Past National Staff Reunion Highlights Summer at MHQ

The first of hopefully many Pi Kappa Alpha Headquarters staff reunions was held the weekend of June 3-4, 1988 in Memphis, Tennessee (the home of the Fraternity's executive operations since 1948) attracting some seventy-five loyal members of the "Noble Order of Esactius" and their guests. Many old friendships were renewed and many "war stories" achieved even greater heights in late night conversation and camaraderie.

The weekend began with a reception at the former headquarters at 577 University, where past staffers bid the faithful home of Pi Kappa Alpha for thirty-four years a fond farewell. Many old slides and photographs were prominently displayed in the reception area, much to the dismay and amusement of their subjects.

Saturday morning began with a tour of the new Memorial Headquarters structure (then under construction at 8347 West Range Cove), followed by an elaborate brunch at the Tournament Players Golf Club at Southwind. After brunch, the Esactius Golf Tournament was held at the new course.

Saturday evening brought dinner and dancing at the Marriott Hotel ballroom. After dinner, numerous awards were presented, including awards for "most wives" and "least hair" among others. The true highlight of the evening came when former chapter consultant Bill Trigleth (Beta Omicron '73) was crowned by the Memorial Headquarters support staff as "National Dream Boy".

The weekend's success assured that this will be the first of many such reunions.

Staff Update —

Executive Vice President Announces Support Staff Changes

Executive Vice President Raymond L. Orians is pleased to announce the following changes in the Memorial Headquarters support staff:

In July of this year, Melody S. Alberson was promoted to Memorial Foundation secretary. She had previously served as production assistant in the Communications Department. Barbara E. Perkins received a promotion in October from associate editor to managing editor of the Shield & Diamond, and Sarah Pittman was hired in October as communications assistant.

Beta Upsilon returns to the beautiful mountain campus at Boulder

THE CHARTERING

Beta Upsilon colony at the University of Colorado at Boulder proudly accepted its charter on October 15, 1988. Eighty-six men were initiated by members of Epsilon Theta and Iota Alpha chapters. The Installation Banquet was held at the luxurious Brown Palace Hotel in Denver. National President Edward A. Pease gave an inspiring keynote address to the more than 250 people in attendance, including distinguished alumni, parents, and several national officers. Also present for the ceremony were University Chancellor James Corbridge and Dean of Arts and Sciences Charles Middleton. Two very welcome guests at the banquet were Kevin Knaus (Alpha Omega '83) and Ernie Cox (Alpha Eta '81), who conducted the recolonization of Beta Upsilon in the spring of 1987. The installation capped a year of effort, which proved more challenging and more rewarding than anyone had ever anticipated.

THE UNIVERSITY

Located just thirty miles northwest of Denver, the University of Colorado at Boulder is the largest of the four campuses within the University system. Currently, more than 22,000 students have enrolled, and almost all of the 965 full time faculty members have a Ph.D. or equivalent degrees. CUBoulder's five colleges and four professional schools are located on 600 acres of land and in more than 160 buildings, while offering 4,000 courses in over 140 fields of study.

CU Boulder was ranked as the fifth best school in the nation by the Selective Guide to Colleges 1985-86, and in The Public Ivys by Richard Moll, is touted as one of the best public universities, competing with many Ivy League schools for the top students in the nation.

Founded in 1876, the year Colorado became a state, the University's history is strongly interwoven with the history of Colorado. Continual growth is the general trend for Colorado and its first institution of higher learning. As CU Boulder enters the 1990s, it promises to remain one of the premier universities in the United States, and a perfect host to the new Beta Upsilon chapter.

THE COLONY

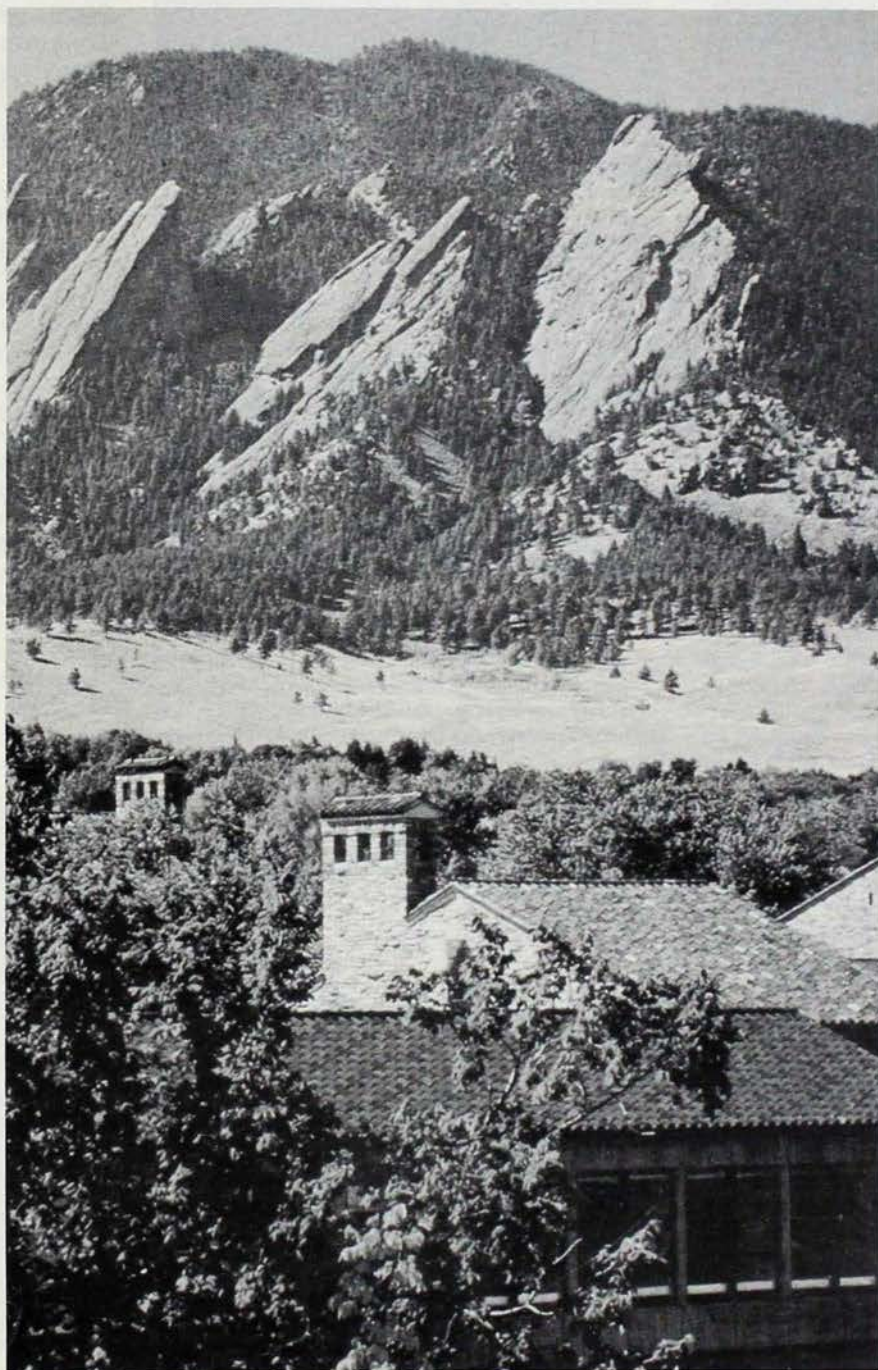

The hard work and dedication of Kevin Knaus and Ernie Cox is reflected in the success of the colony which they reestablished. Since the day of recolonization, Pi Kappa Alpha has had the highest grade point average of any fraternity on the Boulder campus. In just over a year, the group has gone from forty-five men to more than 110, becoming the second largest fraternity on campus.

The ability to grow rapidly while maintaining academic and athletic quality is testimony to the nature of Pi Kappa Alpha's rush program. With the largest pledge classes, as well as higher bid retention than its competitors, Pi Kappa Alpha was asked to give a presentation on dry rush techniques to other fraternities on campus.

Two of Beta Upsilon's members have been appointed officers of the Interfraternity Council, and the members will seek elected offices now that they have received their Charter and can be full members of the IFC.

Athletically, several teams competed for league titles last year, and Beta Upsilon won an all-fraternity fast pitch softball tournament. This year, the brothers have fielded at least two teams in every intramural sport. As of this writing, every team is undefeated, with a total of fifteen straight victories.

Community service and philanthropy play an increasingly important part in the activities of Beta Upsilon. Once again, Pi Kappa Alpha will help the Boulder Police Department with traffic directions and barricades for the "Mall Crawl", an annual Halloween celebration which draws tens of thousands to downtown Boulder. More importantly, the group plans to raise more than $5,000 for Cystic Fibrosis by sponsoring and organizing an all-sorority big-wheel race through campus streets.

Perhaps the most unexpected and most fortunate event of the colonization was the acquisition of one of the largest and best houses on "the hill". Formerly a sorority house and then an International Youth Hostel, this structure has proven to be a rallying point for the Fraternity. The incredible effort put forth by the colony to repaint, clean, and repair the house brought the brotherhood together in a new and stronger bond.

The past year was not easy. The ability of Beta Upsilon's membership to adapt and to overcome adversity, miscommunication, and organizational difficulties was tested on a number of occasions. On each occasion, the men of Beta Upsilon learned new and better ways to surmount and overcome these "growing pains".

THE FIRST FOUNDING

On February 5, 1917, the local fraternity Omega Psi was founded on the University of Colorado's Boulder campus by thirteen men, with the purpose of promoting friendship, general welfare and scholarship among its members. It was an organization born from a desire not being met in the lives of its founders, a desire for "a more democratic attitude and a sincere effort on the part of fraternity members to accomplish the things worth while in college life." These young men could have joined established organizations, but they had an idea for a better group, and the dedication to make it a reality.

The determination to succeed was proven during the turbulent years of World War I, when well over half the members entered military service and others were forced to leave school, yet the group survived. Following the war, Omega Psi firmly established itself as a solid organization with increased membership and financial stability.

During this period of stability, the group decided to seek affiliation with a national fraternity. On March 18, 1922, Omega Psi was officially installed as the Beta Upsilon chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha at the University of Colorado.

Beta Upsilon chapter flourished for forty-seven years, until its charter was withdrawn in 1969. The separation would not be permanent, though; with the hard work of the National Fraternity staff and area alumni, PiKA's hiatus lasted only eighteen years.

In light of the rechartering of Beta Upsilon on October 15, 1988, it is interesting to point out some similarities between the men who formed Omega Psi and the men who formed the Beta Upsilon colony. Both groups were composed of young men who could have joined strong, established, popular groups. They chose not to do so, but instead chose a much tougher task: forming a new group that would meet their needs. They were not satisfied with the status quo. They saw a vision of the ideal fraternity; they knew that was what they would have.

The Beta Upsilon chapter is ready to begin the new quest, and see that vision come to life.

Expansion Updates

Pi Kappa Alpha Moves Forward On Six College Campuses

Southern Illinois University

On September 8th, 1988, Associate Director of Expansion Todd Allard and Chapter Consultant John Miranda arrived on the campus of Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Illinois. This campus would be their home for the next month, as they went about the business of establishing a new colony for Pi Kappa Alpha.

Allard and Miranda quickly built a positive reputation for Pi Kappa Alpha by setting high standards for membership and by basing the colony on high ideals: scholarship, leadership, and social development as gentlemen.

After receiving much support from the University, the Greek system and alumni, Allard and Miranda recruited thirty-seven of the best men the campus had to offer. These men were then pledged to Pi Kappa Alpha on Friday evening, October 7, 1988. The colonization ceremony was conducted by Theta Omicron (Indiana State) and Epsilon Iota (Southeast Missouri State), which will also serve as host chapters to the colony. A colony advisory board was established to assist the colony in its development.

Pi Kappa Alpha was invited to colonize at Southern Illinois by the Greek system at that campus, which consists of fourteen fraternities and eight sororities.

Columbia University

The Columbia colony began a successful fall term by recruiting eleven men during rush. The group continues to be a leader on campus in the area of community service. Members recently sponsored an all campus Date Rape Awareness and Prevention seminar. The colony achieved a 3.0+ GPA last term.

University of California at Santa Barbara

Fall Rush brought twenty-two pledges into the of Pi Kappa Alpha

Santa Barbara colony, one of the largest pledge classes on campus. The colony moved over the summer months into one of the most competitive houses in the local Greek community. The colony GPA for spring was 2.76, ranking the group third out of fourteen fraternities at UCSB.

Florida Southern College

The Delta Delta colony is enjoying a successful fall quarter, having pledged twelve men in an intense formal rush period. The members are continuing their campus involvement by sponsoring and participating in College events, as well as serving in leadership positions.

Michigan State University

Michigan State Colony picked up this fall where it left off in the spring as the members continue their climb to the top of the MSU Greek system. They began by pledging twelve men in fall rush and continued by finishing second in Derby Days out of a field of thirty-two competitors. The colony is active on campus and continues to be a force in intramural athletics.

California Polytechnic State University

The Cal Poly colony is off and running this fall after a successful spring quarter in which the members achieved a 2.79 GPA, top among campus fraternities. Fall rush brought twenty-two new pledges to the group, the second largest pledge class on campus. Last spring, the colony took first place in its softball division. Members are concentrating on recruitment in their efforts to reach their installation objectives.

Chapter Notes

Z The brothers of Zeta chapter at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville have had a very encouraging fall. They pledged forty-five excellent young men, and expect to initiate brother number two thousand in the near future. These accomplishments came on the heels of a successful spring. Zeta won all-campus softball, Anchor Splash, and all-fraternity tennis. The pledge class placed second campus-wide in its cumulative grade point average.

I The past year has been one of great successes for the brothers of Iota chapter at Hampden Sydney. At last spring's graduation awards, the chapter received the College's two highest fraternity awards. One was for their efforts in community service, including hosting Special Olympics, Adopt-A-Family, monthly movie nights, an Easter egg hunt for disadvantaged children, walk-a-thons and volunteer blood drives. The other award was Best All Around Fraternity On Campus, based on academics, community service, intramural sports, and other categories set by the dean of fraternities.

The chapter is especially proud of three 1988 graduates: Ted Hodges received the school's award for excellence in the study of economics, Walter Thorne received the award for excellence in the study of history, and Frank Friedman received the Omicron Delta Kappa citizenship award.

Iota chapter would like to recognize and thank Ted Hodges, along with the Housing Corporation, for their help with the building on Iota's new deck. This handsome addition to the house has been dedicated to Mrs. P.T. Atkinson, wife of the late Paul Tulane Atkinson, former Pi Kappa Alpha Grand Secretary. The brothers thank Mrs. Atkinson for her friendship and hospitality.

K During the past spring semester, Kappa chapter at Transylvania University celebrated its 100th anniversary. The chapter, in conjunction with the Alumni Association, held a 100 Years Banquet, followed by the traditional Dream Girl Formal. Other spring alumni activities included an alumni reception, several brotherhood nights, and the publication of an alumni newsletter.

In February, the chapter mourned the loss of its long-time alumnus and supporter, John T. (Teeny) Gentry (Kappa '30). While at Transylvania, Gentry was very active in both campus and fraternity activities. He later served as chapter advisor for ten years. Over 300 actives, alumni and friends attended his funeral.

To serve the community, Kappa held its annual Easter egg hunt, participated in pledge class and campus-wide blood drives, and supported the Lexington Senior Citizens Health Fair. The chapter also donated over 300 pounds of food to God's Pantry Crisis Center. This activity was financed by a pledge class fundraiser. At the end of the semester, Kappa received Alpha Omicron Pi's Mary Breckinridge Award, given to the most community-oriented Greek organization on campus.

Kappa's campus involvement has included participation in Transylvania's Campus Sing and intramural programs. Additionally, nearly every pledge and active joined the Alumni Phone-A-Thon to raise funds for the University.

M In 1987, the brothers of Mu chapter at Presbyterian College created the Robert D. Lynn Award. The first recipient of this award was Brooks McCall, and the second was Bob Waters. This award is presented to the most distinguished alumni of Mu chapter, those who have served both Fraternity and community. A portrait of Robert D. Lynn hangs in the chapter house, above the plaque bearing the recipients' names. The active brothers of Mu chapter are proud of their alumni who have given so much of themselves.

The annual Special Olympics was held on March 25, 1988 at Mu chapter at Presbyterian College raised money for the Special Olympics with a Wheelchair Run.

Presbyterian, a day of fun for disabled children. This year, Mu decided to help the cause even further by sponsoring a wheelchair run from Greenwood to Clinton, South Carolina, a distance of 28 miles. When the games opened, Mu chapter used the proceeds of their efforts, $484, to buy everyone a Special Olympics T-shirt.

T At a time when the Greek system is the object of numerous criticisms, Tau chapter at the University of North Carolina undertook a service project which would serve not only as a worthwhile fundraiser, but also a good public relations endeavor. The project, spearheaded by Norwood Teague, involved a reenactment of a journey undertaken by the University's first student, Hinton James, who walked the route from Wilmington to Chapel Hill in 1795.

The chapter began the trek at 5:00 p.m. on April 8, 1988, at the historical marker on Highway 117, which acknowledges James' birthplace and grave. Each brother of Tau chapter participated, and the 131-mile journey was divided into approximate two-mile segments. They ran all through the night, accompanied by an RV full of tireless brothers anxious to run their portions. When they arrived at Chapel Hill the next day, they were met by Dean Fredric Schroeder, to whom they presented an application to the University filled out with Hinton James' specifics. They were also met by a representative of United Way of Chapel Hill and Carrboro, to whom they presented a check for $6,000.

The event was well publicized, and sponsors included local businesses, families, students and alumni. The chapter is considering the run as an annual event.

Ω Omega chapter at the University of Kentucky had a most successful fall rush, pledging 43 young men, more than any other fraternity on campus. The brothers have been likewise successful in campus intramurals: currently, all three of their flag football teams are in playoff competition, and they recently captured the IM track meet.

Active on campus, Omega sponsored an alcohol-free campus-wide party during Alcohol Awareness Week, which was co-chaired by brother Mark Rucker. Lance Dowdy, a new Omega pledge, was elected one of four freshman senators; Jim Keenan was appointed to the Student Activities Board in charge of the campus Parents Weekend; and Michael Kuder has been named to UK's Greek Activities Steering Committee. Alumni relations were supported with a Homecoming 1988 Parent-Alumni dance.

Omega chapter is also proud of its Sober Brother Program, targeting the elimination of drunken driving.

AA

Alpha Alpha chapter at Duke University has a long list of achievements for the 1987-88 school year, including participation in intramural soccer, football, and basketball, social mixers with the Duke community as well as the University of North Carolina and Meredith, and the hosting of two formal dances. Among its volunteer service, educational and cultural programs, the chapter took Durham children to football games, tutored through the Concern and Help for the Advancement of Needy Children through Education program, participated in the Circle K Service Club, Dialing for Duke, the Safewalk Program, the Big Brother Program, Wilderness Outdoor Opportunity for Durham Students, the Cerebral Palsy charity, the Ronald McDonald House Volleyball Tournament, and sponsored lectures throughout the year. The brothers also sponsored a barbecue with exchange students from the U.S.S.R. and won the Delta Gamma Anchor Splash for the second year.

AA

Alpha Delta chapter at Georgia Tech won the IFC Philanthropy trophy last spring by donating over 300 community service hours and $9,000 to the Leukemia Society of America. The chapter has set these high community service goals for itself this year: raise over $10,000 for the Leukemia Society; host a fundraiser in spring 1989 for the Link Counseling Center; contribute over 300 community service hours by helping with the Bush campaign, Georgia Tech Alumni Roll Call, Scottish Rite Children's Hospital, the Salvation Army and the Leukemia Society.

The Pikes were the second overall fraternity in intramural athletic competition. Alpha Delta was the school champion in water polo, placed in the school final four in football, soccer and softball, and was runner-up in Greek Week.

AZ

Alpha Zeta chapter at the University of Arkansas-Fayetteville continues to work and rebuild. The chapter has been under the direction of an alumni receivership board since 1985. Through reeducation, restructuring and careful planning, the chapter is working toward emerging from receivership stronger and better than ever. Alumni, especially, have worked hard on several projects including the remodeling of the chapter house and a new pledge program.

The new and revised Associate Member Program has been implemented. Under this program, pledges are taught the history and values of the Fraternity through a structured education program of seminars, lectures, and written tests, which gradually prepares them to be responsible brothers. Risk management, financial responsibility, academics and time management receive special attention. The program was established with the help of members, alumni, and the National Fraternity with the approval of the University.

Two alumni have been inducted into the University of Arkansas Hall of Honor: Lance Alworth, a 1961 All-American, former wide receiver with the San Diego Chargers, and NFL Hall of Fame inductee; and Glen Rose, a 1928 Basketball All-American and former coach of the Arkansas Razorbacks for 23 years. These Pike alumni were two of the first six inductees in the University of Arkansas Hall of Honor.

AI

Memorial dedications for two revered alumni of Alpha Iota chapter at Millsaps College highlighted the celebration of the chapter's new house this spring. The house was named in honor of Sanford Martin Graham, the chapter's first SMC and founding member. Seventeen members of the Graham family, which boast six Pikes, participated in the dedication. Hardy M. Graham (Gamma Iota) and Mary Sanford Myatt made a major gift toward the construction of the house, and endowed a $25,000 scholarship in memory of their father. The scholarship was awarded this year to brother Chris Nichols, a sophomore, who earned the highest grade point average during his freshman year.

The chapter room was named for Harvey T. Newell, Jr., Alpha Iota's legendary initiate and a past National President. Vic and Charlton Roby personally dedicated the room in memory of the man who encouraged them to attend Millsaps and join Pi Kappa Alpha. Alumnus Paul D. Hardin, faculty advisor for Alpha Iota, also shared personal stories about Harvey Newell's life and devotion to the Fraternity. William Newell Norton and Nancy Norton Allen, Harvey's niece and nephew, also attended the ceremony.

Pi Kappa Alpha brother Robert Parker Adams designed the Georgian-style house, which has 6,000 square feet, ten double rooms and one single room for a graduate resident advisor. According to Doug Minor, Alpha Iota House Corporation president, over 250 Pike alumni contributed $175,000 in cash and in-kind services to the housing campaign. "To have finally replaced the old Pike House, built in 1939, at 424 Marshall Street, with such a beautiful structure, is a dream come true."

Louis B. Quinto, Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Foundation's executive officer, made the closing remarks and congratulated Alpha Iota on its success.

The Building Committee received special recognition for its efforts. Those alumni members include: Eason Leake, chairman; Doug Minor, Bob Adams, Paul Hardin, Ken O'Keefe, Erik Hearon, Fred Ezelle, Bill Graham and John Allen.

AK

Alpha Kappa chapter at the University of Missouri-Rolla has recently experienced one of the greatest years in its history. After winning both Greek Week and Intramurals, they achieved the honor of winning the Smythe Award at the 1988 National Convention. In addition, they also received the regional campus involvement award. Brothers of Alpha Kappa are president of the UMR student council, president and secretary of the Intramural Managers' Association, and president of the Blue Key leadership honorary. Alpha Kappa boasts a pledge class of thirty-one men, including six varsity athletes. This is the largest pledge class on campus. The chapter placed in nearly every Homecoming event, and took first place overall. The brothers are also proud of their candidate's selection as Homecoming Queen.

AE

Alpha Xi chapter at the University of Cincinnati is proud of its achievements at the 1988 National Convention in Memphis. The nine attending brothers brought back a Chapter Excellence award, a Powers Award, the Nester Award and the coveted Smythe award. Also, the National Presidents' Room in the new Memorial Headquarters was dedicated in honor of the three national presidents from that chapter.

Following the summer's excitement with the achievement of the Smythe Award, Alpha Xi went into rush, pledging twenty-eight men, and Powers Award recipient John Mang was recognized as the University's Greek Man of the Year.

In athletics, the brothers of Alpha Xi are represented at the varsity level with starting players in football and rugby. Major intramural victories are pointing toward the chapter's receipt of the overall intramural championship.

Alpha Xi is also represented on campus by members of the Order of Omega, ODK, Metro Society, and The Cincinnati Society. Senior class president is Alpha Xi's SMC, Bill Ogle.

AO

The brothers of Alpha Omicron chapter at Southwestern University are enjoying a successful semester, and celebrating their sixth annual victory in Homecoming Sing. The chapter's theme this year was "A Salute to America". Songs included in their performance were You're A Grand Old Flag, This Is My Country, America, and I'm A Yankee Doodle Boy. Alpha Omicron also won the Homecoming Parade with its entry, the "Tourism Brigade." These two awards crowned the Homecoming weekend for the Georgetown, Texas chapter.

Alpha Omicron continues to lead the school in campus organizations. The Residence Life Staff is largely composed of Pi Kappa Alpha brothers, as are the Senate and Student Judiciary. The presidents of IFC and the Student Foundation are also members of Alpha Omicron, as are officers of Blue Key, the Union Program Council, and Upward Bound.

The chapter is also justly proud of the fact that the top two members of the Southwestern Golf team are Pikes.

BT

1989 will mark the 75th anniversary of Beta Gamma chapter at the University of Kansas. The chapter will celebrate its Founders Day in February with a campus variety show, "Rock Chalk Review", in which the brothers are collaborating with the members of Chi Omega Sorority.

Currently, the Lawrence, Kansas house has 109 members, the fourth largest on campus. This year's rush has been the best in recent history, and the thirty-three man pledge class has already shown itself to possess leaders ready to carry on Beta Gamma's traditions. The chapter has a reputation for producing leaders in the student and Greek governments, varsity sports, and community involvement. Scott Russell is the Interfraternity Council's vice president for membership. Mark McAuliffe serves as IFC secretary. Mike Heitman is this year's president for the KU chapter of the National Society of Architectural Engineers, and is a student senator, as is Kyle Witherspoon.

After participating in Greek Week with the Chi Omega Sorority and the Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity, the Pikes are continuing Greek unity with Homecoming events in conjunction with the Delta Delta Delta Sorority. The chapter celebrated its annual black-tie formal on November 5.

BA

Beta Delta chapter at the University of New Mexico is off to a great start this year. The debt to the National Fraternity that was incurred before Beta Delta's reorganization was paid in full at the 1988 National Convention by a prominent Beta Delta alumnus, former National President Roy D. Hickman. The chapter is now officially off reorganizational status and has already shown great progress in the beginning of the fall semester.

Rush week was very successful. Twenty-two men were pledged, the largest pledge class on the New Mexico campus.

Intramurals were highlighted by the Pikes' University championship in one-pitch softball. The chapter is in first place in the intramural point standings after seven events.

Also noteworthy is the fact that the Estufa has been recognized by the state of New Mexico as a state historical landmark, and progress is being made toward having it recognized as a national historic landmark.

BH

Beta Eta chapter at the University of Illinois recently won the annual Delta Gamma Anchor Splash, and has added to its athletic record with brother Chuck Johnson, who won unanimously in his weight division of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Boxing Tournament. Philanthropy is also big at the Champaign, Illinois chapter, which hosted the Miss Greek University of Illinois contest with the proceeds going to United Way. The chapter will also hold a blood drive in conjunction with Kappa Alpha Theta.

BO

Beta Omicron chapter at Oklahoma State University is justifiably proud of its accomplishments, which were recognized this summer at the 1988 National Convention. The chapter was one of forty-four which received the Chapter Excellence award, given to those chapters which excel in the areas of recruitment, scholarship, pledge education, intramurals and chapter programming. The OSU chapter has won the Chapter Excellence award for the past three years.

Beta Omicron also received the National Publications Award for excellence in its four publications: The Pikeline, a rush manual; Turn Pike, an alumni publication; Pikes Speak; and the newest publication, The Brothers Manual.

The OSU Pikes also received national recognition for their Walk-A-Thon from Stillwater, Oklahoma, to Memphis, Tennessee. This was part of their effort for the Chapter Challenge program, to raise funds for the Fraternity's Memorial Foundation. "We were able to raise $1,250 from pledges and donations to the Walk-A-Thon," said brother William Frase.

Beta Omicron also presented a check for $620 to the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Association of Stillwater this year.

Spring Carnival was a big event for Beta Sigma chapter at Carnegie-Mellon Institute. The buggy races drew large crowds, and the chapter took a second place win with its entry, the "Predator". The brothers' other buggy, "Thunder", placed fifth. Mark D'Costa pushed "Predator" to victory, with Evan Kaliner energizing "Thunder". There were fifty-five entries in the men's competition, and the Pikes placed second, fifth, thirteenth and twenty-first. The women of Kappa Alpha Theta pushed two of the Pike-built buggies, placing first and seventh out of twenty-one entries in the women's races. Plans are already underway for victory in next year's race.

The beginning of fall quarter has been extremely exciting and successful for Beta Chi chapter at the University of Minnesota. Fall rush went very well. The chapter pledged twenty-three outstanding men, including the starting defensive tackle on the UM football team. The total chapter membership is 100, making it by far the largest fraternity on campus. Recently initiated was starting wide receiver Jason Bruce, Beta Chi's first varsity football player. The highlight of fall rush was a retreat, attended by National Rush Director Tom Handler. His enthusiasm proved to be of great advantage to the chapter.

Pi Kappa Alpha was paired with Gamma Phi Beta for this year's Homecoming. The chapter received the first place trophy for the House Front competition and Cheer competition. The brothers finished second in volleyball, and the combined ΠΚΑ/ΓΦΒ team took the overall first place trophy.

The chapter is very proud of winning a Smythe Award at the 1988 National Convention, and also of brother Craig Stoehr, who was appointed as an undergraduate vice president on the Supreme Council.

The Beta Chi chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha, and the Memorial Foundation, would like to thank Mrs. Lee Slater for her overwhelming donation of $20,000 toward the chapter's scholarship fund.

ΓΑ

The Gamma Alpha chapter at the University of Alabama had a great rush, thanks to the efforts of all the brothers throughout the summer and in open rush. Forty-one men were pledged this fall, six of them legacies. They join the seventy-one active members of the chapter.

Academically, the chapter ranks second among all fraternities with over fifty members on the Tuscaloosa, Alabama campus. The brothers are also talented athletically, winning the All Campus Sports championship for the second straight year.

Gamma Alpha has been making some improvements on the chapter house over the past few years. Over the summer, the brothers spent $16,000 redecorating their Founders room; the year before they redecorated the den and painted the foyer and dining room.

ΓΙ

Gamma Iota chapter at the University of Mississippi had a very successful rush and pledged thirty-nine men this semester. The brothers credit this success to their summer rush program and to their rush chairmen for the past year, Meade Mitchell, Kurt Lind and Stephen Wagner.

Gamma Iota's SMC Todd Underwood, IMC Jim Eickholz, and SC Steven Chevalier attended the 1988 National Convention in Memphis, Tennessee this summer. They took home the National Rush Award and some great memories.

ΓΞ

On Saturday, October 8, the overall Homecoming winners were announced at Washington State University: Gamma Xi chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha, and Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority.

In addition to their Homecoming win, the brothers of Gamma Xi were successful in rush, pledging twenty men.

The Gamma Xi Alumni Association was formed on August 30, 1988. An Alumni Advisory Board was also formed, including Stu Thomas, Ed Murphy, Mike Capetto and Matt Mulder.

Chapter house improvements have been a priority this year, with many new furnishings being purchased. The brothers have completely refur-

Gamma Tau chapter at Rennselaer Polytechnic Institute reports a fine rush in which twenty-seven men were pledged. The chapter also has a high profile in the Rennselaer IFC, with brother Dave Hambleton serving as president and Chris Garvey as vice president for rush.

In this year's IFC sports competition, Gamma Tau came in third out of the thirty-four fraternities competing. Also active in community service, the brothers of Gamma Tau sponsored their first annual Road Race, with the proceeds going to Cystic Fibrosis. Additionally, the chapter took first place honors among the Rennselaer fraternities for donating the most units of blood in the campus-wide blood drive.

At Delta Gamma chapter at Miami University, the chapter house is taking on a new look. The house was originally built in 1967, and after twenty years was ready for some major improvements. Over the past year, the roof has been resingled, the exterior painted, and the gutters replaced. $10,000 in alumni donations assisted in this great effort, and the chapter welcomes visitors to see its refurbished home.

Delta Zeta chapter at Memphis State University held the first competition between the three major colleges in that city, "The Memphis Greek Olympiad of 1988 for United Cerebral Palsy."

The olympiad was a battle between all the fraternities and sororities at Memphis State, Rhodes College (home of PiKA's Theta chapter) and Christian Brothers College. The event was held on downtown Mud Island, with Memphis to the east and the Mississippi River to the west. Sixteen Greek groups competed in volleyball, tug-of-war and an obstacle course. The day's events raised over $800. Local TV celebrities emceed, including brother Bob McLain (Delta Zeta) of local NBC affiliate Channel 5. Trophies were presented by world renowned designer and Memphis resident Pat Kerr Tigrett. Jon Neal, event chairman, said, "This was the first time ever that each major network in the city covered an event for fraternities. . . Pi Kappa Alpha has made a name for itself citywide." (Photo on page 12)

Marshall University's Interfraternity Council held its annual awards ceremony on May 2, 1988, and Delta Iota chapter took top awards. Most Outstanding Chapter and Best Pledge Education Program awards went to the Huntington, West Virginia chapter. The IFC's Man of the Year award went to Carlos Crawford, who served Delta Iota as SMC last year.

The spring '88 pledge class organized several fund raisers and community service projects under the guidance of pledge class president Bill France. The first community service project took place at the Morris Memorial, where pledges and actives took time and care to visit senior citizens. The Knights of Columbus gave pledges and actives the opportunity to work together in a Tootsie Roll drive to benefit retarded children. The brothers raised over $2,800 in two days.

The pledges also held a car wash and a Lounge-A-Thon to raise money for the Salvation Army.

ΔΕ

Sports are a favorite activity at Delta Xi chapter at Indiana University. Brother Vince Coviello won intramural all-campus golf, and the chapter also won as a unit. The brothers are proud to say that each active member and pledge of the chapter is involved in campus intramurals.

Last April, Delta Xi's bike team participated in the annual Little 500 race, coming in sixth out of the top ten. Racers Rick Lostutter and Jason Anderson are already gearing up for next year's event.

Scholarship holds a high priority at Delta Xi. The chapter is benefiting from a live-in graduate academic advisor who has run pledge study tables and provided incentive to all actives and pledges to succeed scholastically. Pledges have also had the advantage of in-house tutors.

The Pikes have always been active in the Indiana University community. Their goals this year are to have over 100 hours of community service per month. They are actively involved in all Hoosier Homecoming Carnival events, along with continued involvement with Big Brothers and the local Catholic church.

Fall rush went very well for the chapter, thirty men were pledged, the largest pledge class on campus. A revamped rush program and strong summer rush are credited Socially, Delta Xi is the most active house on campus. The Annual Greek Grill-Out and the Pike-Kappa Breakfast of Champions, along with many non-alcoholic parties have also made Delta Xi the most respected house on campus.

The newly established Parents Club has benefited the chapter greatly. Improvements to the house, including refurnishing, recarpeting, rewiring, and the installation of new fire alarms has made the chapter house a safer and more comfortable place to live.

ΔΟ

In putting together its latest philanthropy project, Delta Omicron chapter at Drake University expanded on previous efforts to sponsor the third annual Whodunnit? mystery.

As in previous years, Greek houses at Drake competed to solve a murder mystery by obtaining clues from a variety of role-playing witnesses. However, this time several new twists were added.

WHO-TV, a local television station, served as a co-sponsor with Delta Omicron and ran promotional announcements featuring chapter officers, alumni, and local TV personalities.

In addition, philanthropy chairman Steve Lorenzini decided to bring more of the community into the project by setting the entire mystery in the skywalk system of downtown Des Moines, Iowa. Witnesses told their stories in the offices and shopping areas of cooperating businesses, adding both realism to the story and visibility to the chapter. Finally, a downtown nightclub sponsored a team of its own and held an awards presentation and party for all participants.

To conclude the day's fun and activity, a check for $1,000 was presented to United Cerebral Palsy of Iowa.

ΔΣ

The brothers of Delta Sigma chapter at Bradley University took top honors in both the IFC and All University volleyball leagues, and repeated their performance in the All University wrestling tournament, which they finished eight points ahead of the closest team. Not content to be athletic winners alone, the Pikes made their mark on campus with brother Mike Spitalli being elected to the office of All School President. Other Pikes in leadership positions on campus include Scott Carter, president of the Data Processing Management Association; John Gusella, IFC secretary and vice president of the Hockey Club; Mike Rittenhouse, president of the Society of Manufacturing Engineers; and Paul Brettner, initiated into the Order of Omega.

Last April the brothers of Delta Sigma joined Delta Upsilon Fraternity in a community service project. They volunteered one day to work on painting the outside of an elderly Peoria, Illinois citizen's house. The fraternities' assistance saved the resident from receiving a fine from the City of Peoria, and provided good publicity for both the Greek system and Bradley University.

ΔΤ

Delta Tau chapter at Arizona State University began the academic year by pledging thirty-eight men, two of whom have earned spots on the roster of the varsity baseball team, the 1988 NCAA runners up. The successful rush was due in part to satellite pre-rush events hosted by brothers in Phoenix, Los Angeles and Chicago. These events attracted incoming freshmen, familiarizing them with Pi Kappa Alpha before they even went through rush.

Delta Tau's main goal this year is involvement. Fourteen men have earned positions in various campus organizations. In intramural competition, the chapter was victorious for the second year in the all Greek volleyball/basketball tournament to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The Pikes also took top honors in Delta Gamma's Anchor Splash. A highlight of the chapter's philanthropic schedule is the 150-mile running of the game ball from ASU in Tempe, Arizona, to the University of Arizona in Tucson for the two schools' annual football game. Proceeds from this fund raiser go to the Easter Seals Society.

Delta Tau's implementation of a comprehensive safety management program has been applauded by city and University officials. In September, university law enforcement officers closed most parties taking place on the University's fraternity row, but upon entering the Pike house, they found the chapter tightly adhering to all new University alcohol policies with the use of an identification signer book, more-than-adequate security, highly visible signs warning of the penalties for drunk driving and listing phone numbers of designated drivers, and the strict use of armbands to identify legal drinkers. The Tempe Department of Public Safety issued a special commendation to the chapter in the areas of risk, liability, and alcohol awareness education.

ET In February of 1988, Epsilon Gamma chapter at Texas Tech University continued a long-standing tradition with its fifteenth annual Pikefest weekend. The event had a carnival atmosphere with more than twenty food and game booths and live entertainment by musicians Sawyer Brown, winner of the 1984 Star Search talent show, and T. Graham Brown of Capitol Records. This year, Pikefest brought in over nine thousand people.

EZ Epsilon Zeta chapter at East Tennessee State University had an excellent year in campus involvement as well as intramural athletics during 1987-88. Leading the chapter in campus involvement was brother Lanny Bise. He served as a student government senator, selections chairman, senate review chairman, speaker pro tempore, and senator of the year. He had a large hand in starting the local BACCHUS chapter and served as its vice president and state coordinator. He is also the chapter's pledge trainer. John Wilkes, chapter secretary, served his second term as treasurer of the IFC.

The most rewarding event of the school year was the Greek Awards Banquet. Epsilon Zeta won five out of seven intramural sports trophies, and took the campus scholarship award. Winning in both of these categories allowed the chapter to take home the overall combined Intramural/Scholarship trophy.

EO The second annual Poudre River Cleanup was sponsored last April by Epsilon Theta chapter at Colorado State University. The event drew crowds of University fraternity and sorority members, as well as members of the Poudre River Association, CSU's Natural Resources Ecology Lab and the CSU ROTC. Groups of volunteers were assigned to clear two-mile stretches, leading 57 miles up the canyon. The clean-up crews started at 9:00 a.m., and by 1:30 p.m., most of the work was finished, said Epsilon Theta's philanthropy chairman Ian James, who coordinated the project. The crews managed to fill about 600 large trash bags with garbage.

EY Epsilon Upsilon chapter celebrated twenty-five years on the Gannon University campus in 1987. The active brotherhood grew by twenty-nine members that year, the largest single year growth in the chapter's history. Epsilon Upsilon also boasts the highest QPA among Greek organizations on campus, as well as the most community service man hours on record. The chapter finished second in the 1987-88 Greek International Program, and is anticipating the start of a comprehensive house renovation plan in April 1989.

ZA Zeta Alpha-A chapter at GMI Engineering and Management Institute started 1988 right by sponsoring The Great Pike Bike Race in downtown Flint, Michigan. Nationally affiliated riders from all over the country competed, with the proceeds going to United Cerebral Palsy. The chapter also won the Big Drop Award from GMI for the second term in a row. This award is given to the Greek organization donating the most to GMI's blood drive.

Rush was phenomenal for Zeta Alpha-A. Led by Rush Chairman Rob Harger, the Pikes emerged from a competitive five-week rush with twenty-three new pledges. The new pledge class brings the chapter's total number to seventy-one, the largest fraternity on campus.

Pikes are always involved in campus activities at GMI. Offices held by Zeta Alpha-A brothers include Greek assembly president, senior class representative, junior class representative, representative at large and soccer club president.

ZH David C. Maier, SMC of Zeta Eta chapter at the University of Arkansas-Little Rock, says that he has seen his chapter do things that he never thought were possible. The chapter's lodge was rapidly deteriorating and it had no working house corporation. The first order of business, after a new house corporation and alumni board were formed, was to take bids on reconstruction of the house. The old house had a flat roof which was leaking badly. The new plans included a pitched roof, new paint, new marble bathroom facilities, new interior cabinets, trophy case, metal doors, a new office and a 15x20 foot deck, which the chapter plans to put to good use during rush functions. The members worked endless hours with the construction company to cut costs on the project.

ZM Zeta Mu chapter at the University of Idaho has excelled during this year's dry rush. Located on New Greek Row, the chapter filled its house by pledging twenty-seven men. Under the leadership of Pledge Educator Andy Keys, the reconstructed pledge program is proving an overwhelming success. The sense of motivation exhibited by the pledge class, along with its pursuit of academic accomplishment and devotion to Zeta Mu has delivered a vibrant feeling of pride to the membership.

On campus, Pikes are involved in student government, IFC, and varsity athletics. The chapter is in the process of organizing an all-Greek ambassadorship to further bolster the Greek system at Idaho. Brother Fred LeClair is working with Pike brothers across the border at Washington State to increase relations between the two chapters. As a team, Zeta Mu and Gamma Xi chapters hope to be the front runners in the Northwest.

Zeta Mu is participating in intramurals in football playoffs, volleyball and three-man basketball.

As a community service effort, Zeta Mu answered the cry for help by Midwestern farmers who felt the shock of this summer's incredible drought. Over sixty Pikes loaded bales of hay from local farmers onto boxcars headed to Iowa and North Dakota. This event was in addition to over 700 hours of community service already accomplished.

Northeast Oklahoma State University President W. Roger Webb hands Theta Epsilon Chapter Advisor C. Justin Noble a certificate honoring the chapter's recognition and induction into the University's Hall of Fame.

Zeta Pi chapter hosted the largest Founders Day ever held at the University of South Florida last March, with over 150, including fifty-five alumni, attending the twentieth anniversary of the chapter's founding. National Rush Chairman Tom Handler was the keynote speaker. Special awards presented at the event included a gold SMC badge, given to Chandler Root for his exemplary leadership of the chapter over the past year, and a 2x3 foot birthday card given to Col. Kermit Silverwood, Zeta Pi's chapter advisor, in honor of over sixty-one years of service to Pi Kappa Alpha and twenty years of devotion to Zeta Pi.

Leadership is a byword for the brothers of Eta Beta chapter at Seton Hall University. Members of the chapter include the president of the Political Science Club, president of the Commuter Council, vice president of the Student Activities Board, three freshman peer advisors, and an intern in the Washington, D.C. office of Senator Frank Lautenberg.

In the area of sports, Eta Beta also stands among the best: seven varsity rugby players, including the team captain, and a varsity baseball player are members of the chapter. The brothers are also the intramural volleyball and softball champions.

Currently, the men of Eta Beta are helping the community of Patterson, New Jersey by working in soup kitchens to benefit the underprivileged.

HK

Eta Kappa chapter at the University of South Alabama received a letter of thanks from the Boys Clubs of Mobile, Alabama last May for the volunteer work done by the brothers over a four day period. They assisted the club with its "Coupons for Kids" fundraising project. Thanks to the Pikes' help, the Kiwanis Boys Club ranked second in the state of Alabama for selling the most coupons. Inger Anderson, unit director of the Boys Clubs of Mobile, Inc. writes, "Because of organizations like yours, we are better able to serve our youth."

HT

Eta Tau chapter at Austin Peay State University has won the honor of being named Fraternity of the Year by the APSU IFC for the second straight time. Judging was based on areas such as on-campus involvement, community service, sports and sportsmanship, relations with the faculty, and level of activity in Greek functions. Of eleven awards given by the IFC, the Pikes walked away with four top honors: Best Pledge Scholarship for the highest GPA among pledges (also a second time win), the All Sport Trophy, the Enrichment award for being the most improved fraternity on campus, and of course the prestigious Fraternity of the Year.

Brother Mike Castleberry commented, "We won (the Enrichment Award) for improvement in our weaker areas, including relations with other fraternities and administration. Alumni support increased over the year, also, which is illustrated by the new house we have." He was also enthusiastic about the Fraternity of the Year award, "It couldn't have been done without the support of all the brothers, but I think special mention should go to Greg Heathcock and Troy Douglas for putting together the application. Further appreciation should go to Wayne Wright. As a fraternity, you can never be too organized and ready internally, and externally we need to increase community service and Greek unity. With all of this, the fraternity experience becomes complete."

ΘΕ

The spring executive council of Theta Epsilon chapter at Northeast Oklahoma State University saw the realization of three chapter goals: the publication of an alumni newsletter, the organization of a functioning parents' association, and 100% accountability for members absent from meetings. The chapter's goal of an outstanding rush was also fulfilled, and eleven new brothers were initiated, including a Talequah, Oklahoma mayoral candidate and the sponsor of a camp for exceptional children.

Theta Epsilon was also a winner at the Arkoma Regional Leadership Conference, taking home the award for Most Improved Chapter and the Advisor of the Year Award for Dr. C. Justin Noble. Regional recognition prompted University recognition as well: Pi Kappa Alpha was the first fraternity to win the Organization of the Month award, and was bestowed the high honor of being the first fraternity named to the University's Hall of Fame.

The men of Theta Epsilon have collected a healthy array of trophies and titles this year, having won intramural tug-of-war, group raquetball, and the sportsmanship award. In Greek Week competitions, the chapter won first place in football, basketball, softball, talent competition, tug-of-war, and games day events. The brothers took the Greek Week Championship for the fourth year in a row.

At the annual Greek Banquet, Theta Epsilon won the Fraternity Scholarship Award for the eighth consecutive year as well as the Traveling Scholar Award for high grade point average, and the Outstanding Fraternity award for the third year. Brother Steve Kinion was named Mr. Greek for the second consecutive year. Kinion was one of five Seniors of the Month and a nominee for Senior of the Year. He was also named to Who's Who Among American University Students and a nominee for individual honors in the University's Hall of Fame. Additionally, Kinion was the outgoing IFC president. The incoming IFC president was also a Pike, Darryl Thomas.

In community service, Theta Epsilon donated Christmas trees to nursing homes, painted parking lot lines and cleaned ponds on campus, worked at the area Special Olympics, became a foster family to a senior family, and held its annual bass tournament at a camp for disabled citizens. The chapter also broke the University blood drive record by donating 132 units.

ΘΗ

Theta Eta chapter at Loyola-Marymount University is particularly proud of brother Mike Vigil, who last year rescued a drowning woman from the waters of Marina Del Rey. Vigil is a member of the National Crew Team.

Fall and spring rush netted twenty new members for the chapter, which has been active both on campus and in the community. Helping underprivileged children is a priority, in April the brothers participated in a bowl-a-thon to benefit Big Brothers of Greater Los Angeles. This televised event gained the Pikes recognition as the top fund raisers.

The chapter turned out in force for the Regional Leadership Conference in San Jose, where Chapter Advisor Tony Leoni received the top award for his leadership and guidance.

Key leadership positions during the 1987-88 year on the Loyola-Marymount campus were held by Troy Edwards, executive vice president of ASLMU (Student Government), Kevin Brazelton, student senator; and Bill Heidelman and Tom Sciada, vice presidents of the IFC.

Members of Theta Kappa chapter at Indiana University Southeast were instrumental this past year in reestablishing an Interfraternity Council and a Greek Council on campus. Brother John Loop was elected to be the first president of the Greek Council. Under his guidance, the council staged a highly successful benefit concert for the Christian Lay Ministries. Pikes at IUS also captured the Metro United Way Participation trophy by raising over $700 for the organization. The chapter also collected a whopping forty-six pounds of pennies during the United Way's Penny Drive.

In sports, Pi Kappa Alpha continued its reign by winning the All Sports trophy for the sixth straight year and retained the campus participation award for the second year.

Theta Kappa published its first quarterly alumni newsletter, Theta Kappa Today. This publication and the annual Labor Day picnic for alumni are only two of the ways Pikes at IUS try to show appreciation for their alumni members.

OM

Last spring at the University of Massachusetts Greek Awards Banquet, Theta Mu chapter won the Silver Chapter Excellence Award — the highest award given to a fraternity this year. In addition, senior Ron Berutti received the Gamma Gamma award, and SMC Kevin Philbin and IMC John Pankauski were inducted into the Order of Omega.

Alumni chairman John Cosseboom organized a successful alumni weekend on April 22-24, with many alumni taking part in a campus rope pull run by junior Mark McAndrews. Philanthropy chairmen Merle Bhavikar and Dave Schloss held a clothing drive for the Goodwill, which collected 500 pounds of clothes. Public Relations chairman Frank Fama sponsored a Parents' Day in April, which was attended by over 200. Social chairman Vic Arruda presented two seminars: one on liability, hosted by a local Amherst attorney, and one on alcohol awareness. Pledge instructor Pete Vaz and the Alpha Epsilon pledge class repainted and recarpeted the chapter house weight room, and installed an incline board and leg machine. House Manager Rick Formissani received approval from the house corporation to relandscape the front lawn. Scott Princer, IFC vice president of activities, organized the campus Greek Week. Joe Errico and Bill Olohan were elected to the Greek area's only seat on the board of governors, while Mike Kearney and Tom Leeson were elected senators. On the UM athletic teams, Eric Whitley plays volleyball, Dom Marone and Michael Chambers play baseball, Dan Smillee and Mark Casey play rugby, and Ariel Manglanit cheers for football and basketball.

OO

Theta Omicron chapter at Indiana State University is celebrating its tenth anniversary on campus. Rush provided the chapter's first success of the semester as a strong summer and fall program pledged fifty new associates, one of whom will be the chapter's 500th initiate. Theta Omicron is also following tradition as the chapter leads the University intramural competition. The chapter claims the University champion in tennis, Kenny Roemer. On the track, Theta Omicron placed first as a team. Student government president Tim Vitoux is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha, as are many of the senators and cabinet members. The chapter has already compiled almost 400 hours of community service and raised over $1,000 designated for the Chapter Challenge campaign. Theta Omicron is presently planning the largest banquet ever held in the city of Terre Haute. An expected 800+ guests will celebrate the chapter's chartering on April 15, 1989 at Hulman Civic Center. Past National President William Nester will be the guest speaker.

OP

Theta Rho chapter at Northern Arizona University made a strong start this fall by pledging thirty-four men, the best rush experienced by any fraternity on campus. The chapter is working hard to retain the All Fraternity intramural trophy for the sixth straight

Theta Omicron chapter at Indiana State University teamed with Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority in the Yell-Like-Hell Competition during ISU's Homecoming. year. Theta Rho's Garnet and Gold football teams have both placed first in their divisions and are on their way to capturing first and second in all campus play. The brothers have captured the all campus titles in bowling, singles table tennis and doubles table tennis. Theta Rho entered a six man crew in The Great American Raft Race held last September and placed second. The entry fees from that race went to volunteer programs. Brother Bob Pearce has obtained a pilot slot with the Air Force, and will be headed for flight school after graduation.

Theta Rho has just completed its fourth annual walk-a-dog for the Coconino Country Humane Society. Chapter members and pledges walk all the dogs available for adoption for about two hours to give the dogs some exercise and let them have some fun.

OS

Theta Sigma chapter at Winthrop College is proud to announce a successful Homecoming. The chapter won first place in the float competition and second place in the Greek four-wheeled race. Homecoming this year ran in conjunction with Theta Sigma's alumni weekend. Over forty alumni spent the weekend at the College, including two of the chapter's founding fathers, Robbie Sisco and Terence Williams. Dr. Jerome V. Reel, Jr. spoke at the Sunday dinner, and contributed to Theta Sigma's great weekend.

The chapter is proud of brother Steve Maag, who was elected president of Delta Psi Kappa, and chosen as Winthrop's most outstanding physical education student.

OY

Twenty-five young men are experiencing a more fruitful college life as a result of having pledged Theta Upsilon chapter at Tennessee Technological University. The chapter was a second time recipient of the Chapter Excellence Award at the 1988 National Convention, and is working hard in the pursuit of a Smythe award.

During the week of October 10-16, the chapter sponsored its annual Pikes Peak. Fourteen fraternities and sororities will participate in the event, which will raise money for the Happy Haven Home for Children, a local orphanage.

Pi Kappa Alpha will team with the Kappa Delta Sorority to compete in events during Tennessee Tech's Homecoming this year. New to Homecoming for Theta Upsilon this year will be the first Fireman's Ball, consisting of a dinner, speakers, and party, designed to attract and increase alumni involvement. In this way, the members wish to assert the saying "Once a Pike, Always a Pike."

Theta Upsilon is sponsoring the third annual "Football Run", in which members will run the game ball from Tennessee Tech to their arch rival, Middle Tennessee State University, in order to raise money for the Putnam County United Way.

THE Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Headquarters

A Pictorial of the New Building

Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Headquarters
8347 West Range Cove, Memphis, Tennessee 38138

August 15, 1988 marked the beginning of a new era for Pi Kappa Alpha. On this day the Fraternity officially opened its newest Headquarters building at 8347 West Range Cove in Memphis, Tennessee.

The concept of a headquarters is not a new one for the Fraternity. Pi Kappa Alpha has had a permanent home in Memphis since 1954. However, the Fraternity outgrew its original home of thirty-four years at 577 University Boulevard. Plans to add on were studied, but an offer from Rhodes College to buy the building (in order to enhance its campus) put the wheels in motion for the construction of a new Headquarters.

Over 1,000 undergraduate brothers, alumni and local officials were on hand in August to celebrate the completion of the building project and the beginning of a great new era for Pi Kappa Alpha.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Headquarters, as it is officially called, serves as home for the operations of Pi Kappa Alpha's 180 chapters and colonies, and for the storage and display of the Fraternity's memorabilia, which has been collected throughout the Fraternity's 120 year history.

Despite the move, the Headquarters has maintained its original purpose as a memorial to those brothers who served in the military and were killed in battle. During dedication ceremonies, the United States Navy helped the Fraternity honor its Gold Star Heroes with the presentation of our nation's colors and a twenty-one gun salute. Special greetings were also sent to the Fraternity by President Ronald Reagan and First Lady Nancy Reagan.

The building itself contains over 24,000 square feet of museum, meeting and office space. It sits on a 2.5 acre tract of land in Germantown, a southeast suburb of Memphis.

The Fraternity invites all members to stop in and visit the Headquarters when they have the chance to travel through Memphis. Each year hundreds of members do just that. Like so many chapters already, the Fraternity also invites chapters to bring their members for tours and to utilize the meeting rooms in the Memorial Headquarters for chapter retreats.

The building is open on Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. For special tours and to reserve meeting rooms, members should contact the director of Foundation programs by calling (901) 748-1868.

The focal point of the new Memorial Headquarters is the rotunda. Designed in the Jeffersonian style, it is modeled after the rotunda at the University of Virginia, the birth place of Pi Kappa Alpha. Visitors walking through its doors are greeted with this magnificent sight. A balcony outside the Garnet and Gold Board Room overlooks the marble floored reception area.

Pi Kappa Alpha is proud of its collection of memorabilia representing our rich 120 year heritage. Here, along the far wall of the Freeman H. Hart Museum, the Fraternity proudly displays many of those artifacts in a wall-length exhibit case. The museum carries the name of the Fraternity's first historian, Freeman H. Hart (Iota '28).

One of the most impressive rooms in the new Headquarters is the Harvey T. Newell Library. The Library contains books written by and about members of the Fraternity, bound volumes of the Shield and Diamond dating to 1890, the History of Pi Kappa Alpha, and a variety of books and publications from other national fraternities and universities. The Library is named for Past National President Harvey T. Newell (Alpha Iota '30), 1952-53, who was killed in a plane crash while serving the Fraternity in that capacity.

Before entering the Garnet & Gold Board Room (below), visitors may wait in the Pre-Function Area (right). A painting, entitled 'Figures on a Beach' (circa 1900), by American artist Walter Saterlee, graces this area. This painting, and four others, were donated to the Memorial Foundation by Dr. A. Everette James (Tau '57).

Overhead in the rotunda, a stained glass rendition of the Fraternity's coat-of-arms shines down on the marble floor of the main foyer. Lighted at night, the coat-of-arms is a constant reminder of Pi Kappa Alpha's heritage.

The six portraits of Pi Kappa Alpha's Founders, painted in 1954 by Memphis artist Paul Penczner for the original Memorial Headquarters, are displayed on the paneled walls of the rotunda's reception area.

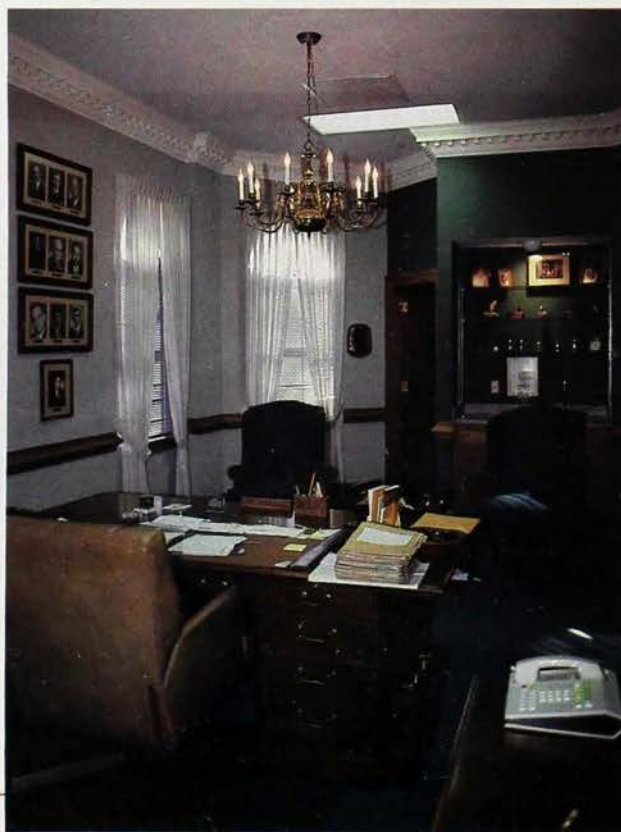

In another area of the Freeman H. Hart Museum, artifacts belonging to those founders who were in uniform during the "conflict between the states" are displayed.

Two rooms located outside of the Garnet and Gold Board Room, the National President's Room (right) and the Memorial Foundation President's Room (below) provide space for smaller break out meetings. Alumni from Alpha Xi chapter have made a contribution to the Foundation to honor the three alumni from that chapter who have served as national president: Ralph F. Yeager (1953-54), Dr. William R. Nester (1978-80) and Gary E. Menchhofer (1984-86).

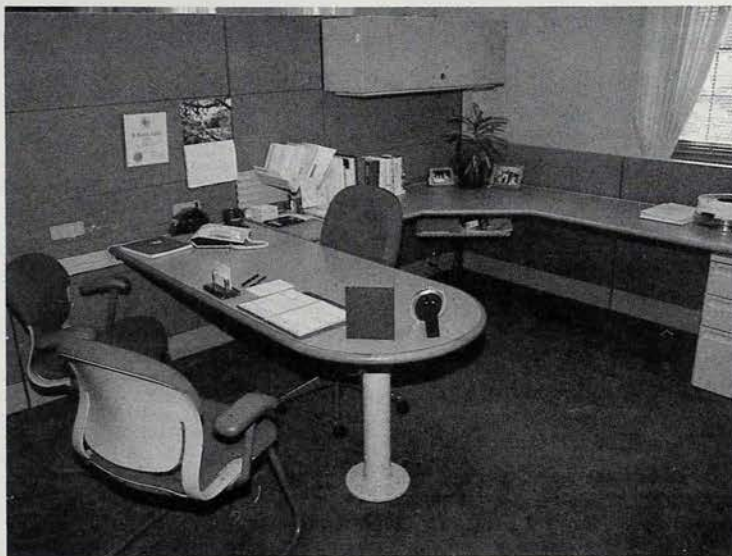

Alumni from Alpha Nu have made the same pledge on behalf of the Memorial Foundation President's Room, honoring four of its alumni who have served as president of the Memorial Foundation: Powell B. McHaney (1950-57), James P. Brown (1962-64), Chester M. Brown (1970-74), and George W. Denton (1984-87).

Raymond L. Orians, Pi Kappa Alpha's tenth Executive Vice President, oversees the entire Fraternity operation from this office.

In keeping with the original purpose of the former Headquarters, the new building is also dedicated to those brothers who served our country in uniform and were killed in the line of duty.

Pictured here is the Gold Star Memorial located at the foot of the Grand Stairway, between the rotunda and the museum. Uniforms worn by members of the Fraternity, and representing each war, stand vigil in front of a plaque listing the names of those brothers who died while defending our country's freedom.

Pictured here is the office of the Director of Foundation Programs. All members of Pi Kappa Alpha's staff perform their jobs of maintaining the daily operations of the Fraternity and Foundation from similar offices. Combined, the Fraternity and Foundation staff totals twenty-five.

Our Man in Oil City

by Dr. Larry Lunsford

Quentin E. Wood, Quaker State's Chairman of the Board and Pi Kappa Alpha's Distinguished Achievement Award Recipient

Would you be willing to allow your home to become the ΠΚΑ house if the local chapter lost its house? That's exactly what Pi Kappa Alpha's 1988 Distinguished Achievement Award winner did back in the fall of 1942.

Quentin E. Wood, a 1942 initiate of Beta Alpha chapter at Pennsylvania State University, was a sophomore in the chapter during the early years of World War II when the Army and navy took over all the fraternity houses at Penn State to house and feed their recruits. Fifteen of the ΠΚΑs who lived in the chapter house had to find a new place to live.

"We moved to my parents' house, which was about six miles north of State College," Brother Wood says. "My family had a rather large home."

What did his folks think about the arrangement? "They were happy to do it. It was a means of providing housing for a group of nice young men. My parents actually did not live there at the time. During the war, they moved to Philadelphia. Rather than have the house closed up, we moved into it."

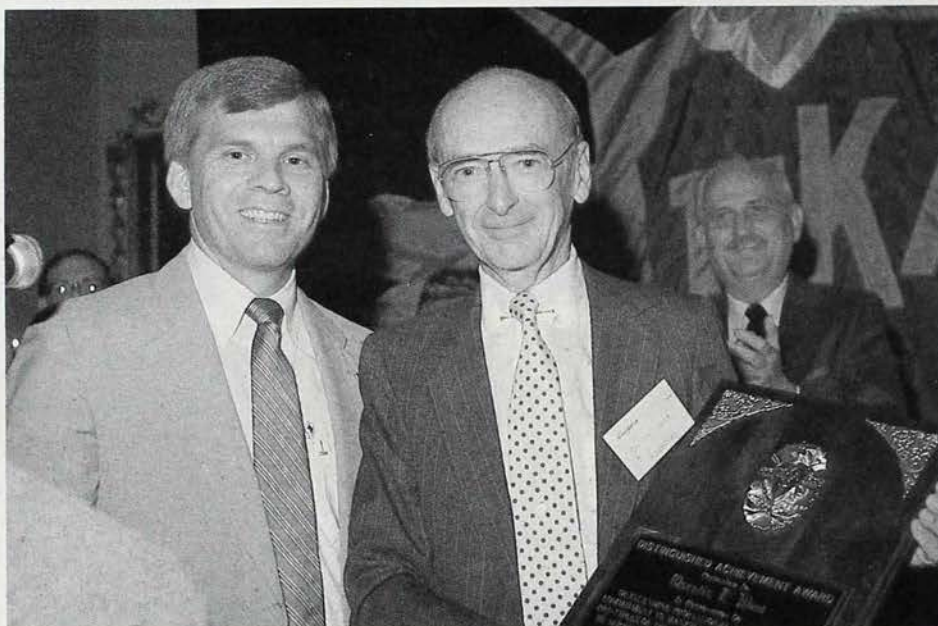

He says the arrangement worked well, and the brothers were quite respectful of his home. "Despite a few of the parties, the house was in as good shape after we left as before we arrived. Housing was difficult to come by at Penn State at that time. All the fraternities were taken over by the Army and Navy programs, and hundreds of students had to find a place to live. It put quite a drain on housing around State College."

That is just one of the many highlights of the long, illustrious and successful professional and personal life of this prominent Pi Kappa Alpha. World War II would soon interrupt his academic career as he enlisted in the Army Air Force, where he served from 1943 to 1946 as an officer and pilot. He served one year as a flying instructor and served thirteen months combat service in China with the 14th Air Force Flying Tigers.

He returned to Penn State following the service, and graduated in 1948 with a bachelor of science degree in petroleum and natural gas engineering. He also became active in the Fraternity again.

"The war tended to draw us together a little closer," he said. "When the war was over, a lot of us came back to reenter college, and we renewed our fraternity lives."

What effect did the war have on fraternity life? "I didn't notice any difference in the routine of fraternity life. There was more seriousness on the part of everyone relative to his academic life. Everyone took classes more seriously. they played just as hard after the war as before, but they concentrated more and worked harder."

Following graduation, the Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania native became associated with Quaker State Oil Refining Corporation in 1948 as a petroleum engineer at the corporation's Bradford, Pennsylvania production office. In 1951, he was promoted to chief engineer and in 1965, manager of the production division.

He was elected vice president of production and a corporate director in 1968, and moved to the home office in Oil City. In 1970, he was elected executive vice president. He was elected president and chief operating officer in 1973; president and chief executive officer, as well as a director of the company in 1975. In May 1982, Brother Wood became chairman of the board and chief executive officer. On July 1, 1988, he retired as CEO and is now serving as chairman of the board.

Regarding the state of the economy and its effect on his industry, Brother Wood says there is not much of a correlation. "The U.S. economy doesn't drastically affect our operation because people tend to continue driving their cars regardless of the economy. Our business is more related to miles driven. If for some reason miles driven drops in the U.S., there tends to be a reflection of that in the amount of business we do. To a limited extent, we are not related to the economy. A bad future could affect us. In the past, if the economy declined, our business did not always match the decline in the economy."

He also adds that OPEC has little effect on his business. "The crude oil price level that OPEC sets eventually finds its way into the U.S. and affects the price of the crude oil that we buy from independent producers."

Fraternity membership played and continues to play an important role in Brother Wood's life. "Most of my reminiscences involve good time fraternity parties," he admits. "All my memories of ΠΚΑ and Penn State are fond memories. I made many good and lasting friendships there, friendships with Fraternity brothers that have continued to the present day."

For the past forty years, a group of Wood's Fraternity brothers and he have gotten together each fall at the Penn State and Pittsburgh football game, whether it's played at Penn State or Pitt. The group includes alumni Bill Aull, Fred Strathmeyer, Bobby Hodgson, and Harry Helm. Brother Frank Mathias was also a member of the reunion group until his death earlier this year. In certain years, alumni Dick Owen and Bob Louis also join the group to cheer on Penn State. "It involves a lot of fun and reminiscing and enjoying one another's company," Wood says.

Although he did not hold office in the chapter, Brother Wood served briefly as house manager at the time the brothers had to move out of the house.

Why did he pledge Pi Kappa Alpha in 1941?

"I liked the group of men I met there. Some of my decision was due in part to the fact that a good friend of mine from State College also pledged ΠΚΑ. That meant a lot to us both."

As far as advice he'd give today's college students before entering the professional world, Wood believes that interpersonal skills are most important. "Learn how to live and work with people. I think it's important to develop friendships. Friends are exceedingly important in this world, and I think you should treasure the friendships you develop in college. I certainly feel that some of the best friendships you develop throughout your lifetime are in college."

Brother Wood stresses interpersonal skills because of the importance they play in the work place. "It is important to be able to work with your superiors. They (graduates) should respect their boss and support their boss, so that they can move forward. Friendships and people skills were the most valuable lessons I learned. They allow you to develop your interpersonal skills and allow you to interact with your peers, which experience certainly is useful and valuable for the future."

He believes that the toughest part of running a major corporation has been keeping ahead of the competition and maintaining a plan for success. What is his key to success? "Plan on bringing along as many people as you can. I always believe that promotion should come from within. It provides for good morale for the entire company. You can always promote from within."

When asked if he still recommends fraternity membership today, he replied, "One hundred and twenty-five percent! The experience, the friendships you make are difficult to duplicate in any other part of college life. You can't duplicate it unless you belong to a fraternity."

When he learned that he had won the 1988 Distinguished Achievement Award, Brother Wood was surprised and honored. "I felt honored and humbled by it. I truly appreciate it." He attended part of the 1988 National Convention in Memphis and received his award in person.

"I am an avid believer in fraternities and fraternity life," he adds. "I know my experience in fraternity life in Pi Kappa Alpha has better prepared me for the outside world, and I have used and look back with great pleasure on my life as a ΠΚΑ from Penn State."

Now that he has retired as CEO of Quaker State, the once-avid snow skier is able to spend more time with his wife and hobbies, which include traveling, golfing, and gin rummy. "I have no difficulty keeping myself busy since giving up my CEO responsibilities. I appreciate the fact that I am no longer bound by a time clock," he says with pleasure.

The October 23, 1987 issue of Business Week said of Brother Wood: "Despite his quiet and methodical style, he's an industry trend-setter. He led the change into plastic oil bottles and built a chain of some 200 ten-minute lubrication centers. He's diversified, too, with acquisitions in coal and insurance."

His professional and business affiliations include: director of the Mellon Bank (North) National Association; past president of the trustees of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association Insurance Company; director and member of the American Petroleum Institute; director and member of the National Petroleum Refiners Association; director and member of the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association; director and member of the Bradford District, Pennsylvania Oil Producers Association; member of the American Institute of Metallurgical Engineers, Petroleum Section; member of the 25 Year Club of the Petroleum Industry; and holds several other state and national offices and directorships.

He is listed in Who's Who in the East as well as Who's Who in America. He is also a member of the prestigious Pennsylvania Society as well as several social organizations.

The many accomplishments of Quentin E. Wood are symbolic of the success of one individual in the American corporate world. He has been recognized as one of the top Chief Executive Officers in the U.S., and it is truly deserving that he has been honored with Pi Kappa Alpha's 1988 Distinguished Achievement Award.

Striving To Win The Super Bowl

During football season, Pat Bowlen (Beta Omicron '63) can sometimes be seen pacing up and down the sidelines of the Denver Broncos at Mile High Stadium in Denver. But most of the time he can be found in one of the stadium's sixty Penthouse Suites atop the western side of the stadium.

No, Pat Bowlen isn't coach of the Denver Broncos, nor is he a player: he is president and chief executive officer of the NFL franchise, and at 44 years of age has the distinction of being the youngest owner in the league.

On March 23, 1984, Bowlen became the majority owner of the Denver Broncos, and history will point to that date as beginning a new era for the Broncos — an era of winning ways and one that has already seen the Broncos finish three times at the top of the American Football Conference's Western Division, achieve two conference crowns and make trips to Super Bowls XXI and XXII.

When he became its majority owner, Bowlen's goal for the Denver Broncos was that they would be among the finest teams in professional football each year.

In August, Bowlen attended the Fraternity's National Convention in Memphis, and was inducted into the Order of West Range. At that time, the Shield & Diamond had the opportunity to talk with him about his career as an NFL owner and about his days as an undergraduate brother in Pi Kappa Alpha.

The Denver Broncos

"Ten or twelve years ago I decided that I wanted to be in professional sports," Bowlen says, "and in 1984 I had the opportunity to buy the team from (former owner) Edward Kaiser. That year, I came in as the majority owner of the team, and in 1985 I took over sole ownership of the club. Today I'm active in the daily management as president and chief executive officer."

"When I took over, I wanted a winner, and I promised the Denver fans a Super Bowl team," Bowlen remembers.

Unfortunately, after both of Denver's recent trips to the Super Bowl, the team has returned home in second place. In 1986 the New York Giants prevented Bowlen's promise from coming through with a second half surge which lifted them to a 39-20 win over the Broncos. Then, last year the Washington Redskins stopped the Broncos again.

"I can swallow the loss to the Giants, because we played as well as we could. However, they played better," Bowlen notes. "Super Bowl XXII is a different story."

At the 1988 National Convention, Pat Bowlen (right) receives a plaque recognizing his induction into the Order of West Range from Joseph J. Turner, president of the Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Foundation.

"After the last Super Bowl we went into the locker room and kept the doors closed to all reporters until after our usual end of the game prayer and post game talk," Bowlen recalls. "I remember looking at the locker room doors, feeling disappointed and embarrassed, and hoping that they would never have to open them. The last thing I wanted to do was talk to the press. However, when we did open the doors, a reporter rushed in, stuck a mic in my face and asked me how it was to be the owner of a football team that was 0-2 in Super Bowl play. The only response I could think of at the time was that I knew it was better than being 0-0."

NFL Expansion

When asked about expansion in the NFL, Bowlen is quick to point out that he has his views and opinions as an owner. However, they are not the views and opinions of Pete Rozelle, the commissioner of the NFL.

"There will be expansion, but it's difficult to say which cities will be given the nod," Bowlen says. "Those cities which I know are being looked at, and which are also trying to get support from the NFL owners, include Memphis, Jacksonville, Raleigh, San Antonio, St. Louis, Oakland and Baltimore. Of those cities, I do know that there is a special sensitivity amongst the owners toward Oakland and Baltimore, because they are the former homes of teams which moved on to other cities. In each case the moves were not sanctioned by the NFL. On the other hand, St. Louis was given the opportunity to keep the Cardinals but proved unsuccessful."

According to Bowlen, the selection of expansion cities could take place sometime in 1989 with the first season of play in 1991. He does say that such a time schedule would depend on how quickly the ongoing players' dispute is settled.

Pi Kappa Alpha and Beta Omicron

Thinking back to pledging Pi Kappa Alpha at the University of Oklahoma, Bowlen chuckles and says that it is an interesting story:

"My dad had gone to the University of Oklahoma, and I was fortunate enough to be accepted to the University on a partial football scholarship," Bowlen reports. "When I got to campus I didn't have any immediate plans to go through fraternity rush — my pledging came about because of a culmination of circumstances."

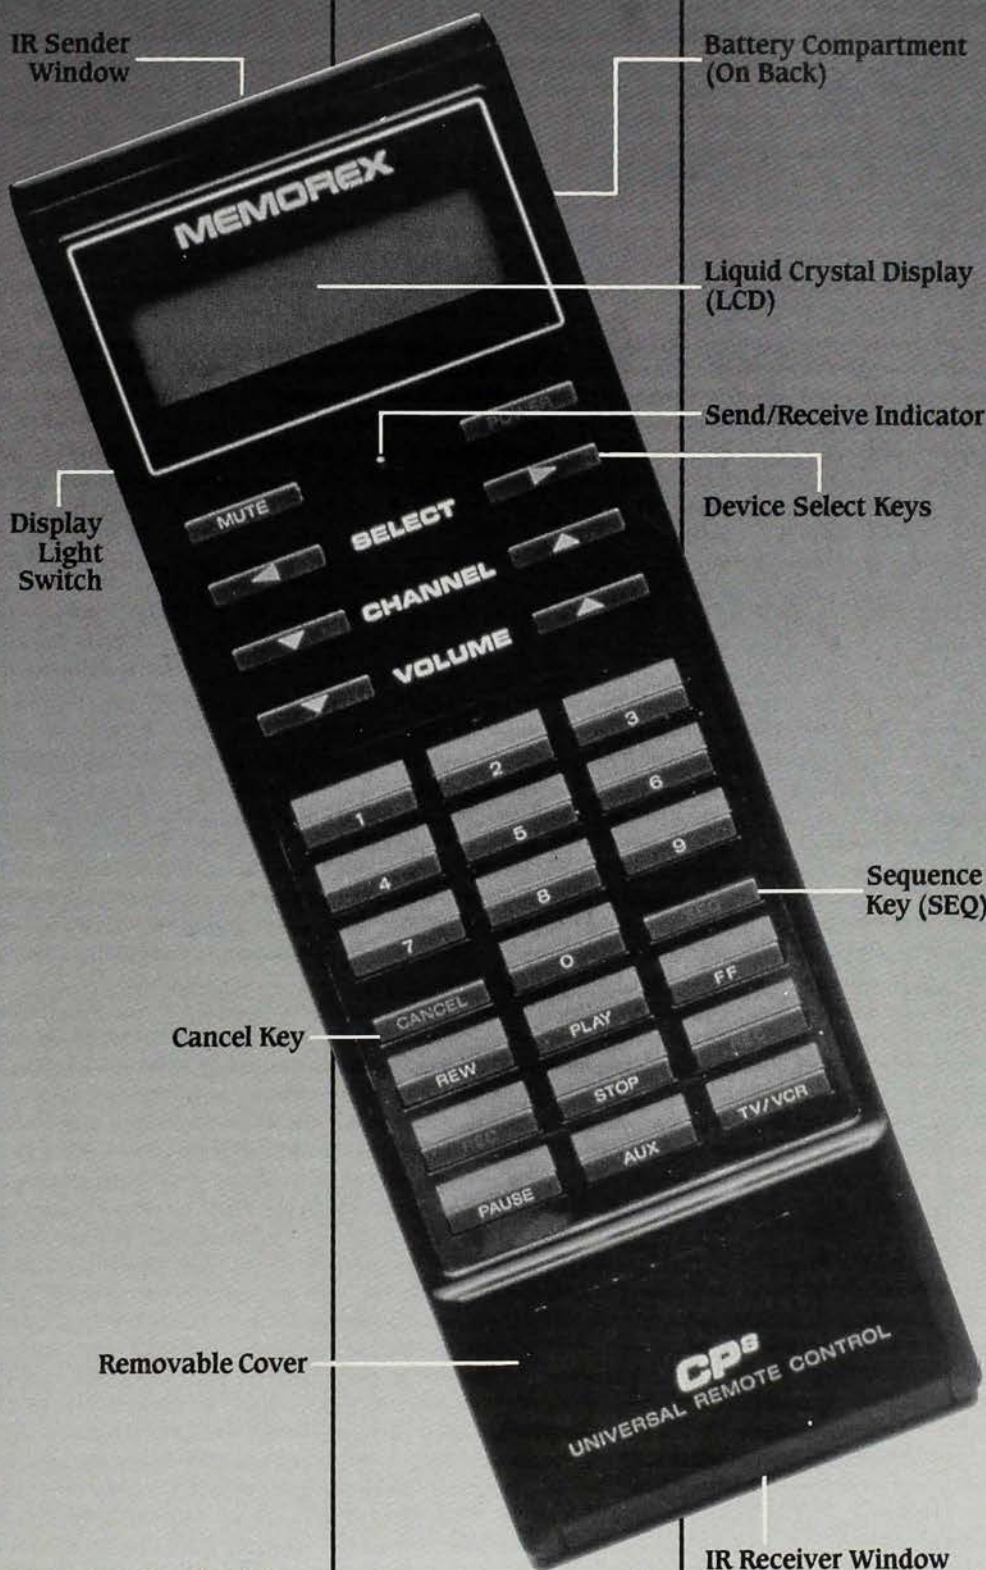

"I can remember standing on one of the street corners with a group of other freshmen one day, and the PiKA's firetruck came by," Bowlen recalls, "There was a group of actives on the truck and they invited us to get on and go back to the chapter house for a party. Of course, being freshmen, we jumped on the truck and went to the house... two days later we all pledged the Fraternity."

"What happened after that is the interesting part of the story," Bowlen continues, "The day I accepted my bid, I called my father and told him that I had decided to pledge a fraternity. I remember he asked me what fraternity, and I told him Pi Kappa Alpha. There was a silence at the other end of the line, and then my father asked me if I knew that he was a fraternity man. I responded 'No.' That's when he told me that he was initiated into Pi Kappa Alpha at the University of Oklahoma in 1932, and that he was happy that I, like him, had joined a true southern gentlemen's fraternity."

"I remember telling him, 'Well, I don't know about southern fraternity — most of the guys in the house now are from New Jersey and New York,'" he laughed, "and as for gentlemen... well!"

"I know times have changed," Bowlen quickly adds, "and I am truly impressed with the caliber of the undergraduate brothers, and with the successes I see today." □

"Father of Mobile Radio" Honored at York College

Fred M. Link, a 1925 initiate of Beta Alpha chapter at Pennsylvania State University, was awarded an honorary doctor of humane letters degree for his contribution in the field of radio technology by York College in York, Pennsylvania in May 1988.

Through Link's efforts, FM two-way radio communications between base stations and cars became a reality with police departments throughout the nation in the 1930s, and he introduced the first FM two-way radio communications for the military during World War II.

In the radio communications industry, Link is referred to as "The Father of the Mobile Radio". Mobile radios are used in nearly every type of business conceivable today.

Purdue Alumnus Roy E. Hofer New Chicago Bar President

Roy E. Hofer

Roy E. Hofer, a 1954 initiate of Beta Phi chapter at Purdue University, assumed leadership of the 21,000 member Chicago Bar Association at its 115th Annual Dinner meeting in June 1988.

Hofer is a partner in Chicago's largest intellectual property law firm, William Brinks Olds Hofer Gilson & Lione Ltd. In his trial practice, he represents clients throughout the United States on patent, trade secret and related antitrust and contract matters.

For the past year, he has held the office of first vice president of the Chicago Bar Association.

Hofer has also served the Association as second vice president, member of the board of managers (1979-81) and member of the editorial board of The CBA Record (1986-88). He joined the Chicago Bar Association in 1961 as a young lawyer and spent five years as a member of the Defense of Prisoners Committee.

Hofer has demonstrated a strong interest in and commitment to the work of the organized bar for more than a decade. He has regularly written for bar journals, lectured at seminars and symposiums and instructed at law schools and continuing legal education programs.

He has maintained professional affiliations with the following state and national organizations: American Bar Association, Patent Law Association of Chicago, Illinois Institute for Continuing Legal Education, Illinois State Bar Association for the Seventh Judicial Circuit and Federal Circuit Bar Association.

In addition to his bachelor's degree in chemical engineering from Purdue, Hofer is also a 1961 honors graduate of the Georgetown University Law Center. While pursuing his degree as a night law student at Georgetown, he gained valuable work experience as a patent examiner for the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and later as a patent agent for the Exxon Corporation.

Hofer is a lifelong resident of the Chicago area and currently resides in Burr Ridge, Illinois with his wife Cynthia and their three children.

Founded in 1874, The Chicago Bar Association is one of the largest and most active metropolitan bar associations in the United States.

Pike to the Bone...

by Herbert B. Crowell

For the most part, the good men of Pi Kappa Alpha leave something behind upon graduation that conjures an image. Some men are remembered for their academic achievements, some for their athletic prowess, some for their humanity or scholarship. But rarely do we find an individual reminiscent of the classical "renaissance man".

Such a man is Norm Hulcher. Perhaps no other man in the history of Delta Tau chapter at Arizona State has achieved so much in his affiliation with the chapter, or has represented the house better.

Since his initiation into the brotherhood in 1972, Hulcher, in one way or another, carried the house to unprecedented heights.

In his days as a fledgling leader, Hulcher consecutively earned places as philanthropic, social, and alumni relations chairman. In 1974, his drive for excellence led him to the distinction of SMC. In the very same year, he was elected regional vice president and public relations chairman of the Golden West Region. As the Delta Tau delegate to the 1974 National Convention, Hulcher was quickly recognized for his reputation as a "doer" and was appointed to the National Nominating Committee.

Hulcher's influence as chapter consultant during 1975-76 and his tireless efforts as chapter advisor for the following ten years were instrumental in bringing prosperity and national recognition to Delta Tau. His monumental campaign during those years for pride, achievement and brotherhood impressed the brethren enough to spur them to a series of Smythe Awards and an abundance of other awards. Hulcher is responsible for the golden wall of trophies shining from atop the mantelpiece at 620 Alpha Drive. These crowning achievements are only part of the story, though; every member to pass through Delta Tau during Hulcher's years as chapter advisor will remember his rallying cries for the need to preserve the history and tradition of Pi Kappa Alpha.

Guy Price, initiated in 1973, recalls, "Norm really changed the direction of the chapter, especially by getting younger members involved and indoctrinating them into the Fraternity. He brought a positive and organized leadership to the chapter. I would characterize him as an aggressive leader who had a strong sense of where he wanted to bring the chapter."

Price was also quick to add that Hulcher revolutionized the pledge training program, and that he put together modulogues on all aspects of chapter life that were developed for use by Pike chapters throughout the nation.

Hulcher left his post as chapter advisor to Delta Tau last year after ten years of service. He is currently employed as deputy of Maricopa County Records. On April 1, 1988, at the Delta Tau Founders' Day Formal, Norm Hulcher was honored for his outstanding service to the chapter. Upon reception of the long overdue award, Hulcher commented, "I love Pi Kappa Alpha. I'll always be proud of my friendships, and I look to the day when I can become involved again."

There is no doubt that Hulcher's legacy of dedication and love for the Fraternity will continue to live at Delta Tau.

Pike Elected Vice Chairman of Mensa Region Six

Edgar M. Ashworth (Eta '48) was elected, unopposed, as regional vice chairman of American Mensa's Southwest region, encompassing some 5,700 Mensans.

American Mensa has nearly 55,000 members in over 140 local groups around the country. The criterion for membership is to score in the top two percent of the general population on a standard intelligence test. Internationally, Mensa has more than 75,000 members in 98 countries.

Ashworth joined Mensa in 1965, when he was stationed at Norfolk, Virginia, serving as a U.S. Naval officer. His military career took him to many parts of the country, and corresponding membership in Mensa groups in Washington, D.C., New York City, Houston, San Antonio, and Albuquerque.

President Reagan Honors Service Award Recipient

Joe G. Higgs (Zeta '43), chief of the Engineering Division for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Europe, was among the top federal workers honored last summer by President Reagan as winners of the 1988 Presidential Rank Awards. He was awarded the rank of "Distinguished Executive."

The awards, presented in a White House ceremony, recognize excellence in the federal government's Senior Executive Service and are presented annually to federal managers for extended exceptional performance in government. Career members of the SES may be granted one of two Presidential ranks: "Distinguished Executive," the highest rank, or "Meritorious Executive."

Higgs received his bachelor's degree from the University of Tennessee-Knoxville in 1948, and his master's degree from Purdue University in 1950. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Society of American Military Engineers. A native of Tennessee, Higgs and his wife, Mary, reside in Frankfurt, West Germany. They have two sons, Steven and David.

Ogle Elected to American Judicature Society Board

Richard F. Ogle

Richard F. Ogle (Gamma Alpha '61), a partner with the Birmingham, Alabama law firm of Schoel, Ogle, Benton, Gentle and Centeno, was elected to the 1988-89 American Judicature Society Board of Directors. He is among forty-five new members who were elected at the Society's 75th anniversary meeting, at which former U.S. Supreme Court Associate Justice Lewis F. Powell, an AJS member for fifty years, spoke.

A graduate of the University of Alabama Law School, Ogle is a member of the Alabama Law Institute, the Alabama and Birmingham Bar Associations, the American Trial Lawyers Association and the American Judicature Society. Ogle, who serves as an editorial consultant to Matthew Bender and Company, and lectures at the Alabama Law Institute for Continuing Legal Education, is a past national president of Pi Kappa Alpha and a past president of its Memorial Foundation.

Founded in 1913, the American Judicature Society is a national independent organization of more than 20,000 citizens working to improve the nation's justice system. Among its goals are creating greater public understanding of the role of the courts, selecting judges for their professional qualifications, protecting judicial independence while maintaining the highest standards of judicial ethics and improving court systems through modern management methods.

Pi Kappa Alpha — A Kavanagh Family Tradition

Matthew J. Kavanagh IV (Mike) joined his father and grandfather as members of Pi Kappa Alpha when he was initiated in 1987 into Epsilon Theta chapter at Colorado State University.

Later, Mike transferred to the University of Colorado School of Business. He is now active in Beta Upsilon chapter.

His father, Matthew J. Kavanagh III (Mickey) was in attendance at the initiation and participated in the ceremony by welcoming Mike into the brotherhood, using Mike's grandfather's pin at the moment Mike became an active brother.

Mickey was initiated into Beta Zeta chapter at Southern Methodist University in 1954, and has served as president of the Dallas Pi Kappa Alpha Alumni Association. Now living in Denver, Colorado, Mickey is in the business of venture capital, acquisitions and mergers.

Mike's grandfather, Matthew J. Kavanagh, Jr. was initiated into Beta Mu chapter at the University of Texas in 1922. A track letterman, Matthew earned his BA and BBA, plus an MBA, at Texas. Later, he earned his law degree from Southern Methodist University and was active, throughout his career, in the Dallas banking and finance community.

Mike's cousin, Thomas Harrington, was also initiated into PKA through Beta Mu chapter in 1956.

Also attending the initiation was long-time Kavanagh family friend, Stanley Love. A 1951 initiate of Delta Iota chapter at Marshall University, Stan met Mickey at SMU, when Stan was serving the Fraternity as a field secretary and Mickey was an undergraduate. Stan Love was later to serve Pi Kappa Alpha as editor of the Shield & Diamond and national vice president. He conducted the original chartering of Mike's initiating chapter, Epsilon Theta, in 1956.

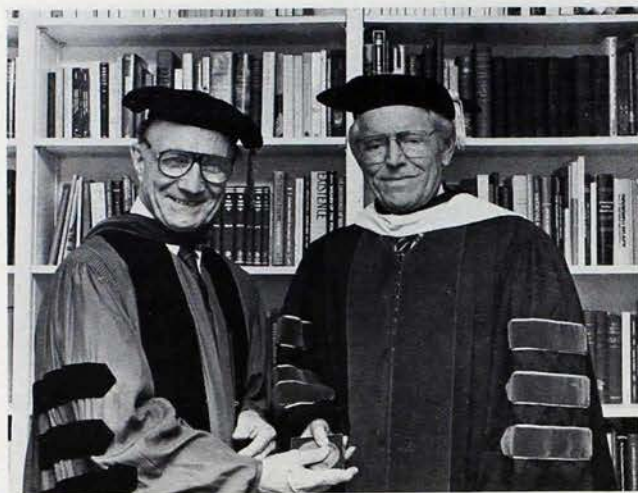

Past Executive Director Receives Law School Award

Allen William Groves (Delta Upsilon '79) served Pi Kappa Alpha as executive director from August 1984 to June 1987, and is now studying at the University of Virginia School of Law. He was honored this year with the Bracewell & Patterson Award for most outstanding performance in the first year oral advocacy competition.

Prior to his term as executive director, Groves served Pi Kappa Alpha as a resident counselor, chapter consultant, director of expansion, and director of chapter services. He is a past president of the Delta Upsilon House Corporation, and was named that chapter's Alumnus of the Year in 1983-84.

E.D. Pellegrino, M.D., director of the Kennedy Institute of Ethics at Georgetown University, presents the First Linacre Medal to John P. McGovern, M.D., founder of the McGovern Allergy Clinic in Houston, Texas.

Dr. John P. McGovern Honored With Thomas Linacre Medal From Kennedy Institute

On behalf of the Georgetown University Committee on Humanities and Medicine, Edmund D. Pellegrino, M.D., John Carroll Professor of Medicine and Medical Humanities and director, Kennedy Institute of Ethics, presented the Thomas Linacre Medal in Medical Humanities to John Phillip McGovern, M.D. (Alpha Alpha '40). Dr. McGovern is the founder of the McGovern Allergy Clinic in Houston, Texas, the largest private allergy clinic in the world.

The Thomas Linacre Medal in Medical Humanities is presented in recognition of contributions by physicians and other health professionals in the area of medical humanism, study of humanities in medicine, medical ethics and the relationships of medicine to human culture. It commemorates the contributions to learning of Thomas Linacre, one of medicine's foremost humanists.

John P. McGovern is also president of the boards of the Texas Allergy Research Foundation and the John P. McGovern Foundation. His faculty appointments are unique in number and diversity: he holds fourteen professorships at twelve universities, and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha Omega Alpha, Sigma Xi, and many other honorary and professional societies in medicine, science and health education. He is the past president or chief elected officer of fifteen such organizations, including the American College of Allergy and Immunology and the American Osler Society. He is the author or co-author of more than 250 publications, including twenty books, in the medical sciences and humanities.

Dr. McGovern's service to governmental agencies is extensive and includes a Presidential appointment to the Board of Regents of the National Library of Medicine, which he chaired in 1973-74 and to which he remains an active consultant. Last year, Dr. Otis R. Bowen, secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, appointed Dr. McGovern to a four-year term on the National Advisory Council on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

President Ronald Reagan recently commended Dr. McGovern for "his lifetime of meritorious service in medicine and his generous voluntary contributions to his community." "Your involvement exemplifies the highest tradition of service to others, and enhances the lives of all our citizens," said President Reagan.
