, Cleveland, O.

He received his A.B. degree from the University of Michigan, where he was initiated into ΠKA, and then took his law degree from John Marshall Law School in 1940. He was admitted to the Ohio bar the same year.

Dunn now lives at Maple Heights, O., with his wife, Leota, who is a teacher at Cleveland Heights Roxboro elementary school.

◆ MAJ. I. B. (JACK) DONALSON, IT, the man who flew the last plane off Bataan, is on an inspection trip to Task Forces Frigid and Williaw in Alaska. Donalson now is aide to Gen. E. R. Quesada, commanding general of the Tactical Air command.

Here is the chapter house of Gamma-Omicron and the chapter observed Founders' Day with a moving party—into the house. The house was occupied by the chapter before the war.

Founder's Day Is Moving Day

◆ GAMMA-OMICRON of Ohio University celebrated its 1947 Founders' Day on Mar. 1 by moving back into the pre-war chapter house, 18 N. College street.

From then until the last day of March, both actives and pledges renovated the house. Plaster was cracked, wallpaper peeling, light fixtures torn from the walls—but within two weeks after occupancy the home was in a very presentable condition and members and dates enjoyed their first house party on Mar. 15.

Couples began arriving at the House of Pi at 8 p. m., and within a short time it became evident that the affair would be a complete success. The chapter room was converted into a dance floor, with music supplied by a phonograph and the new record library donated by actives and pledges.

Bridge games soon blossomed all over the downstairs, with an emergency call being sent out for additional card tables to handle the overflow. Before the evening was over, one of the largest crowds ever to enter the chapter house had made the first evening an enjoyable one, and pointedly made everyone positive that the basement would have to be fixed up to handle the 60-man chapter in the future.

Not content with getting the house fixed up, ΠKAs also got the boarding club started a week later. A very able cook was obtained and, after the first week's meals had been served, everyone is sure that the Gamma-Omicron men will soon rank with the best fed ΠKAs in the country.

On Mar. 22, forty-four members and their dates enjoyed a dinner in the basement of the Presbyterian Church, with Faculty Advisor Carl Hanson, Alumni Advisor Erle Bridgewater, and their wives present. Afterwards all adjourned to the Men's Gym for the first post-war Interfraternity Ball, featuring Tony Pastor's orchestra. Intermission found everyone enjoying refreshments at a short chapter house party.

Slip covers for the downstairs furniture are being made, thanks to the wife of active Charles Anthony (the former Elaine Fuller). Borrowing an electric sewing machine from the mother of SMC Bob Sayre, Mrs. Anthony has completed recovering a davenport and one chair, and is waiting for an order of material to arrive for the covering of the other stuffed furniture.

The chapter now consists of 22 actives and 37 pledges, with 10 new men scheduled to enter the bonds in April. The house holds a near capacity load of 23 men, while 35 are eating in the boarding club.

Prominent on the varsity baseball team are Jack Singerman and John Madden, both of Tiltonsville. Lettermen from the 1946 team, Singerman plays second base and led the squad in batting last year. Madden patrols right field and batted well over the .300 mark himself.

Among the many guests that have called at the house to welcome the return of Pi Kappa Alphas was charter member Sheldon L. Rowland, now of Sandusky, O. Rowland was naturally quite pleased with the way things have progressed since reactivation last October, and recounted many happenings of previous days to the present members. It is hoped that other alumni will soon visit the chapter, and plans for an alumni week end sometime this spring are being pushed.

Pledges are Carroll Priest, Donald Conlin, Paul Gapp, Peter Kaczar, James Brooker, William Pietrich, Cleveland; Kenneth Wennik, Jamaica, N. Y.; Ed McDowell and Ed Walters, Zanesville; Oscar Tisher, Hannibal; and David Tuel, Fly, O.

Two men now in school and ΠKAs are following in their older brothers' footsteps. Active Richard Freeman is a brother of Alumni Brother Marvin Freeman, '38, while pledge Melvin Kuhar claims Alumni Brother George Kuhar, '38, as a real big brother.

display the philosophy of its life. And life is not a series of unconnected events or accomplishments but a series of related events, the growth out of conditions, the interlacing that makes a scheme of life. Events without principles perish in a day. Events with principles underneath them live as long as the principles. And there is no time element in a principle!

Here we have the secret of the life and survival of Pi Kappa Alpha! Attaining now its seventy-ninth birthday, it has lived long enough to display the fact that there are principles beneath it. They have given it life and continuity. But for them it would have perished long ago. Principles, being eternal, have made it just what it is.

We honor then, today, the establishment by brave, high-minded men of the University of Virginia of a confraternity that, founded aright, has lived on and is today stronger and better than ever in its life. It was founded upon a rock! And from its foundation it has drawn its life! Yea, in some seasons of temporary discouragement and decadence, it has soon, through its rock foundation, recovered its life and power!

This Fraternity was founded upon the two deathless principles of Faithfulness and Truth, Pistis kai Aletheia. On these were founded the efforts to recognize and utilize and display the association of young men in college. It has not merely exploited but has applied the principle of true brotherhood. Faithfulness or fidelity and truth have been the ground on which college men could stand the test of time.

There is profound reason in their power and utilization. The instinct for brotherhood has been conjoined to the principles of faithfulness and truth, and the result has been real life and power. All honor to every organization which has sought the same! And how sadly wanting in acumen and philosophical thought are all those who decry the college fraternities of the day! Sometimes we call that instinct for fraternity "the gang spirit." It is there, and in no set of men more real and potent than in college men. Why not use it, and capitalize it? And if not rightly used it will still exist, in some undesirable form, and tie men together in some unhappy way. Why not bind them together in a brotherhood based upon an intelligent and recognized faithfulness and truth?

The accusation is sometimes made that college fraternities tend to consolidate selfishness and personal aims; that they push aside those who might otherwise be worthily advanced, that they produce special social conditions of an unhappy nature, and the like. At some places and times, these evils may be wrought, but they are exceptions, both to the mass of the fraternities and do violence to their principles, and they themselves become the logical sufferers. Shame upon any fraternity which feels or practices or seeks superiority not worthily won or deserved! If they do ought to keep down or disparage others, they are the "barbarians," not their supposedly less-favored brethren!

The principles of Pi Kappa Alpha being such as they are, vital, practical, eternal, they account for the results. They have developed those qualities which have adorned our history. The great number amongst us who have attained distinction, in war and peace, in statesmanship and law, in order and development, in education and culture, in science and art, in finance and industry, in agriculture and literature, in exploration and invention, are the natural and legitimate product of high, living principle. "Who's Who in America" has more names upon its pages, it is said, of Pi Kappa Alpha men than of any other like organization. Five United States senators, one of whom might have been a presidential candidate but for his being a Southern man, a score of representatives in Congress, several governors of States, diplomats, explorers, generals in the Army in recent wars, half a dozen presidents of great universities, such as those of Virginia and Tennessee, half a score of theological professors, and university professors without end, three Episcopal bishops, one of them the immediate past presiding bishop of his great denomination, two Methodist bishops, one Roman Catholic bishop, five moderators of the great Presbyterian General Assemblies, numberless leaders in banking and insurance, are on our honor roll; yea, let us not except even one nation-wide known Thespian, and one now the head of national baseball!

There are two immediate, present, practical suggestions and duties arising from the outgrowth of Pi Kappa Alpha. One is that its maintenance and continued life are not to be derived from physical prowess in athletics nor from social sophistication, from muscle and "tails" and "the light, fantastic toe," but from the more permanent and developing qualities of the highest intellectual life and acquirement of habits of study and thought and development of the highest principles of life. All possible praise and handclapping to those who excel in brawn or society; but more to those who honor both themselves and their fraternity by the attainment of the higher ends of colleges and universities, mental culture, discipline, everything that calls for faithfulness and that revels in the great principle of truth!

The second immediate, present, aim in Pi Kappa Alpha, in particular, is such recognition as is due at once, to the greatness and usefulness of the Fraternity, to those who have given their all, including their very lives, to their country! They have glorified us! Let us glorify them with such a Memorial as will display our recognition of their gifts to patriotism and liberty! Nothing could be more worthy of the high principles we who still live profess than to erect a Memorial worthy of the thousand or more brothers who in the First and Second Great World wars have brought blessing and renown to ourselves and to mankind!

Joe Chamberlain of Beta-Delta at New Mexico, veteran professor of forestry entomology at Oregon State College, claimed the honor of being a ΠΚΑ longer than anybody at the banquet—32 years. A veteran of both World wars, he was a flier in the first one and a lieutenant-colonel in the second. Bishop Tucker ary worker. They had two sons, Henry St. George Tucker, Jr., and James, called "St. Peter." In order that they might be educated in American schools and because he was not well, Bishop Tucker, in 1923, resigned his Japanese diocese and brought his family to the United States. Except for a visit in 1937, it was his last sight of the Orient; though he has been anxious to return since the war, he does not consider doing so because of his conviction that Christianity there should be forced to stand on its own feet. Healthy religion, he says, like healthy business should be self-sustaining.

When he returned to the United States, his brother, Beverley, had just resigned the professorship of pastoral theology at the Virginia Seminary in order to become rector of St. Paul's Church, in Richmond, and Bishop Tucker became his successor. At Alexandria he was recognized as a strong and unusual personality—a tall, impassive professor with unshatterable Oriental calm and a wide range of knowledge. Twice he declined election as bishop of a diocese, but in 1926 when he was offered the post of bishop-coadjutor of the Diocese of Virginia he accepted and a year later became bishop on the death of William Cabell Brown.

In Virginia, he concentrated his attention on education and missions as he had in Japan, emphasizing work among Negroes and among the mountain folk of the Blue Ridge. He was inclined to rule with a light hand, preferring an administration which allowed a large degree of independence to the churches and schools in his charge (St. Catherine's, St. Christopher's Church, Virginia Episcopal School, St. Anne's, St. Margaret's, the Episcopal High School and the Blue Ridge Industrial School).

He had an easy manner, and he had his father's gift for telling a good story to establish a congenial mood in a group. "He appeared to have his head in the clouds," says one of his erstwhile subordinates, "but his naivete was deceptive. He was as astute as a fox."

The national Episcopal Church organization during this period was being subjected to unusual stress, and many members were demanding a more powerful central administration. At the general convention of the church, in 1937, in Cincinnati, the presiding bishop's powers were enlarged over the protests of some members and the canonical provision of a six-year term was abolished to permit him to serve until he reached retirement age. To fill this office the house of bishops, after canvassing all available choices, chose the bishop of Virginia, to the surprise of the house of deputies, which, however, unanimously confirmed the choice.

An efficiency engineer, who, a year later, was making a survey of the church organization, concluded of this, "the convention evidently gave unprecedented power and control to the presiding bishop and then turned around and elected and confirmed that man least likely to exercise such power with any arrogance. Unquestionably, they were looking for the most spiritual, sweet, and Christian character they could find."

The Rev. Charles W. Sheerin, of Washington, encountered Bishop Tucker in the lobby of the convention hotel in Cincinnati the evening of his election, looking troubled. Bishop Tucker told him that he wondered whether he could afford to be presiding bishop on his salary as bishop of Virginia. Mr. Sheerin, telling the story later, observed, "I could not help but wonder whether any other member of the house of bishops would not have known that there was a special stipend provided for the presiding bishop."

The new office required Bishop Tucker to travel widely from his headquarters in New York. He continued until 1944 to serve additionally as Bishop of Virginia, entrusting the administration of the diocese to the bishop coadjutor, the Rev. Frederick Deane aside all official church duties. However, he has been invited by the National Council of the Episcopal Church to serve in an advisory capacity on its overseas work, with especial reference to the Far East.

Bishop Tucker is recognized as a leading internationalist among the Protestant clergymen of this country. At the turn of the century he engaged in missionary work in Japan. He became president of St. Paul's College in Tokyo, and ten years later was elected Missionary Bishop of Tokyo.

In 1923 Bishop Tucker resigned his Japanese diocese and returned to the United States. Three years later he was elected Bishop Coadjutor of Virginia, and a year later Bishop of Virginia. In 1937, Bishop Tucker was elevated to the office of presiding bishop, with headquarters in New York.

Goodwin, who is now diocesan. He introduced important changes in the missionary and promotional policies of the church. He learned the jargon of newspapers, motion pictures and radio. He is a realist, and he realized that the church was in competition with the world. An up-to-date presentation of the church's program seemed essential.

Those who have worked with him sometimes reach a conclusion which John Hay states in his biography of Lincoln: that a great man cannot be over-humble. Though Lincoln appeared to be, actually he had great confidence in himself. An associate, who worked closely with the bishop, says "If modesty, gentleness and a constant Christian courtesy are the qualities of humility, Bishop Tucker is an humble man. But if being humble means being over-innocent about what goes on in the world—if it means having no deep convictions and displaying a lack of firm policy, Bishop Tucker is far from being an humble man. Those who have worked closely with him know he has qualities to greatness."

Since ministers and laymen are all too mortal, Bishop Tucker sometimes has to resort to amusingly mortal means to achieve his ends. He strongly supported a proposal at the recent general convention to set up a department of publicity and radio, but the resolution was opposed with vigor by some delegates. When it appeared that the question would not be resolved in time for the usual noonday prayers, the presiding bishop called for a vote. "All those in favor of the motion will rise and remain standing for noonday prayers," he said. The motion carried.

He resists any influence to exalt him in dress or ceremony. No matter how large or important an ecclesiastical gathering may be, he appears in his bishop's robe without any of the hoods he is entitled to wear in evidence of his academic degrees. He has never bought one. When an admirer insisted on giving him an Episcopal ring, Bishop Tucker accepted only on condition that he be not required to wear it.

He is not intolerant of such things but indifferent. "Some people like a lot of jewelry and some people like a small amount," he says. "I like simplicity."

Bishop Tucker is not an austere man, however. A young minister who was afraid he might be surprised a few years ago at the interest the bishop showed in the midway exhibits at the World's Fair. He even wanted to see the lady frozen in a block of ice.

His brothers and sisters say he eats more than the rest of the family. He likes cigars, the theater and family reunions in the summer at Virginia Beach. The New Yorker once reported that his favorite form of relaxation was to float in summer off Virginia Beach, engrossed in a serious theological book. He likes to swim and he is an accomplished mountain climber. In Japan he scaled Mt. Fujiyama.

One day the telephone in the presiding bishop's office in New York rang and another minister who was in the room heard him say:

"No, I am sorry, but I have to preach the commencement sermon at Sewanee that Sunday. . . . Yes, I will think it over 24 hours, but I know I can't do it."

He hung up the phone and exclaimed, "My, but he's an informal man."

"Who?" the minister inquired.

"President Roosevelt. He wants me to preach at Hyde Park when the King and Queen of England come in June, but I promised Alex Guerry that I'd be at Sewanee." Ultimately, he was able to comply with the President's wish.

Bishop Tucker tries to accept every invitation for his presence, often at great personal inconvenience. This means that he is "on the road" a large part of his time. During the war when trains were crowded and off schedule it was particularly difficult.

He is as absent-minded as a pedant is supposed to be, and he is often teased about the time he mistakenly picked up the hat and coat of a young bishop at the end of a meeting. After the young bishop searched all corners, Bishop Tucker somewhat sheepishly realized that he had them.

Bishop Tucker is in no sense a radical. His leadership in Episcopal and Protestant affairs has been moderate—perhaps too moderate for some socially advanced ministers. But it is doubtful if any denominational leader could have inspired more complete confidence and support from all elements of the church body than he. The explanation is character.

" . . . in a pretty terrible world he held ideals and spiritual values high," writes Dr. Sheerin, "and demonstrated them among men who knew little of Christian character. One thing to me is certain: in a changing age, when the church decided it must change its national administration, he seemed to preserve the best of the past, yet was not afraid to adventure with the new."

To Americans of all faiths, Bishop Tucker's simple and luminous honesty is a beacon in a chaotic age.

◆ MAKING news in more ways than one is Hack Miller, AT, formerly intermountain editor for the Deseret News.

Hack has been promoted to the post of managing editor of the paper after 10 years on the publication in various capacities.

He began his career at the News in 1934 when he worked on the sports desk part time while attending the University of Utah. He's been there ever since except for a slight four-year interruption by Uncle Sam's army.

Discharged eight months ago with the rank of major, Miller spent half of his army career in England where he was commander of Weymouth and Portland Port of Embarkation.

While attending the University, Miller, who is an active member of the Utah State Bar Association as well as a newspaperman, affiliated with Skull and Bones and Owl and Key, honorary societies.

Other speakers were John U. Field, district president of District 8, who spoke on the activities of the national fraternity; Phillip R. Heil, district president of 3a, who gave a brief resume of the chapters in his district, and Louis J. Henshaw, president of the Southland Hall Association, which is the house corporation of Alpha-Xi chapter.

Marion Fleming, SMC of Alpha-Xi chapter, presented the annual awards. David E. Winder was awarded the scholarship plaque for the highest grades among the new initiates, Donald D. Johnston, a key for his work as president of the pledge class, and Edward H. Metzger, Jr., received the pledge ring which is given each year by the active chapter to the outstanding pledge. He is a nephew of George Metzger.

At the conclusion of the banquet the annual meeting of Southland Hall was held, at which time directors were elected. The committee to locate a site for a new house reported that it had made a complete survey of available sites near the university and had several under consideration, but had not as yet reached any conclusion. The committee to raise funds for a new house reported that they had had several meetings and that an intensive drive would be started soon to secure pledges from all alumni of Alpha-Xi chapter for the new house.
