Welcome Back Pike Pride

AFTER an absence of more than twenty years, my SHIELD & DIAMOND suddenly reappeared via your June, 1986 edition. I don't know who is responsible for this blessed event, but it was good to read once again of my brothers' exploits and activities. Keep 'em coming!

> Fraternally, Ron Chapman Judge Beta Zeta '60

CONGRATULATIONS and thanks to all of you for the September, 1986 issue of the SHIELD & DIAMOND. Excellent! It cheered me up more than any issue in many years. Made me prouder than ever to be a IIKA.

I am glad the fraternities and sororities are coming back to the campuses and reestablishing their good names and many achievements.

EXPANSION

OST OF YOU who read this may never be part of a chapter that loses its charter. I hope that you never have this experience. It represents the loss of the basis for what can and should be one of life's richest experiences.

When such a loss occurs we ask ourselves, "What happened to the leadership in the local chapter? Why didn't the National Headquarters staff step in and provide the answers and the spirit to get the chapter back on its feet?"

However, we seldom ask ourselves, "What might we have done to salvage the chapter?" Or even "Why didn't I take the time to become informed about the chapter's status and the problems it was having?"

As undergraduates, we naturally think that Pi Kappa Alpha will always be someplace near the top of our priorities in life. But soon after graduation we find ourselves dedicated to our careers, to finding the mate that we'll choose for our life partner, and raising our families. In short, our dedication to the Fraternity is soon overshadowed by new responsibilities. This is not all bad. This is life.

However, we are never relieved of all our responsibilities to our chapter. The least we can do is keep informed of our chapter's status. If we don't feel that we are qualified to help resolve a specific problem, certainly we know of other brothers who could provide the needed expertise.

When a chapter does close, where does that leave the former members of that chapter? Obviously without a focal point on their particular campus, and thus, without one of the primary reasons for being a part of the Fraternity.

When that happens, what can we, as alumni, do to resolve the situation and repair the breech? That's the message of this story, but you won't find any extraordinary solutions here.

For me, it all started with a phone call.

I was traveling recently to Canton, Ohio, when my plane had a short stop in Dayton. Whenever I pass through Dayton, I call Dave Ritchey, who was a member of Gamma Omicron chapter at Ohio University with me during my undergraduate days.

When I reached Dave, our conversation centered around

GAMMA OMICRON/OHIO UNIVERSITY

A New Day

How can loyal alumni revitalize those "lost" chapters?

by Mert Simons

the fact that it had been too many years since we'd seen each other and many of the other brothers who had been in the chapter when we were in school. After a short discussion, we realized it had probably been twenty years or more since we'd seen or heard from most of these people.

In the past I had arranged for the brothers to get together for Homecoming and other occasions in Athens, Ohio. I concluded my phone conversation by indicating that I would see what could be done about getting a group together for a weekend in the fall.

Upon my return home, I contacted Lyn Kleinhoffer in Detroit, Michigan. We soon set a date for a reunion back in Athens. Lyn informed me that he had a directory produced by the national office. Using this, and an update made available from the national office, contact was made with approximately two hundred of the Gamma Omicron alumni who had been in school from the late fifties until the chapter closed in 1975.

The purpose of the reunion was to be threefold:

First, it was to get together with old friends, rehash old times, and bring the brothers up to date on each other's lives.

Secondly, it was to form a Gamma Omicron Alumni Association for the purpose of arranging future reunions and to support the colonization and reactivation of the Gamma Omicron chapter.

Finally, it was to meet with officers from Pi Kappa Alpha and Ohio University to determine what had to be done to influence the National Headquarters to colonize at Ohio University, and what University, and what support there was on the part of the student body and the University for a new Greek organization on campus.

As it turned out, after much work our reunion was a great success. Forty brothers attended.

At the reunion, we had presentations by representatives of the University and by Nick Shafor, Pi Kappa Alpha's Great Lakes regional president.

After meeting all day, our

After meeting all day, our group decided on several issues which we hoped would spark the interest of the alumni, the University and the Fraternity's national office in assisting us to refound Gamma Omicron.

We were pleased that all of the parties involved looked favorably upon our goal to reestablish our chapter at Ohio University.

Shortly thereafter, the national office made a formal presentation to the University. The presentation was conducted by Todd Mudd, director of expansion. Mudd was supported by three members of Alpha Rho (Ohio State), twelve Gamma Omicron alumni and nine Ohio University students who were part of a group of thirty that had in dicated an interest in affiliating with a new colony of Pi Kappa Alpha. All those present participated in the presentation.

The next day we found out our work had paid off. Pi Kappa Alpha had been selected to reestablish on the Ohio University campus.

By this time, there were only five weeks left in the school year. So it was decided that it would be mutually advantageous to wait until the fall quarter to establish the colony.

As I write this, staff members from the national office are on the campus, rushing potential colony members and performing the work required to form a viable organization. We are advised that they presently have a group of fifty pledged and they continue to work on pledging additional people.

Needless to say, the members of the Gamma Omicron Alumni Association are elated by this turn of events. Our timing was perfect.

We have accomplished a lot in the past eighteen months. We still have a long way to go to see that the colony has housing that will let it compete favorably with other fraternities on campus, and to see that the group gets organized and is able to follow through to obtain its charter. With a solid base of alumni support and more joining every day we are sure that we will reach our goals.

To those alumni whose chapter has gone silent, why not investigate a revival? I know you will be surprised at the interest. I urge you to start making your contacts today. Arrange a reunion, and establish your goals. I think you'll also be surprised, as we of Gamma Omicron were, at how nicely things can fall into place.

For those of you who still have your chapters, become involved. If there is no active alumni association, form one. We rely, in too many cases, on the chapter to organize alumni activities. This shouldn't be the case. Alumni associations should be formed to promote alumni activities and support Pi Kappa Alpha's chapters. When we do this, everyone benefits.

What's New On Campus?

It took months of preparation and two full weeks of canoeing, but but the results were impressive. Six BETA (Davidson) chapter members traveled 250 miles from Lake Norman to Charleston Harbor, raising $8,200 for United Cerebral Palsy's Charlotte Development Center.

Before beginning the endeavor, the men flew and drove the entire proposed route. "We flew the route to make sure there were no surprises or differences from the map we had," explained Marty Foil.

Their longest stretch: a swamp in South Carolina.

Foil, along with Doug Batcheller, Charles Jenkins, Allen Mast, Sean Miller and John Stanley prepared for the trip by lifting weights and canoeing. The six were supported during the trip by an additional three chapter members who served as a road crew. Money was raised by the entire chapter through corporate sponsorships and individual donations.

Pi Kappa Alpha was honored at a local awards ceremony by Emily Hedric and other officials of United Cerebral Palsy.

GAMMA (William & Mary) checks in with some outstanding accomplishments, both individually and as a chapter. Past SMC Bryan Grisso has been elected chief of council for the Council of Fraternity Affairs, William & Mary's version of IFC president; IIKA Drew Daniele is captain of the swim team; Brother Chris Foote will edit the campus newspaper, the FLAT HAT, during the coming year, and brother Adam Anthony serves as chairman of the Honor Council.

For the first time in several years, William & Mary presented an Outstanding Chapter Award. Pi Kappa Alpha won the award in its first year back on campus. Gamma chapter also captured the fraternity All-Points Trophy, for the third year in a row.

THETA (Rhodes College) has been active in assisting two charities in Memphis, Tennessee. The chapter spent one afternoon aiding the Memphis Interfaith Association by cleaning the grounds at one of the organization's new help centers. Theta members also collected four hundred dollars in faculty and student contributions recently for Big Brothers/Big Sisters' Bowl for Kids Sake.

XI (South Carolina) chapter recently donated $2,500 to the Children's Hospital Center for Cancer and Blood Disorders at Richland Memorial in Columbia, South Carolina. The money was raised through the sale of the Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl Calendar. T.C. Collins, III—inspired by his brother Brett, who has been treated for leukemia at the Center—led the chapter in this effort. Walt Gothard, Paul Fleisher and Vic Carpenter were also instrumental in Xi's success. (Photo on page 8.)

ALPHA KAPPA (Missouri-Rolla) summarizes the past year: The all chapter grade point average rose, an important statistic at any school, but especially so at Rolla with its primarily engineering course of study. The chapter participated in fifty organizations, and members of Pi Kappa Alpha held twenty-one campus offices. Once again, Alpha Kappa won the St. Patrick's Day competition, the university's largest festivity. It was the third year in a row that Pikes won the event, and the trophy was retired.

Alpha Kappa finished Greek Week third out of twenty-one fraternities, and their intramural finish was a close second out of forty participating organizations.

Alpha Kappa's spring initiates refinished the chapter house's entry foyer with a new wood floor and a carved inlayed crest. Chapter alumni are preparing to raise money for an addition to the facility which will provide a fifty percent increase in capacity upon completion.

"Our Pikes have come a long way in the past two years, and we intend to see that they go even further," said Dr. Richard Trailor, associate dean of students at Samford University. The chapter he refers to is ALPHA PI, now celebrating their seventy-fifth year. The past year has been highlighted by solid accomplishments in pledge education, athletics and alumni relations. The rest of Samford University took notice when Alpha Pi adopted its revised pledge program policies. The program included a required B average for initiation. All new men were monitored, using teacher evaluation forms at midterm and prior to finals. In the event that an associate member fell below the standard, he would be required to attend two hours of study hall per week, where a tutor was provided by the chapter. The program was such a success that IFC Advisor Timothy Hebson has now required similar programs from all of Samford's fraternities.

The pledge education program was not the only area in which Alpha Pi set standards. Pi Kappa Alpha captured the 1985-86 Intramural Championship, wresting the title away from a six-time winning competitor. With the intramural championship came a renewed spirit of success; the chapter committed itself to making the seventy-fifth anniversary its best ever. The Alpha Pi Junior Founders Club was established at the anniversary banquet; more than twenty-five undergraduate and alumni brothers have contributed a total of $2,500 to the Junior Founders Club to date, and donations are still being requested of chapter and area alumni. Past National President Andrew H. Knight (Alpha Pi '23) has called the Alpha Pi Junior Founders Club "the best program for alumni involvement and contributions the chapter has ever established."

Alpha Rho's Steve Chapman with 1986-87 Covergirl Patty Harden.

ALPHA RHO (Ohio State) has turned the Pi Kappa Alpha calendar, a popular tradition in many chapters, into a sorority competition and charity fundraiser. The first annual IIKA Calendar Contest played to a packed hall and was very successful. Twenty-one young women from top campus sororities competed for a place in Alpha Rho's Dreamgirl Calendar. The coveted title of 1986-87 Covergirl was won by Patty Harden of Kappa Delta sorority. Proceeds from the contest went to Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Columbus.

BETA ETA (Illinois) recently selected Kim Merritt of Pi Beta Phi sorority as their chapter's Dream Girl. Ms. Merritt was selected from a field of candidates representing the school's twelve sororities in a contest hosted by a local radio personality. As winner of the contest, Merritt appears on Beta Eta's calendar cover. She received a thirty-five inch color television, numerous gift certificates, a large inscribed trophy and a dozen roses. Merritt was also given the title Miss Greek University of Illinois.

Ceil Blumenstock, a senior at Cornell University, has been confined to a wheelchair since a 1982 automobile accident left her disabled. In good weather Blumenstock is independent, transporting herself in a motorized wheelchair. But in bad weather the key to her mobility is Pi Kappa Alpha's BETA THETA (Cornell) chapter. The chapter members have become her chauffeurs, picking her up each morning, taking her to her evening classes, making Saturday runs to the library, giving her transportation to dinner at a dorm, and taking her to physical therapy.

Beta Theta participates in Tompkins County's Gadabout program, providing voluntary transportation services. Extensive training is necessary before driving a Gadabout bus, including eight hours of classroom defensive driving instruction, a half-hour road test, and eye and reflex tests. During the past two years eighty-six Beta Theta members have completed the training. William Wendt, director of Cornell University transportation services, found it evident early in the training that the men were serious about the project. "I accompanied the defensive driving teacher, Norm Wheeler, to the IIKA house for the all day Saturday sessions. He trains public school bus drivers, and he had doubts about training a fraternity, especially when the men came down carrying pillows to sit on and wearing a variety of hats. However, their concentration and questions impressed him." Kathleen Donovan, coordinator for disabled students at Cornell, praised Pi Kappa Alpha for its work. "The Fraternity is to be credited for undertaking this project. It is a major commitment."

BETA PHI (Purdue) joined the fight against cancer this fall with their project Jump-a-thon '86. The chapter raised over $3,200, benefitting St. Elizabeth Hospital in Lafayette, Indiana. For twenty-four hours in early September, a trampoline positioned in front of the Pi Kappa Alpha house was in constant use. Assisted by Gamma Phi Beta sorority at Purdue, the chapter also auctioned off prizes donated by local merchants, including everything from pizzas to tanning sessions.

GAMMA LAMBDA (Lehigh) chapter's most recent pledge class holds the highest grade point average of all fraternity pledge classes at Lehigh University, with thirty-one fraternities competing at the school.

GAMMA MU (New Hampshire) scholarship provides an example others could follow. In a single semester the chapter boosted their aggregate grade point average by a full one-third point, propelling Pi Kappa Alpha's academic standing at the University of New Hampshire from last place in autumn to fourth out of fifteen at the close of last semester.

GAMMA RHO (Northwestern) Rush Chairman Harvin C. Moore, credits organization and motivation for that chapter's continued resurgence. Prior to last spring's rush, Gamma Rho's chapter advisor, Dale Fry (Epsilon Delta '75), and alumnus Larry Wegner (Eta Nu '77) conducted a rush seminar focusing on organization. The results were another strong rush for the chapter, both in quantity and quality, which should supply the manpower necessary for Pi Kappa Alpha's continued success at Northwestern University.

Each year the Huntington, West Virginia Council Knights of Columbus sponsor a Tootsie Roll Drive to raise funds for the mentally and physically handicapped. This year the group collected over $9,500. More than $4,000 of that amount was the result of work by DELTA IOTA (Marshall). "I sit back in awe at the amazing performance of these fine young adults," said Sid Barton, Knights of Columbus chairman. "This was their greatest year ever. Without them we could not and would not achieve our goal. The Knights of Columbus are proud to work with them."

DELTA LAMBDA (Florida State) brothers Richie Lewis and Barry Blackwell have been named to the 1986 All-Fraternity All-American Baseball Team. Lewis, who helped lead Florida State into the College World Series championship game, is a pitcher with impressive statistics. Last year he posted a 14-2 record, with 202 strikeouts. Freshman Blackwell is the team's third baseman.

DELTA MU (Southern Mississippi) boasts the membership of a large number of varsity athletes, participating in a wide range of sports. Among them are Doug Bolt, footbball; Rusty Fuller, soccer; Tom Purcer, tennis; Clay Jones and Shawn Smith, baseball; and Jimmy Roberts and Curt Crawford, swimming.

Delta Mu held their annual Panama Jack Bikini Contest last semester, which raised more than $3,000 for a local youth, Jason Byrd. The money was raised to help offset the cost of delicate and expensive brain surgery for Jason.

In another activity, the chapter supplied marshals for the Deposit Guaranty Golf Tournament, an official PGA event. And finally, the chapter announced the outcome of the Delta Gamma Anchor Splash: "The Pikes won!"

DELTA TAU (Arizona State) enjoys the membership of some of Arizona State's most outstanding undergraduates; John Samanski and Chris Jogis are examples. Samanski, a power lifter in the 123-pound weight class, last year returned from the NCAAs with a national championship. He broke the national record for total points, and was named first team All American. Jogis won national championship titles in both singles and doubles badminton, and was part of a mixed doubles team that took runner-up in the same NCAA tournament.

DELTA XI (Indiana) proudly reports a number of significant achievements by members of their chapter. Swimmer Robert Alan Mezei took first place in the All Campus intramural 200 yard medley. John Forrest Eggleton (above right) has been chosen by Gamma Phi Beta sorority to appear in their calendar, Men of IU. George Frederick Sutton has recently been elected president of the IU chapter of BACCHUS, a nationwide organization promoting the awareness of alcohol and alcohol related problems among university students. Warren Machen is the recipient of an InterFraternity scholarship, one of two awards given to outstanding scholars. Applications for the scholarship were received from members of all thirtythree campus fraternities.

DELTA OMEGA (High Point) chapter has gone to a dry rush format, and their efforts have been imaginative. Delta Omega now uses the school's intramural program as an opportunity to acquaint themselves better with rushees, and to allow the rushees to learn about the chapter. An interesting twist on the typical rush effort at High Point was a Pi Kappa Alpha "wine and cheese" party that featured no wine. Instead, non-alcoholic sparkling grape juice was offered. "The sparkling grape juice was used to keep the spirit of a wine and cheese reception without actually using 'spirits'," said Barry Martin, Delta Omega secretary.

An eight year old tradition continues at EPSILON BETA (Valparaiso). On October 4th, the chapter sponsored its annual Alumni Homecoming Pig Roast. The Pike Pig Roast is Valparaiso's largest alumni gathering, even larger than the University's alumni dinner. Serving as head cook was faculty advisor Dean Kohlhoff.

EPSILON PSI (Western Michigan) continues to build their reputation at Western Michigan University through individual involvement, athletic achievement and high campus profile. Pi Kappa Alpha includes Student Government President Ron Souther and Vice President Tom Nowacek, and IFC President Scott Smith. Last year the chapter reached the championship game in five sports and placed in the top three in virtually every other sport, earning first runner-up honors in the All Sports competition. They have pledged to take the All Sports trophy this year. IIKA also sponsored and organized a campus-wide drug and alcohol abuse seminar that attracted more than one hundred attendees.

"The brothers of ZETA BETA (Delta State) are trying to maintain the standard of excellence that has been with the chapter since our chartering. We feel we are succeeding," writes Billy Vinzant. He has a strong basis for his remarks. Zeta Beta was recognized as the most outstanding organization on campus for the 1985-86 school year. The past spring marked the 43rd consecutive semester in which Zeta Beta has surpassed the all-men's grade point average. The chapter has been overall intramural champion for seventeen of the past eighteen years. Pike members participate in every major athletic team as well as in most honorary clubs. The vice president and treasurer of the student body are members of Pi Kappa Alpha.

Zeta Beta also has a solid record of service to the community. During Halloween the chapter provides a "trick or treat" escort service for children. Fun Run for Easter Seals and Bike for Life for St. Jude will also be important parts of the chapter's calendar

ZETA THETA (Southwest Texas State) won both the Greek and the overall intramural sports championships this year. On the way to these victories, Pi Kappa Alpha won championships in six sports and took second in five others. Cecil Gregg (left), a senior accounting major, and a dominant force in the chapter's sports program, was named Greek Athlete of the Year by the SWTSU Recreational Sports Department.

ZETA OMICRON (California State-Northridge) has regained the Intramural Championship at CSUN. They were also successful in electing brother Tom Oseransky president of the Student Body for the upcoming year. The chapter leads the campus in rush, having recruited thirty-five men through a new dry rush format. Pledge Educator Jeff Schmidt will lead the fall pledge class to initiation.

ETA NU (Northern Illinois) once again provided valuable support for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon. Over Labor Day weekend, Pike members and friends manned the phones at the DeKalb pledge center, raising over two thousand dollars for the nationally recognized event. The chapter has helped to raise more than $18,000 over the past ten years.

ETA OMICRON (Northeast Louisiana) has only been in existence for fourteen years, but in that time it has become a recognized force in fraternity life — academically, athletically and in terms of campus involvement. Pi Kappa Alpha boasts the highest grade point average at the school, and Pike members Cliff Adams and Carl Greene won Big Brother/Little Brother honors with a combined grade point average of 3.86. Athletically, Eta Omicron expects to win. The IIKA flag football A-league team has compiled a 40-1 record; they have been Fraternity League and All University champions for six consecutive years. Pike B, C, and Dleague teams likewise won their respective divisions for each of the past six years, eventually losing in the playoffs to Pike A. Eta Omicron teams also won All University softball, swimming, wrestling and basketball championships. The chapter has won Greek Week almost every year since its founding, with the exceptions of 1976 and 1979. This past year Pi Kappa Alpha doubled the total scores of the other participating fraternities. 1986 Dream Girl Lisa Lester was voted Miss Greek, and brother Ray Glasgow won Mr. Greek.

There are other individual achievers as well. Brother Steve McAlister has been elected recently to president of NLU 31 Student/Alumni Association. Randyl Ratcliff serves as IFC treasurer. Pike alumni serve as student programs coordinator, greek system director, and admissions counselor. Does the chapter ever forsee being unable to sustain this winning tradition? Apparently not. Eta Omicron reports the pledging of fifty-four men, helping to insure, as Alumni Secretary Phil Dixon states, "the tradition lives on".

At Indiana State University, two of the four Distinguished Senior Awards given in the past year were awarded to members of Pi Kappa Alpha's THETA OMICRON chapter. David Clokey and Keven Wilberding received the honor given in the name of Alan C. Rankin, a past president of the University. Cited in the selection were these men's leadership qualities, campus involvement and dedication to Indiana State University.

THETA SIGMA (Winthrop) proudly announces a change of location to a new house on Park Avenue Extended in Rock Hill, South Carolina. Much of the credit for the move goes to Theta Sigma's Tal Johnson.

Theta Alpha dedicates new house

Garnet and gold letters sit squarely atop round white pillars at the University of North Alabama's newest and most beautiful fraternity house. The building is home to Pi Kappa Alpha's THETA ALPHA chapter. The new facility was dedicated in Founders' Day ceremonies earlier this year, following a November, 1984 decision to make the move.

The intervening year and a half presented more than just a few minor obstacles. Theta Alpha's rented, off-campus chapter house was traded for space in the University's O'Neal Hall, an on-campus building that houses University organizations. Alternative locations were found for social events; even rush had to be held in a spare room at a local bank. But Theta Alpha demonstrated its resolve. The sale of soft drinks and popcorn at the state fair yielded $1,800 for a special housing fund.

Brothers, pledges and parents donated services. Frank Neville created the floor plans. Ed Jenkins accomplished the actual construction. Thomas J. Tanner, Sr. organized the project, providing hours of hard work and invaluable assistance. The new chapter house is named Tanner Hall in his honor.

The house is located on the University of North Alabama's new fraternity row. The two-story structure includes 3,900 square feet, plus a full basement. Second story dormitory rooms sleep ten, and the ground floor includes a Founders' room, living area, study, kitchen and dining room, television room and a president's room and office. The basement will accomodate both chapter meetings and social events, and provides 180 square feet of storage.

Dedication ceremonies were coordinated by Tim Case, and held concurrent with Theta Alpha's Founders' Day celebration. Over four hundred attended the event, including University President Dr. Robert M. Guillot. Rodger Johnson (Gamma Theta '67) provided the keynote address. Keith Shields and Thomas Pilgreen were also honored at the dedication ceremonies as Outstanding Alumni.

Greek meetings aren't foreign to us.

Whether it's a board meeting for ten, or a convention for a thousand, we know fraternity functions aren't kid stuff. Our meeting planners have years of award-winning expertise. Our facilities and cuisine consistently rate among the world's finest. So if you want to talk about an upcoming meeting, give us a call. Success In Arizona

by Todd W. Mudd

"They just kept coming! Twenty men, thirty men, then forty men; and it continued! At forty we had doubled our chapter size, but there were still more to come. When the number of men accepting bids reached fifty we were all nearly in shock. We had done it, our chapter size had gone from thirty-seven to eighty-seven overnight," said Victor Ellis, vice president of Gamma Delta chapter (University of Arizona). "These guys are incredible: National Merit scholars, all-state athletes, varsity cheerleaders unbelievable!"

Gamma Delta had much to celebrate Friday evening, August 22, 1986. The redevelopment of the chapter looked successful. The chapter started fall 1985 with seven men; they had eighty-seven men at the end of fall rush 1986.

In the spring of 1985 it was questionable if Gamma Delta would survive. The chapter had suffered through years of low membership, high accounts receivable and membership apathy. A number of efforts to correct these problems had been made by undergraduate members and loyal alumni, and through national staff assistance. But the problems persisted.

Several members of the chapter and its alumni advisory board realized in spring, 1985, that the chapter was near collapse. They agreed that as a last resort they would request a chapter redevelopment effort from the National Fraternity staff.

Executive Director Allen Groves supervised the redevelopment. "Gamma Delta had sunk to its lowest point in years. It was questionable if the chapter would survive. Things just kept getting worse. In January 1985 we determined that a redevelopment effort was our only hope of success. Basically the project consisted of interviews with each member to enable the chapter advisor and me to determine the exact cause of the chapter's problems. Those men possessing the commitment and zeal to contribute to the chapter's improvement were asked to assist in undertaking a total rebuilding of the chapter. I should point out that a membership evaluation is a last resort in cases such as this.'

The key to keeping a chapter together during a redevelopment effort is loyal alumni. Luckily, Gamma Delta was and is supported by a number of very dedicated alumni. These men weathered the bad years and were optimistic when the decision was made to conduct the redevelopment effort.

"We felt it was our final option if the chapter was to survive," stated Brent Kyte (Alpha Nu '57) who served as the chapter's financial advisor for the past several years. "The chapter's state of affairs had slipped to a very low point, accounts receivable were high, we had substantial back debt, and there was a lot of membership apathy when it came to paying dues and obligations. All alumni were informed of the chapter's continued problems and the decision to conduct the redevelopment via a special letter from the National Headquarters.

In May, membership interviews were conducted. A number of men took the option of alumni status, while others decided to go through the interview process. Letters were sent to all chapter members informing them of their new alumni status, or asking them to join in the redevelopment effort. As a result, seven men were gathered to help in reestablishing the chapter.

Creating a fraternity chapter is not easy; rebuilding one is even more difficult. It is necessary to have a core of undergraduates who are dedicated to seeing the project succeed, and also important to have a core group of alumni willing to play a major role in advising and assisting the chapter during its redevelop-

The rebuilding of a chapter is accomplished through a multiphase plan of attack. At Gamma Delta this plan had three phases: first, get the chapter back on its feet in membership stability and finances; second, move into a position of strength in those areas, and finally, reach a position of campus dominance in membership numbers, involvement and financial resources. The length of each phase is dependent entirely on how quickly the chapter is able to develop. Throughout each phase continued alumni development is of paramount importance. The developing chapter needs the continued stability, wisdom and advice of older brothers who have "been through it all before"

Phase one for Gamma Delta began with fall 1985 rush. The seven undergraduates were assisted by a team from the national staff. The goal was to pledge dedicated, hard-working men. Numbers were not a primary concern, yet a successful rush was necessary if the chapter was to stay financially

solvent

Arizona has a week-long formal rush at the beginning of the semester. Against the odds in reputation, membership numbers and financial strength, a very successful rush was conducted. It yielded thirty men through rush week and over the course of the semester.

The quality of the 1985 fall pledge class was exemplary; they had a first semester GPA of 2.85 with more members in the freshman honorary than any other campus fraternity.

The year was successful, yet tough at times. The members wanted to be recognized as the top-quality group they were. "We knew it would take time to accomplish our goal of being a top chapter on campus, but I don't think any of us realized it would take at least two years to even start being recognized as such," stated Mike Nicholson. Nicholson, a fall 1985 pledge, is now pledge coordinator for Gamma Delta.

Phase two began with fall 1986 rush. The chapter knew that a successful rush would be imperative to their continued success. Returning to school with thirty-seven men, they could easily give up and throw in the towel. But the membership was hungry for victory.

In July and early August, an aggressive rush committee prepared by organizing all rush week activities and assigning each man's responsibilities for dorm storming, party cleanup, maintenance of the computerized name lists of potential bids, etc. "I couldn't sleep the entire week before rush started, I was so scared of failure. It would kill me to let the guys down, but I also knew that there was no way we could lose. We had to win! exclaimed Mike Whittemore, rush chairman. Through the entire chapter's efforts, a very aggressive, personalized rush week was conducted. Starting out at 8 a.m. to dorm storm, they were back at the house by 11 a.m. for lunch and sporting activities of volleyball, football and basketball. A pre-evening meeting was held at 6 p.m. to go over assignments and the game plan for the evening. The dryrush party followed at 7-11 p.m., and the evening concluded with hash sessions from 11:30 to 12:30 p.m. "We were putting in sixteen hour days, and some of us even eighteen to twenty hour days," said Greg Quinlin, president and one of the seven refounders. Whittemore and Mike Truty, treasurer, entered a potential bid list each evening into the computer to generate a master list of names and addresses for each group's dorm storming the next morning.

The effort paid off. Dr. Doug McMaster, Gamma Delta's chapter advisor, said of the undergraduates, "It was amazing to see these men work so hard and keep each other fired up. We (the alumni) were realistic yet optimistic as the week progressed. We had never seen the chapter so organized and excited about rush.

Bids were picked up on Friday, August 22, between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. The men could then go to their newly pledged chapters. Gamma Delta had a 4:30 p.m. meeting to go over the evening schedule and summarized their rush week so far. "We gave it our all. Regardless of what would happen, we knew we had given it our best effort. We were nervous at that meeting, yet we were excited. We had done great follow-up through dorm storming and had received many favorable responses. But you never know," stated Mike Hill, fall 1985 rush chairman and one of the seven refounders.

At 5 p.m. the receiving line and pledge sign-in table were set up in front of the house. There was an air of excitement and nervous tension. What campus to the new pledge class undergraduates, and well-timed would be the result? Then it began. By 8 p.m., fifty new pledges were inside the house celebrating with their new

The Arizona campus already feels the presence of the newly reestablished Gamma Delta chapter. Five of eight varsity cheerleaders are Pikes, four PiKA football teams have made the intramural playoffs, the chapter social calendar is at its high point, and reaction on has been overwhelming.

Financially, the house is at full capacity, thus retiring debts incurred in the past. Steps have been taken to turn the chapter's financial management over to a professional accountant. Gamma Delta has accomplished all this, and only one man will graduate in the next year.

Gamma Delta is becoming a great chapter. The elements of success are evident: dedicated alumni support, encouraged national staff assistance. Redevelopment is a final and very severe alternative in terms of both financial and manpower resources, but within the proper framework, as at the University of Arizona, the results can be well worth the investment.

Director of Expansion Todd Mudd led the national staff team to Gamma Delta in the fall of 1985 and also assisted the chapter during their fall 1986 rush.

Expansion & Development Update —

EXPANSION AND DEVELOPment programs continue to blaze new trails of success for Pi Kappa Alpha. There are currently seven colonies and a number of exciting development projects.

In Development:

Arkansas - Alpha Zeta

Alpha Zeta has made major improvements with their redevelopment effort which saw the chapter reestablished with eight returning men and fortyone new pledges. The quality of the new men is outstanding, and the chapter appears to be back on the track to stability.

Alumni continue to play the major role in the chapter's resurgence, in particular fundraising chairman David Love 73 and alumni receivership board chairman Greg Martin

New Mexico - Beta Delta

Beta Delta's redevelopment effort is in full swing with a successful fall rush of twenty-eight men, bringing total membership to fifty-one from a low of seven in fall 1985.

Concentration is being focused on the chapter's internal management structure and finances, and, of course, on rush.

Oklahoma -Beta Omicron

Two leadership/scholarship consultants and a strong fall rush have Beta Omicron off to a great start in fall, 1986. Mitch Lee (Epsilon Omicron and Chris Byrom (Gamma Chi '85) have been implemented by the Beta Omicron Alumni Advisory Board and the Memorial Foundation of the National Fraternity to provide assistance to the chapter in all areas of chapter operations and management.

Rush went exceptionally well, yielding twenty-five men. This brings their total membership to sixty-five.

Colonies:

Fresno State

Proud of a rush that yielded twenty men, the second largest number in their greek system, Fresno State is looking forward to a late fall chartering. The colony of seventy men has taken the campus by storm. They anticipate building upon an impressive first year.

Florida Southern College Delta Delta Colony

Leading the entire campus in the number of pledges, Delta Delta colony is working on the completion of their chartering goals in order to proceed with their rechartering.

The colony, currently at twentytwo men, anticipates meeting an installation goal of forty men required for chartering. Freshmen cannot pledge until the spring semester, thus Delta Delta colony will conduct a major spring rush

Upcoming fall events include a fund raiser for Multiple Sclerosis and an alumni golf tournament.

Randolph Macon College

Randolph Macon College colony is planning a major spring rush effort, when they will be able to pledge freshman students. The colony, with a current membership of thirty-three, looks forward to chartering after the completion of their installation objectives. The Alumni Advisory Board, led by Chapter Advisor Ralph Straube (Alpha Rho '61). continues to play a major role in the colony's development.

Kearney State College

A new addition to IIKA's ranks in late spring, the Kearney State colony, beginning with thirtyseven members, recently completed a very successful fall rush. The addition of thirty men brought the colony's membership to sixty-five.

On their way to becoming a ccessful chapter, the colony includes a number of student leaders, varsity basketball and baseball players.

Rose Hulman Institute of Technology

The Rose Hulman Institute of Technology, located in Terre Haute, Indiana, is one of the nation's leading engineering institutes, and one of Pi Kappa Alpha's new fall colonies.

The initial recruitment effort yielded thirty-four men, so the colony is well on its way to its installation goal of fifty-five men. The current membership is composed of campus and and academic leaders. They continue to conduct rush with assistance from Theta Omicron (Indiana State University) and the colony's very active advisory board, which includes Colony Advisor David Land (Theta Omicron '78), Advisor Ed Pease (Delta Xi '71), Faculty Advisor Richard Ditteon, Rush Advisor Mark Veach (Delta Xi '81), Associate Editor Al Perone (Theta Omicron '78), Financial and Alumni Advisor Jim Brownell (Theta Omicron '80) and Housing Advisor Bill Carls (Theta Omicron '85).

Ohio University -Gamma Omicron Colony

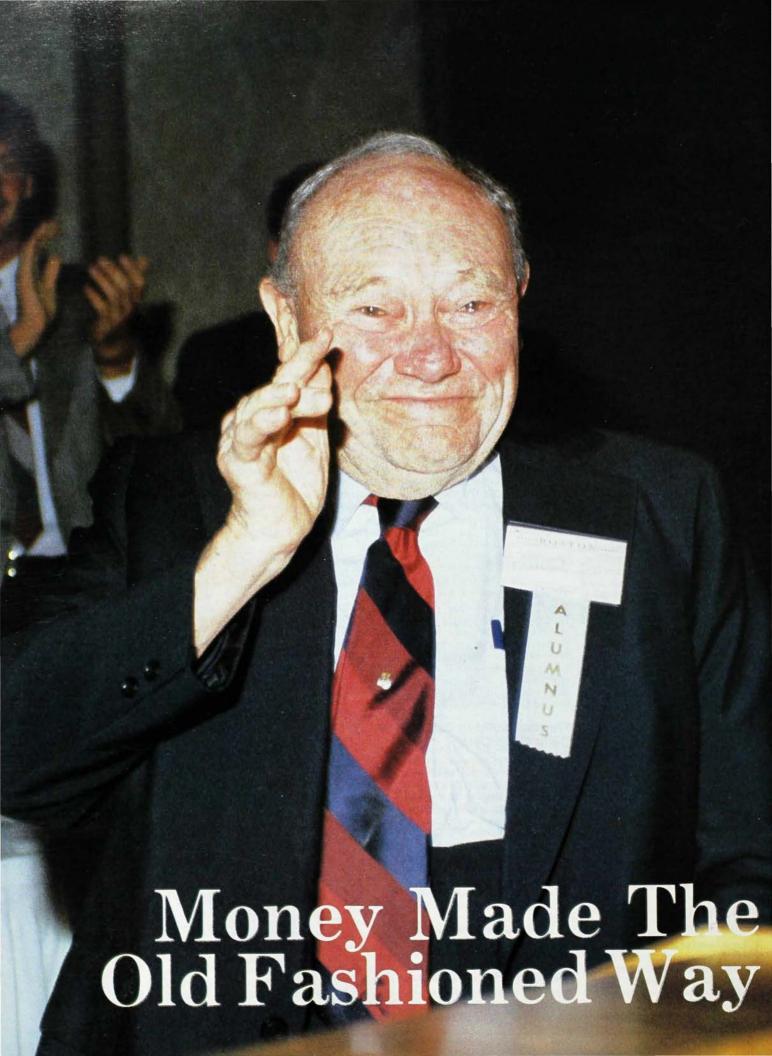

Twelve long years of silence at Ohio University have been put to an end. A successful colonization was conducted September 13 - October 5 by Associate Director of Expansion Ernie Cox, Director of Services Mike Moreland, and Chapter Consultant Jim Langlois. Fifty-five men were pledged who have a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 among the upperclassmen. The group includes fifteen varsity baseball, basketball, football and tennis players and two varsity cheerleaders.

Alumni are responsible for the chapter's refounding. including effort coordinator Mert Simons '55, Colony Advisor Dave Aiken '63, Financial Advisor Art Marinelli '61, Rush Advisor Jeff Lanman '84, Housing Advisor Brian Miller' and Pledge Advisor Gordon Brooks '83.

University of Nevada-Reno

A full colonization is being conducted at the University of Nevada-Reno by Associate Director of Expansion Ernie Cox and Chapter Consultant Steve Cox. Hopes are high for a very successful colonization as Pi Kappa Alpha enters its 44th state.

Upcoming spring colonizations include California State University - Long Beach and a return to the University of Colorado.

being poor."

Donald Worthington Revnolds (Alpha Nu '24) is president, chairman of the board and owner of Donrey Media Group. When Reynolds is asked to talk about the eighty years of his life, short quips and comments such as that are not uncommon.

He often admits that he is a vain old man but you can't hold that against him. Reynolds has led a very successful life and has worked hard for all he's got — and he has a lot.

Today, Don Reynolds' Donrey Media Group is the last singly owned major newspaper chain in the country, and by some estimates it has pushed its owner's net worth near the $1 billion mark. That's right. One BILLION dollars.

Last year alone Donrey Media Group harvested an estimated cash flow of $50 million on about $285 million in revenues. This comes from the company's fifty-four daily newspapers, fifty-five nondailies, seven radio stations, one TV station and 13,000 billboards.

What's Reynolds' secret?

"It doesn't come easy," Reynolds says. "It takes long hours and hard work. I've kept a busy schedule all my life and will continue to do so as long as the man upstairs permits.'

Even today, at eighty, Reynolds puts in fourteen hours a day at his office in Las Vegas.

A typical day for Reynolds begins at 6 a.m. with an hour work-out in his jacuzzi. This is one of the most important parts of his day because he has suffered from arthritis since he was thirty. This is a remarkable sidebar in the Don Reynolds story. Although many arthritis victims become severely crippled or even die from the disease, this has not stopped Reynolds from doing just about whatever he wants.

"I can't say that I have been able to avoid the disease totally," Reynolds points out, "I did have surgery to implant two artificial knees, a plastic shoulder joint and a plastic joint in my hand. So it has slowed me down somewhat."

After his work-out, and then breakfast, Reynolds reports that he is usually behind his desk by 9 a.m. Most of the morning is spent dictating letters and making phone calls. At noon he has lunch, followed by a two hour nap. After that it's back to his office, where he can be found until 8 or 9 p.m.

Reynolds' media empire stretches through fifteen states, and travel in his private plane is a large part of his life. With seven homes, located in Las Vegas, Fort Smith (Arkansas), Hilo and Kiailua-Kona (Hawaii), Tulsa (Oklahoma), New York City Tower) (Trump and Lake Tahoe, Reynolds never really has to "live out of his suitcase." Each of his homes is fully staffed, and they are always ready for his arrival when he happens to drop in.

Reynolds' 22,000 square foot house in Las Vegas is his primary residence, so he calls Nevada "home". When talking with the media mogul, one quickly learns that his life did not start out with a listing in "FORBES 400 Richest People in America", although he can be found there today.

For Don Reynolds, it began in a small town in Oklahoma where he peddled groceries door-to-door with his father. At the age of twelve he started selling newspapers on street corners.

"That was when I got my start in the newspaper business," Reynolds grins, "I used to buy the newspapers for half a cent and sell them for a penny. That's a hundred percent profit. Any time you can make that much return you can't be doing too bad.

"I knew it then, and I still do," he iokes

"The day that World War I ended I was selling newspapers on a street corner when an older gentleman walked over to me and asked what was on the front page. I shouted back, 'The war's over!" With that he reached into his pocket and flipped me a silver dollar, grabbed a paper and told me to keep the change," Reynolds recalls. "That was the day I realized that people will always be willing to pay for the news."

When it came time to select a college, Reynolds decided to pursue his journalism degree at the University of Missouri. That's where he pledged Pi Kappa Alpha. According to Reynolds, though, Pi Kappa Alpha was not his first choice.

"At first I pledged Sigma Phi Epsilon," Reynolds says. "In fact, I was pledged on the train from McBain, Oklahoma to Columbia, Missouri on my way to school.

"I'll never forget Clyde Smith, who was captain of the football team at Missouri, and a few of his Sig Ep brothers cornered me and a few other boys who were traveling to Columbia to begin our freshman year. In the course of the trip they rushed all of us, and when we stepped off the train in Columbia, we were all Sig Ep pledges."

As it turned out, Reynolds was forced to depledge his new fraternity a few weeks later.

"I had to work my way through school, so when I was not in class I was usually working," Reynolds says. "The Sig Eps had a mandatory work session at the chapter house every Saturday for the pledges and my work caused a conflict. I asked the pledge master if I could make up the time by myself, but he said I couldn't. So I depledged."

... and peruses a copy of PIKEBOY.

According to Reynolds, the Interfraternity Council's rule prohibited him from joining another fraternity right away. He waited a few months, and during that time he met a few of the Alpha Nu brothers. When he was able to pledge, he pledged Pi Kappa Alpha.

"Besides knowing a few of the guys, the Pike house was right across the street from the Journalism School," Reynolds remarked, "so not only did I like the members, but it was convenient - and during the Columbia winters that was the key.

Reynolds speaks very highly of his days as an undergraduate brother in Pi Kappa Alpha. He conveyed those sentiments in an emotional way to the participants of the 1986 National Convention in Boston as he accepted the Fraternity's Distinguished Achievement Award this past August.

"I love my Fraternity," Reynolds admits, "and I call it my Fraternity because I am very possessive of it. The reason is that Pi Kappa Alpha has done more for me than I can ever do for it. IIKA was the first to help me.

When the Fraternity was looking for someone to run for president of the Journalism School, they asked me if I could think of anybody. Without any hesitation I said, 'ME'," Reynolds recalls. "I ran, and with their help I won.

"Shortly after that I was named manager of the yearbook at Missouri, the SAVITAR. This position paid a salary that helped me with my education. Again the chapter was very supportive of me. This ultimately helped me to do well in the position.

After graduating from Missouri in 1926, Reynolds went to work with newspapers in Kansas City and Indianapolis. He was fired from both of these jobs.

"The first newspaper I worked for was the Kansas City Journal Post," says Reynolds, "I only lasted a few weeks. From there I went to work for the Indianapolis Times. Unfortunately, I didn't last too much longer there either."

When Reynolds is asked how those newspapers are doing today, he roars back, "They're both out of business!"

A day after getting fired from his second job, he called a newspaper in Austin, Texas and was offered a job which required selling advertising, writing stories and some copywriting. The job only paid $35 a week, which in those days wasn't great, but as Reynolds laughs, "It was more than I was making at the time.'

Bound and determined that he would not get fired from another job, Reynolds worked eighteen hours a day in order to be successful. It was there, he says, that he developed his philosophy on working long, hard hours.

"Despite my low salary I managed to save half of my earnings each week." Reynolds points out. "This is where Pi

By putting aside half of his weekly paycheck Reynolds was eventually able to save $300. Just about that same time he was offered the opportunity to purchase a piece of Capital Engraving, a photoengraving company.

"I needed $1,000," Reynolds says, "so I had to borrow the other $700 from a bank, not an easy task since I didn't have any collateral. I was able to prove to the bank manager that I saved half of my paycheck each week, and I promised that instead of putting it away I would give it to him.

"In the meantime, Capital Engraving offered me a job as manager which paid $10 more a week. I promised to give that to the bank. So that meant I would pay $27.50 a week on the loan.

"Luckily, the man said he liked me and would take the chance."

As it turned out, the plant was quite successful. Reynolds took his earnings and bought a small newspaper in Okmulgee, Oklahoma, the Okmulgee Daily Times, which he still owns today.

This marked the beginning of Donrey Media Group, and it was here that Reynolds vowed he would never work for anyone but himself. Even today, despite its size, Don Reynolds is still the sole shareholder of the company.

Don't think for a minute though that Donrey Media Group doesn't have a board of directors. It does. That doesn't mean, though, that Don Reynolds ever gets overruled. He gets approval for whatever he wants.

"My saying in board meetings is," Reynolds boasts, "All those in favor say 'aye' - those opposed, 'BYE-BYE'."

by Rev. Simon A. Simon

ith this issue we conclude the series on favorite sayings which I have found to be relevant and important to my life and hopefully to yours, to your chapter and to our Fraternity. To date, we have looked at the following sayings:

An ass can't look in the mirror and expect to see an apostle.

Don't wait for the angels to tie your shoelaces.

Good things don't get lost.

Our fourth and final saying has me puzzled. Not because I don't understand it; I do. What puzzles me is why I think it is significant enough to be included in this series. It is, admittedly, very personal. It doesn't relate to chapters or to our Fraternity as a group; only to each of you as individuals, whether you are an undergraduate or not. Maybe that is why it's included here; why I think it is so important. Because you are a Pike, I care for you, for what your quality of life is, for your value system, for how you see yourself. Just what is your worth? As a Pike? As a person? That is what this fourth saying is about, and the theme of this concluding article, God can't make a violin.

The concept was revealed most dramatically to me through the poetry of George Eliot, who wrote a piece in honor of Antonio Stradivari, the maker of the now priceless Stradivarius violins. You may remember that Stradivari did not play the violin; he only made violins, which is a lesson in itself. But his work was regarded during his lifetime as dull and humble, especially by other creative artists.

In the poem, Eliot tells of an artist belittling the work that Stradivari did. Stradivari answers:

When any master holds Twixt hand and chin a violin of mine,

He will be glad that Stradivari lived,

Made violins, and made them best of all. ... While God gives them skill. I give them violins to play upon, God choosing me to help him. ... If my hand slacked, I should rob God instead of violins.

... Tis God gives skill, But not without men's hands. He could not make Antonio Stradivari violins Without Antonio.

Have you ever felt your efforts were unnoticed? Or do you feel that others can do things so much more competently than you? Perhaps you compare yourself to others and feel diminished or inferior. You may even have the tendency to shrink back and withhold effort and thought because you feel others are more able.

What a loss to the Fraternity if this is true. What a short changing of your own life if in any way you diminish your importance or value. It is my belief and the thrust of this article that each of you has been brought into the Fraternity because of a great potential to become "violin makers". You are important to your chapter and to the Fraternity. What you think and feel is vital to our functioning. Just as God cannot make violins without the violin maker, so the Fraternity cannot reach its potential, fulfill its goals and make real its visions without you. That's how important each of you is. Give the Fraternity all you have. Eventually your life will expand and you will have an opportunity to affect a wider part of life. As this happens, remember -God can't make a violin. Only you and I can. And we must.

So we bring to a close this series of articles. I deeply feel that if we can take seriously the teachings of these sayings, our personal lives will be enhanced. Just as importantly, our Fraternity quality will soar. I remember reading an article about the Rolls Royce. A typical Rolls (if there is such a thing) has 80,000 parts. all hand assembled at the rate of only seventy-two per week. An owner of a Rolls was travelling through the Swiss Alps when his car broke a spring. There was no replacement in the entire country, so he called the factory in England. They said they would send help and immediately flew two mechanics and a plant executive to the scene in Switzerland. The Rolls was repaired. Months passed and no bill was received. The owner wrote the company for months, and finally called them. This was their response: "Sir, there is no such bill. We have no record of such repairs. You must know, sir, that no Rolls ever experiences a broken spring."

We are dealing here in immense pride in a product that is produced through a tremendous effort to be the best there is. We can learn something from the Rolls-Royce company. What a challenge to each of us to put into our lives and our Fraternity the best we have to offer! The results will more than justify the effort; life and the Fraternity will be better.

With God's blessings on you,

ISTORIC EVENTS are not uncommon in Boston. Among the more well known are the Boston Tea Party and Paul Revere's midnight ride. Now, for over 600 undergraduates and alumni of Pi Kappa Alpha, the Fraternity's fifty-fifth national convention can be added to that list.

Pi Kappa Alpha's National Convention convened in Boston at the Westin Hotel

Copley Place on August 9-12, 1986.

Many hours were spent by delegates locked in committee meetings and legislative sessions, helping to shape the future of the Fraternity. When business wasn't being conducted, there were plenty of opportunities for the brothers to socialize and share in the fellowship that the convention setting provided. It was a perfect time when business mixed well with pleasure.

"This was one of the largest conventions in recent history," said Allen Groves, executive director and coordinator of the Fraternity's biennial event. "At this convention, 151 of the Fraternity's 176 chapters were present."

Aside from the legislative work, constitutional changes and Supreme Council elections, delegates enjoyed many highlights at the Convention's four banquets.

A luncheon on Sunday, August 10th, honored the Fraternity's Memorial Foundation. This first banquet started the Convention off on an upbeat note.

During the Foundation luncheon all of the alumni awards were presented. Chapter Advisor of the Year Awards were presented by presiding National President William N. LaForge. The 1985 Advisor of the Year Award was presented to Robert McCool (Beta Alpha '76), chapter advisor for Penn State. The 1986 award went to Jenks Robertson (Epsilon '70), posthumously. Robertson was the chapter advisor for Virginia Tech.

Past National President Joseph J. Turner, Jr. presented the Fraternity's Loyalty Awards for 1985 and 1986. Receiving the award for 1985 was Robert Wolf (Alpha Kappa '48), long time advisor to the Pike chapter at Missouri-Rolla. The 1986 Loyalty Award was presented to past national president and current historian Dr. Jerome V. Reel, Jr. (Eta '57).

The Convention was honored to have United States Senator Thad Cochran (Gamma Iota '56) on hand to present the Fraternity's Distinguished Achievement Awards for 1985 and 1986. This award is presented annually to the alumnus of the Fraternity who has excelled in his area of endeavor. Cochran was the recipient of this award in 1976.

The 1985 award was presented to well-known TV news anchorman Ted Koppel (Alpha Chi'58) of ABC's NIGHTLINE. Koppel was not able to attend the Convention, but a video tape of an earlier presentation by Memorial Foundation President George Denton (Alpha Nu '43) and Foundation Trustee Howard Bell (Alpha Nu '46) to Brother Koppel was shown to the luncheon crowd on a twenty foot screen.

The 1986 Distinguished Achievement Award was then presented by Senator Cochran to Donald W. Reynolds (Alpha Nu '24). Reynolds is president of Donrey Media Group (see article on Reynolds in this issue).

The Powers Award was also presented at the Foundation luncheon. The Powers Award is given by the Memorial Foundation to the Fraternity's most outstanding senior undergraduate. It is named after former National Presidents J. Pike Powers, Jr. (Zeta '95) and David C. Powers (Zeta '24). The award was presented to Robert Hagenau (Theta Omega '85) by J. Pike Powers III (Zeta '24). Powers is the son of Pike Powers, Jr. and the brother of David C. Powers. This was the first time in the history of the award that a member of the Powers family was on hand to present the award.

The final presentation at the luncheon included the induction of the first class into the Order of West Range. The Order of West Range, established by the Foundation this year, was created to recognize those alumni who have become leaders in their professions. The first class of initiates included Senator Thad Cochran (Gamma Iota '56), Dr. Malcolm Todd (Beta Eta '31), Donald W. Reynolds (Alpha Nu '24), Franklin S. Forsberg (Alpha Tau '28), L.A. "Brooks" McCall (Mu '32) and Thomas K. McCraw (Gamma Iota '59).

On the night of August 10th, the participants of the Convention attended the National Presidents Banquet. This banquet honored National President LaForge.

LaForge gave a keynote address which outlined the Fraternity's achievements during his term in office. Past national presidents present at the banquet included Andy Knight (Alpha Phi '23), 1948-50; Garth Grissom (Alpha Omega '49), 1968-70; Dr. Jerome V. Reel, Jr. (Eta '57), 1974-76; Richard F. Ogle (Gamma Alpha '61), 1976-78; Dr. William R. Nester (Alpha Xi '47), 1978-80; Virgil McBroom (Eta Beta '25), 1980-82; and Joseph J. Turner (Eta Alpha '70) 1982-84.

On Tuesday, August 12th, the final day of the Convention, the much anticipated Memorial Headquarters luncheon was held. At this affair the Fraternity's undergraduates chapter recognition awards were presented, including the coveted Robert Adger Smythe Awards. This year fifteen chapters received Smythe Awards.

That evening, the Convention was capped off with the traditional National Officers Banquet. All of the national officers were resplendent in white dinner jacket attire, with garnet and gold sashes.

When it was all over, much work had been accomplished and many new friends were made. A new Supreme Council was elected, headed by National President Gary Menchhofer (Alpha Xi '65), and the groundwork for the next two years had been laid. Overall, everyone left Boston with a renewed feeling for Pi Kappa Alpha to carry back to their chapters and alumni associations across the country.

Constitutional Changes —

A T the 1986 Boston Convention, delegates enacted some significant changes in the Fraternity's Constitution and Laws. A full account of these proceedings will be available later this year in the confidential DAGGER & KEY, but here is a brief summary of the Convention's most significant actions, by committee.

FINANCE

- ★ All new initiates will pay an initiation fee of $112, up from the previous figure of $90. This increase is effective for all those men reported to the Memorial Headquarters as pledged after August 12, 1986.
- * The method by which carryover pledge fees are calculated was altered to provide for a more workable method of administration.
- Alumni Association annual dues were increased from $25 to $50 and made payable by July 1 of each year.

CONSTITUTION

- ★ All Constitutional references to a national women's auxiliary were deleted. Please note that Little Sister charters and certificates will no longer be available from the Memorial Headquarters.
- * Regional presidents were authorized to personally conduct expulsion trials, with final decisions still being retained by the Supreme Council.
- ★ The Convention ratified the new procedure for the collection of annual dues, which will be payable again this year in two installments due October 15 and February 15. The dollar amount remains unchanged, $30 per student member.
- ★ University recognition requirements for groups desiring to become Pi Kappa Alpha colonies were made less restric- tive, allowing the Supreme Council greater discretion in implementing its aggreessive new expansion policy.

- * All chapters with an outstanding general fund balance will now be prohibited from voting or receiving awards at a Regional Leadership Conference.
- Convention mileage reimbursements will be established by the Supreme Council for all future Conventions.

SCHOLARSHIP

- Consistently substandard academic performance will now be grounds for expulsion.
- * The Convention urged the adoption of a new Supreme Council policy on academic integrity.

RITUAL

- * A small number of changes were made to the Ritual of the Fraternity. All chapters will be notified of these changes.
- ★ Convention delegates recommended to the Supreme Council that a committee be appointed to investigate the possibilities for a Pi Kappa Alpha national symbol. Such possibilities would be submitted to the Ritual Committee at the 1988 Convention

CHARTER REVOCATIONS

* The National Convention officially revoked the charters of Gamma Zeta, Gamma Pi, Zeta Iota, Zeta Upsilon, Eta Eta, Eta Xi, Eta Omega and Theta Iota chapters. Convention action followed Supreme Council suspension of these charters.

RESOLUTIONS

Convention delegates urged the emphasis of dry rush programming at the Regional Leadership Conferences.

- The Memorial Headquarters plans for a promotional video tape were applauded and encouraged.
- Chapters were urged to make education regarding rush techniques an integral part of their pledge education programs.
- An increasing emphasis on academic excellence during the Regional Leadership Conferences was encouraged by the National Convention.
- * Six areas of programming development were highlighted for enhancement using new funds generated by the initiation fee increase. These six areas of programming development are the 1987 Officers' Leadership Academy Reserve, the 1988 National Convention Reserve, Memorial Foundation assistance, the Expansion Program, the Video Tape Program and new communications equipment.
- * All Pi Kappa Alpha chapters were encouraged to stress the implications of a life-long commitment to the Fraternity in their pledge education programs.
- ★ Under two separate resolutions, the Fraternity's alumni who participated in Convention and the undergraduates from Gamma Mu and Theta Mu were recognized for outstanding work in preparing for the 1986 National Convention. Specially congratulated alumni were the Supreme Council, the Memorial Headquarters Staff, the Boston Alumni Association and the Boston Steering Committee.
- * The Convention expressed its unanimous support and encouragement for all future expansion efforts "with similar standards of prospective chapter quality".

It's Destiny Pi Kappa Alpha's Twenty-fifth National President

On August 12, 1986 at the Fraternity's National Convention, Gary E. Menchhofer (Alpha Xi '64) was elected Pi Kappa Alpha's twenty-fifth national president. He resides in Cincinnati, Ohio with his wife Laura and is the father of two children, Troy and Becky. Professionally, Menchhofer is president of Mench Realtors. The following is an interview with IIKA's newest national president.

Q.: Who is Gary Menchhofer?

A .: A true blue PiKA who was initiated twentyone years ago and had the interest of the Fraternitydeeplyrooted in his heart. I'm someone who has received a lot from the Fraternity over the years and has had the opportunity to grow in various leadership positions. Now I'm trying to give as much as I received back to Pi Kappa Alpha through our undergraduates. I suppose I'm a traditionalist, also, who has learned certain values from the Fraternity that I hope will always be maintained. Finally, I think I'm a straight-forward, honest and hard working person who is willing to work long hours to be the very best at anything I attempt to do.

Q.: When and where did you join Pi Kappa Alpha?

A.: I pledged Alpha Xi chapter at the University of Cincinnati in the fall of 1964 and I was initiated in the spring of 1965.

Q.: What offices have you held since you were initiated into the Fraternity?

A.: The first offices I held at Alpha Xi were those of social chairman and intramural chairman as a sophomore. By the end of my sophomore year I was elected secretary, and then in my junior year, treasurer and president of the chapter. Upon graduation I spent three years in the service and upon returning to Cincinnati in 1972 I found the chapter was having some rough times. Our membership was at an all time low. So pledge brother Denis Cleeter and I went back in and started rebuilding the chapter from a chapter advisory level. In 1975 I was elected the president of Southland Hall Association and helped to launch a very successful capital fund drive for the chapter house renovation. In 1978 I received a call from Pat Halloran, then executive director of IIKA, telling me there was an opening for the Great Lakes regional president. I accepted, and served in that capacity until 1980 when I was elected vice president of the Supreme Council at the New Orleans Convention. I was reelected in 1982 at the Washington, D.C. Convention, and most recently was elected national president at the Boston Convention this past August.

Q.: Did you go to Boston with the intention of seeking the Fraternity's highest office?

A.: Yes and no. I'm not the kind of person who seeks a position. I believe the position seeks the person, and my belief in my destiny . . . my senses . . . and lets say the training, in past leadership roles . . . gave me the sense of preparedness to be able to do the job as national president if indeed I did receive the nomination. I'm the type of person who doesn't say no when it comes time to giving service back to something that's been such a large part of my life. So, therefore, when the nomination was there, I felt a sense of obligation and duty to accept. I would like to believe that our destinies were such that Gary Menchhofer and the national presidency were seeing eye to eye at that time.

Q.: How do you see the state of Pi Kappa Alpha today?

A.: Our Fraternity and brotherhood serve as a light shining the way for the Greek community. Many are emulating us. This is an excellent time for the resurgence of Greek life on most campuses around the country. There is tremendous interest among young college men who are looking for an experience involving more than just a college degree. There's an unbelievable sense of enthusiasm happening in our chapters. It's probably even greater than what I experienced back in the middle sixties as an undergraduate when it was an excellent time for fraternity growth. And being on the tail end of that tidal wave, it's my belief that this one's even greater. This renewed energy and enthusiasm that I'm witnessing in visits to the chapters and regional conferences around the country leaves me more invigorated and excited for Pi Kappa Alpha and what it teaches our young people.

Q.: What do you consider to be your top three long term goals?

A.: A general overall goal is to insure that Pi Kappa Alpha grows to be her very best and is viewed by the Greek community as a leader and receives the highest respect from our peers in the fraternity system.

This will happen faster if we can reach our second goal over the next few years and ensure that the funding is there for scholastic, leadership, and educational programs that will maintain our prominence in these areas.

In addition, we need to generate enough funds to be able to help our chapters secure competitive housing situations on their campuses. Some of our chapters, which are excellent, do not have competitive housing. The Fraternity needs to improve our physical plant images wherever possible and it's going to take a lot of dollars from alumni to do that. And as a national organization we need to provide the appropriate vehicle, and publicize it well, to raise enough funds to assist our chapters. I am confident that enough money will be raised to build the new Memorial Headquarters as well as to endow all the scholarships and programs that we need. However, where we're hurting, and where we can have a greater appeal to our alumni, is to have a program which will allow significant contributions that will go directly to their chapters. I know we would experience tremendous results with this type of fund raising program. It's my guess that less than 10% of our chapter houses are competitive on the campuses against some of the other fraternities like Sigma Chi or SAE. These fraternities have been emphasizing physical plants for years. I can't wait for us to be more competitive and help our chapters in this area.

My third goal involves our pledge education. If we're going to be, and remain, one of the strongest fraternities through this century, we must somehow, as the Betas and Sigma Chis do very well in their pledge programs, make a young man realize that the Fraternity is a lifelong obligation. It's a commitment that you shouldn't take lightly. It's something that does not stop at graduation. If we're going to be strong and provide programs for more young college men, we're going to need the dollars to do that. We need to get that across to our membership, and that begins in the pledge education program. This goal is to make sure that this idea starts happening. I think that's why Pi Kappa Alpha has always struggled in annual alumni giving over the years. It has been improving greatly, but we have a long way to go.

I come from a chapter that always had strong bonds of lifetime friendship. If you'll look at the giving rolls of the Annual Fund, you'll see that Alpha Xi has always been one of the strongest in total number of givers to the National Fraternity, and I believe there's a reason for it. It's a general feeling that we have a commitment, an obligation, and we need to get that across to all of our pledges when they become initiated so that they will remember.

The Betas have done it for years. I have a younger brother who's a Beta; he feels that he is obligated and committed to give whatever he can annually to Beta Theta Pi. It may be $5, it may be $50, but he says that it was ingrained into him, through his training. It doesn't end at graduation. Pi Kappa Alpha's future prosperity depends upon all of us addressing this issue.

Q.: Individually, what do you believe each of your vice presidents will bring with him to the Council? First, Ed Pease?

A.: Ed Pease brings a sensitivity for the chapters because of his first love as a chapter advisor. He is a man who always seeks peaceful solutions to problems. He's a sensitive guy, and that's important to the Council's well-roundedness. Not to mention that Ed's leadership experience includes being a Memorial Headquarters staff member and a state senator. A long list of leadership follows him. I'm excited that he's on board for a second term.

Q.: Tommy Turner?

A.: Tommy brings continuity and experience — for four years we served together when he was legal counsel and now he's serving his second term as an elected vice president. He is an effective leader and his legal expertise and logical point of view will complement the Supreme Council's decision making process. When we get too serious on critical issues, he adds a sense of levity and brings us back to reality, keeping the Council balanced in that respect.

Q.: Jerry Askew?

A.: Jerry brings the element of academics from the educator's viewpoint. I guess it's been six years since we've had someone on the Council who is a top university administrator. We need his perspective to help us cover the broader issues which involve the welfare of universities and how fraternities intertwine and are involved with them. I know of no one who has a greater love for Pi Kappa Alpha!

Q.: Bill Shaw?

A.: Bill Shaw brings us a perspective from the northwest and western regions of the country. I'm certain our brothers far from Memphis both share some viewpoints with National and have some differing views. With the majority of the Fraternity's future expansion geared toward that part of the country, it is very valuable to have his insight and leadership to bridge potential gaps. Bill is a very solid, sensible man who is concerned for the Fraternity. I know his heart's in the right place.

Q.: Looking at the composition of your Council, where do you see IIKA in 1988?

A.: With the decisions that need to be made affecting areas of insurance and legal liabilities, I am confident that with the background of the board we will make the best decisions in the Greek system. It is my hope and belief that the Fraternity will progress even more than it has under previous Councils because of the varied backgrounds we have and the tough decisions we are going to have to make in the next few months. Personally, I wish we didn't have to make these decisions, but it's our destiny to face these issues. It's Jerry's... Bill's... Tommy's... Ed's, and mine. I guess that's why we were chosen to be in these positions. Also, I feel that with the very capable leadership we have in Ray Orians and the quality of our Fraternity's professional staff, we can't help but be the very best in 1988. I'm not sure our success will rest entirely with the decisions that the Council makes, but rather with what Ray Orians and his staff do seven days a week. Between the two, I think we'll have the very best.

Q.: What type of message would you like to deliver to the alumni?

A.: The same as to the undergraduates. I don't look upon myself any differently than I look upon our youngest pledge. I feel like I'm still twenty-one years old, loving something that loves back through the Pi Kappa Alpha experience. Make that commitment to the Fraternity so that we can be the very best. Better yet, make the commitment to REPRESENT THE BEST.

Q.: How do you want history to remember Gary Menchhofer as national president?

A.: I would hope that history would remember me as trying to reach the highest standards that God-given talent will allow me to achieve. I know I'm not the most intelligent person, or the most articulate, but I am probably one of the hardest working guys you'll ever meet in your life. I don't always work smart, but I guarantee you, sooner or later my hard work pays dividends. By trying again and again, together, you and I are going to make some positive contributions and share a very positive Fraternity experience. So I would hope that my peers would remember me as that kind of leader for Pi Kappa Alpha.

Convention elects new Supreme Council

In addition to electing Gary Menchhofer as national president, the Boston Convention also brought forth a new Supreme Council. Thomas J. Turner (Epsilon Gamma'67) and Edward A. Pease (Delta Xi'71) were elected to second terms as national vice presidents. Jerry W. Askew (Tau'73) and William R. Shaw (Alpha Tau'53) were also elected to the 1986-88 Supreme Council.

The Supreme Council appointed Council.

The Supreme Council appointed Thomas A. Dempsey (Theta Eta '84) and J. Thornton Kirby (Alpha '84) to one year terms as undergraduate national vice presidents. Daniel F. McGehee (Epsilon Iota '63) was reappointed to his second two-year term as national legal counsel. In addition to McGehee, William N. LaForge (Zeta Beta '69), immediate past national president, will also serve as a non-voting member of the Supreme Council.

Turner is a partner with the law firm of Turner & Medina in Lubbock, Texas. He has served on the Supreme Council for six years, first as national legal counsel and, for the past two years, as national vice president. His first appointment to the Supreme Council in 1980 followed three years of service as Lone Star regional president.

Pease is an Indiana State senator and is chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. He is employed by Indiana State University as assistant to the president for legal affairs and is also a counsel with Thomas & Thomas, Attorneys. Pease was first elected to the Supreme Council as a national vice president in 1984, following his selection as chapter advisor of the year in 1983. Pease still guides the highly successful Theta Omicron chapter at Indiana State as their chapter advisor.

Askew works as the dean of students at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville. He has served on Pi Kappa Alpha's Educational Advisory Committee since 1983, and he is a past regional president and former full time staff member. This is Askew's second term on the Supreme Council; he served as undergraduate national vice president in Shaw works as the public affairs director for Utah Power and Light. In 1985 he was appointed Rockies regional president following four years of service on the National Educational Commission. Shaw has also worked as chapter advisor to both Gamma Epsilon and Alpha Tau chapters.

Dempsey is a senior at Loyola-Marymount University in Los Angeles, California. He is a past SMC of Theta Eta chapter and served that chapter for three terms as rush chairman. Dempsey currently holds the position of IFC president and leads a Student Senate committee as its chairman.

Kirby is a senior at the University of Virginia and currently serves Alpha chapter as SMC. He is also a past rush chairman for Alpha. Kirby has been named an Honor Educator by the University of Virginia Honor Committee and served on both the Interfraternity Council Faculty Relations Committee and the Presidential Advisory Committee on registration.

McGehee works as an attorney in Knoxville, Tennessee with the firm of McGehee, Grubb & Currier. He is president of the Optimist Club of Knoxville and serves on the Board of Trustees of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. He has served since 1984 as national legal counsel on the Supreme Council LaForge currently works in Washington, D.C. as chief legislative counsel to U.S. Senator Thad Cochran (Gamma Iota '56) of Mississippi.

Memorial Headquarters Sold

Memorial Foundation President George W. Denton announces sale.

PIKAPPA ALPHA Memorial Foundation President George W. Denton announced on Friday, October 17, 1986, that after several months of negotiations an agreement to sell the Memorial Headquarters to Rhodes College had been reached.

"After a thorough study of the current and future needs of both the Fraternity and the Foundation, the trustees of the Memorial Foundation voted unanimously to accept the most recent offer by Rhodes College officials to purchase the Fraternity's national office and museum facility," Denton commented.

The offer from Rhodes College came in the wake of the Foundation's plans to construct an administrative wing to the Memorial Headquarters.

"It's no secret that during the past fifteen years the Foundation has looked at three different sets of plans which called for an addition to the existing building," Executive Vice President Raymond L. Orians said.

"The sale to Rhodes College will provide the financial resources to construct a larger building on more land.

"Since the present Headquarters was constructed in 1954, Pi Kappa Alpha has grown from 109 chapters, 4,000 undergraduates and 50,000 alumni members to 178 chapters, over 12,000 undergraduates and 100,000 alumni members. Along with this increase in the size of the Fraternity there has been a need for a larger staff, and during the last thirty-two years the staff has grown from five to twenty-five.

"The increase in staff has caused several reorganizations of space within the Memorial Headquarters, and each time offices were reorganized museum space was sacrificed. It's to the point where there is only one room in the building which displays the Fraternity's heritage. Many artifacts and memorabilia representing the various eras of the Fraternity's 118 years are now stored away in boxes and hidden from public view," Orians pointed out.

According to Denton the sale of the building sparked the Foundation to undertake another careful study of possible alternative cities for the relocation of the Memorial Headquarters. However, after comparing other cities to Memphis the trustees decided that Memphis will remain the home of the Fraternity's national operation.

"It's our goal to maintain a traditional appearance with the exterior of the new building," Denton said. "We also intend to relocate as many areas of the current building as possible. Areas such as the Harvey T. Newell Library, the Garnet & Gold Board Room, Founders' Hallway and the Junior Founders' Room will be rededicated in the new Headquarters.

"It should also go without saying that the name of the building will remain the Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Headquarters, in honor of those brothers who paid the ultimate price for our country so that America would remain free for all of us today," Denton said.

Under the agreement with Rhodes, Pi Kappa Alpha will remain in the current building until March 1, 1988.

Memorial Foundation announces changes in trustee ranks

Two Memorial Foundation trustees retired, two were elected to their first terms, and another was reelected for a second term at the Memorial Foundation's annual meeting, held this year in Boston, concurrent with the National Convention.

Stepping down from the Board of Trustees are W. Michael House (Upsilon '65) and Congressman Pat Roberts (Alpha Omega '54). House served two terms on the Board of Trustees and is a past Foundation secretary. He works in Washington, D.C. as administrative assistant to U.S. Senator Howell Heflin of Alabama. Roberts retires after having served a one year term on the Board of Trustees. He was first elected to Congress in 1980 and has just begun his fourth term in the U.S. House of Representatives as a member of the 100th Congress.

Replacing House and Roberts are Joseph R. Brown (Beta Gamma '50) and John L. Lisher (Delta Xi '71). Both men have impressive records of leadership with the National Fraternity. Brown has previously served as a housing commissioner. He is an engineer and product manager with Black and Vatch Consulting Engineers in Kansas City, Missouri. Lisher has been a dedicated and important figure in the National Fraternity for many years, serving as Midwest regional president. He is a partner with the law firm of Osborn, Hiner & Lisher in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Jack E. Reich (Beta Phi '29) was first elected to the Memorial Foundation Board of Trustees last year, to fulfill the unexpired term of Raymond P. Wagner (Gamma Rho '50). At the August meeting Reich was elected to another term. He is chairman and chief executive officer of American United Life, one of the country's largest and most successful insurance companies.

Brown, Lisher and Reich have been elected to serve through 1990.

Gifts

The following is a list of donors to last year's 1985-86 Memorial Foundation's Annual Fund. The generous gifts from these alumni were received between June 5, 1986 and August 1, 1986. Due to deadlines for the SHIELD & DIAMOND September issue, these alumni were not included in the Foundation's Annual Report section.

Advertising executive appreciates Pike push

LONGTIME encouragement from a girl named Sue and longago advice from Fraternity brothers in the Pi Kappa Alpha house at Fayetteville, Arkansas had a lot to do with J. Sam Smith (Alpha Zeta '57) being where he is today, said the low-key advertising and public relations professional who is president of Smith & Associates in Little Rock, Arkansas.

The agency that Smith founded twelve years ago had 1985 billings of $2.5 million for client services, The framed professional awards that adorn the agency's walls are a mute testament to the talents of its ten-member staff.

"There was definitely no preconception on my part that in 1986 I would be on the seventeenth floor of the Tower Building as president of an advertising and public relations firm," Smith said, 'It just began to take shape as I moved through college. When I graduated from high school, I didn't necessarily think that I wanted to go into journalism or advertising and public relations. Like a lot of kids without too much direction, I felt to be successful you had to be a doctor or a lawyer or an engineer.

"The first thing I did (at the University of Arkansas-Fayetteville) was to pledge the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity and that was really a pivotal thing from the standpoint of my later vocation in life. One of the things fraternities then did, and I presume they still do, is say, Young man, you're going over on campus and do something. What do you like to do?"

Smith said he'd like to write. So the fraternity brothers ordered him to head for the journalism department's Hill Hall, where he began writing for the sports staff of the Arkansas Traveler, the campus daily. "I enjoyed that," Smith said, "so the second year I was here I moved over to the news staff and became one of the editors. By his senior year, he'd made editor-in-chief.

About that same time, another major event happened that was destined to influence his career the meeting of his future wife, Sue.

"Sue brought to me the sense of the urgency of succeeding in making something out of my life," Smith recalls, "and it's really been the biggest part of what I've been able to accomplish. It's always been there as a motivating force for

From 1960-62, he worked for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s public relations department in Rock. "It was a good experience which kind of refined managerial skills and my ability to deal with the news media and other key influence groups,' said Smith. From 1962-66, he served as a member of the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce staff.

"I began to do a lot of things through the chamber's public relations committee that brought me into contact with advertising agencies," he said, "and as I became more familiar with what those agencies were doing, that intruigued me.

"After a lot of consideration, I left the chamber and went to work with Wayne Crawford, a cofounder of the Cranford/Johnson (now Cranford Johnson Robinson & Associates) agency, and worked there for about five years (from 1966-70)," Smith said. "My job then was quite different from what you see in an agency of his size today. I wore about five hats that the account executive doesn't generally wear today." He bought space for his clients' newspaper, radio and television ads. He also wrote copy for many of those ads, ordered type and handled public relations when needed.

In 1970, Smith opened Reynold's Metals Co.'s regional PR office at Little Rock. In 1973, Smith went back to agency work as a partner with Leavitt, Lankford & Smith, and in 1974 he founded and became senior partner of Smith Jennings & Kane. In 1984 the name was changed to Smith & Associates.

Rekindling Old Friendships

When a young man joins Pi Kappa Alpha, there's no guarantee he'll grow up to become a United States Senator. But don't tell Thad Cochran that.

"I think that some of my brothers in the Fraternity put Pi Kappa Alpha in perspective for me when one said, some years after graduation, 'You know, I think the most important thing I did at Ole Miss was to work hard in the Fraternity.' And this was a person who had served as vice-president of the Student Body, had been in the Campus Hall of Fame and later became a Rhodes Scholar. But thinking back on his experience, he thought that the most meaningful activities at the University had been in the Fraternity.

And I think that is true for many of us who have the perspective of some experience and can look back at what we did and what we learned while we were in college. As for me, I agree that some of the most helpful lessons and important things I did were within the Fraternity and in the Fraternity experience.

Whether it equipped you to get along with your fellow officers in the board room or to understand human nature a little bit, learning lessons in leadership helped; how to be a leader, how not to try to dominate and be a demagogue, but to set examples, to encourage the Fraternity to do things that build morale, to help form a feeling of togetherness, of spirit, of accomplishment. All of these things are important lessons and can really help start you out in the right direction."

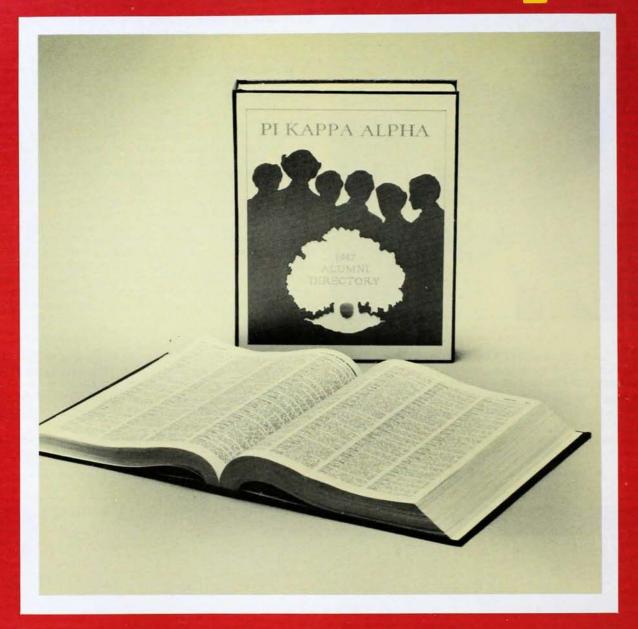

Thad Cochran joined Pi Kappa Alpha at the University of Mississippi in 1956, and learned leadership skills that have helped him reach his current position as the United States Senator for Mississippi. That is why he supports the Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Foundation.

Through the generous support of alumni gifts, the Memorial Foundation provides funding for the Officers' Leadership Academy, the Regional Leadership Conferences, the Chapter Presidents' Conference and many other educational programs which provide PiKA's undergraduates with the skills necessary to succeed in our society.

Join Brother Cochran in insuring that the leaders of our chapters today have the opportunity to become the leaders of our country tomorrow. Support the Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Foundations' Annual Fund today with your tax deductible gift.

Rekindling Old Friendships

Have you rekindled yours?

Publication of the 1987 Alumni Directory by the Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Foundation is already well underway. The new edition will be available by May of 1987.

Since September, each IIKA alumnus has received two mailings, giving him the opportunity to update his records at the Memorial Headquarters, and also the chance to reserve a copy of the Directory in his name through a gift to the Foundation's Annual Fund.

If you haven't returned the questionnaire and reserved your copy of this magnificent volume, do so today!

Remember, the Directory is published only every five years. Supply is based upon those Directories secured with a gift to the Annual Fund.
