UPDATE

PI KAPPA ALPHA's chapter at Tyler Junior College and colony at Michigan State have been closed, and the University of Oklahoma chapter has been placed under alumni receivership.

Theta Iota (Tyler Junior College) was suspended by a unanimous vote of the Supreme Council at their most recent meeting. Formal revocation of the chapter's charter should take place at the National Convention this August. The suspension follows many years of trouble at Theta Iota.

The Supreme Council's action signals an increasing intolerance of chapter General Fund delinquencies. Theta Iota's large and growing General Fund balance played centrally in Supreme Council discussions.

Various additional chapter difficulties contributed to their decision. Theta Iota has been negligent in the reporting of pledgings and initiations, an obligation which most chapters consider among the most basic and simple elements of chapter operation. The chapter further failed by not sending anyone to the recent Lone Star Regional Conference. But perhaps most importantly, the chapter's overall size has continually been below the minimum required under Supreme Council Policy #18: Minimum Chapter Size. Theta Iota's small size severely restricted the chapter's ability to maintain financial and programming stability.

The Supreme Council also suspended

Censorship Repugnant

Dear Editor,

The cover of the March 1986 issue of SHIELD & DIAMOND might more accurately have been entitled, "Tobacco Advertising: American Medical Association vs. The First Amendment". Advertisers would not be the only losers if the AMA has its way and censors the existing forms of tobacco advertising. Cigarettes are completely legal, and as such are protected by the free speech guarantees of the First Amendment. Thank goodness that freedom of speech is an absolute right and not subject to the whims of pressure groups!

In supporting the AMA's call for censorship, Dr. Malcolm C. Todd states that his primary goal is to reduce cigarette consumption. But, as American Advertising Federation President Howard Bell notes in his opposing article, there is absolutely no evidence that cigarette ad bans in other countries have worked to reduce tobacco smoking. As more than one legal scholar opposing the AMA on this issue has noted, the answer to speech you don't like is speech that responds, not censorship.

The interview with Dr. Todd states that he would "not choose to interfere with the free exercise of personal speech in the event the AMA's proposal is found to conflict with that right." If this is truly the case, then Dr. Todd should be informed that the jury is already in. The American Civil Liberties Union and other prominent First Amendment defenders already have passed judgement on the AMA's call for the wholesale censorship of a legal industry. Their verdict: The First Amendment should not go under the knife. As for me, I will continue to seek out physicians for medical advice and leave questions of the law to lawyers.

Alumni Appreciated

Dear Editor,

Regarding the article on Alpha Zeta in the March issue of the SHIELD & DIAMOND, allow me to offer a correction. In addition to the brothers listed, the Alumni Receivership Board also includes Dathan Gaskill ('75), Ross Mallioux ('81), and Blake Schultz ('46). Several other dedicated alumni are serving in an ex-officio, special project capacity.

The silver lining to Alpha Zeta's cloud has been a tremendous resurgence in alumni interest and support for our chapter. Currently, well over one hundred alums have stepped forward to offer both financial and moral support in this most critical time for Alpha Zeta. As we approach our 85th anniversary on the University of Arkansas campus in 1989, our goal is to be the Number ONE chapter in America. I believe we can accomplish this goal and bring Alpha Zeta back to the position of leadership we have enjoyed in the past.

Faternally,

recognition of Pi Kappa Alpha's colony at Michigan State University. The group had begun as a local fraternity in 1984 and was colonized by Pi Kappa Alpha in November of that year. The colony experienced problems in recruitment, member retention, chapter management and finances. Each of these factors contributed to the Supreme Council decision.

The suspension of the colony's recognition is a disappointment for all of Pi Kappa Alpha, but the colony's inability to meet goals and objectives over the last two years left the Supreme Council little alternative.

Also at their February meeting, the Supreme Council placed Beta Omicron (Oklahoma) under Alumni Receivership. The once strong chapter has experienced financial and membership recruitment problems.

An Alumni Receivership Board composed of Beta Omicron alumni has been appointed. Under the Fraternity's Alumni Receivership Program, local Pi Kappa Alpha alumni exert direct control over chapter operations. Beta Omicron's Alumni Receivership Board includes Craig Combs ('75), Jim Feighney ('61), Tim Kenney ('74) and Rick Maxwell ('74). Mr. Leonard Ball ('58) will serve as Chairman of the Receivership Board. Financial assistance is being provided by Gary Curtis ('75), Dave Eckart ('75) and Mark McClintock ('75). These men will aid the undergraduates in rush, keep a watchful eye on finances and work to strengthen Beta Omicron's alumni support base. Area or chapter alumni interested in providing assistance should contact Leonard Ball, P.O. Box 1845, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma 73101.

1986-87 Consultants Hired

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT Raymond L. Orians has announced the hiring of five new Chapter Consultants for the 1986-87 academic year.

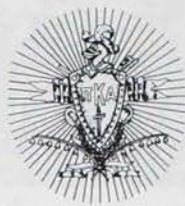

Joining the staff will be Daniel W. Corah from Epsilon Theta Chapter at Colorado State University. While at CSU, Dan earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration, emphasizing real estate. He was a member of the rechartering group of Epsilon Theta chapter, and went on to be SMC of the 100 man chapter. He also served as house chairman and publications chairman. Dan's activities on campus included membership in Order of Omega and on the varsity lacrosse team.

1986-87 CHAPTER CONSULTANTS

From Alpha Phi chapter at Iowa State University comes Steven Howard Cox. As a member of Alpha Phi chapter, Steve served as SMC and formal rush chairman. He received numerous awards from the chapter including Man of the Year in 1985. He was also very active on campus. In 1985 he was selected senior class executive vice president, and for two years he worked as the IFC formal rush chairman. Steve was also an active part of Iowa State's College Republicans, Greek Week central committee, Homecoming central committee, and Campus Chest Committee.

Kevin G. Knaus joins the staff following his recent graduation from Kansas State University. Kevin earned a double degree in Psychology and Journalism. He worked as Alpha Omega's IMC, rush chairman, public relations chairman and social chairman. On campus he was active in numerous leadership roles including the Student Senate, vice president of the Pre-Law Club and chairman of Dry Rush Task Force. He is a member of Order of Omega and Psi Chi honoraries.

L. James Langlois, from Beta Nu chapter at Oregon State University, will join the Memorial Headquarters staff following his internship with NBC-TV in southern California. Jim's area of study was Broadcasting/Speech & Communications. Jim is a former SMC of Beta Nu chapter; he also served as IMC, rush chairman and pledge educator. While at Oregon State, Jim received the Arland B. Cummings Award as an outstanding underclassman and the C.S. Johnson Award, given to the outstanding member of his chapter. He is also a member of Order of Omega.

Mark Swanson, an initiate of Epsilon Gamma chapter and a graduate of Texas Tech University, also joins the staff. Mark graduated in 1985 from the Mechanized Agriculture program, where he specialized in Agricultural Business. Mark was active in his chapter and on campus. He served as SMC, IMC, SC and IFC representative for Epsilon Gamma. He served as treasurer of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers and secretary of the Mechanized Agriculture Club. In 1985 Mark received the John K. Sosnowy Leadership Scholarship from the Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Foundation.

On Campus

Pikes strive for success in rush and at sports.

GAMMA (William & Mary) reports the pledging of thirty-six outstanding young men. This is the second highest annual total in the chapter's history. Pi Kappa Alpha surpassed every fraternity on campus. SMC Bryan Grisso points out, "After initiation we will have a current membership of 115 brothers; the most ever in the chapter's 115 years of existence."

The FLAT HAT, William & Mary's prestigious student newspaper, has selected Brother Chris Foote as its 1986-87 Editor. Brother Scott Slattery serves as President of that campus' Mortar Board, the senior honor society. Brothers Adam Anthony and David Eichinger have been selected by their peers to serve on the Honor Council for the coming year.

OMICRON (Richmond) continues to excel in athletics and community service. MS Joel Getis reports, "Our lead in the all around intramural sports scoreboard is increasing almost daily. Brother Rob Sturm captured the individual racquetball championship and Brother Rich Cheadle won the badminton championship. In team sports, both our A and B volleyball teams remain undefeated throughout the season and met in the championship game, with the A team emerging as the victor." Although Omicron is well known in the Richmond community for their annual Roll-A-Thon fundraiser for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, three chapter members recently participated in a more unusual community service.

Mark Ambrozy, Pat Forde and SMC John Galateria were honored in certificate presentations attended by the campus chief of police, faculty members and a representative of the dean's office for assisting in the capture of a would-be rapist on the Richmond campus.

A rejuvenated ALPHA LAMBDA (Georgetown College) recently took that campus' largest pledge class. All fifteen men were initiated.

Leadership and scholarship are also boasting points for the chapter. The IFC presidency is now in Pi Kappa Alpha hands, and the chapter maintains the highest fraternity GPA as well as the highest pledge class GPA.

Their next project? An extensive formal room refurbishing. The chapter has already completed the informal room and lobby of their chapter house. Nearly $5,000 in alumni donations have been collected, but the chapter emphasizes that more money is needed. Interested alumni should contact Gary Billiter ('72), 132 Sunset Drive, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

ALPHA OMEGA (Kansas State) has captured league championships in football, volleyball and basketball this year. The chapter's volleyball team went on to win the All Fraternity Championship.

BETA GAMMA (Kansas) is sponsoring Pike Little Sister Jeri Cole in the 1986 Miss Kansas/USA Beauty Pageant. Pike calendar model Sally Bittman is likewise participating in the pageant. Also noteworthy: the chapter's fall pledges emerged as pledge class basketball champions — the second year in a row that Pike pledges have won the tournament.

What weighs twenty-five pounds, is made from fiberglass and fake fur, and — in Wisconsin, at least — has a higher recognition factor than Ronald McDonald? The answer: The University of Wisconsin's Bucky Badger. This year BETA XI (Wisconsin) Brother Charlie Stone will be one of the men inside the mascot.

Bucky appears at all major UW sports events, but also visits hospitals and schools and appears in parades throughout the state.

"The costume weighs twenty-five, thirty pounds all together," says Stone. "I never had a weight problem until I became Bucky — now I can't keep the weight on."

It's also dark and hard to see. The "Bucky hole" in the mouth of the head provides tunnel vision and little else. Stone remembers being pursued by a drunken fan of the opposing team. "This guy is chasing me all over the sidelines, and I can't see well enough to get away from him. I know he's going to punch me, and he's got a clear shot at my whole body. Suddenly I hear this ting! He could have punched me anywhere, but he had to punch Bucky in the face. He hit the fiberglass helmet and broke his hand."

All things considered, Stone says he enjoys his job. "It's a wonderful thing," he says, "and a lot of fun."

GAMMA THETA (Mississippi State) continues to dominate intramurals at Mississippi State University. The Pikes recently won the MSU All-School Basketball Tournament. They went undefeated through the season.

This is the second All-School Intramural Championship for the chapter this year. Earlier, Pi Kappa Alpha won the All-School Football Tournament and represented MSU in the Sugar Bowl National Collegiate Flag Football Tournament in New Orleans.

GAMMA MU (New Hampshire) teamed up with the Phi Mu Sorority to take All-Campus honors in CoRec football, and on their own, also took the All-Campus Softball Championship.

Who Dunnit?

Delta Omicron presents a mystery.

This story tells not only about a fundraiser which collected more than $1,200 for charity, but tells also how one chapter brought an entire greek community together with businesses and media personalities. On February 8th, DELTA OMICRON (Drake) hosted the Pi Kappa Alpha Who Dunnit? fundraiser for United Cerebral Palsy. Each fraternity and sorority at Drake University participated in the event by playing "detective teams" trying to solve a fake murder.

Fundraising chairman Rick Sullivan came up with the idea. "It all started when I was driving home from a Colorado ski trip during Christmas break. We were driving through Nebraska at about 2:30 a.m., and I got really bored, so I started writing a murder mystery. By the time we were at the Iowa border, I had a full manuscript finished." Sullivan said he then put the story aside for awhile, but as a newly elected chapter officer he was in charge of organizing Delta Omicron's fundraiser. His story came to mind.

The money came from three sources. Each team sponsor donated $30 directly to United Cerebral Palsy; members of the chapter collected money at fraternity and sorority houses; and commercials were produced for KCCI-TV and KXJX FM-103 to induce public participation.

In an effort to promote Who Dunnit?, Sullivan drafted news releases to send to the local media. These public service announcements aired for two weeks prior to the event.

The publicity plan turned out to be very successful. Chapter sweetheart Kathy Burns dressed in a classic female spy outfit and hand delivered formal invitations to key media personalities in Des Moines. Those in attendance included Susy Robinette from WHO-TV 13, Crickett Davis from KXJX-103 FM and cameramen from KCTI-TV 8. Drake University's newspaper, The Times-Delphic, ran a front page article.

The event itself lasted about five hours. All fourteen teams gathered at noon on the day of the event. Chapter members briefed them on the "murder" and what they needed to solve the case. By 1 p.m. they began following a trail of clues around the campus. At each stop the teams questioned suspects, listened to informants or received a clue on paper. Members of the chapter acted out the parts of suspects and informants. Delta Omicron gave a selection of prizes worth over $500, donated by area businesses.

Response was tremendous. It was the first all greek fundraiser of its kind at Drake University. The nearly four hundred people in attendance agreed that Pi Kappa Alpha's Who Dunnit? mystery should become an annual event.

Two children with cerebral palsy were adopted into the Drake Greek Community as honorary members. The youngsters were given sweatshirts with fraternity and sorority letters on the sleeves and Pi Kappa Alpha prominently displayed on the front.

Sullivan reflected, "Our fundraiser took a great amount of work and organization, but it was well worth everything we put into it. We heightened our own campus status and brought a new meaning to Greek fundraisers. In the Des Moines community we have positively influenced the reputation of the Drake University Greek Community."

Victory!

Mississippi Pikes Squelch Sigma Chi in Two Separate Football Bowls

Sigma Chi chapters at the University of Mississippi and Mississippi State recently challenged fraternities on both campuses to bid for the opportunity to play in football bowls.

GAMMA IOTA (Mississippi) bid $3,001 to compete in the University Bowl, a full contact game against the Sigma Chis. Pi Kappa Alpha edged by in overtime. A twenty-five yard field goal on the final down won the game 3-0. It was described as "a defensive battle". The Pikes' bid was matched by Sigma Chi and the money was contributed to various associations as part of the Campaign for Ole Miss fundraiser.

At Mississippi State, bids for the chance to play in the Charity Bowl began at $1,000. With a high bid of $3,020, Pi Kappa Alpha's GAMMA THETA chapter won the right to play Sigma Chi on March 1st. Mississippi State provided all the necessary equipment for each team. Both fraternities were coached and practiced in full pads for three weeks prior to the game. Pi Kappa Alpha won the event, scoring on a diving catch with 2:55 remaining in the fourth quarter. Pi Kappa Alpha's bid was matched by Sigma Chi and donated to the American Heart Association in Pi Kappa Alpha's name.

chapter saved a life. The group came upon an automobile along the side of the road. The car had been thrown on its side and had caught fire. The driver had apparently fallen asleep and veered off the road, colliding with several telephone poles and a guard rail.

One man recalls, "When the Pikes arrived on the scene, the car was aflame and the passenger was still inside. Thinking quickly, the men divided up and met the crisis at hand, and had the situation under control when the police arrived."

DELTA IOTA (Marshall), in association with Marshall University Student Action Council held a Jump-A-Thon with all proceeds being donated to the American Heart Association . . . Twenty chapter members held a charity Work-A-Thon for the Marshall University Campus Christian Center. Members undertook such odd jobs as washing windows, yard work, and general cleaning up of the Center . . . Their annual Founders' Day Dance was held at the prestigious Spring Valley Country Club. The event attracted a large number of alumni. The dance was highlighted by awards presented to distinguished alumni and undergraduate members.

DELTA LAMBDA (Florida State) continues to excel, especially in individual achievement on campus. Dave Rancourt was just elected vice president of the Student Body, and Mike Levrock is the newly elected IFC president. Rich Newsome is president of the College Republicans; Leigh Anderson is president of the Order of Omega; Rich Cullifer is president of the Finance Society. Joe Beasley is the outgoing vice president of Scalphunters, and Matt Raulerson is the incoming vice president. In athletics, Randy Allen is All-Metro and Sporting News All-American in Basketball; Dan Akre is an All-American swimmer and Barry Blackwell won Freshman All-American honors in baseball.

DELTA MU's (Southern Mississippi) twenty-two man initiation class of February 2nd includes USM varsity athletes Jimmy Roberts (Swimming), Tom Purser (Tennis), Clay Jones and Shawn Smith (Baseball), and Rusty Fuller (Soccer).

EPSILON DELTA (North Texas State) recently began a drive to collect funds for new housing. Under the direct guidance of alumnus Walter L. Abbey ('55), Epsilon Delta has taken the initial steps necessary to secure the needed capital.

The first phase of their pledge drive began by mailing information packages and donation cards to all alumni. While it is too soon to know the effect of this mailout, a great response is anticipated.

The land on which the house is to be built is a prime location. Situated off campus by one-half mile, across from both the football and basketball stadiums, it offers easy access to classes, restaurants, shopping and campus sports events.

Interested chapter and area alumni are encouraged to contact Brother Abbey. He may be reached at the law offices of Vial, Hamilton, Koch and Knox, 1500 Republicbank Tower, Dallas, Texas 75201.

Tim Zubradt from EPSILON THETA (Colorado State) represents Pi Kappa Alpha on the 1985 All-Fraternity All-American Football Team. The National Interfraternity Conference elected the defensive back to the first string defense. You may recognize the name; Tim was one of the Western Athletic Conference's top defenders and is regarded by many as a good pro prospect. Through nine games he was the Ram's leading tackler with seventy-two.

EPSILON KAPPA (Lamar) "boasts more leaders than any other organization on campus."

EPSILON UPSILON (Gannon) reports a solid record of campus involvement and community service. Their fall accomplishments included championships in volleyball and golf, along with a second place finish in bowling. The chapter also won Greek Week.

In Gannon's annual Call for Excellence phone-a-thon, the Pikes were a top calling group. In the University's annual Golden Harvest canned food drive, the chapter turned out and collected the highest amount yet at the University. They were also ardent supporters of the American Heart Association's Apple Tag Day, and received a certificate of commendation for their efforts.

An EPSILON PSI (Western Michigan) resurgence promises to send shock waves throughout the university. Brother Scott Smith currently serves as IFC President. Pi Kappa Alpha members have helped to organize a "greek slate" for the upcoming student government election. If successful, the chapter would secure the student government presidency and vice presidency.

ZETA GAMMA (Eastern Illinois) Brothers Jeff Kelm, John Lee, Ron Wesel and Dan Wesoloski recently received public congratulations for outstanding scholastic achievement.

ZETA OMICRON's (Cal State-Northridge) spring pledge class includes a variety of varsity athletes. The seventeen man pledge class includes three football players, one swimmer, one tennis player, one soccer player and a 1988 Olympic hopeful for weightlifting. SMC Adam Soibelman reports another notable inclusion: "Joining the ranks of our spring pledge class is Brett Palmer MacFarlane, a third generation legacy, whose grandfather was National President Grant MacFarlane (Alpha Tau)."

In its tenth year on campus, the THETA MU (Massachusetts) chapter at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst is firmly entrenched as a campus leader.

Athletics has always been a strong suit for Theta Mu; this year has been no exception. The chapter won the Greek championships in both football and volleyball, as well as the campus championships in wrestling, in which the Pikes finished first in five separate weight classes. The chapter looks forward to a strong showing in softball and soccer as they pursue the coveted Olympus Cup, that fraternity sports's All Sports Trophy.

Theta Mu has also entered the computer age. When it purchased a large array of software and an IBM compatible computer system with alumni donations, Pi Kappa Alpha became the first fraternity on campus to do so.

To complete the well-rounded image, Theta Mu has been a leader in community service. Over the last seven years the brothers have raised almost $80,000 for Multiple Sclerosis with their annual Dance Marathon. The goal for this year's marathon is to raise $25,000.

ETA NU (Northern Illinois) recently supported national telethons by the Muscular Dystrophy Association and the United Cerebral Palsy Association. The chapter served as the DeKalb pledge center for MDA's Labor Day Telethon and performed a similar role for UCPA's Weekend With the Stars Telethon.

Eta Nu also held a raffle on behalf of United Cerebral Palsy with the cooperation of Coca-Cola. The grand prize was a trip for two during spring break to Daytona, Florida. After all expenses were paid, Pi Kappa Alpha's contribution was $500. Brother Jeffrey R. Pavaleck presented a check at the Rockford pledge center on live television.

UCP Campaign Coordinator Judy Geissler commended the chapter. "We at United Cerebral Palsy are very appreciative of their efforts and support."

Including cash and pledges received, Eta Nu was responsible for more than $3,000 in contributions to these two philanthropies.

Alpha Omicron's Little Sister

"I think Pi Kappa Alpha is the most tactful group in the world, because who but the Pikes would ask me to be a Little Sister instead of a grandmother? They have all been so courteous and considerate. I just can't speak highly enough." Those are the words that Julia Hull used to describe the men of ALPHA OMICRON (Southwestern).

The chapter recently asked Julia to become a chapter Little Sister. "For the first time in my life I was absolutely speechless," she said.

The story began nearly three years ago when two sophomore men were asked to help a woman at the local Wesleyan Home. The two young men were Dan Weeden and Kevin Latz, both Pi Kappa Alpha members. Ms. Hull said she was amazed at their friendliness and generosity.

Ms. Hull was born in West Point, Illinois, "A great big place that had about three hundred, including the cemetery." She graduated from the University of Illinois, where she received a master's degree in French and Spanish.

She can be spotted at the Fraternity's softball games or swim meets. Her support of the Pikes is undying; in her spare time, Julia makes afghans for the men.

THETA NU (Baylor) continues to make community service and intramural athletics top chapter priorities. Under the guidance of Project Chairman Mark Vetthea, the chapter helped sponsor the American Heart Association's Dance for the Heart.

Corresponding secretary Brent Hall reports, "Intramurals is going great. We have five teams in the basketball playoffs already and we have two top bowling teams. Softball practice will start in a couple of weeks, and we hope to finish once again in the top three."

For the second semester in a row, the brothers of THETA CHI (Villanova) have had a banner rush. After pledging twenty-eight men last fall — the highest of any fraternity on campus — the chapter went out this spring and "rushed like true Pikes". The results were another twenty-two men pledged, again the best rush on campus.

THETA OMEGA (California-Davis) members Larry Wear and Bob Hagenau were recently recognized for their achievements as part of UC-Davis' varsity football team. Brother Wear, a free safety for the Aggies, was named the varsity team's Outstanding Sophomore. Brother Hagenau, the team's center, was named one of UC-Davis' Outstanding Linemen.

Epsilon Mu Reactivated

Celebrating Epsilon Mu's rechartering are (from left) Todd Mudd, Director of Chapter Development and Services; Eric Cleaves, Epsilon Mu SMC; William N. LaForge, National President; Stu Levinson, North Carolina SMC; Mason Chapman, North Carolina State IMC; and Joe Glass, Carolinas Regional President.

PI KAPPA ALPHA RETURNED to East Carolina University. The long awaited rechartering of the Epsilon Mu chapter was finally completed on March 21, 1986.

National President William N. LaForge, Carolinas Regional President Joe Glass, Director of Chapter Development and Services Todd Mudd, along with representatives from Tau (North Carolina), Alpha Epsilon (North Carolina State) and Xi (South Carolina) were present for the initiation and rechartering ceremonies. National President LaForge and Carolinas Regional President Glass were two of the many banquet speakers who praised the chapter for its accomplishments.

Epsilon Mu's rechartering highlights a year long colonization process which began in March, 1985.

For two weeks last March, national staff members Scott Bell and Patrick

Haynes searched the East Carolina campus for young men with the ability and interest to form a Pi Kappa Alpha colony. They collected recommendations from the East Carolina University faculty. Recommendations were received from East Carolina's seven sororities. Their search for the very best men at East Carolina resulted in Epsilon Mu's Alpha pledge class. This thirty-seven man nucleus was colonized on March 29, 1985 in pledging ceremonies conducted by Tau (North Carolina).

Blake O'Connor was selected as the first colony president. The first executive council included Vice President Stuart Holland, Treasurer Mike Shytte and Secretary Mike Briglia.

Assisted by Chapter Consultant Wade Harper, the colony pledged the twenty-one man Beta class in the fall of 1985. The colony progressed quickly on towards chartering. Their accomplishments have been many.

Pi Kappa Alpha possesses the highest grade point average in the East Carolina fraternity system. Our chapter includes more than a dozen Dean's List or Honor Roll students. Clearly, the chapter has excelled in the classroom.

But its achievements do not end there. Pi Kappa Alpha has finished in the top five in several intramural sports including football, volleyball, and bowling. The chapter's roll includes varsity athletes on East Carolina's lacrosse, soccer, swimming and tennis teams. Varsity tennis captain Greg Loyd is a proud member of Pi Kappa Alpha.

The assembled brothers of Epsilon Mu chapter.

The campus and community are well aware of Pi Kappa Alpha's renewed presence. Epsilon Mu placed third in Greek week, led by a first place volleyball finish. The chapter has conducted numerous community service projects. A doughnut sale resulted in more than $500 in contributions for Big Brothers of America.

Special Olympics Coordinator Bill Twine commented, "The members involved in our 1985 Special Olympics Spring Games took their commitment very seriously and gave our Special Olympians a lot of caring companionship as well as a fun time."

Pi Kappa Alpha has been an ardent supporter of the Boys' Club weekly Turkey Shoot, earning them commendation for "Outstanding Public Service and Support of the Boys Club Movement".

Pi Kappa Alpha alumni made the rechartering possible. The strength and size of the East Carolina Alumni Association attracted Pi Kappa Alpha back to the University. An Alumni Advisory Board chaired by Chapter Advisor Paul Davenport (Epsilon Mu '58) spurred the colony on towards chartering. J. Reid Parrott (Epsilon Mu '58), Tom Haines (Epsilon Upsilon '64), James Galloway (Epsilon Mu '58), Tony Mallard (Epsilon Mu '58), and Kelly Barnhill (Alpha Epsilon '60) have also played pivotal roles in the new chapter's success. East Carolina University Head Football Coach Art Baker (Mu '51) supported the Fraternity in its colonization efforts. Fred Robertson (Epsilon Mu '58) and Mac Lancaster (Epsilon Mu '58) are helping the search for new housing.

The University's History

East Carolina University possesses a proud history. The North Carolina General Assembly chartered the school in 1907. ECU opened its doors as the East Carolina Teachers Training School on October 5, 1909.

In 1920 East Carolina was authorized to institute a four-year teacher education curriculum and to confer the Baccalaureate degree upon its graduates. The title of the school was changed to East Carolina Teachers College and the first four year degree was awarded in 1922. Seven years later the college was granted the authority to award the Master of Arts degree.

A liberal arts program was developed in May 1941. The title of the institution was again changed in 1951 by an act of the General Assembly to East Carolina College. By 1960 East Carolina College had become a force in North Carolina education and the third largest school in the state. On July 1, 1967 East Carolina College became East Carolina University.

Today, East Carolina University has an enrollment of over 14,000 students, including 2,000 graduate students. The number of degree programs offered at East Carolina has reached one hundred and three in Baccalaureate and eighty-four in the graduate program. While about eighty-five percent of the student body is from North Carolina, there are students from over forty states and forty foreign countries. East Carolina has grown immensely from its small beginning.

Epsilon Mu History

Pi Kappa Alpha granted Epsilon Mu's first charter on May 17, 1958, becoming one of the first national fraternities at East Carolina University. The chapter prospered for many years, but trouble with housing in the early 1970s led to their demise. In 1973, Epsilon Mu surrendered its original charter. In the thirteen years since, local alumni expressed a repeated interest in rechartering the chapter.

On March 21, Epsilon Mu alumni got their wish: Pi Kappa Alpha welcomed back its one hundred and thirty-second chapter, Epsilon Mu at East Carolina University.

Welcome to Wyoming!

PI KAPPA ALPHA initially colonized at UW on October 4, 1985, with twenty-six members. It has since grown to become the third largest social fraternity on campus, with fifty-eight members. Much of its growth success was due to a vigorous rush program headed by Rush Chairman Pete Young. Rush at Wyoming is a continuous process. The program was conducted through personal interviews with individual rushees. Once the rushees completed the interviews, they were invited to a colony meeting. Only after this did the rush committee make bid decisions.

Iota Alpha's rush program has been extremely successful. The spring pledge class was three times the size of the other fraternities' spring pledge classes. They have set new precedents for fraternity spring rush on the UW campus.

"In addition to our unique rush tactics, the fact that we offered a new approach to UW's fraternity system was instrumental in the success of our membership recruitment," said Rush Chairman Pete Young.

Indeed this was the case. The opportunity to be in on the ground floor of a new and rising organization appealed to many individuals who were previously unimpressed with the existing fraternity system.

SMC Troy Finney says, "Pi Kappa Alpha has served as a new and dynamic part of UW's Greek system for those men interested in fraternity life." Joe Campbell, a junior at UW, adds, "I wanted to join a fraternity ever since I was a freshman. I really wasn't satisfied with other fraternities on campus. The emphasis that the Pikes place on scholarship and being a gentleman really made them stand out. That's why I joined."

Though Pi Kappa Alpha has become the third largest fraternity on campus, they have at the same time been selective of those to whom they extend bids.

Campus Involvement

"Pi Kappa Alpha has made a name for itself here at UW. People recognize the caliber of the people we have in the fraternity," says Shane Ransom.

Every member is involved in at least one other organization on campus. Among those are: Associated Students of the University of Wyoming (ASUW) — Pikes will occupy four of the six executive positions in this organization, as well as all three senatorial positions; Resident Hall Assistants — twelve Pi Kappa Alpha members currently hold this position in the residence halls; Mortar Board senior honorary — seven members; Dean's list — ten members; other academic honoraries — twenty-five men. In addition, members of Pi Kappa Alpha can be found in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, ROTC, Homecoming Royalty, American Bar Association, Outstanding Young Men of America and other prestigious organizations.

Community Service

Iota Alpha has also strived to excel in community service activities. Treasurer Eric Freestone says, "We felt we could change the outlook people have on fraternities by being strong in community service."

The majority of the chapter's time has been dedicated to Hospice of Laramie, an organization for the care of the sick and terminally ill. When the Pikes cleaned up the lawn of one patient, they received a thank you note from the Laramie Hospice director on the editorial page of the Laramie Boomerang, the city's newspaper. An Award of Merit was also given to the chapter by the Hospice of Laramie for their efforts on behalf of the ill.

Among other community activities, during Christmas the Pikes joined Chi Omega Sorority and headed for the mountains in four-wheel drives, chainsaws in hand, to cut Christmas trees for donation to various charities, including the Laramie Senior Center. Pi Kappa Alphas also comprised the largest group present at the local Multiple Sclerosis function.

During two months last fall, members of the chapter frequently transported a cancer patient from Laramie to Cheyenne, fifty miles away, for treatment. They received a letter of commendation from Memorial Hospital of Laramie. A copy was sent to Donald Veal, president of the University, who also commended the chapter for its efforts.

Members of Iota Alpha have been involved in Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Laramie, to whom they donated $500.00 raised at a bowlathon held February 8th, Meals on Wheels, and a canned food drive for the needy of Laramie. The pledge class recently painted the UW child daycare center as part of their community service program. Brian Briggs, Alumni Chairman, says, "I am proud to be a member of an organization which so highly values a dedication to the service of others."

Social Events

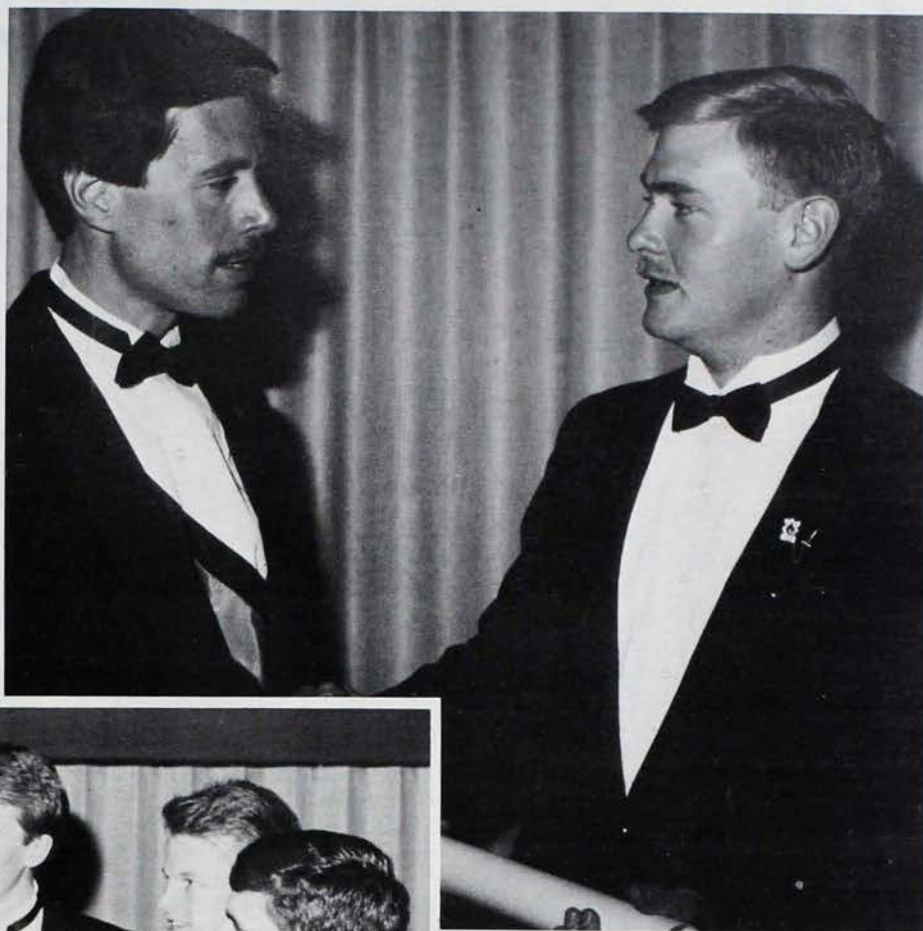

Do the Pikes at Wyoming ever have time to have fun? Of course, according to these reports by the chapter's social chairman:

"Pi Kappa Alpha was received very enthusiastically on the campus, and in order to keep the reputation of being 'the gentlemen's fraternity', our first activity was to deliver one dozen roses to each of the campus' five sororities. We took a sampling of the brotherhood, in coats and ties, and introduced ourselves formally to the Greek women of Wyoming. They eagerly welcomed us and we were off to a great start."

"The middle of the fall semester brought two traditions to Wyoming: mid-terms and the archrival football game between Wyoming and our good friends to the south, Colorado State University. Capitalizing on both of these events, we held a dance at the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall, along with Psi Delta of Chi Omega Sorority. This was very successful; it gave us our first chance to invite the brothers of Epsilon Theta at CSU to watch the game that day, and then enjoy the company of the ladies of Chi Omega that evening."

"The next major event which the Social Committee coordinated was an old-fashioned hayride in early December. As is usual for Wyoming in early December, the night was crisp and clear as we took the ladies of Pi Beta Phi out to a ranch near Laramie. As we loaded onto two tractor wagons, we admired the beauty of the night and began to sing Christmas carols. Riding about two miles to a bonfire, we continued to sing and serenaded the ladies with "down in Old Virginny". We and the Pi Phis had such a great time that we will now make the old-fashioned hayride an annual event."

Since last fall, the Pikes have had social events with all of the sororities, including a picnic in the mountains with Kappa Kappa Gamma and dinner with Kappa Delta.

Sports

In athletics, Iota Alpha fielded several teams, both on and off campus.

During spring semester, they had two basketball teams, an undefeated volleyball team, and a water-polo team. In addition, the Pikes have a bowling team in the Greek Kugler's League.

As well as planning for the Sigma Chi Derby Days, the Pikes have planned to enter their first line of intramural teams in the fall semester. "We're anxious to stir up new, healthy competition between the fraternities," says Jim Delozier, Sergeant-at-Arms. He states that although athletic prowess has not been a forte of the chapter, "our spirit will eventually prevail."

Colony to Chapter

Passing inspection for charter on March 1st was a great moment for the Wyoming Colony, and the installation-initiation ceremonies April 25th-27th were an even greater moment for Iota Alpha.

Says President Troy Finney, "We have built this organization together. I have merely helped funnel and direct the talents and determination of each individual so that we, the Wyoming Colony, would soon become the Iota Alpha chapter at the University of Wyoming. We are a strong group of men, and I'm sure that our chartering is only the first of many accomplishments to come."

Advisor Jack Tindle (Epsilon Chi) had this to say of the men at Wyoming: "They were successful because they wanted to be, and when it got tough, each of them put out a little extra. They put their noses to the grindstone, they worked together, and they made it work. They were less concerned with what the fraternity could do for them than they were with what they could do for the fraternity. The bottom line was determination."

Iota Alpha takes those words seriously as they strive to "most successfully accomplish our object."

Convention!

A look back at Pi Kappa Alpha's primary forum for debate and decision.

by Dr. Jerome V. Reel, Jr.
edited by David L. Anderson

FOR NEARLY a century gatherings like the upcoming 1986 Boston meeting have produced some of Pi Kappa Alpha's most important changes in direction.

It was at Convention in 1889 that Pi Kappa Alpha's Junior Founders injected new life into the frail, twenty-one year old Fraternity. That meeting at Hampden-Sydney resulted in such a turning point that it has become known as the Refounding.

The 1900 Convention created the General Fraternity's first housing efforts and first housing program.

In 1909, delegates to Convention elected to make Pi Kappa Alpha a national fraternity, shaking off a southern-only decision that had restricted the Fraternity for the twenty preceding years.

The 1911 Convention gave rise to the "white clause", a membership restriction based upon race. It was the 1960 Miami Beach Convention that enacted its repeal.

The Refounding

During the first twenty-one years of Pi Kappa Alpha's existence, the affairs of the General Fraternity were administered by one undergraduate chapter on behalf of all undergraduate chapters. This was not unusual, as government in all national fraternities at that time was by the oldest existing chapter.

By 1889, the insufficiencies inherent in the system had become obvious. A simple lack of continuity almost guaranteed difficulty. Only five of the Fraternity's eleven chapters were still active.

The Hampden-Sydney meeting convened December 20-23, 1889. Theron Hall Rice, Howard Bell Arbuckle and John Shaw Foster were the only delegates in attendance.

These men abolished the collapsing "Grand Chapter" method of government. They replaced it by expanding the role of Convention and by creating an Executive Council which would interpret the legislative decisions of the chapters in Convention.

This single act so dramatically improved Pi Kappa Alpha's chances for success that these three men — along with absentee delegate Robert Adger Smythe — became known as the Fraternity's Junior Founders.

Chapter Housing

The idea of a chapter house where brothers would live together first became popular in the Northeast; few chapter houses existed in the South prior to the turn of the century.

The subject was first debated by the General Fraternity at the Spartanburg Convention. The charter granted in 1898 to Chi chapter at the University of the South had become endangered for lack of a house.

C.W. Radford addressed the 1900 Spartanburg Convention, "... we have done all that we can ourselves; we (hope) that some way will appear by which we can get out of our present difficulty ... of being the only chapter at Sewanee without a chapter house."

The next day Robert Adger Smythe surrendered the chair and appealed to the Convention for urgent action. He asked that "each of the chapters ... raise $5 immediately for this purpose," and continued, "I gladly pledge you for myself $5 toward the amount needed and I feel confident that my brother officers will do the same. If we let this opportunity go ... it will cost us Chi." The motion passed.

The housing debate was quiet until 1907. At the Richmond Convention held that year, delegates aided Alpha Gamma chapter at Louisiana State, another chapter without a house and without the resources to build one.

In response to the growing problem signaled by the Chi and Alpha Gamma difficulties, the 1907 Convention established the Fraternity's first permanent housing fund. Money would be raised by taxing each undergraduate one dollar annually. Chapters could receive a grant if they had raised some money themselves and agreed to sign a contract.

The program has since been revised by Convention many times, but it was at Richmond that Pi Kappa Alpha entered the business of housing.

Northern Expansion

On May 20, 1868, the eight brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha established the young fraternity's original expansion policy. The policy was simple.

Under a plan proposed by Founder James Benjamin Sclater, Jr., the University of Virginia chapter would be known as the Grand Chapter. Charterings would be made with the unanimous consent of the members of the Grand Chapter.

The intended scope of this original expansion plan is unclear, but at the Louisville Convention delegates stated, "We do not limit the latitude nor longitude of places where we may establish chapters". Here, the intention was clearly national.

Three years later the Fraternity reversed its decision. At Hampden-Sydney, Convention delegates voted that "... our Fraternity confine itself strictly to colleges south of the Mason-Dixon Line". That statement sparked a debate over northern expansion that would rage for twenty years. At all times the Convention served as the central arena for these debates.

The 1889 decision to confine chapters to the southern side of the Mason-Dixon Line was not accepted by all the chapters. In 1892 and 1893, motions to set aside the territorial limits were defeated in Convention. In 1896, a move to expand to the north ended in a tie vote among the chapters; but the National Officers uniformly opposed it and it failed.

It was not until the 1909 New Orleans Convention that Pi Kappa Alpha elected to become a truly national organization. The decision was made in stages.

At the 1904 Convention, delegates authorized expansion into the West and Southwest. The 1907 Richmond Convention produced a statement of expansion allowing chapters to be

This earliest existing picture of a Pi Kappa Alpha National Convention was taken in Knoxville, Tennessee. The dates of the Convention were December 27th, 28th and 29th, 1892. placed at "colleges and universities in that section of the United States of America east of the Mississippi River and south of the average latitude of what is known as the Mason-Dixon Line, and in all of that section of the United States of America west of the Mississippi River."

The issue was finally laid to rest in 1909. J.W. Hudson, delegate from the Knoxville Alumni Association, moved that "active chapters shall be confined to reputable colleges and universities throughout the United States of America". T.F. Dunn of Missouri School of Mines seconded the motion.

Efforts were made to thwart the motion, but they were defeated. After a morning of discussion and a full day of consideration, the motion carried.

As the 1909 New Orleans Convention neared its end, banquet-goers broke into a yelling match. Shouts went up both in favor of expansion and against it. The vote was cast and the outcome of this hotly debated contest was clear: Pi Kappa Alpha would expand northward.

The White Clause

Pi Kappa Alpha began its existence without racial or credal barriers to membership, but in 1911, Convention delegates adopted the "white clause". This constitutional restriction prevented the initiation of non-whites into the Fraternity.

The white clause restriction remained unchallenged for over thirty years. In the years following World War II, however, American attitudes toward race underwent a dramatic transformation.

In 1946, colleges and universities began to require the removal of racial or religious barriers. National fraternities were offered a choice: they could remove the barriers or they could leave their host institutions.

At the 1950 Cincinnati Convention, Beta Xi (University of Wisconsin) delegate Lowell Sondermann moved that the "white clause" be stricken. Those who argued for removal of the membership clause did so almost exclusively for the preservation of their own chapters. The motion failed, but from that time forward the Fraternity rarely met as Convention, conference, or Supreme Council when the restriction was not discussed.

The question of integration affected more than just one fraternity. Other fraternities responded in a variety of ways. A number had no restrictions, so the issue interested them only as an example of the relationship between fraternities and colleges. Some fraternal organizations which did have racial or religious clauses restricting membership removed those clauses. A few required that their chapters adopt such clauses while the same clauses were removed from the national constitutions. Some established national membership committees that had the power to prevent any initiation for any reason.

By 1960, only four fraternities — Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Nu, Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Chi — retained racial or credal clauses in their constitutions. The situation steadily worsened; resignations occurred in some affected chapters.

When Pi Kappa Alpha convened at Miami Beach in 1960, no other topic so filled the hearts of the brothers. A week earlier, Sigma Nu and Alpha Tau Omega had removed their membership restrictions during their respective conventions, leaving only Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Chi still retaining the restrictive clauses.

A compromise was struck: the white clause would be removed, but all initiates would need the unanimous approval of the Supreme Council. The effect of this substitute restriction was unstated but clear — non-white candidates for initiation would not receive the required approval. Only in 1966 did the Fraternity in Convention firmly decide that membership would be chosen without racial discrimination.

Boston and the Future

The big issues facing the Fraternity have changed with time, but the forum for debate and decision has not. Each generation of IKA has confronted the problems facing them to the best of their abilities. They have done this at Convention.

This will again be true in Boston. When Pi Kappa Alpha's 1986 National Convention convenes on August 9-12, delegates will need to consider the big issues facing the Fraternity today. The dramatically increasing exposure to legal liability will overshadow all discussions.

Will Boston be seen in retrospect as the symbol of an era? Will this year's Convention prove pivotal? The perspective of time will yield these judgements, but clearly, when the opening gavel calls the National Convention to order, history will be in the making.

Hear ye, hear ye!

HISTORIC BOSTON will be the site of Pi Kappa Alpha's 1986 National Convention.

Famous for its hospitality and friendly spirit, Boston is truly one of the nation's outstanding cities. Growing as a city for over 350 years, Boston has developed a charm that is a pleasure to explore.

Boston's historic Back Bay, site of the Westin Hotel Copley Place and Pi Kappa Alpha's 1986 Convention, is only three miles from Logan International Airport. Public transportation is available throughout the city, yet many visitors find that as a compact, walkable city, Boston is most enjoyable seen on foot.

Perhaps no city has a greater wealth of American historical treasures as does Boston. Visitors to Pi Kappa Alpha's 1986 Convention will be able to visit such sites as the Paul Revere House, Old North Church, the Bunker Hill Monument, Boston Massacre site, the USS Constitution, the Boston Tea Party Ship and Museum, Lexington and Concord, and the Harbor Walk, just to name a few. Most of the areas of historic interest can be reached by foot or on Boston's MBTA subway line (60¢ to any destination). There are also convenient parking facilities all along the "Freedom Trail" of historic sites. The Presidential Museum and Library of John F. Kennedy is also located in Boston, as is Fenway Park, home of the Boston Red Sox.

■ Registration for the Convention begins on Saturday, August 9th, at 8:30 a.m. Check-in at the hotel begins at 3:00 p.m. each day; check-out is Wednesday, August 13th at 1:00 p.m.

The Convention begins with the opening session on Saturday, August 9th at 4:30 p.m.

■ Reservations can be made directly with the Westin Hotel. Registration envelopes are available from the Memorial Headquarters.

■ Special Convention hotel rates:

The Westin Hotel has provided special room rates for single or double occupancy ($95 per day), and triple and quad occupancy ($105 per day). Per person, this means:

- One man per room -
$95 per man per day
- Two men per room -
$47.50 per man per day
- Three men per room -
$35 per man per day
- Four men per room -
$26.25 per man per day

Everyone must be registered to attend all activities, business sessions, receptions, seminars, etc. The Convention registration fee includes four banquets (two luncheons and two dinners), entertainment, Convention favors and Convention materials.

■ The 1986 National Convention registration fee is $130 (if you are registered at the Westin Hotel) through July 1, 1986; $140 (if you are registered at the Westin Hotel) after July 1, 1986; and $150 (at all times if you are not registered at the Westin Hotel).

Registration fees are not refundable or transferable after July 1, 1986.

■ Remember: Each undergraduate chapter, if it has a zero balance with the Fraternity's General Fund by July 1, 1986, will receive an allowance based on 10¢ per mile from the chapter location to Boston, Massachusetts.

■ The Westin Hotel Copley Place, located at 10 Huntington Avenue in Boston, Massachusetts, features a fully equipped health club, whirlpool, solarium, indoor pool, sauna, concierge service and underground valet parking. Three different styles of restaurants offer Boston's best dining, including New England seafood at its finest, and a bowl of clam chowder recognized throughout the city.

Banquets at any Pi Kappa Alpha Convention are a special event, and those at the 1986 Convention will be a cut above. Four outstanding banquets have been planned, capped off by the spectacular National Officers Banquet on Tuesday, August 12th, which will feature a visual recap of the 1986 Convention and an exciting evening of post-banquet entertaining.

The 1986 National Convention at the Westin Hotel Copley Place Boston will be an event unlike any in our Fraternity's history. Don't miss it!

CONVENTION HIGHLIGHTS

■ Announcement of the 1986 National Dream Girl at the National President's Baquet on Sunday, August 10th.

■ Announcement of Pi Kappa Alpha's 1986 National Award winners, including the presentation of Robert Adger Smythe Trophies to Pi Kappa Alpha's top fifteen chapters.

■ Election of the Supreme Council for 1986-88.

■ A special luncheon honoring Pi Kappa Alpha's alumni.

■ A model initiation ceremony to be held at the start of the Convention.

■ Legislative sessions which will chart the future course of Pi Kappa Alpha.

■ Exciting seminars and workshops, committee meetings and regional caucuses.

All I Have To Do Is Dream...

THE PRESENTATION of the National Dream Girl at the National President's Banquet is an event that adds sparkle and excitement to every IKA Convention. Each year, chapters from across the United States enter their very own Dream Girls and Little Sisters in the contest to determine the winner of the national honor. The beauty and talents of this year's entrants made selection very difficult. The five young ladies presented here are the finalists in the 1986 National Dream Girl Competition; the winner will be announced on August 10th at the National Convention in Boston, Massachusetts.

Lori F. Hasson is a Little Sister and Chapter Dream Girl to sponsoring Delta Mu chapter at the University of Southern Mississippi. Lori is a USM cheerleader and Golden Girl, and was twice named to the University of Southern Mississippi Homecoming Court, during her sophomore and senior years. Lori is involved in the American Marketing Association, the Associated Student Body, and is a member of Kappa Delta Sorority.

Lori

Heidi S. Irvine of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority was sponsored by Beta Nu chapter at Oregon State University. She is Beta Nu's Chapter Dream Girl and is an active part of their Little Sister Auxiliary. Heidi is vice president and co-founder of Young Entrepreneur Society of Oregon State University, and is an assistant senator in ASOSU. She has also served as her society's rush chairman. Heidi enjoys running, aerobics and gymnastics.

Heidi

Cheryl Rohleder is Dream Girl at Epsilon Theta chapter at Colorado State University. Cheryl's hometown is Denver, Colorado. She has been named Ms. Colorado USA for 1986 and feels that her title adds credibility to the fact that Pi Kappa Alpha is an outstanding organization. Cheryl enjoys gymnastics, tap dancing and snow football.

Cheryl

Angela Sue Cofer is a Little Sister to Eta Sigma chapter at West Georgia College. Angie is an NFL cheerleader and has cheered for the past two seasons for the Atlanta Falcons. She was also sponsored by Eta Sigma in the 1986 Ms. Carrollton Pageant, where she won the title and the swimsuit award. Angie will go on as a contestant in the 1986 Ms. Georgia Pageant to be held this June. She is also involved in the community and campus as a member of the Baptist Student Union and a Residence Hall Representative.

Angela

Jennifer Lynn Moeller is a Little Sister and Chapter Dream Girl of Alpha Nu chapter at the University of Missouri-Columbia. Jenny is an active part of Pi Beta Phi Sorority which she now serves as chapter president. She expects to apply for a chapter consultant position in 1987. Jenny is involved in Campus Crusade for Christ and is a member of Calvary Baptist Church. She juggles all of these activities along with a grade point average of 3.3, and has made the Dean's Honor List for five semesters.

Matching Gift Programs

CORPORATE MATCHING GIFT programs to educational and charitable institutions have been around for several years. Only recently, however, has it come to the attention of the Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Foundation that many corporations with matching gift programs also include fraternity foundations as eligible for matching gifts.

Recently, Herbert Carroll, executive secretary of the Chi Psi Educational Trust, compiled a list of more than eighty-five companies which match gifts to educational foundations.

This list is published here to help our members determine if their employers have matching gift programs which will augment their personal gifts to the Memorial Foundation.

If your company is not on the list, it is still possible that it has a matching gift program. Check with your personnel or human resources department to determine if there is such a program and what the requirements are for matching gifts.

Matching gifts can enhance your giving and provide additional funding for the leadership and scholarship programs which the Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Foundation administers.

If you need any information about the Memorial Foundation and its programs, contact Lou Quinto, director of development, at the Memorial Headquarters in Memphis.

Work begins on the next edition of Pi Kappa Alpha Alumni Directory

MEMORIAL FOUNDATION President George Denton recently called for work to begin on the next edition of the Pi Kappa Alpha Alumni Directory, which will be available to alumni as early as May of 1987.

"The directory is an important publication of the Fraternity," Denton remarks, "Junior Founder Robert Adger Smythe realized its importance back in 1891 when he published the Fraternity's first public directory."

"The last directory was published in 1981, and in the six years since, many new members have joined the alumni ranks, not to mention that thousands of alumni have moved, causing them to lose touch with pledge brothers and fellow chapter members."

"This new edition will give our alumni an opportunity to renew many old friendships," Denton notes.

Alumni will be notified at the end of August as to how they can reserve a copy of the 1987 Pi Kappa Alpha Alumni Directory. Questionnaires will be mailed to all of PiKA's alumni. These will need to be completed and returned, so that the Memorial Foundation will have the most up to date information on its members.

The plans for the 1987 edition will list alumni in three ways; alphabetically, geographically and by chapter.

So watch your mailbox in August for the directory questionnaire. When you receive it, be sure to fill it in and return it quickly so that your information is correct when the directory goes to print.

Notice of Foundation Annual Meeting

AS IS REQUIRED by the by-laws of the Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Foundation, notice is hereby given of the Annual Meeting of the members of the Memorial Foundation.

The meeting will be held during the weekend of August 9-10, 1986, at the Fraternity's national convention in Boston, Massachusetts at the Westin Hotel - Copley Place.

GMAG

What is it?

GMAG (Greek Magazine Advertising Group) is a joint cooperative print advertising project underway in ten selected fraternities: Delta Upsilon, Delta Sigma Phi, Kappa Alpha, Lambda Chi Alpha, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Theta Chi, Phi Kappa Tau, Phi Kappa Psi.

Advertising in fraternity magazines is not a new concept. Most readers today do not realize it is an idea almost as old as the magazines themselves. Many early advertisements resembled the table-tops at Wendy's! (see illustrations); and included everything from oysters to ice cream, from coal to wood.

The time is right now to look again to outside advertisers. The basis of GMAG is a combined circulation of over 575,000, greatly increasing the potential to attract advertisers. Brothers who are, or know of, prospective advertisers are encouraged to contact: Glen Spaeth, of ParQuil Associates Ltd., 341 Elm Avenue, Bogota, NJ 07603—Telephone: (201) 343-7766.

Founders' Day Celebrations

Thurmond, Roberts kick off Congressional Founders' Day

SENATOR Strom Thurmond (Xi) and Kansas Representative Pat Roberts (Alpha Omega) welcomed over 150 PiKA alumni and undergraduates at Pi Kappa Alpha's annual Congressional Founders' Day reception and banquet in the Rayburn House Office Building on February 27th.

The event honored PiKA's seven brothers in Congress and was coordinated by Joe Pavelka, president of the Washington, D.C. Alumni Association. Forty-five chapters from across the country, and PiKA's newest colony at Randolph-Macon, were represented.

The program was emceed by National President William N. LaForge and Executive Director Allen William Groves delivered the keynote address on the status of the Fraternity. Delta Psi chapter (University of Maryland) had the largest group of brothers in attendance followed by Delta Eta chapter (University of Delaware).

Distinguished alumni included Memorial Foundation Trustee Thomas C. Tillar, National Housing Commissioner Rev. Henry N.F. Minich, Founders Regional President Andy Morse, Delta Psi Alumni Association President David A. Crow, Gamma Alumni Association President Michael Henderson, and Jack Zane, Assistant Athletic Director/Media Relations, University of Maryland.

Saint Louis Alumni Association celebrates in style

AT THE magnificent "Top of the Sevens" banquet facility in Clayton, Missouri, the St. Louis Alumni Association celebrated Founders' Day on March 6, 1986. Over sixty alumni from a myriad of chapters throughout the midwest enjoyed the evening which consisted of cocktails, an evening meal and an enlightening discussion with University of Missouri Head Football Coach, and Pike alum, Woody Widenhofer. As a perfect ending to the evening, over $300.00 was raised during a raffle to benefit a new scholarship program kicked off that evening. Prizes were donated by various St. Louis firms, including Anheuser Busch, Bordon Foods and State Mutual Group Sales.

This is the second article in a four part series from the National Chaplain, based on his favorite sayings, each of which offers some important considerations for the members of Pi Kappa Alpha. This second article deals specifically with accepting responsibility.

by Rev. Simon A. Simon, National Chaplain

Don't wait for the angels to tie your shoelaces.

IT IS EASY to be a victim today — to feel overpowered. What with the size of government, of major businesses, even of some of our campuses, we can feel fairly insignificant. Not to mention the stress of everyday living, family problems, trying to make ends meet financially; it is easy to feel like small potatoes. Without adequate power to make decisions, we end up throwing our hands in the air and hopelessly admitting, "What can I do? It is bigger than I am."

And here I am urging you, Don't wait for the angels to tie your shoelaces. This saying is important because it presupposes a power inherent in each of us to think, act, make decisions and otherwise function, even in a complex, overpowering society, where the value of life seems to be measured in bigness.

First some admissions. There is nobody out there waiting to do us any favors. Take for example what happened to the people of San Francisco a few years ago during a severe water shortage. The city government pleaded with the citizens to reduce their water consumption. They did. By 40%. It was a great community response to a critical need. But because of the reduction in use there was also a reduction in revenues which necessitated an increase in the water rates. Sometimes it does seem you can't win.

Another admission: there are some things that cannot be changed. I felt sorry for the young school child who prayed: "Please make Boston the capitol of Vermont because that's what I answered in a test today." All the praying, working and hoping simply cannot change some things. Other than these, no more admissions.

The only other obstacle is the limitation we place upon ourselves. And I urge you, don't wait for the angels to tie your shoelaces. There is truth and challenge here not only for us as individuals, but also for us as members of Pi Kappa Alpha. Through this article I issue a call to each of us to have the courage, the vision and the commitment to do what we can, where we can, when we can. And believe me, that opens up a huge area in which we can function.

Pi Kappa Alpha, and each of us personally, cannot afford to approach life as victims. Our Fraternity, through each of us, has the resources to be just about whatever we want. Your chapter can end up at whatever level you decide. But within each chapter there must be some who are willing to act, who are willing to exert the power available to forge the Fraternity ahead.

What are we up against? What must we confront and overcome to move from victim to decision maker? First, we must overcome the tendency to default decision making to someone else. When we relinquish decision making, we become dependent on the thinking of others when that might not be appropriate for us. This is not to say that mutual reliance is bad. It is often good. It often combines strength. But this is different from defaulting decision making. This is different from voluntarily giving our power to think and act to someone else. Perhaps you heard of the factory foreman who set his watch every morning by the clock in the jeweler's shop he passed each day going to work. He then set the factory whistle by the jeweler's time. One day he thanked the jeweler for this service only to find out the jeweler set his clock by the factory whistle.

We must also overcome the tendency to sell ourselves short. If we lack self confidence, if we fear making decisions, if we are afraid of failing, we will naturally withdraw from "tying our shoelaces".

We are all in this Fraternity because at some point in our lives someone thought we had something to offer. We are Pikes because someone saw something in us. It is that something on which we need to draw in order to begin the courageous process of being the decision-makers we all have the potential to become.

Is there something in your chapter that needs to be done that is not even being confronted? Is there something in your life that is keeping you from going where you would like to go? Can you and your chapter be more than you are? Then now is the time to see that it is done. Now is the time to accept responsibility for our decisions and end the feeling of being "victims" wherever it exists. What we can do we must do; and we must never wait for the angels to tie our shoelaces.

Book Review

Wayne State Alumnus reveals the inside line on the auto industry.

DEALS ON WHEELS

How To Buy, Sell and Care for a Car
by Gordon Page

Are you tired of feeling cheated by scheming automobile dealers? You are not alone. This year Americans will buy more than twenty-five million automobiles — nine million new and sixteen million used — without knowing the basics of how to purchase and/or sell a car. Now, with Deals On Wheels: How To Buy, Sell and Care for a Car (Fireside Books; August 1985) by Gordon Page (Delta Nu '55), anyone can be confident that they have gotten the best car deal for their money.

"People don't realize that they're not so much buying a car as spending their hard earned money," says author Page, a twenty-five year veteran of the car business and former General Motors auto dealer. "Doesn't it make sense to spend a little energy making a car deal and keep some of that hard-earned money?"

With valuable tips that only an insider to the auto industry could know, Page exposes all the tricks of the trade that car salesmen and dealers use to lure potential carbuyers into buying overpriced cars. With Deals On Wheels, consumers can arm themselves with information about car models, competitive pricing, options, dealer strengths and weaknesses, and the all important art of negotiation.

Deals On Wheels shows you how to:

Time your purchase so that dealers are more than ready to bargain.

Negotiate for the best deal on dealer or bank-sponsored financing.

Bargain for the lowest possible price for any car — new or used.

Understand how salesmen operate, and how to recognize the unethical ones.

Decide whether to trade-in your old car, or sell to a private party.

Get the best service for your car at the best price.

Lease a car, or investigate other options.

Choose what's right for you — foreign or domestic models.

With amusing anecdotes and illustrations, Deals On Wheels takes the confusion out of car buying. In clear, simple language, Page offers proven techniques to guarantee that you take home the car of your choice at a price that you can afford. After reading Deals On Wheels, you will never pay the sticker price, or accept the salesman's first offer again!

Two Alumni achieve high honors.

Dr. Harold Blake Walker (Gamma Gamma '26 - University of Denver) was recently honored by McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, Illinois, as told in the following news release:

"McCormick Theological Seminary announces that gifts totaling $1.09 million have been received to establish the Harold Blake Walker Chair in Pastoral Theology. This chair will provide for the teaching of pastoral understandings and skills to be used in the life of the church.

Harold Blake Walker was graduated from McCormick Theological Seminary in 1932, and was awarded the Distinguished Alumnus Award in 1979. He served congregations in Oklahoma City, Utica, New York, Chicago and Evanston, Illinois and is pastor emeritus of First Presbyterian Church in Evanston. He has also written numerous books and articles, and was a featured columnist in the Chicago Tribune for twenty-eight years.

Dr. Walker's service to McCormick Theological Seminary has been significant. He was on the Board of Directors and served as Board President for sixteen years and as lecturer in homiletics for three years. He also held positions with boards and agencies at the national level of the Presbyterian Church.

McCormick President David Ramage stated that 'rarely has one person contributed as much to an institution as Dr. Walker has in the contribution he has made to McCormick Seminary through his leadership.'

Jeffrey L. Cipolla

Jeffrey L. Cipolla (Gamma Lambda '82 - Lehigh University), a student in Lehigh University's five year arts and engineering program, has been awarded a Fulbright Scholarship to study in Germany during the 1986-87 academic year. The announcement was made by Dr. G. Mark Ellis, associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Cipolla will attend the Föttinger Institute for Fluid Mechanics in West Berlin. After a year abroad, he will return to Lehigh to complete his work towards a graduate degree in mechanical engineering.

He received a B.A. with a major in applied science in January, graduating with high honors. He will receive a B.S. in mechanical engineering in June, 1986.

Mississippi Pike practices what he preaches.

Alonzo Westbrook (Gamma Iota '35) has put his philosophy of life into practice for nearly fifty years as an attorney on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Born in Mobile, Alabama in 1915, he lost his father in the 1918 flu epidemic. His mother, a member of the prominent Van Cleave family, took the young boy to Jackson, Mississippi to live with her family. It was there that Westbrook first felt inclined toward the legal profession.

"My mother's father was a judge in Vicksburg. I guess that's where I got my first impressions about law," reflects Westbrook, "I knew I wanted to be a lawyer when I was fifteen."

Westbrook pursued his dream at the University of Mississippi at the height of the Depression, the heyday of such colorful politicians as Louisiana governor Huey P. Long and President Franklin D. Roosevelt. While at the University, he was active in campus government and was vice president of Gamma Iota chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha. He also served as a member of the Interfraternity Council.

He put himself through the first two years of law school working at a job provided by the National Youth Administration. At the beginning of his third year, he took a loan and bought the student bank from a graduating student. By operating it for the next three years, he earned enough to complete his legal education.

It was the influence of the Depression that formed the young lawyer's life philosophy.

"Although my family was fairly well off, I've seen a lot of poverty in my life. I felt I could use my profession to help people... I wanted to do what I could to help alleviate people's problems." After graduation, Westbrook returned to Jackson to practice law.

The list of Westbrook's civic and church activities is extensive. Among many other achievements during his twenty-five year career as a lawyer in Jackson, Westbrook was vice president of the Pi Kappa Alpha Alumni Association in Jackson during the 1940s, and was a delegate to local and national Democratic political conventions during the 1964 presidential campaign. In 1967, however, he decided to begin yet another career.

Westbrook joined the Office of the Staff Judge Advocate at the Keesler Law Center, Keesler Air Force Base, Mississippi as chief of the Legal Assistance and Preventive Law Programs. His clients were often young Keesler airmen in the midst of business transaction disputes.

"When an individual gets hit in the pocket-book, that's his or her most sensitive nerve. We always advised people to protect themselves in every way in a business transaction, but so many times a young person doesn't know how," Westbrook mused. "The reason I like to practice law is that you help people with their problems and find a solution."

In 1984, after seventeen years of helping people find those solutions, Westbrook made the decision to retire. He had won an Outstanding Civilian Career Service Award and a host of other honors and recognitions. "I've talked to many retirees and they all say you've got to keep busy and that's what I intend to do," said Westbrook.

Alonzo has kept busy. He is currently associated with the law firm of Brown & McDonnell in Jackson, Mississippi. One of his favorite statements is, "Community service is rent we pay for space we occupy in the community." Alonzo Westbrook's account can be marked 'Paid in Full'.

Wickliffe B. Moore

Memorial Foundation Trustee rose from newspaper artist to giant of the paper industry.

ON MARCH 8, 1986, Wickliffe B. Moore (Omega '20) Trustee for Life of the Memorial Foundation, died after a lengthy illness in his hometown of Louisville, Kentucky. He was eighty-six years old.

Brother Moore had been a trustee of the Memorial Foundation since 1978. The year prior to his election to the Memorial Foundation, Pi Kappa Alpha recognized him as its Distinguished Achievement Award recipient.

"Wick's presence on the board will be missed," Foundation President George Denton commented, "he always brought with him a unique perspective on education, leadership programming and student support."

Wick Moore was a graduate of the University of Kentucky. A semi-professional magician during the years 1916-1919, he turned pro in 1919 and performed throughout the United States.

In 1924 he became a political cartoonist with The Louisville Herald in Kentucky, and later with the Herald-Post.

He was appointed art director of the Herald-Post, and as illustrator and writer he covered the famous "monkey trial" of John T. Scopes in Dayton, Tennessee.

In 1926, still acting as cartoonist and art director, he took on the additional position of assistant to the publisher. He remained with the newspaper until 1931, while conducting a commercial art business as a free-lance illustrator, portrait and landscape artist.

In 1932, Moore joined the Anglo-Canadian Pulp & Paper Co., Ltd. in Quebec City, Quebec, Canada, as a newsprint salesman, rising to sales manager of the firm in 1933.

Moore joined Frank W. Clarke and Leon W. Campbell in 1935 to found the Montmorency Paper Co., Ltd. in Quebec, of which he became part owner, director and vice president.

Pursuing an expanding career in the paper business, he participated in the 1942 founding of the partnerships of Clarke, Campbell & Moore of Canada and Clarke, Campbell & Moore of New York City. He was also part owner, director and vice president of the newly formed Montmorency Paper Co., Inc. in New York City.

Upon the death of Campbell in 1943, the partnerships were reformed as Clarke & Moore.

When Clarke retired from the partnerships in 1948, Moore became senior partner of the successor, Moore, Hill and Kenny, New York City, and served as president and chief executive officer of Montmorency Paper Co. Inc. until 1955.

In that year, Moore dissolved the partnership of Moore, Hill & Kenny and formed Northeastern Paper Sales, Inc., New York City, of which he became president and chief executive officer.

Moore conceived of and participated in negotiations in 1961 resulting in the merger of Price Brothers & Co., Ltd., Quebec City, and Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co., Ltd., Grand Falls, Newfoundland, Canada. Following this merger, he formed the Price Paper Corporation, New York City. He served as president, chief executive officer and director of that firm until his retirement from the post of president in 1968.

In 1971, Moore, in addition to continuing as director and chairman of the board of Price Paper Corporation, established a new venture, Wickliffe B. Moore Enterprises,

New York City, for the purpose of negotiating the purchase and sale of newspaper and newsprint properties, and the import and export of pulp and newsprint.

Moore was director of The Americas Foundation of New York City, a private organization to promote good will between North and South American countries.

He served as a member of the development council of the University of Kentucky, of which he was a Kentucky Fellow. He was also a member of the University of Kentucky Hall of Distinguished Alumni.

Correction

SHIELD & DIAMOND regrets the incorrect listing of one of our Chapter Eternal members in the March, 1986 issue.

Bryce Curry (Delta Alpha '47
- George Washington University) of Morristown, New Jersey, died on July 1, 1985 after suffering a heart attack. He had been president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of New York for nearly twenty-two years. Prior to being elected to that position, he served as director of research and general counsel of the National League of Insured Savings
Associations. He was sixty-one.

Pi Kappa Alpha Regulator Clock

Due to popular demand, the fraternity has extended the availability of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity Regulator Clock. Special arrangements have been made with the manufacturer, Pearl Clock Company, to continue to offer their convenient monthly payment plan with no down payment, or finance charge.

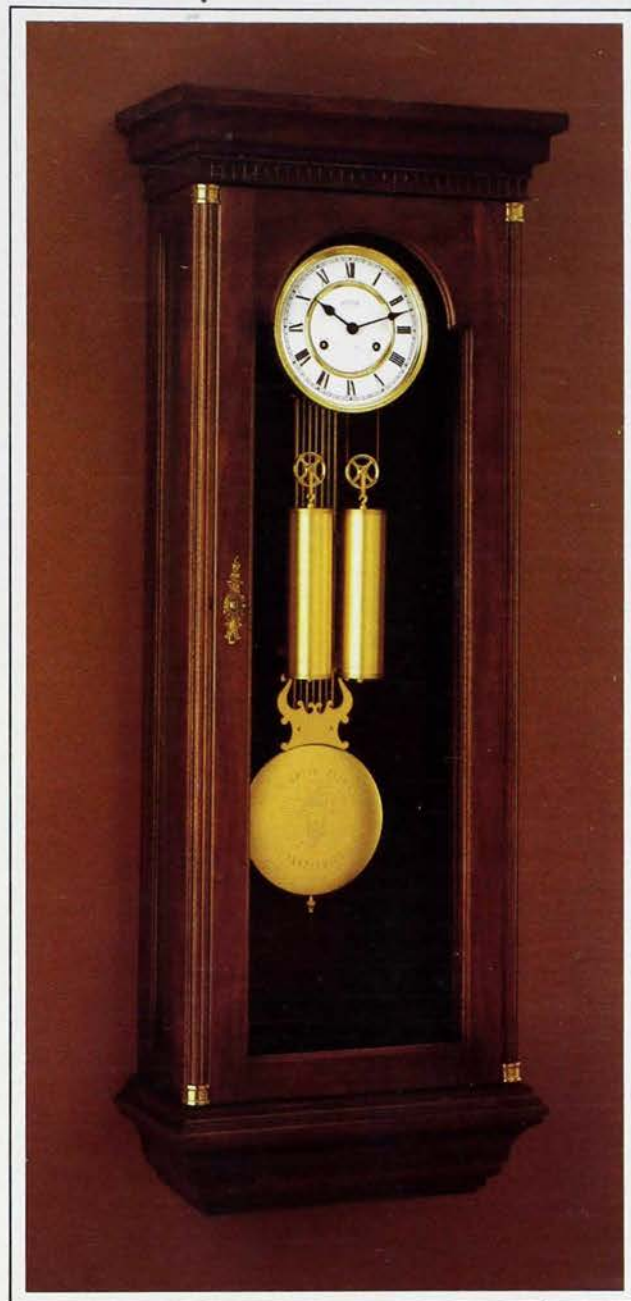

Special Features

The many features of the Pi Kappa Alpha Regulator Clock are those found only in the highest quality timepieces. The features include:

- Solid maple cabinet with lustrous fruitwood finish.
- Hermle key-wound, cable-driven, 7-day, self-adjusting beat movement assembled by the legendary clockmakers of the Black Forest of West Germany.
- Chimes on the half hour and counts the appropriate hour.
- Glass door and side panels reveal the gleaming brass-encased weights, classic enamelled dial with black Roman numerals, and brass lyre pendulum.
- Clock is resplendent with fluted corner pilasters accented with solid brass capitals, gracefully carved dentil moldings and a solid brass escutcheon.
- Pendulum available with the Fraternity Crest delicately engraved in its center, or plain with no engraving.
- Solid brass registration plate diamond-etched with your three line personalized inscription and adorned with a detailed re-creation of the Fraternity Crest.
- Clock measures nearly four feet in height. Actual measurements are 45 $\frac{3}{8}$ " high, 17 $\frac{1}{2}$ " wide, and 8 $\frac{3}{8}$ " deep.

Convenient Monthly Installment Plan

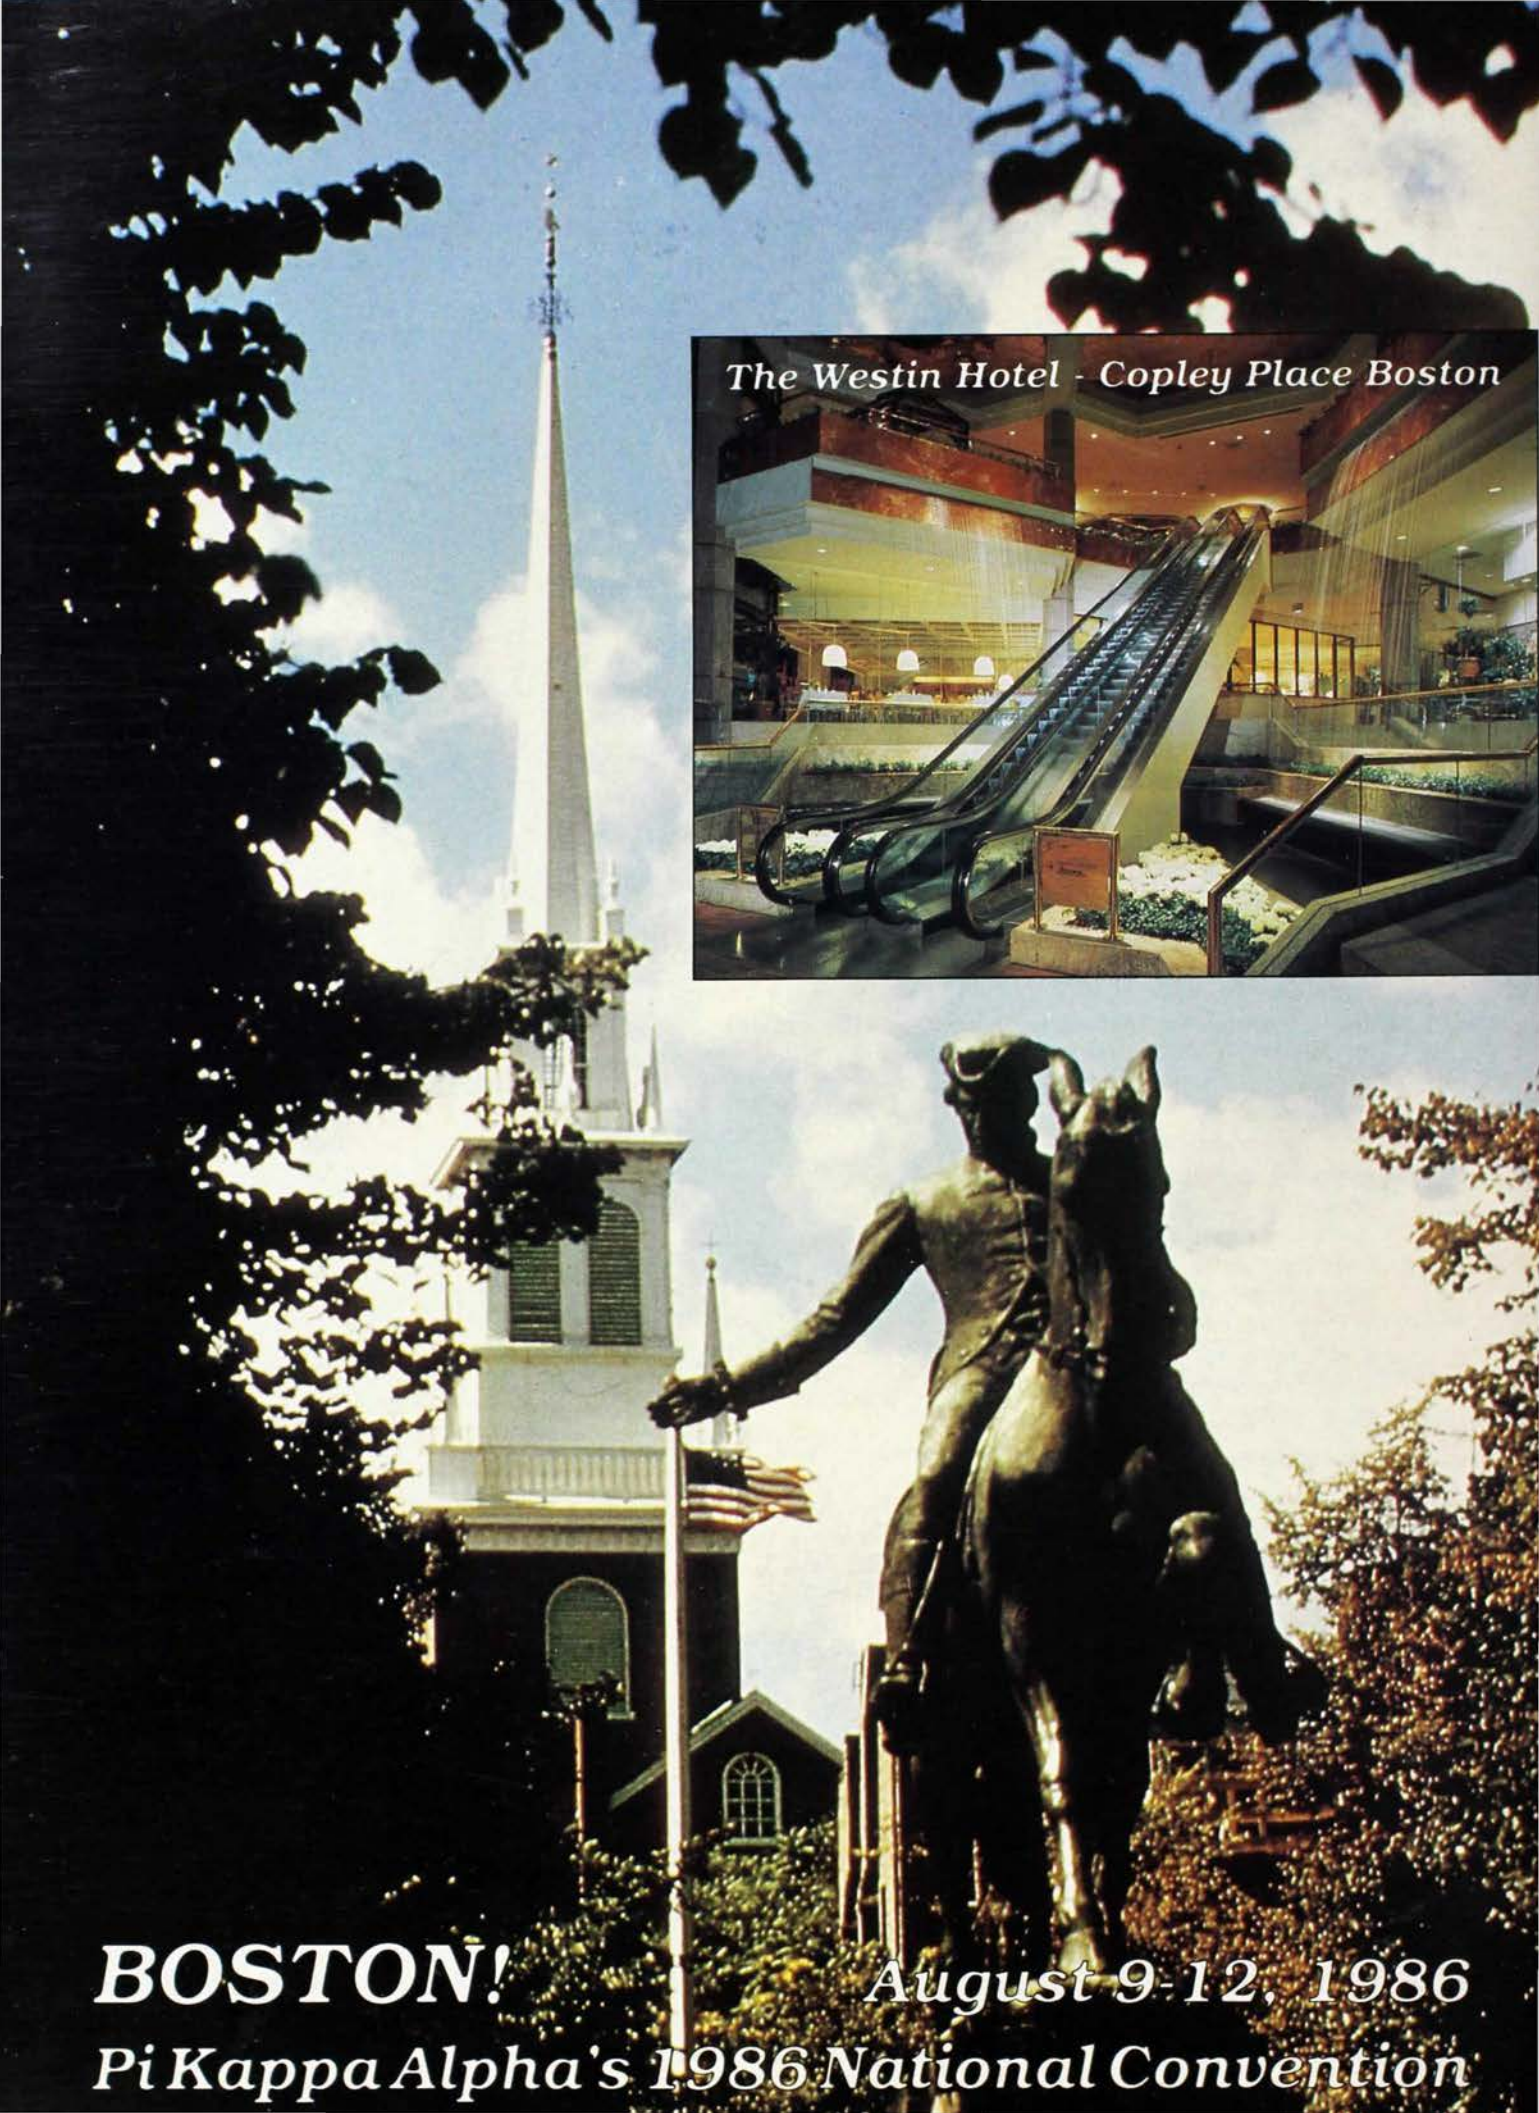

The original issue price of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity Regulator Clock with the etched pendulum is $440 plus $78 for handling and shipping within the continental United States. The plain pendulum clock is available for $400 plus the $78 shipping charge. The manufacturer provides a convenient monthly installment plan with no down payment or finance charge. You may choose to take advantage of this plan — only $40 per month in eleven monthly installments for the etched pendulum clock, or $40 per month for ten months for the plain pendulum clock (the $78 shipping charge is added to the first month only). Additionally, you can enjoy the clock in your home, or office, for 15 days, risk-free, before your first payment is due. If you are not satisfied with your acquisition, you may promptly return the clock with no cost or obligation — the manufacturer will pay the cost of delivery and return freight if the clock is returned in its original condition.

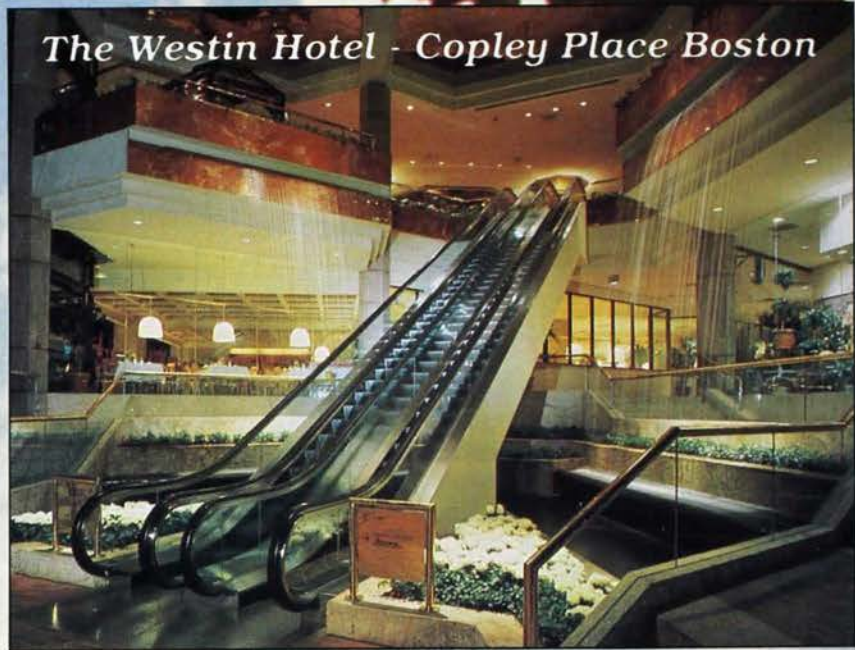

Order by Toll-Free Telephone

Installment plan reservations, or requests for additional information, may be placed weekdays from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. (eastern time) by telephoning toll-free 1-800-523-0124; Pennsylvania residents only should call 1-215-687-5277 collect. All callers should ask to speak to operator number 508H.

Please note that all orders are subject to credit approval. There is no finance charge and no down payment on the monthly installment plan. Appropriate sales tax will be added to the monthly payments of Tennessee residents only. Please allow approximately 8 weeks for delivery.
