Executive Vice President Announces Headquarters Staff Changes

Richard T. Stonerook

Kevin E. Virta

Executive Vice President Raymond L. Orians recently announced the promotion of Kevin E. Virta (Epsilon Psi '83) to the position of executive director on the Fraternity's professional staff.

Virta joined the Fraternity's staff in 1987 as a chapter consultant and traveled for a year as associate director of expansion. For the last two years, Virta has been the director of expansion. Under his direction, Pi Kappa Alpha has had successful colonizations at eight campuses across the country, and has chartered as many new chapters.

In the position of executive director, Virta will be responsible for overseeing the Fraternity's public relations program, coordination of PiKA's fifteen regional leadership conferences, and working with chapters.

Taking over for Virta as director of expansion will be Richard T. Stonerook (Beta Upsilon '88). Stonerook joined the Fraternity's staff in 1989, as a chapter consultant after his graduation from the University of Colorado. During the past year, he has worked with Virta as the Fraternity's associate director of expansion.

Executive Vice President Orians also announced that Scott Russell (Beta Gamma '85) has been promoted to the position of annual fund director for the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation. In this position, Russell will be responsible for coordinating the Foundation's annual fund and assist in Pi Kappa Alpha's alumni development program.

Fraternity Adopts Mission Statement

At its March 17-18, 1990 meeting, the Supreme Council endorsed the concept of using a mission statement, developed by Upsilon Alumni Association and Upsilon Chapter at Auburn University under the guidance of Upsilon Alumni Association President David H. Dyson, to communicate more clearly the Fraternity's ideals. The statement adopted: The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity: Committed to Educational Excellence, Leadership and Integrity.

The Upsilon Alumni Association and Upsilon Chapter were commended for their valuable assistance in formulating the mission statement.

Low Memorial Library, completed in 1897, was the first building erected on Columbia University's Morningside Heights campus. The centerpiece of the campus was designed by the famed architectural firm McKim, Mead and White. It was the main library of the University until 1934. It now houses administrative offices, including that of the University's President. The library's former reading room, The Rotunda, is the site of many gala events at Columbia. Daniel Chester French's statue, "Alma Mater," stands in the center of the upper steps leading to the building.

EXPANSION

Hail Columbia!

On January 26, 1990, Pi Kappa Alpha triumphantly raised its crest over New York City, installing 53 men as the Iota Lambda Chapter at Columbia University. The festivities capped a two year transformation from fledgling Colony to thriving Chapter. In that two year span, the Columbia Colony had grown to be one of the largest and strongest fraternities at Columbia.

The installation Banquet was held at the Faculty House of Columbia University. In attendance were National President Edward A. Pease (Delta Xi '71), Northeast Regional President Billy Garrett (Eta Alpha '76), Director of Expansion Kevin Virta (Epsilon Psi '83), and Associate Director of Expansion Rick Stonerook (Beta Upsilon '88).

The evening's keynote address was given by National President Pease, who eloquently invoked the writings of Ralph Waldo Emerson to help illustrate the tradition of ideals upon which Pike is based. Mr. Pease stressed the importance of continuing to set high ambitions for the new chapter, that installation was not an end unto itself, but rather a new beginning.

Iota Lambda President Christopher Kirkham honored his two predecessors, Robert Spingarn (Iota Lambda '90) and Scott Lahman (Iota Lambda '90), for their contributions to the colony. Brothers Lahman and Spingarn were awarded gavels engraved with the chapter's letters and the year of their presidency.

The chapter also paid its highest tribute to its advisor, Bruce A. Wolfson (Beta Pi '71), calling him the man of the year. Wolfson's time and considerable expertise were instrumental in the Colony's success. In addition, the chapter named his one year old daughter, Tamara, their dreamgirl for 1990.

From the very beginnings of Pi Kappa Alpha at Columbia, the members have had a tremendous feeling of pride in what they were creating. Only a few weeks after their colonization, Pike placed third of fifteen houses competing in the Greek Olympics, thereby establishing itself as a growing force on Columbia's campus. The colony was relentless, however, and this success was followed by others. The Colony's first rush was the largest on campus, netting eleven of the top freshmen. Of the members of this "Beta" class, three would hold executive positions within the Fraternity by their sophomore years, including Chris Kirkham, the current chapter president.

The second year as a colony brought even more success with rush. The Gamma and Delta classes brought a total of twenty-four new members to the colony. Only the top men were invited to join the colony, and this quality soon became reflected in every endeavor. In the Spring '89, during the colony's second Greek Olympics, Iota Lambda took second place, narrowly missing first in the final event. It was during this semester that Columbia University caught Pike fever. The spirit and success of the colony, however, caught the attention of more than just the relatively small University community. The colony raised several thousand dollars for Cerebral Palsy. Colony members also volunteered their time at a local soup kitchen, serving food and renovating the facilities. Many members signed on to the Big Brothers of America program, serving as big brothers for young children around New York City.

By the fall of '89, the colony was prepared for inspection. On November 11, 1989, the colony was inspected by a team consisting of brothers from Trinity (Epsilon Alpha) and Seton Hall (Eta Beta). The colony passed a unanimous vote and was allowed to petition the National Fraternity for a charter. Fifty-three men were initiated on January 26 to form Iota Lambda. Included were ten members of the class of '89 who traveled to New York from all over the country to be initiated with their brothers. Their presence added to the tremendous feeling of brotherly love which has characterized Iota Lambda throughout its two year history.

tinue its efforts to meet and exceed the ideals that characterize Pi Kappa Alpha.

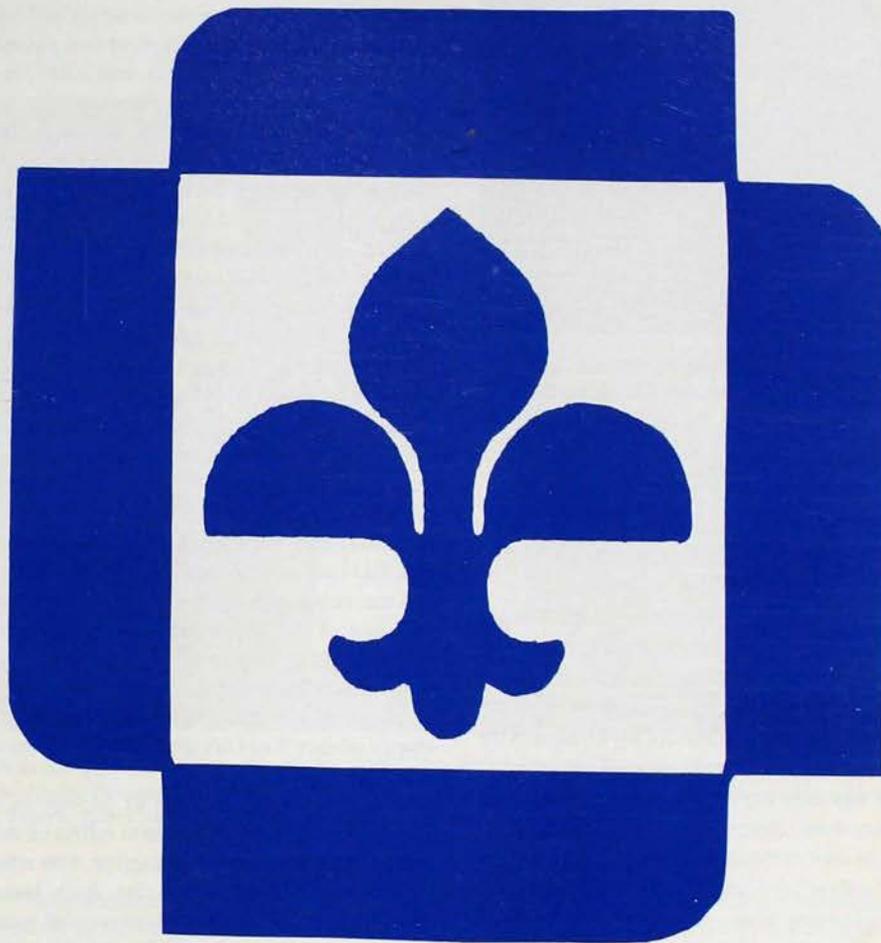

The University

Columbia University will make a fine host institution to Iota Lambda Chapter. The Ivy League University, the third to host a Pi Kappa Alpha Chapter, was founded in 1754 as King's College by a Royal Charter of King George II of England, with an enrollment of eight students. King's College established the first American medical school to grant M.D. degrees in 1767.

Soon after the American Revolution, the college changed its name to Columbia College. During the 1800s, the college had seen its campus occupy three different sites, ultimately reaching the Morningside Heights location in the 1890s, where it remains today. The move to Morningside Heights was led by College President Seth Low, who is also remembered for bringing the university ideal to the college.

Throughout the 1900s many great people have studied, taught, and researched at Columbia. It has had as its president a World War II hero and U. S. President, Dwight D. Eisenhower. The University has 5,500 students who study and research within the sixteen schools and sixty-nine departments which Columbia comprises today.

SAINT LOUIS UNIVERSITY

On March 1, 1989, Todd Allard and Frank Bell arrived on the Saint Louis University Campus with the intent of founding a new chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha. Within one month, the first class of the Saint Louis Colony of Pi Kappa Alpha had been formally pledged and declared operational.

Following its pledging, the colony held a retreat, and many lofty goals were set, including chartering in one year. Allard and Bell left the group with much to be accomplished, yet they assured the colony that if all the men worked together, anything was possible.

The summer came and went, and before long, school was back in session.

Probably the biggest challenge Saint Louis Colony faced was fall rush. All the men were new to this, and it took many hours of intense brainstorming to develop their rush program. The group held a few informative rush parties along with maintaining a high profile on campus. Through a lot of hard work, they were able to bring in twenty men, the second highest number on campus.

The colony now focused on internal programming through its various committees. One of the first events held was a major community service project in conjunction with United Cerebral Palsy. Members of the Colony participated in a phone-a-thon which raised over $11,000. The colony's fund-raising committee was also busy at work, selling T-shirts. This committee also organized an annual "Rakefest" which pulled in over $400 in one day. As all of this was going on, the other committees were not to be left out. The Risk Management committee began developing an alcohol awareness program, concerning attitudes towards drinking, to be presented to various local high schools. The IFC committee also became active with the other fraternities on campus. The Alumni chairman scheduled events with local alumni in order to help promote the name of Saint Louis Colony. Before the close of the semester, the group co-sponsored another community service project with AΠO with all proceeds going once again to Cerebral Palsy. A dance, "Mistletoe Mania", raised over $1,000. Over the course of this one semester, the men had definitely established themselves with members involved in all facets of campus life, ranging from Student Ambassadors to members holding office on the Student Activities Board. Everyone on campus became familiar with PI KAPPA ALPHA.

The next semester was even better. It began with a major fund-raiser in conjunction with National Food Stores and participation in the United Cerebral Palsy Telethon. Once again, rush was extremely successful; the colony brought in the largest class on campus with seventeen men. This was only the beginning. Members of the colony were selected as leaders of Oriflamme, an elite service organization which helps to meet the needs of incoming students; SGA president; Homecoming king; and Greek God during Greek Week.

Also during the course of the semester, several other fund raising and community service projects were held. Along with this, the Colony co-sponsored both a date rape clinic and a campus-wide event, Pseudo Summer.

Numerous social events were also staged by the colony, including a Scavenger Hunt, Super-bowl Party, and other get-togethers.

All of the previous victories, however, did not compare to the group's excitement as it passed inspection on March 10, 1990, and made preparations for the Chartering Banquet.

Many months of hard work went into the preparation for the Chartering of the Iota Nu Chapter. On April 27, the initiation took place, with teams from Alpha Nu (Missouri-Columbia), Alpha Kappa (Missouri-Rolla) and Zeta Phi (Missouri-St. Louis) on hand to perform the initiations. On April 28, the colony was officially installed, and the banquet followed.

The Chartering Banquet provided a chance for those members who had given so much of themselves to be recognized, and a chance for Saint Louis University to express its appreciation for all the group had done. Many parents attended, and all doubts about what fraternity life really means were put to rest. National President Ed Pease gave an inspiring keynote address, and the new chapter presented him a pewter sculpture of the famous St. Louis Arch as a souvenir of the occasion.

The chapter also recognized the many alumni in attendance and presented a plaque to chapter advisor Tom Galganski for his hard work and dedication.

As Iota Nu embarks upon its journey as a chapter, it's members take time to reflect on the actual significance of the chartering. Few who began with the original Alpha class really knew what they were getting into. However, all were willing to take the challenge. The last year has been one of hard work, dedication, exhaustion, good times, and bad times. But most of all, this last year was a time of friendship and joy. Iota Nu means more to them than just becoming a member of "a fraternity". It represents an opportunity to share the experience with each other. At times, the men felt as if they were missing something — something that was intangible. Individuals would comment, "This is a great thing we have, but I think there could be more. . .". They have finally found what they were looking for — brotherhood, the common bond between individuals of Pi Kappa Alpha that makes it unique among organizations. On April 28, 1990, as Iota Nu received its official chartering, Pi Kappa Alpha's new brothers realized that they had finally reached their goal, that of brotherhood.

Now, the chapter will focus not on what it has accomplished, but on what it will accomplish. The brothers have as a goal the promotion of Greek life on the Saint Louis campus. They will become very active with other local chapters of Pi Kappa Alpha, and will continue their commitment to educational excellence, leadership, and integrity.

ZETA CHAPTER

University of Tennessee-Knoxville

Zeta Chapter worked diligently over the past academic year to achieve its goals and benefit the community.

The chapter's proudest achievement has been academic excellence. The men of Pi Kappa Alpha have finished first in scholarship in their respective divisions for the past two semesters, and the chapter's average was higher than the all-men's average by a substantial margin.

On November 18, 1989, Zeta actives and pledges surrounded Neyland Stadium, armed with buckets to collect donations for the Chucky Mullins trust fund. Mullins, a defensive back for the University of Mississippi, was paralyzed from the neck down in a football game against Vanderbilt University last year. Zeta collected $15,927.73 for Mullins, the largest donation by any group organization in the history of the University of Tennessee-Knoxville.

On November 21, 1989, Zeta captured the all-campus flag football championship, and was invited to compete at the National Flag Football Championships in New Orleans. The brothers went on to finish in the top thirty-two out of a field of 144 teams.

The men of Zeta Chapter give to the community in a most meaningful way through their adoption of a needy family of four in north Knoxville. The mother suffers with terminal lupus, and each month Zeta contributes $150 for the family's rent, and offers any other help they may need. Further, the brothers have established a Big Brother/Little Brother program, enriching the lives of fatherless boys with plenty of one-on-one time.

December 6th saw Zeta Chapter teaming up with Chi Omega Sorority to hold a Christmas party for the needy children of Knoxville. Gifts, games, and refreshments for the sixty children in attendance brightened their holiday season.

The Knoxville Pikes showed their regard for the University this year with their second annual Faculty Appreciation Luncheon, and for their families with a Parents Day.

THETA CHAPTER

Rhodes College

After graduating seven Phi Beta Kappas last year, academics remains the main focus of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity at Rhodes College in Memphis, Tennessee. An academic big brother program within the chapter has proven to be a vital asset.

Theta initiated a new rush program this year, and is proud to boast, "We won Rush!" Theta pledged twenty-three men, more than any other fraternity on campus. The intense enthusiasm of the pledges echoes that of the whole chapter as Theta rises to new heights both on campus and in the community.

The brothers are involved in student government, IFC, intramurals, varsity sports, and the Kinney Program, Rhodes' volunteer organization. The chapter assisted Big Brothers/Big Sisters during its annual Halloween Fair, and helped construct a house for Habitat for Humanity. The pledge class offered its assistance to a local charity crafts fair.

Theta introduced a Greek newsletter to the Rhodes campus which keeps students and faculty aware of Greek activities, and Firetruck, Theta's interfraternity newsletter, has been warmly welcomed. Rhodes graduates also appreciate a recently developed alumni newsletter.

In April 1990, four Iota brothers were elected to serve on the Student Senate for the upcoming academic year. Later that month, the chapter's community service chairman organized the IFC Special Olympics.

By the end of the school year, Iota had pledged twenty good men to continue the tradition of excellence at Hampden-Sydney.

IOTA CHAPTER

Hampden-Sydney College

Iota Chapter is proud to claim three members of Phi Beta Kappa, and one member of Omicron Delta Kappa Honorary. The chapter's excellence was shown last fall when one brother was selected to receive the College's President's Award, given each year in recognition of outstanding leadership and character.

The highlight of the Fall 1989 season came in November with the Centennial Anniversary of the Pi Kappa Alpha Refounding Convention at Hampden-Sydney College. Many alumni and guests from the National office and the Washington D.C. Alumni Association shared the weekend's festivities.

KAPPA CHAPTER

Transylvania University

1989 was one of Kappa Chapter's most successful years in its hundred year history. Thirty men were pledged, the largest class for any fraternity at Transylvania. Not surprisingly, Pi Kappa Alpha is also the largest fraternity on campus.

The chapter has won the campus community service award for two consecutive years. Its food drives for a local homeless shelter, an AIDS awareness seminar for the campus, and fundraising activities for Big Brothers of Lexington, Kentucky have benefited the community, the University, and the chapter immensely.

In November 1989, Kappa won Campus Sing, breaking the nine-year winning streak of a rival fraternity. The men are also proud of their effective public relations program, and invite their alumni to share their enthusiasm by joining the Kappa Chapter alumni association, if they have not already done so.

Bothwell Graham III received a plaque from Mu Chapter honoring him as the oldest alumni present at the chapter's Centennial Celebration.

M

MU CHAPTER Presbyterian College

Mu Chapter, founded on December 9, 1890, celebrated 100 years of Pi Kappa Alpha at Presbyterian College in Clinton, South Carolina this past March. A welcoming party on Friday, March 30, started the weekend off, followed by registration and brunch at the chapter house on Saturday morning.

Alumni enjoyed an impressive ritual display set up by Historian Warren Blanchard, and had the opportunity to view various chapter documents, including handwritten minutes dating back to the 1890s.

Perhaps the most interesting event of the weekend was the formal brotherhood meeting on Saturday afternoon, where the topic was alumni relations and how to improve them. Among those in attendance were Brothers Joe Nixon ('63), Richard Bell ('39) and Walter B. Todd ('43).

A formal banquet culminated the weekend's activities on Saturday night. Annual chapter awards and alumni awards were presented, with the Outstanding Alumnus Service Award going to Mark Horine ('86). Joseph Patrick ('37) received the Robert D. Lynn Award, and Bothwell Graham III ('33) was recognized as the oldest alumnus in attendance. National President Ed Pease spoke to the assembly, and SMC Ed Healy presented his State of the Fraternity address. The next morning, Sunday brunch and church services closed the weekend.

The chapter expresses its appreciation to John Gentry, 100th Anniversary chairman, House Chairman Chuck Applebee, Fund Raising Chairmen Blaine Williams and Jimmy Cushman, Paul Bass, John Crawford, J.D. Johnson, Ted Chapin, Ed Healy, Patrick Pharr, and all the others who made the 100th year of Mu Chapter truly outstanding.

Π

PI CHAPTER Washington & Lee University

Pi Chapter has inaugurated a program of community service within the Lexington, Virginia area under the direction of sophomore Doug Denby. The brothers taught athletic skills to area youngsters in a variety of sports. Lee Garlove, Chris Daly and Tim Hamling coached football with the aid of Hillary Pike, who showcased the skills he acquired as a member of his Alabama state championship football squad. Stuart Pratt and Brad Cannon coached basketball, while Travis Wilhite served as soccer coach. Local officials praised the brothers' contributions as role models for the community.

Brother Doug Denby developed an adopt-a-mile program for the chapter, which cleans a two mile stretch of highway, and Pi Chapter's sense of full commitment to community responsibility was shown by Pi Kappa Alpha's leadership of a campus-wide drive to raise over $25,000 for muscular dystrophy research.

TAU CHAPTER University of North Carolina

Fraternity and sorority members retraced the route of the first student to enroll at UNC at Chapel Hill when they participated in the Third Annual Hinton James Charity Run on March 30-31, 1990 from Wilmington to Chapel Hill.

Sponsored by Tau Chapter and Alpha Delta Phi Sorority, the charity run benefited the Ronald McDonald House of Chapel Hill and the United Way of Greater Orange County.

Participants ran in two-mile shifts, followed by a support van. They began at James' grave marker near Wilmington at 5:00 p.m. on March 30, and arrived at UNC's Old Well around noon March 31.

Υ

UPSILON CHAPTER Auburn University

The brothers of Upsilon Chapter began fall quarter with an excellent rush in which thirty-eight men were pledged. The men of the Fall 1989 pledge class distinguished themselves with a powerful finish in pledge-intramural football.

Upsilon Chapter continued a tradition in community service by hosting Project Uplift to assist the underprivileged children of the Auburn-Opelika area. A fun filled afternoon of games and refreshments brought many smiles to the children's faces. The chapter also donated a Thanksgiving turkey to one family to help them enjoy that holiday.

Brother Russell Dudley implemented an innovative system of DUI prevention that employed phone pagers so that designated drivers could be reached easily. Other chapter accomplishments included strong showings in intramurals, improved academic scores (for which the chapter credits Chapter Advisor Dr. John Weete's contributions), and a second place finish in the Homecoming float competition.

For the first time, the Alabama vs. Auburn game was played at Auburn, and Upsilon alumni were welcomed to a memorable day at the chapter house. The chapter continues to encourage alumni to rekindle the memories they experienced at Auburn, for at Upsilon, "Once A Pike, Always A Pike" definitely has meaning.

ΑΓ

ALPHA GAMMA CHAPTER Louisiana State University

Alpha Gamma Chapter is proud of Brother

Garrick L. Martin, a senior majoring in Finance, who recently received the Alpha Gamma Alumni Scholarship for the highest GPA in the chapter during the previous academic year. A certificate and a check for $700 was presented to Martin by Dean James B. Henry of the College of Business Administration; Martin's name was also added to the scholarship plaque maintained in the chapter house (photo on page 9). Another source of pride for the chapter was the unveiling of a plaque in memory of Brother Chellis "Mike" Chambers (see related story, page 34).

The chapter initiated twelve new brothers in the Fall of 1989, and has put together a new formal rush plan that will insure future success. Alpha Gamma is also highly visible on campus, with two brothers presently serving the IFC: John Hoolahan as vice president and Brett Poirrier as secretary.

Community service is also a high priority for the chapter. The brothers have adopted a section of a popular campus road, and successfully keep it clean. A canned food drive for the needy was sponsored by the chapter, and the members contributed over 600 hours in one week to the Baton Rouge Jaycees' Haunted House fund raiser.

AH

ALPHA ETA CHAPTER University of Florida

Alpha Eta Chapter has had an outstanding spring semester! Former SMC Ernie Cox was president of Florida Blue Key, a prestigious campus leadership honorary; current SMC Jim O'Leary was recently inducted into that organization, joining Brothers Tom Boyer and Mike Puleo. Boyer also served as director of divisions for Florida Blue Key, as well as being a Student Senator. Puleo also served the campus Greek community as IFC president for the 1989-90 year. Other campus leaders included Student Senators Charles Anthony, Frank Shields, and Ron Kozlin. Brother Rick Wells, a University of Florida football player, was elected into A.S.F.A.C., the group in charge of distributing funds to student organizations on campus. The brothers' many accomplishments include winning first place in two philanthropic events: Delta Delta Delta Sorority's "Dolphin Daze" and Alpha Delta Pi's "AD Spies". They also were runners-up in Phi Delta Theta's "Slugfest", an annual boxing competition in which all proceeds go to the local Boys' Club. Additionally, the chapter has raised over $3,000 for Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Alachua County through its annual "Pike Bowl for Kids' Sake".

In the sports arena, the Pike basketball and racquetball teams have both gone undefeated this semester.

The Brothers of Alpha Eta Chapter would like to dedicate all their victories and accomplishments in loving memory to Brother Ronald Worth Willis, who was tragically taken from them earlier this year (see Chapter Eternal, page 38).

ΑΛ

ALPHA LAMBDA CHAPTER Georgetown College

The brothers of Alpha Lambda Chapter

began the spring semester with an eighteen man pledge class which included baseball player Brian Russel and sophomore football standouts Brooks Barta and Frank Hernandez. Brooks enjoyed an outstanding year at linebacker and was named the Big Eight Defensive Player of the Week.

The 1989-90 slate of officers included SMC Gregg Skaggs, IMC Sean Barrett, ThC Mike Berry, SC Mark Sullivan, and Spring Pledge Educator Steve Heck.

A very successful alumni dinner was held on March 3, which concluded with the special initiation of Ron Heck, father of Steve Heck. The senior Mr. Heck has done much for the chapter, and it was an honor to have him initiated into the bonds.

In intramurals, the Pike basketball team scored a victory over TKE. The chapter also won the all-fraternity championship in wrist wrestling, and had two members compete for all-fraternity in 3-wall handball, moving the chapter close to the top in overall fraternity intramural points.

The men of Alpha Rho Chapter helped kids go to camp.

to the men of Alpha Rho chapter. The brothers arose early on Saturday morning, October 27, 1989 to support the fourth and fifth graders of Indianola Elementary School in an effort to raise funds to send the children to camp this summer. The following morning, members of Alpha Rho visited a Laotian Buddhist Temple and contributed six hours of yard work. Chapter Financial Advisor Dr. James E. Walters had given the temple an ancient bell which he found among the ruins of a Buddhist temple during his service in the Vietnam war many years ago. Happy to be of service to the Buddhist congregation, the men plan to revisit the temple at a future date to view its progress.

There is a new addition to the Alpha Rho house, the PX. The new "general store" is located on the first floor and is relatively inexpensive. It carries items such as toiletries and snack foods.

AE ALPHA XI CHAPTER University of Cincinnati

This spring, Brother William "Tye" Lembright, vice president of Alpha Xi Chapter, received the Michael Dever Leadership Award in the amount of $850 for developing a campaign to reduce crime in the University area. The award was presented at a dinner held on March 2, 1990.

Lembright established a unique program last fall in which the brothers took turns staying up all night in three-hour shifts to watch for thieves stealing radio/cassette players and other items from neighborhood automobiles. When they saw suspicious activities, they used cordless phones to contact police. Cincinnati police credited the program with the capture of several thieves and significant reduction of crime in the area.

The award was made possible through an endowment given to the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation by Cincinnati Alumnus Michael Dever.

Also at the 80th anniversary dinner, SMC Tim Ehresman reported that the 120 man chapter had raised $5,000 for the Cincinnati Multiple Sclerosis Society.

AO ALPHA OMICRON CHAPTER Southwestern University

The men of Alpha Omicron are happy to report that Spring rush was very successful, with twenty-three of Southwestern University's finest freshmen pledged. The chapter went on to celebrate Founders Day on the weekend of February 23-25, with activities including an alumni-actives golf tournament.

BA BETA ALPHA CHAPTER Pennsylvania State University

The Spring 1990 semester proved prosperous for Beta Alpha Chapter. On March 22, Jonathan P. Muir became the first Greek Undergraduate Student Government president at Penn State in over seven years. His job entails service as liaison between Penn State's 36,500 students and the University administration. Muir and his running mate received nearly fifty percent of the popular vote.

The Big Brothers/Big Sisters Program of Centre County benefited from the First Annual PiKA Kickball Tournament, organized by the men of Beta Alpha. Four local bands provided entertainment throughout the day, and twenty seven-man teams played in the tournament.

The brothers continue to excel in athletics, placing high in all intramural sports. Currently in third place out of the fifty-four fraternities on campus, Beta Alpha Chapter will make a

BB BETA BETA CHAPTER University of Washington

The 1989-90 year ended on a high note for Beta Beta Chapter with the Spring Quarter Pike Fraternity Football Tournament sponsored by Ranier Brewing Company. All but a few of the thirty-two fraternities on the Washington campus participated in the best journey in years. The proceeds from the event went to fund research on Alzheimer's disease.

BO BETA OMICRON CHAPTER University of Oklahoma

Beta Omicron Chapter takes pride in its scholastic successes. Brother Danny Neale was named one of the top ten Greek men in the OU Greek system, having graduated this spring with a 4.00 in accounting. He was also named "number one man" in the College of Business. Additionally, Kenn White (another Pike senior) was admitted into Harvard University's Graduate School of Psychology.

Two philanthropical events highlighted the spring season. The brothers spent a day with the orphaned children of the Baptist Children's Center, enjoying a cookout, games, sports and movies. The chapter also sponsored a five kilometer run to raise money for the Jesus House, a shelter for the homeless in Oklahoma City. Funds were also donated by Beta Omicron Chapter to the Centennial Arch Campaign, a program to build a memorial in honor of the University's 100th year.

Beta Omicron is planning a special Founders Day celebration next year in honor of 70 years on the Oklahoma campus. Efforts are being made to contact as many alumni as possible, and work is in progress on an updated alumni directory. Alumni who have not been contacted by the chapter in the past few months are asked

BΦ BETA PHI CHAPTER
Purdue University

The 1989-90 school year began well for Beta Phi, as the chapter received the 1988-89 All-Fraternity Athletic Championship trophy, as well as four other athletic awards at the annual Chapter of Chapters event.

Beta Phi also claims the president of the Student Government, Brother Ryan Polk. Brother Walt Quinn represented the chapter as Homecoming King.

Purdue Pikes served the community during National Homeless Awareness Month by raising over $700 for the Lilies of the Fields Homeless Shelter, as well as donating a Saturday painting, doing carpentry, raking leaves, and picking up trash at the local shelter. Money was also donated to Trinity House; both homeless shelters are sponsored by Trinity United Methodist Church.

SMC Nick Capps has worked with local Beta Phi alumni to form an Alumni Advisory Board. The resulting group of four recent graduates advise active committee chairmen and lend continuity to chapter programs. Another new chapter organization is an effective risk management team.

BX BETA CHI CHAPTER
University of Minnesota

The academic year has been victorious for Beta Chi in the area of academics. The chapter received the top grade point average for fall quarter out of all fraternities on campus. During winter quarter, nine members received 4.0 GPAs. For both quarters, the brothers of Beta Chi surpassed the all-University average and the all-men's average. Brothers Ross Bernstein, David Teal, Sinu Nutakki and Bob Dishner were initiated into Order of Omega, with Brother Dishner being elected vice-president of the honorary.

In athletics, the Beta Chi hockey team reached the Greek final four and the volleyball team reached the all-University final four. Brother Jay Caputo helped lead the Gopher Gymnastic team to a Big 10 division title and won the parallel bars competition. Brother Randy Bartz was selected to the U.S. World Speed Skating National Indoor and Outdoor teams. Bartz recently returned from competition in Belgium with the team.

Spring rush added thirteen men to the chapter, and the brothers are busy planning for the fifth anniversary of the chapter's rechartering.

ΓΑ GAMMA ALPHA CHAPTER
University of Alabama

The name of the game is football, and the team to watch is the Central Pikes. Twenty seven- and eight-year old boys from Martin Luther King Jr. Elementary School have gained pride and confidence in themselves and their abilities, thanks to friendship and guidance offered by the brothers of Gamma Alpha chapter who help coach the pint-sized team. In association with the Parks and Recreation Department of Tuscaloosa, the chapter fully funds and sponsors the football team for the children, who would not otherwise have an opportunity to play. The budget for the project covers the expense of outfitting and operating the program.

"There is just so much need for people to get out here and spend time with these kids," said Chapter Service Chairman Doug Bregance. "It's all about helping kids, not just football." Tuscaloosa Parks and Recreation Special Services Director Arlington Freeman, who coaches the team with the brothers' assistance, said he feels the Pikes have opened the door to opportunity for the boys: "I was in college once, and I know how much we spent on parties. The kids would have been happy with just the uniforms, but the Fraternity members' time made a difference."

Freeman and the chapter members said they try to emphasize sportsmanship, fair play and discipline to the boys, as well as respect for rules and authority. Freeman also stressed the importance of the Pikes' self image: "I pick up the paper and see hazing, some kids dying, flag waving and such; but the Pikes call two or three times a day and inquire about the boys. There is an attachment here."

The mother of one boy on the team summed up the benefit of the chapter's influence by stating that the team has given her son an inner drive. She said he has always been "pokey"; but now he rushes home to do his homework so he can go to football practice.

The brothers also participated as volunteers for the United Cerebral Palsy "Fright Factory", an event that raised over $10,000. Close to home, the chapter worked in the annual "Greeks Against Garbage" effort to clean up Tuscaloosa.

Rush was also successful this year for Gamma Alpha, with thirty men pledged during the fall semester.

ΓΔ GAMMA DELTA CHAPTER
University of Arizona

Gamma Delta has had an exciting spring. Under the leadership of Rush Chairman Jim Kilroy, an outstanding spring rush resulted in twenty-three pledges. In February, Gamma Delta held the Miss Greek U of A Contest for the benefit of Big Brothers and Sisters of Tucson. Under the direction of Brother Kevin Donahue, over $1300 was raised for the philanthropy.

Other community service activities included a Zoo Day for the children of Casa de los Ninos, in conjunction with Alpha Phi Sorority. In a joint effort with Gamma Phi Beta Sorority and Delta Chi Fraternity, the brothers held an Easter picnic for the children of The Boys and Girls Club of Tucson.

The Pikes also worked with the Boys Club of Tucson in a homework help program. Every Tuesday and Thursday, the brothers spent time helping the boys with their studies. Philanthropy Chairman David Alsever has done an excellent job, with twenty-two philanthropic efforts this year.

Every year the students of Arizona put on Spring Fling. This year Gamma Delta and the Chi Omega Sorority presented "Late Night with Pike and Chi-O", which won the Director's Choice Award for most entertaining booth. Spring Fling Co-Chairmen Robby Morris and Baron Bruno worked hard on a job well done.

Alumni Chairman Johnny Harris directed the annual Alumni Banquet, at which Chapter Advisor Jim Sheely was named Alumnus of the Year for the many hours he has contributed to Gamma Delta. Brother David Baker was named Active of the Year for his many accomplishments in the IFC.

In intramurals, five house basketball teams made the playoffs. Five teams are in the softball playoffs, including the Pike SOTUS, who are going for their third straight intramural championship. Additionally, Brothers Zac Fryer, Joe Jacobs and Jeff Nelson took first place in the first annual Greeks for Christ golf tournament.

ΓΣ GAMMA SIGMA CHAPTER University of Pittsburgh

The brothers of Gamma Sigma Chapter won the University of Pittsburgh's Cathedral Award of Excellence for the third consecutive year at the Annual IFC Awards Banquet. The award is given to the best fraternity on campus. In addition, the chapter also took awards for social programming, pledge education and alumni programming. The chapter also did extremely well in the University's Greek Week, and took first place in the Spirit Competition.

ΓΥ GAMMA UPSILON CHAPTER University of Tulsa

Service to the community is important at Gamma Upsilon chapter. Twelve volunteers from Pi Kappa Alpha and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes at the University of Tulsa helped renovate a house this April for the non-profit group Habitat for Humanity. Their efforts will help a low-income family purchase a home with a zero-interest mortgage.

ΓΦ GAMMA PHI CHAPTER Wake Forest University

Gamma Phi celebrated its 50th Anniversary last fall with a weekend featuring an awards ceremony in honor of the chapter's charter members and outstanding alumni. The chapter was also recognized by Wake Forest University for its achievements in all areas of Greek life over the past fifty years.

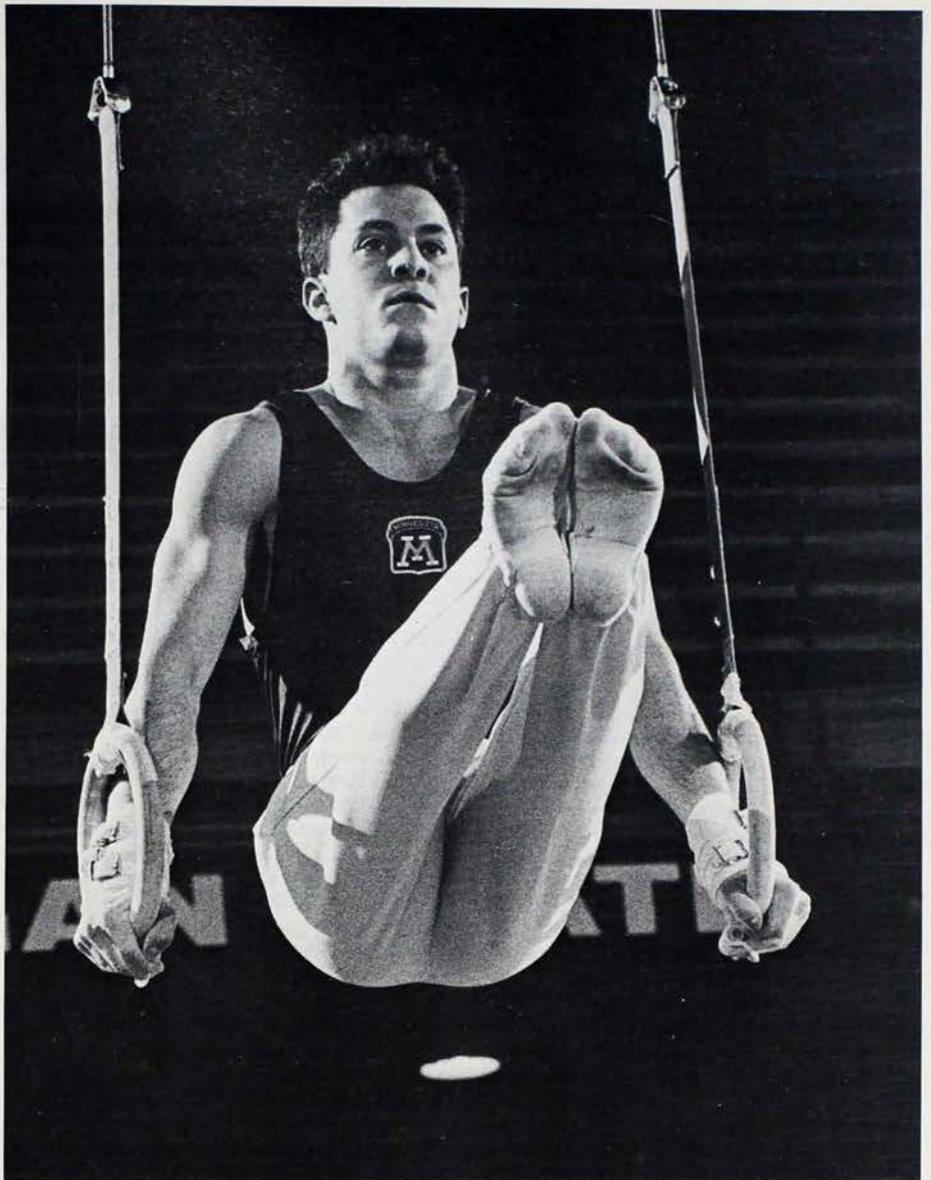

Community service chairman Steve Phillips organized the brothers' efforts in many worthwhile projects this year. The chapter sponsored a cookout with underprivileged children from the Winston-Salem Boys Club which featured soccer, hiking, basketball, tennis and kickball. Many brothers have given more of their time to these children on a one-to-one basis by adopting a little brother. The Pikes also contributed over $1000 to the Brian Piccolo Cancer Fund.

Gamma Phi won intramural swimming and weightlifting last fall, and was competitive in soccer. Campus involvement includes participation in ROTC, rugby, lacrosse, club soccer, varsity tennis, and the school newspaper.

Chapter officers this year are: SMC Bruce Lefebvre, IMC Geoff Habermacher, ThC Chris Bradley, SC Buck Salmon, Public Relations Chairman Phil Adams, Pledge Educator Chuck Hansberry, Rush Chairman Steve Hunt, Social Chairman Mark Berger, and Ritual Chairman Terry Gfroerer.

Alumni of Delta Gamma Chapter recently established an undergraduate scholarship endowment fund. Thomas Husselman (Delta Gamma '49) pledged $12,000 with the stipulation that the chapter raise at least another $12,000 from alumni. This incentive marks the first time in the history of the chapter that such a fund has been established.

Finally, Delta Theta presented the Memorial Headquarters with a signed and numbered print entitled "Delta Theta: The First Era". A chapter project commissioned an artist to produce 250 prints which were sold to raise funds for a new half-million dollar chapter house. Print number 104 was presented to Executive Director Steve Cox during a big brother/little brother retreat held at the national headquarters. The number 104 was chosen because Delta Theta was the 104th chapter granted membership into Pi Kappa Alpha. Thirty-five brothers and pledges attended the retreat.

year with bi-weekly study programs organized by Scholarship Chairman Nick Barbarine. These study sessions have been a huge success, with good attendance by both actives and pledges.

The chapter's philanthropy efforts have also been successful, with the second annual ACAMANIA taking place this spring. While the entire brotherhood supported the effort to raise funds for the prevention of child abuse, special congratulations go to Brothers Richard Dickson and Andrew Auwerda for the year-round work they have put in on the project. In conjunction with Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, Delta Psi raised money for Cystic Fibrosis, and for the American Heart Association along with Alpha Phi. The Pikes joined Kappa Alpha Theta, Phi Sigma Kappa and Gamma Phi Beta for a campus wide philanthropy benefiting Leukemia Research. In a local effort, the chapter recycled 1000 pounds of newspaper, which was donated to the recycling office. Special commendations go to Philanthropy Chairmen Patrick Curran and John Ritter.

Socially, Delta Psi has been rewriting the book on fun. The chapter hosted some innovative non-alcoholic mixers, including an ice skating party, a movie night, a hayride, an Easter egg coloring party and an ice cream party. Thanks go to the brainstorming efforts of Pi Kappa Alpha Social Chairman Ron Bove and IFC Social Chairman Jay Richmond.

GAMMA (Greeks Advocating Mature Management of Alcohol) is a relatively new organization on campus which is supported by the men of Delta Psi. During Alcohol Awareness Week, the Pikes canvassed the campus, selling tickets for a fund raiser benefitting the national branch of SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving).

ΔΘ DELTA THETA CHAPTER
Arkansas State University

Delta Theta undergraduates and alumni enjoyed substantial recognition last summer at the Officers Leadership Academy Awards Banquet. Tim O. Brown, who has served as Delta Theta's chapter advisor for thirteen years (during which the chapter has won the Smythe Award eight times) was named National Chapter Advisor of the Year. Brian Wiedower, a 1989 graduate of ASU, was recognized as one of five finalists for the national Powers Award. Wiedower served as chapter IMC and as vice president of the ASU Student Government Association. In May 1989, he received the Terry Gwin Scholar-Athlete Award and a Distinguished Service Award from the University.

Delta Theta received the National Award for Intramurals, the National Award for Alumni Relations, and a Chapter Excellence Award. Additionally, Alumnus Pat Haynes was honored by the Supreme Council for two excellent years as executive director of the National Fraternity.

The Eighth Annual Delta Theta House Corporation Two-Man Golf Scramble was held on July 22, 1989 with more than forty teams of undergraduates and alumni participating. Undergraduates David Sparks and Chris McSpadden defeated alumni Craig Boone and Nelson Catalina on the first hole of a sudden

ΔΙ DELTA IOTA CHAPTER
Marshall University

Delta Iota is wrapping up a successful year. After receiving the Most Outstanding Fraternity on Campus award for the second year, Delta Iota went on to implement a new dry rush system which resulted in the largest pledge class on campus. For the seventh consecutive year, the chapter won the Pike Football Championship, and repeated its victory as Sigma Softball Champions.

Homecoming saw one of the chapter's largest gatherings of alumni, and Founders Day celebrations featured Past National President Gary Sallquist as keynote speaker.

Having achieved one of its highest overall chapter grade point averages last fall, Delta Iota saw three brothers selected for membership in Order of Omega. Brother Shawn Shrader was elected as IFC vice president for leadership late last fall.

Delta Iota has continued and expanded its highly successful community service program, finished second in Homecoming, and currently holds the lead in the effort to be intramural champions and capture the President's Cup.

ΕΒ EPSILON BETA CHAPTER
Valparaiso University

Spring 1990 was great for Epsilon Beta Chapter, with individual accomplishments for the brothers including the election of H.B. Douglas to vice president/treasurer of the IFC, Brian Butler's election to the Student Senate Seat for Fraternities, and Matt Flandermeyer's election to vice president of Chi Beta Alpha, the College of Business Honor Society.

The brothers of Epsilon Beta have helped revise a resource directory for the United Way of Valparaiso; and upcoming community service events will include sponsorship of a party for Self Help Children, and a car wash to benefit the homeless of Valparaiso.

Chapter members are proud of improvements to the interior of the chapter house. New furnishings have been provided by the strong Alumni Association of Epsilon Beta.

ΕΖ EPSILON ZETA CHAPTER
East Tennessee State University

Epsilon Zeta began the spring semester by initiating twelve men, bringing the chapter size to forty-six. Chapter involvement on campus remains high. Brother Brian Morehouse is president of the Student Government Association and the Interfraternity Council of ETSU is presided over by President John Wilkes, another member of PiKA.

Earlier this year, the members of Epsilon Zeta participated in their annual Appy State Run. In connection with the East Tennessee State and Appalachian State football game, the brothers ran the game ball from Appy State sixty miles to ETSU in a continuous relay, raising money from Big Brothers of America in the process. Also, the Pikes won overall campus championships in indoor soccer and softball. Additionally, led by Homecoming Chairman Kevin R. Manning, Pi Kappa Alpha in conjunction with Sigma Kappa Sorority won a sweeping Homecoming victory, the twenty-first such win in the past twenty-three years.

EPSILON LAMBDA CHAPTER

Murray State University

1989 and early 1990 have been a successful period for Epsilon Lambda. During this time the Fraternity restored the chapter room for an estimated cost of $3,000. Brothers Mike Alexander and Terry Bryan did most of the remodeling. In the area of intramurals, Pi Kappa Alpha won the championship in football and in softball.

Fall 1989 also included exceptional work in community service. During October, Epsilon Lambda cosponsored a Haunted Forest for the needy children of the community. The Halloween event raised over $6,000 for the Murray Jaycees Christmas Party for the children. 460 total man hours were contributed, and over 1,600 people attended. Brother Keith Smith received the most valuable worker award, and as community service chairman he was largely responsible for this tremendous effort.

Back during the Spring of 1989, Epsilon Lambda pledged fourteen men; in Fall 1989 the chapter gained nineteen pledges, and in Spring 1990 the brothers won out over all the other fraternities on campus with a pledge class of thirty-five.

ΕΝ

EPSILON NU CHAPTER

Georgia State University

Epsilon Nu had a busy year in community service. The chapter raised $630 for the Arthritis Foundation, sponsored food and clothing drives on campus, and accumulated over 500 man hours of service. At the end of April, the brothers held the annual Pike Bike fund raiser for the benefit of the Georgia Council on Child Abuse.

The chapter was also justly proud of Brother Chris Walker's election to the Governor's Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council for the State of Georgia. Additionally, Brother Karl Oates serves the Georgia State Greek community as IFC public relations chairman, and Bob Pinnero is intramurals vice president.

The chapter has remained undefeated for the third year in intramural soccer, and placed third in baseball.

EPSILON PHI CHAPTER

University of Central Arkansas

The men of Epsilon Phi demonstrate their athletic prowess in an amazing number of ways. Displaying great stamina and determination, members pushed a wheelchair from UCA to North Little Rock (a twenty-five mile trip) last March in an effort to raise funds for the benefit of United Cerebral Palsy.

Back at home, the brothers celebrated the induction of Alumnus Bobby Tiner ('66) into the Arkansas Sports Hall of Fame. Tiner is widely considered to be one of the greatest quarterbacks in University of Central Arkansas history. Also, Brother David Henson, who was included in the Shield & Diamond's March "Pigskin Review", was named to the first team of the 1989 All Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference. A defensive lineman, Henson also received All-American honorable mention. Brother Bobby Mohr is UCA's starting right guard and was named to the All-AIC second team; Ricky Sawyer was honored as NAIA defensive player of the week and named to the All-AIC second team. Additionally, ten other brothers represent Pi Kappa Alpha on the UCA Bears football team.

Not surprisingly, the chapter shines in intramurals. When the pledge class sent out an invitation to all other fraternities to play flag football, only one accepted the challenge. The chapter had added to its reputation with twelve new pledges, six of whom are varsity football players.

ETA ALPHA CHAPTER

Clemson University

Several members of Eta Alpha Chapter represented Clemson in the English Studies Abroad program when they visited England during spring break this year. The group included Brothers Dan Joy, David Anderson, Brad Hughes, and Chapter Advisor Dr. Jerome V. Reel, Jr. The object of the ten day trip was the study of English culture and history.

A new shortened pledge season proved quite successful for the chapter, and brought the membership up to 141.

Last January, Eta Alpha celebrated its 20th Anniversary with an alumnus-active drop in at the off-campus chapter house. An alumni newsletter, frequent gatherings, Founders Day activities and a phone-a-thon kept actives and alumni in close contact throughout the year. An alumni weekend was held on Hilton Head Island during May.

A proposed $50,000 renovation to the chapter house includes plans for the addition of a recreation room, the replacement of an existing deck, additional upstairs housing, and more parking spaces. The chapter has already raised $9,800 toward this project.

Reflections & Forecasts

An Interview With Pi Kappa Alpha's National President

In less than two months, Edward A. Pease (Delta Xi '71) will wrap up his two year term as Pi Kappa Alpha's National President. Since his election to the Fraternity's top volunteer position, he has visited over one third of the Fraternity's chapters. He attended all of Pi Kappa Alpha's fifteen Regional Leadership Conferences. He has represented Pi Kappa Alpha as its delegate to the National Interfraternity Council. Recognized as a fraternity man dedicated to the promotion of the interfraternity movement, Ed has been the keynote speaker at several interfraternity events. The Shield & Diamond took this opportunity to have Ed reflect on his two years in office, and to discuss important issues facing Pi Kappa Alpha in the decade of the nineties.

Did you discover anything new about Pi Kappa Alpha during the past two years as National President?

A

I don't know that I've "discovered" anything new about the Fraternity. Many things that I have known about Pi Kappa Alpha, and believed in, have been reinforced — its traditions, its members and its potential.

There has been one thing I would call a revelation since I was elected and that is the increasing stature of Pi Kappa Alpha in the interfraternity movement.

I was peripherally aware of this prior to my election. As National President it became very evident to me as I was sought out by other fraternity leaders because of my position with PiKA. They are interested in knowing what Pi Kappa Alpha is doing and where we are going. Actually, I shouldn't be surprised considering that past National Presidents Dr. Bill Nester and Bill LaForge and current National Vice President Larry Lunsford have been heavily involved in the interfraternity movement for years.

"...we are at a point where PiKA needs some long-term leadership."

What benefits does Pi Kappa Alpha receive from this increasing stature in the interfraternity movement?

A

The benefits are mostly intangible. Our increased stature means our opinion on issues which affect the Greek system is sought more regularly. Therefore, we have the opportunity to participate in decisions which have an impact on the interfraternity movement which thereby affect us.

There are other consequences, also. It means more work for PiKA because we have more responsibilities than we had before. For instance, I'm currently co-chairing a joint National Interfraternity Conference/Association of Fraternity Advisors (NIC/AFA) committee to look at membership issues facing the fraternity movement. So, there's the intangible benefit of being more involved in decisions affecting the movement, but with that benefit comes the responsibility of taking the time to do a good job in that consultant's mode.

What major achievements has PiKA made during your two-year term?

There have been a number of them, and trying to single out one or two is difficult. I would point out the continual increase in the quality of our chapters. The quality of the membership and chapter operations continues to rise.

Our involvement in the interfraternity movement, both at the local and national levels, and by undergraduates and alumni, has been significant. This is leadership for Pi Kappa Alpha beyond the chapter and beyond our Fraternity. One of the things that makes this so significant is that today, more than ever, Pi Kappa Alpha is being affected not just by the conduct of our own chapters, but by the conduct of all fraternity chapters. Therefore, it becomes increasingly important for us to be involved in the leadership beyond our chapters and beyond our Fraternity.

Are there any goals that you set out to accomplish as National President, but haven't achieved?

A

Yes. We've not yet institutionalized the increasing concern about ethical behavior, principled behavior, and the teaching of values and ethics in our chapters. This has been a focus of PiKA over the last several years, and has been paid particular attention by our volunteer leaders and professional staff. These issues have occupied the Supreme Council's discussions, but we have not found a way to institutionalize our concerns through membership education programs at the chapter level. This remains one of our biggest challenges, and I had hoped that it would be resolved during the last two years.

A

Time. Much of our time has been spent on immediate concerns — putting out fires — in chapters and on campuses. Dealing with day-to-day problems steals the time and energy away from long-term projects like this.

The term of a National President is two years; is this an adequate amount of time for an individual to be an effective leader?

I don't know if any one person is critical to the leadership of the Fraternity. I believe what's important is that there be some continuity of leadership over a period of time. Currently, Pi Kappa Alpha's structure permits some continuity by allowing National Vice Presidents to be re-elected.

However, as with any group of people, the members of a newly elected Supreme Council spend the first year of their two year term, or more, getting to know each other by discussing priorities, directions, and philosophies. So, the members of the Council find themselves spending half of their elected terms defining directions, with very little time remaining to achieve those directions.

Considering the issues that the fraternity movement is facing today, we are at a point where PiKA needs some long-term leadership. It will be necessary for timely decisions to be made in the next few years by people who know and agree with where the Fraternity has come from, where it is now, and where it should be going before the end of the decade.

The issues facing Pi Kappa Alpha won't allow time for constant re-education of leadership and resetting of goals.

“...the fraternity of the year 2000 will be much more like the fraternity of 1900 than of 1970.”

Do other national fraternities that have longer terms for their volunteer leaders have an advantage over Pi Kappa Alpha?

A

Structurally, I think they have an advantage. Pi Kappa Alpha, because of its structure, has the potential to turn over its entire volunteer leadership every two years — and as recently as 1980, it did just that. This fact alone jeopardizes our ability to make long range plans. We have a long tradition of volunteer leadership in the Fraternity, but because of our structure, Pi Kappa Alpha tends to be more reactive rather than proactive. At this time in our history and in the fraternity movement's history, Pi Kappa Alpha is going to have to be more prepared and aggressive.

Has the Fraternity experienced anything that you would consider a setback during the last two years?

A

Institutionally, no. We have had some chapters experience behavioral problems, but they aren't terribly different from setbacks that we've had periodically throughout our history.

What significant issues is Pi Kappa Alpha wrestling with today?

One, behavior, individually and collectively. Two, risk management as it pertains to insurance coverage and our image. Lastly, a concern that our chapters and their members understand the basic precepts of our Fraternity so they can conform their behavior accordingly.

One of our biggest challenges involves the recent action by the American Council on Education (ACE), which issued a paper on the relationship between colleges, universities, and general fraternities. ACE's recommendation calls for a number of major changes in the way fraternities do business as a condition of maintaining and receiving recognition as student organizations on campus. The changes include required grade point averages as a condition for affiliation; deferred rush for a semester, or a year, before pledging is allowed; and a recommendation that colleges and universities not recognize fraternities that have pledge programs. As a result of the ACE recommendation, we are already facing some of these issues on certain campuses. I expect there will more . . . and soon.

What do you consider the most frustrating issue that you've had to address as National President?

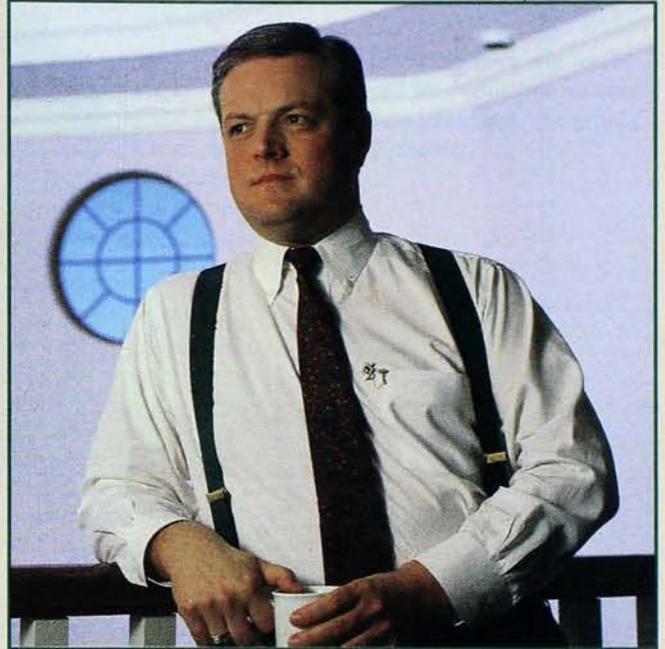

A

Without citing specific chapters, the greatest frustration I've had has been in closing some chapters. It's been frustrating, not because I didn't think it needed to be done, but because in most cases I knew the actions — or negligence — of a few were going to deny other good men in the chapter a fraternity experience. For me, that's frustrating.

What was the toughest decision that you have had to make as National President?

A

To disband all women's auxiliary groups (Little Sisters) associated with Pi Kappa Alpha. When it was addressed at the Memphis Convention, even though a majority of the chapters supported it, the motion fell short of the required two-thirds needed to amend the Constitution. Yet, it was becoming increasingly clear to the Council that women's auxiliary programs were a major source of exposure in our risk management concerns. The auxiliaries also were clearly out of step with the times and the perceptions that university administrators have on the role of women. In short, it was in the best interest of the Fraternity to make that decision.

You've done a lot of traveling as National President; what are some of your favorite memories?

A

I have hundreds of fond memories. The one that stands out the most was a weekend in November last year. I spent that weekend traveling coast to coast for the Fraternity. I started on a Friday afternoon by flying from Indianapolis to McMinnville, Oregon to attend the Northwest Regional Leadership Conference. That night I caught an all-night flight to Little Rock, Arkansas to attend Saturday's events at the Arkoma Regional Conference. Saturday afternoon I flew to Richmond, Virginia where the brothers from Hampden-Sydney picked me up and drove me to campus so I could take part in the Centennial Celebration of our Fraternity's Refounding.

I finished the weekend off by driving to the Washington, D.C. airport with the colony members from George Washington University. The weekend was made up of a lot of great people and events.

Are there any memories which you consider nightmares?

A

You mean other than lost luggage and running to catch flights? There were some difficult times, such as meeting with undergraduates to talk about their chapters when they weren't doing well, but I wouldn't call them nightmares. They were difficult matters; they were painful at times.

Where is Pi Kappa Alpha headed in the 1990s?

A

I think Pi Kappa Alpha will return more to the notion of "fraternity" as it was 100 years ago. I believe the fraternity of the year 2000 will be much more like the fraternity of 1900 than of 1970. I expect we will see more of a focus on the principles of friendship, and on academics and athletics, and less of a focus on the social, or party experience. External forces, such as legal actions and college and university administrators are going to play a part in this change. To a certain extent we are already feeling these pressures. It's going to be a difficult transition.

A

I expect Pi Kappa Alpha will continue to be a leader on individual campuses and in the fraternity movement. However, in terms of the chapter's focus, I think it will be re-oriented toward the original and historic notions of fraternity rather than the social notions of fraternity.

What issues do you see the entire Greek system addressing during the next ten years?

A

Risk management will continue to be a major concern. Academic performance is going to be increasingly important, particularly as more colleges and universities get involved in their relationship with fraternities. The issue of co-education will be with us again. I'm not sure what direction it will go, but I'm confident we can expect it to be on our agenda.

What are your personal views on the future of the single sex fraternity and sorority?

A

I believe there is clearly a place for private, single sex organizations in our society. There is much to be said for organizations which provide role modeling, if done properly, and at an important time in an individual's development. I understand the pressures that are placed on us by society to say that anything gender-based is inherently wrong, because it discriminates on the basis of sex. However, there is a difference between government and business unfairly discriminating on the basis of sex, and private social organizations selecting their friendships on the basis of gender and other characteristics. We need to communicate that. If we don't, I expect the pressure will become more intense.

What is your personal opinion on the issue of pledgship?

My personal opinion is that some sort of membership education program is vital. I'm not wedded to the notion that the only way to understand the Fraternity is through the traditional pledge education program. In fact, considering the position taken by ACE, and the attitude of a number of colleges and universities, I believe Pi Kappa Alpha is going to have to re-think this issue.

I would suggest that for the time being PiKA must encourage chapters to try different things in membership education — from minimal pledge programs through the traditional pledge programs, presuming that they are positive and constructive. I do think that the National Fraternity must take a leadership role in providing more educational materials, and support chapters in focusing on personal development, ethical decision making, and developing values in personal living, through publications and video materials. This is one of the areas where I believe we haven't fully reached our goal.

Taking into consideration the much publicized actions by Zeta Beta Tau and Tau Kappa Epsilon last summer to eliminate pledgship, and Lambda Chi Alpha's programming in this same area over the last five years, will pledgship have a place in the fraternity system in the future?

A

Along with those three national fraternities, there are also six other nationals which are actively reconsidering their positions on pledge programming. Given the tremendous press that ZBT and Teke have received, coupled with the ACE paper which recommends not recognizing fraternities with pledge programs, the entire system is going to be under great pressure to change that part of its recent traditions. I should point out that pledge programming was non-existent a hundred years ago. Pledgship has not always been part of the system, and I am confident increasing pressure will cause all nationals to reevaluate the pledge education process.

"The Rattlesnake"

by Frederic Remington

- Available in a single limited edition issue of 9500 serially numbered sculptures.
- An outstanding museum quality reproduction in the great tradition of Frederic Remington.

Shown smaller than actual size of 8½" high.

© NE 1987

One of Frederic Remington's best known and dramatic works — "The Rattlesnake" depicts in vivid detail the classic moment as horse and rider encounter a startled snake, while on the trail. The few original bronzes, made by Remington in 1905, are rare and have sold at auction for over $135,000. Now this 1/3 size reproduction is available for the unusual offering price of only $195.00 per sculpture.

The fine reproduction was produced under the direct supervision of Ms. Christine Roussel — former Director of the Reproduction Studio of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and creator of fine Remington reproductions for The Nelson Rockefeller Collection.

Each Rattlesnake replica will be created in cold-cast bronze — a medium that enables the casting of finer detail than the traditional hot-cast method. Every sculpture will be individually cast from a blend of powdered bronze and resins. Once the casting is completed, it will be finished with a rich patina, similar to the original. Each Remington Rattlesnake will be serially numbered and hallmarked. The edition will be limited to 9500 pieces and after that, all molds will be destroyed forever.

To reserve this important Remington reproduction, simply return the application. No payment need accompany your order at this time.

court to raise money for Habitat for Humanity by playing 104½ continuous hours of basketball in the Redman Fieldhouse at Northeastern State.

Habitat for Humanity is a non-profit organization of people who donate their time and effort to restore and build homes for the homeless in their communities.

SMC Patrick Gaddis pointed out that "Our event is three-fold: First, we want to help Habitat for Humanity raise the amount they need to start construction . . . in Tahlequah. Second, we are promoting students' community awareness. We are citizens of Tahlequah, and by that we should want to make the city as positive as possible. And finally, we will be breaking a record (for continuous basketball) that has stood unmatched for seven years." The project earned the title Best Homecoming '90 project for the entire state of Oklahoma during the month of March.

Theta Epsilon also won the coveted Greek Week Title for 1990, having won first place in flag football, soccer, swimming, tug-of-war and volleyball.

THETA OMICRON CHAPTER

Indiana State University

Pride in scholarship and leadership is a tradition at Theta Omicron. Ms. Betty Jo Hudson, National President of Alpha Lambda Delta academic honor society for freshmen, announced that the Sixtieth Anniversary Endowed Fellowship in the amount of $3,000 has been awarded to Brother Todd M. Jochem. This is one of fifteen fellowships awarded annually by the society to members for graduate study. Jochem will pursue a Ph.D. in Robotics at The Robotics Institute, a part of Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Indiana State Greek Advisor Al Perone (Theta Omicron '78) attended the Mid-America Interfraternity Conference Association meeting during March, and noted the high number of Pi Kappa Alpha men among the 600 Midwestern delegates. These Pikes included five IFC presidents, eighteen IFC officers, one chapter president, four chapter officers, one graduate assistant and two IFC advisors. In addition to being the largest delegation of IIFKA men at MIFCA in recent history, it was also most impressive in terms of character, enthusiasm and personality.

THETA SIGMA CHAPTER

Winthrop College

Theta Sigma Chapter is proud of Brother Tom Geddens, who took first place in the fiction contest sponsored this spring by Winthrop College's English department. His short story earned a $100 award and appeared in the school's literary magazine. Geddens was also invited to read his composition before the assembly at the English Department Banquet.

Two brothers have been elected to Winthrop's Student Government Association: Chris Rhodes, a former chairman, won the race for SGA president, while Jeff Revels was elected to the position of Public Defender.

During March, the men of Theta Sigma made a 750 mile bicycle trek to raise $2,000 for the American Cancer Society. They also were declared the winners of Winthrop College's Homecoming week, beating out all other fraternities. Rush was likewise successful, with nineteen men pledged.

IOTA ALPHA CHAPTER

University of Wyoming

Iota Alpha Chapter executed their most victorious rush last September with thirty-eight new associates welcomed into the pledge program. This was the largest number for any of the eleven fraternities on campus.

The Pikes are also carrying on a tradition begun in Spring 1989 when they received the highest grade point average of the three largest fraternities.

Six hundred hours of community service during Spring 1989 were accrued for projects including painting a SAFE house for women, and a picnic with the Association of Retarded Children.

IOTA DELTA CHAPTER

Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology

The brothers of Iota Delta Chapter worked hard through the winter quarter, retiring their third IFC Scholastic trophy in four years. SMC Mark Sculd was elected Midwest Regional vice president; Brother Elihu Feustel, captain of the RHIT fencing team, competed in the National Junior Olympic Championships where he placed 22nd in the epee, earning him a national ranking of "E"; and Brother Matt Morin, an All-American wrestler, once again won the conference championship and placed fifth in the NCAA Regional Tournament.

The chapter also competed in Delta Gamma's Anchor Splash, winning the contest in a field of eighteen fraternities. The brothers also donated over $450 to the competition for the benefit of a local charity for the blind.

During this year's winter rush, the chapter pledged four of the finest associates the group has ever taken, as well as initiating twenty-four outstanding members from the fall rush program.

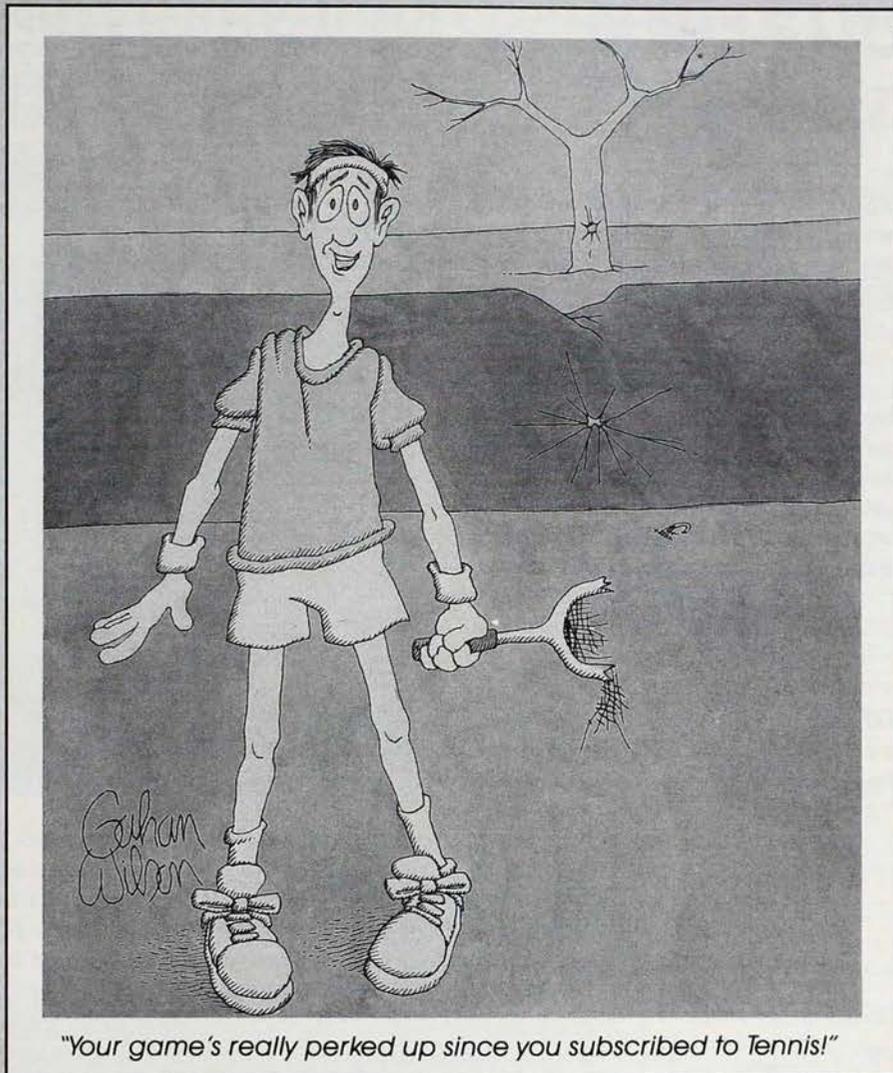

IOTA IOTA CHAPTER

Michigan State University

Iota Iota chapter spent the spring coming back strong from a fire which gutted the chapter house last year. Plans for remodeling have been made, and the house should be ready by Fall 1990. An enthusiastic rush gained ten men for the chapter. The Gamma pledge class joined the forty actives for a trip to the Great Lakes Regional Conference on February 2-4, and area alumni joined the chapter for a Founders Day banquet on March 1st.

In a list, what are some of the issues that are already at the top of Pi Kappa Alpha's next National President's agenda?

A

First, the continual management of individual and chapter behavioral incidents. Second, the focus of membership education. Third, the concern about academic performance. Fourth, finding a way to structurally manage Pi Kappa Alpha more effectively, both in terms of its volunteer leadership and the structure of its management and operations. In other words, should we restructure the governance of the Fraternity so there is more continuity? Should we change the relationship between the volunteers and the professional staff, to more focus on the volunteers than we have in the past because of our lack of continuity? This is an issue we may begin to address this summer.

Do you have any specific advice for the next man who will be National President?

A

Say goodbye to your wife at the Convention this summer and make plans to see her again at the next Convention in Phoenix, Arizona in 1992. (Laughter)

Is Ed Pease today the same Ed Pease who was elected to the position of National President in August of 1988?

A

Aside from the fact that I have more gray hair and am fifteen pounds heavier? Fundamentally, I think I'm the same. As I mentioned earlier, my vision of what the Fraternity ought to be has been reinforced.

What will Pi Kappa Alpha's history say about the "Pease Years"?

It's difficult to judge what things are going to look like in retrospect when you're in an office.

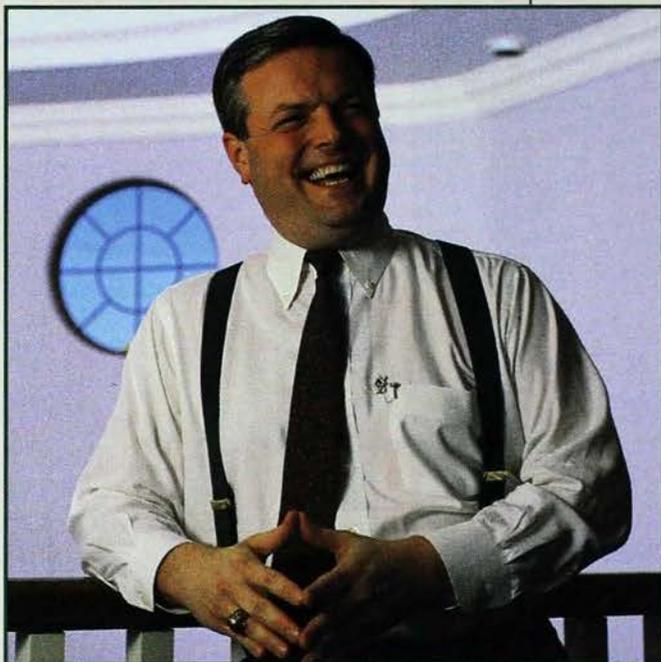

I think they will be seen as a time of transition. When I was elected in 1988, Pi Kappa Alpha was probably stronger than it ever has been. My predecessors, and their Councils, left a national organization composed of many strong local organizations. It still is strong, and because of that strength I think that we've been able to start redirecting PiKA's energies into becoming a different sort of fraternity — not fundamentally different, but different in its focus.

Lastly, are there any individuals you would like to recognize because they helped make it possible for you to serve as National President?

A

The members of the Supreme Council. They've been willing to address tough issues — and although we haven't always agreed, and sometimes have fallen short of individual expectations — they have been willing to wrestle with issues. By their willingness to address tough issues, they've allowed me to provide some leadership in shifting our focus.

There are also our Regional Presidents who have rearranged their conference schedules so that I could attend and assist them in the work. And finally, our professional staff for its ongoing support. We have the best staff in the fraternity world. Despite the stresses they must deal with, they are willing to work behind the scenes and let me be the one out front working with undergraduates and alumni. I'm grateful to all. . . .

WHITE SOX & CUBS & BEARS...

Oh My!

Pi Kappa Alpha Ventures To Chicago For The 1990 National Convention.

August 10-14, 1990 are the dates and the beautiful Hyatt Regency Hotel in Chicago, Illinois is the site for what promises to be the greatest national convention in Pi Kappa Alpha's 122 year history.

Highlights of the action-packed five day Convention agenda include:

- ☆ Announcement of Pi Kappa Alpha's 1990 National Award winners, including the presentation of Robert Adger Smythe Trophies to Pi Kappa Alpha's top chapters.
- ☆ Announcement of the 1990 National Dream Girl at the National President's Banquet on Sunday, August 11.
- ☆ Election of the Supreme Council for 1990-92.
- ☆ Legislative sessions at which Pi Kappa Alpha delegates will chart the future of the Fraternity.

☆ Exciting seminars and chapter programming workshops, committee meetings and regional caucuses.

☆ The opportunity to meet fellow ΠKAs from across the country, as well as all the national officers of the Fraternity.

Registration

Registration for the Convention will begin Friday, August 10 at 9:00 a.m. Check in at the Hyatt Regency Hotel begins at 3:00 p.m. that afternoon; check out is prior to noon on Tuesday, August 14.

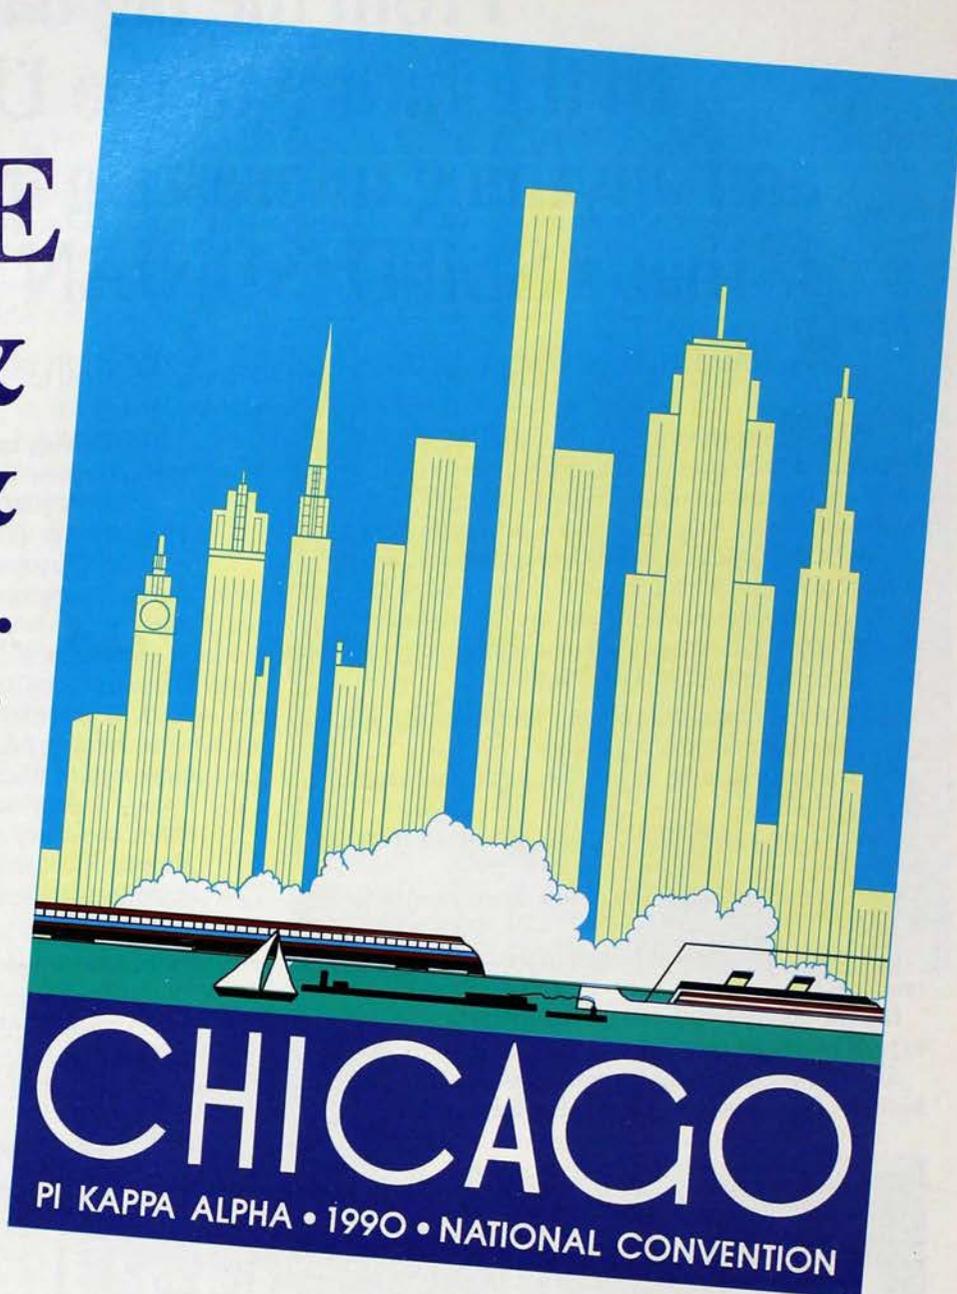

Materials for registration have already been mailed to chapters. Anyone else desiring registration materials or other general information about the Convention should contact Executive Assistant Sandra Newsom at (901) 748-1868.

Convention Registration Fee

- ☆ $150 if you are registered at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.
- ☆ $160 if you are not registered at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Everyone must be registered to attend all activities, business sessions, receptions, educational seminars, etc. The Convention registration fee includes four banquets (two luncheons and two dinners), plus entertainment, Convention favors and Convention materials.

If you intend to pay your Convention registration fee when you arrive on August 10, please bring either cash or a personal check. The Fraternity cannot accept credit cards. The Hyatt Regency Hotel will cash personal checks for registered guests up to $100 per day, with proper identification (driver's license and a major credit card).

Registration fees are not refundable or transferable after June 30, 1990.

The Hyatt Regency Chicago

The Hyatt Regency Chicago is located at the beginning of Chicago's Magnificent Mile, offering immediate access to the finest shopping, restaurants and points of entertainment. Only 23 minutes from O'Hare International Airport, the Hotel offers ten restaurants and lounges from which to choose, including the famous Catch A Rising Star comedy and music showcase.

Room reservations can be made directly with the Hyatt Regency Hotel at 1-800-233-1234. Be sure to specify that your attendance is for the Pi Kappa Alpha Convention. Registration envelopes are available from the Memorial Headquarters.

Special Convention Hotel Rates

The Hyatt Regency Hotel has provided special room rates for Pi Kappa Alpha Conventioneers: a flat rate of $76 per room has been secured. Per person, the cost per room is: single occupancy, $76 per person; double occupancy, $38 per person; triple occupancy, $25.33 per person; quadruple occupancy, $19 per person (subject to state and local taxes).

Travel Arrangements

Contact George Garner Travel at 1-800-624-6579 to take advantage of special Convention airfares. There is no cost to you for using this service.

Mileage Reimbursement

Remember: Each undergraduate chapter, if it has a zero balance with the Fraternity's General Fund and Insurance accounts on July 1, 1990, will receive an allowance based on 10¢ per mile from the chapter location to Chicago, Illinois. One-half of the allowance will be mailed in late July; the remaining half will be distributed at the end of Convention. Delegates must be present at the Convention's end to receive the last part of their allowance, and they must have attended all legislative sessions and committee meetings to which they were assigned.

Attendance

Each chapter should attempt to send fifteen to twenty percent of its full membership to the Convention. Each chapter and alumni association must elect a delegate and select an alternate delegate. Notify the Memorial Headquarters no later than May 1, 1990 as to whom the voting delegate will be for your chapter (use the Delegate Biography Form provided by the Headquarters).

The Fraternity's Constitution states that any student chapter that fails to have a delegate with proper credentials at any National Convention shall be fined two hundred and fifty dollars for each such failure, provided however that no such fine shall be imposed upon a student chapter... if a designated delegate shall submit in writing to the Executive Vice President an excuse acceptable (to him) at least ten days prior to the Convention. If the Executive Vice President disapproves this excuse, the student chapter may, within twenty days of the Executive Vice President's disapproval, appeal his ruling to the Supreme Council.

Appropriate Attire

Appropriate attire for the Convention will be casual during the day. Despite informality, however, jeans, cut-offs, T-shirts and sweat-shirts are discouraged at all times. Suits or sport coats and ties are required attire in the evening at receptions and banquets.

Special Events For Alumni

Alumni attending the 1990 National Convention in Chicago will have numerous social functions to enjoy.

The first official alumnus activity will be an alumnus luncheon for Convention goers and local alumni on Friday, August 10. The luncheon will be held at a private club in downtown Chicago (cost has not yet been determined).

Saturday, August 11, offers the Educational Foundation Luncheon ($25 per person) and the National President's Banquet ($37 per person). Both functions will be held at the Hyatt Regency.

Sunday afternoon, August 12, will find Convention goers, area alumni and their guests at Arlington International Racecourse, enjoying the thrill of horseracing. Discounted admission tickets with grandstand seating will be available in advance for $4 per person.

Monday's schedule includes the Awards Luncheon ($27 per person) and the National Officers Banquet ($42 per person). The Banquet will be preceded by an alumnus reception with the National Officers. Monday's events will also take place at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

For further information regarding alumnus events or the Convention itself, please call the Memorial Headquarters at (901) 748-1868.

A Pike Kind Of Town!

The Fraternity has adopted the theme "A Pike Kind Of Town" for this Convention. The dynamic spirit of Chicago, the great Midwestern metropolis, will serve as an inspiration and set the stage for the greatest chapter yet in Convention history. After 122 years of success, our continued place as second to none in the fraternity world is assured.

Pi Kappa Alpha Foundation Changes Name

By unanimous consent, the Foundation Board of Trustees has approved a proposal to change the Foundation's name from Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Foundation to Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation.

The change is intended to reflect more accurately the Foundation's mission and possibly to minimize the now-frequent misunderstandings of the Foundation's purpose.

If you have any questions or comments regarding this matter, please contact Foundation Executive Officer Jeffrey M. Abraham.

Hoosier alums enjoyed a recent golf outing.

Indianapolis Alumni Association Organized

Over the past year a group of brothers have put a lot of time and effort into organizing the Indianapolis Pi Kappa Alpha Alumni Association, and their work has paid off. Since their start in January of last year, the association has sponsored four events including its inaugural golf tournament in May. The association's most recent event was a reception this past October. The association already has seventy-five dues-paying members.

Alumnus brothers responsible for the group are John Lisher (Delta Xi), Dick Russell (Beta Phi), Mat Huffine (Theta Omicron), Tom Husselman (Delta Gamma), Billy Dale (Beta Omicron) and Bob Nice (Beta Phi).

Brothers in the Indianapolis area who are interested in participating in the association should contact John Lisher at 317-255-3800 or Dick Russell at 317-576-6300.

Phi Beta Kappa Awards Available

Foundation Treasurer R. Craig Hoenshell Endows Award Program

The Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation is providing financial awards to those members of the Fraternity who have been inducted into Phi Beta Kappa during the 1989-90 academic year. Foundation Treasurer R. Craig Hoenshell (Delta Chi '63) has endowed the annual awards through a $30,000 gift to the Foundation. Each award will cover the cost of an individual's initiation fee and purchase of a Phi Beta Kappa golden key.

Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest and most prestigious academic honor society in America; it seeks to recognize "intellectual capacities well employed" while acquiring an education in the liberal arts and sciences.

Brother Hoenshell is the president of American Express Travellers Check Group. He has served on the Foundation's Board of Trustees as its treasurer since 1987. His generosity has insured the perpetuity of awards for all PiKAs who receive this honor.

Recipients of the Phi Beta Kappa key include Isaac Asimov, Leonard Bernstein, Francis Ford Coppola, President George Bush and Pi Kappa Alpha's National President Ed Pease.

Awards are presented in the form of a reimbursement. To receive the award, the student sends a copy of his initiation fee and key purchase receipts to the Annual Fund Director at the Memorial Headquarters.

NOTICE OF FOUNDATION ANNUAL MEETING

As provided by the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation bylaws, notice is hereby given of the Annual Meeting. The meeting will be held beginning at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday, August 11, 1990, at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Chicago, Illinois. All Foundation members are welcome.

McKissack Scholarship Awarded at Huntsville

Saturday, March 10, 1990 was a big night for Theta Pi Chapter at the University of Alabama-Huntsville. The chapter's Founders Day banquet was highlighted by the presentation of the William M. McKissack Scholarship to Brother Randy Earl Riley.

The scholarship was established in 1948 to recognize and perpetuate Dr. McKissack's sixty years of devotion, dedication and outstanding service to the Fraternity. The McKissack Scholarship is awarded annually in the amount of $1,000 to an active member of an active chapter in the State of Alabama whose residence and home is located in Madison County. Each chapter may nominate one person fulfilling the qualifications of outstanding scholarship and leadership based on criteria implemented by the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation.

Mrs. Mona McKissack, widow of Dr. McKissack, made this year's presentation.

Mrs. Mona McKissack presents the McKissack Scholarship to Randy Earl Riley.

Donation Received From Phillip M. Lighty

In April, Phillip M. Lighty (Gamma Xi '38) contributed 665 shares of Sears Roebuck & Co. to the Educational Foundation. The stock was in turn sold for $25,519.38. Proceeds from the transaction were used to establish an endowment to benefit Gamma Xi Chapter for a period of ten years. The endowment will provide four Phillip M. Lighty leadership scholarships for the chapter annually. At the end of the 10-year term, the endowment will revert to the Foundation to be used at the discretion of the Foundation Board of Trustees. Mr. Lighty's generous gift is sincerely appreciated by the Foundation Trustees and the members of Gamma Xi Chapter.

Editor's Note — Gifts of appreciated stock can produce tax benefits for the donor in two ways. First, by donating the stock directly, the donor avoids paying capital gains taxes on proceeds from the sale of the stock. Second, the donor is able to deduct the entire value of the gift from his taxable income (within the IRS guidelines for charitable giving).

Introducing New Members of the Shield & Diamond Club

Each year the Shield and Diamond Club recognizes those loyal alumni who have contributed gifts to the Foundation of over $1,000 (cumulative total). The contributed funds benefit all Pi Kappa Alphas through Foundation-sponsored leadership programs, scholarships and low-interest student loans. Members recognized this year surpassed the $1,000 contribution level during the fiscal year, July 1, 1988 through June 30, 1989.

After graduating from Northern Illinois University, he taught high school, then was an engineer for McDonald Douglas in St. Louis for 15 years, an engineer for Del Monte in San Francisco for 8 years. Presently, he is semi-retired, in business with his wife in Great Life Associates, a nationwide franchise.

Assisted by Alpha Gamma SMC Robert Marks, LSU alumnus Lester T. "Pete" De Laup (Alpha Iota '34) describes the 1936 naming of LSU mascot, Mike the Tiger, and displays the article he wrote about the event in the June 1937 Shield & Diamond.

LSU Remembers Original Mike

Alpha Gamma Chapter celebrated Founders Day with two functions, the presentation of the alumni scholarship and the dedication of a plaque commemorating a well known Pike in the history of LSU.

On March 1, 1990, Dean James B. Henry of the College of Business Administration at LSU presented the Alpha Gamma Alumni Scholarship to Garrick L. Martin. Martin, a senior majoring in Finance, won the award for having the highest GPA in the chapter for the previous academic year. The award consisted of a framed certificate and a check for $700 from the Memorial Foundation, as well as having his name added to the scholarship plaque maintained in the chapter house. Pi Kappa Alpha alumni from the University faculty and staff attended the ceremony held in Dean Henry's office. (See photo and related story on page XX.)

On Saturday, March 17, Alpha Gamma Chapter formally dedicated a bronze plaque in memory of Chellis "Mike" Chambers. Brother Chambers, from New Orleans, was initiated in 1923 by Beta Eta Chapter at the University of Illinois. As a tackle at Illinois, he helped clear the way for "Red" Grange. He served as an Olympic trainer in 1928 and came to LSU from Georgia Tech where he handled the 1929 Rose Bowl team. While serving as football trainer at LSU, Brother Chambers was instrumental in the student drive to buy a live Bengal tiger as the LSU mascot. According to contemporary witnesses, when the new mascot was introduced to the student body in 1936 at LSU stadium, the crowd was asked to recommend a name for the tiger. The student body rose and chanted "Mike"!

The idea for the plaque was inspired by a visit two years ago from LSU alumnus Lester T. "Pete" De Laup (Alpha Iota '34) of Houston, Texas. Brother De Laup gave the chapter his copy of the June 1937 Shield & Diamond, which contained a three page article he had written on the arrival of the new LSU tiger mascot. Over the next two years, with the cooperation of the LSU Athletic Department, former SMC Brett Poirrier designed the 18"x24" plaque and the chapter raised the money through Alpha Gamma alumni.

The ceremony coincided with the arrival of Mike V, the latest generation of LSU tigers. Held outdoors by the tiger cage, the dedication included presentation of the plaque by SMC Robert Marks, acceptance on behalf of the University by Associate Director of Athletics Steve Carter, and an eyewitness account of the arrival of the first Mike the Tiger by Brother De Laup. The event, well covered by local media, was followed by a reception in the LSU "L" Club and a party at the chapter house. The chapter was pleased to greet the many alumni returning for the Founders Day functions.

CHELLIS "MIKE" CHAMBERS Athletic Trainer LSU TIGERS 1936

He was largely responsible for the idea and fund raising for a live mascot for LSU. The student body, when asked to name the new tiger chanted the name "MIKE!"

TIGER MIKE Mascot LSU TIGERS

Mike is a Bengal Tiger. He stands 7 feet tall, weighs 450 lbs. and enjoys bathing, eating and sleeping. On game days his strength and ferocity can be felt throughout the campus.

Brother Dan Parkinson: Adventure Is His Business

Have you ever curled up with a good book, and lost yourself in the world of western, historical or science fiction adventure? It's entirely possible that you were enjoying the work of one of Pi Kappa Alpha's most prolific authors, Dan Parkinson.

A 1953 initiate of Beta Gamma Chapter at the University of Kansas, Parkinson has written over twenty books. Much in the same vein as author Louis Lamour, Parkinson's western titles include The Texians, The Slanted Colt, Gunpowder Glory, Blood Arrow, Calamity Trail, Brother Wolf, The Sundown Breed, Thunderland, Jubilation Gap, Shadow of the Hawk, The Way to Wyoming, The Westering, Gunpowder Wind, Summer Land, A Man Called Wolf, and his latest, Ride the Devil's Trail. His historical novels, which he refers to as "tall ships" stories, include the trilogy The Fox and The Faith, The Fox and The Fury, and The Fox and The Flag. These stories take place during the era of the American Revolution.

Parkinson's novel Starsong is described as "a science-fantasy love story", and is published in England by Penguin Books. The Gates of Thorbardin, another fantasy adventure, will be published by TSR and released in September 1990.

A former journalist, Dan Parkinson began writing fiction as a hobby during a career as a business-organization executive. After publishing twelve novels in four years, he turned to writing full time. Best known for his stories of the American West, he regards himself as "a tale-spinner... a practitioner of applied what-if". He and his wife Carol live in the Gulf Coast area of Texas with one dog and three cats.

Brother Parkinson has graciously donated copies of his works to the Harvey T. Newell Library at the Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Headquarters.

CHAPTER ETERNAL

Richard Leaves Strong Legacy of Leadership

Brother Quentin E. Richard (Gamma Beta '29) of Santa Barbara, CA, and a member of Pi Kappa Alpha's Order of West Range, passed away on February 23, 1990. Among Brother Richard's contributions to society, he leaves behind a legacy of assisting young men and women in their pursuits of higher education and leadership development.

In an interview last fall for the Pi Kappa Alpha Education Foundation's newsletter Profile, Brother Richard noted that he has always considered today's students, tomorrow's leaders.

Unlike others, Brother Richard realized the importance of developing leadership in young people. For several years, he provided financial assistance to Santa Barbara High School students for their college educations. Annually, he would provide three full scholarships to students, based upon what he called "the zeal and desire to beat the game on their own." A self-confessed average student, Brother Richard did not require a performance level from his scholarship recipients. The only requirement was that they visit him when they returned home from school.

"I remember having to work my way through school, and I vowed that if I ever had the money, I would make it easier for others, so that they would not miss out on college activities such as fraternity life," he always said.

Brother Richard was initiated into Gamma Beta Chapter at the University of Nebraska in 1929. Upon graduation, he went to work with Josten's, then a small Minnesota class ring company. His work and innovation fueled the transformation of Josten's from a small midwestern company to a recognized company nationwide.

Following his career with Josten's, Brother Richard moved to Santa Barbara, CA, with his wife Gail, where he began a second successful career, this time in real estate.

Eight years ago, Brother Richard began a scholarship program through the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation. In 1988, with the establishment of Iota Kappa Chapter at the University of California at Santa Barbara, his scholarship is awarded to a brother of that chapter who exemplifies outstanding leadership and scholarship.

"Brother Richard was dedicated Pi KA, and I'm glad I had the opportunity to know him," says former National President Gary Menchhofer. "His generous support of the Fraternity's Educational Foundation, and our undergraduates, has been a tribute to his belief in Pi Kappa Alpha's principles and its mission. Pi Kappa Alpha is thankful for having him as a brother. We will truly miss him."

PKA Mourns Robert W. Willis

Ronald Worth Willis (Alpha Eta '85), who graduated from the University of Florida last December with a bachelor of arts in sociology, was shot in the face early in the morning of January 17, 1990 in Gainesville, Florida, in what was described by police as a brief argument with two men who had approached him.

A friend who saw the shooting took Willis to Alachua General Hospital, where he was pronounced dead several hours later.

The two men have been indicted by an Alachua County grand jury on charges of first degree murder and attempted armed robbery.

Extremely popular in Alpha Eta Chapter, Willis was a scholar and an excellent sportsman. He planned to attend law school this fall, and later to open a practice with his father.

He leaves his parents, Mr. & Mrs. Ron Worth, and a younger sister, Robin. He is also mourned by all his Alpha Eta Brothers, and the entire Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

Harry Simmons: Member of Many Halls of Fame

When Colorado basketball legend Harry Simmons (Beta Upsilon '35) retired from the University of Southern Colorado (previously Pueblo Junior College and Southern Colorado State College), he had completed his 40th season in coaching and his 36th year as coach and director of athletics at that institution. He also held the position of dean of physical education and athletics from 1946 to 1972.

An all-conference player in his undergraduate days at Colorado University, Simmons died on March 27, 1990 at his home in Aurora, Colorado.

Brother Simmons dedicated most of his life to the enrichment of athletics. After coaching high school basketball, he led the basketball squad at Pueblo Junior College to seven NJCAA tournaments, including the 1961 national title. His career basketball coaching record was an incredible 701:348 for a .669 winning percentage.

A World War II Marine Corps veteran, Simmons received numerous honors and was inducted into the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame, the NACDA Hall of Fame, the NAIA Hall of Fame, the University of Southern Colorado Hall of Fame, the Colorado High School Sports Hall of Fame, the Colorado Officials Sports Hall of Fame and the Greater Pueblo Sports Hall of Fame.

After his retirement, He devoted his time to his company, Simmons and Associates, Inc. that employed his professional talents in the area of sports consultation and promotions. He leaves his mother, a sister, two daughters, Marybeth Sierer and Martha Simmons-Parker, and two sons, James Simmons and Tim Simmons.

SPACE AGE SPEAKER

DATAWAVE company develops exciting new technology that allows you to place speakers anywhere in your home without speaker wires.

TECHNOLOGICAL BREAKTHROUGH

At the most recent CONSUMER ELECTRONICS SHOW these speakers were touted as one of the most exciting new products of the 90's. The DATAWAVE wireless speaker system (WS7) enables you to listen to your favorite music (records, cassettes, reel-to-reel tapes, CD's or AM/FM radio) throughout your home without having to run speaker wires everywhere. Simply plug the DATAWAVE wireless transmitter into any audio outlet or headphone jack on your receiver and place the DATAWAVE speakers anywhere within 150 feet of your stereo. The music is transmitted by FM radio waves to the speakers. NO SPEAKER WIRES ARE NEEDED! And the sound is great, with deep, rich bass and crystal clear highs.

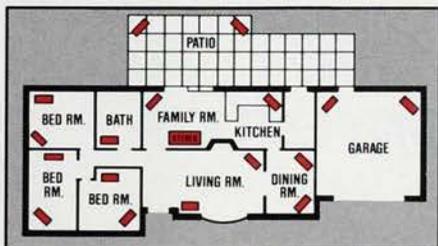

SUPERIOR FEATURES

The DATAWAVE Speaker system is of the highest quality design. The 8.5 x 4.5 x 4.5 inch acoustically constructed cabinet, with its full range 4 inch driver mounted on the top, provides a 360 degree surround sound pattern. This full range speaker delivers music of the highest quality. These wireless speakers operate either on 4C batteries or with an AC adaptor and have their own built-in receiver and amplifier, capturing your stereo's music anywhere in or around your home in a 150 foot radius of the transmitter.

You will find the design of these speakers opens all kinds of possibilities for you to enjoy your favorite music anywhere, without wires. Since the speakers have their own built-in amplifier, you can use them with any sound source such as a TV, walkman radio or your stereo receiver by simply plugging in the transmitter and switching on the speaker.

These state-of-the-art speakers simply tap into the signal your stereo already generates, so they will not affect your stereo in any way and cannot be blown out. The transmitter combines both the right and left channels of your stereo, giving you full, rich high fidelity sound.

GREAT SOUND ANYWHERE

Enjoy music on your patio, by the pool, in the bedroom, bathroom or while working in the garage. You can operate as many speakers as you like on one transmitter, without the trouble of speaker wire running endlessly throughout your home. Place one, or more speakers in a room, or put one speaker in every room of the house. The possibilities are endless, and each speaker has its own on/off volume control, for even more versatility.

PRIVATE SOUND

DATAWAVE also offers a wireless headphone set, "private waves" (WH100) that operates through a transmitter, like the WS7, but on a different frequency. The headphones also give you wireless convenience, but now you can enjoy private listening, without disturbing others. Others in the same room can go about their activities, while you listen to rich, high quality sound from your stereo, TV or other audio source.

FIRST TIME OFFER

The DATAWAVE wireless speakers and headphones are now available to you direct from the manufacturer. We are currently offering substantial discounts to the public on these products and even greater discounts on orders of more than one speaker and/or headphones. This offer will not be available in any stores - so act now and save.

We want you to have the opportunity to listen to these technological marvels at no risk, so try them for 30 days and return them for a prompt refund if they're not what you expected. Most products are shipped within 72 hours of your order, and express shipping is available if you request.

So enjoy your favorite music from records, cassettes, reel tapes, CD's, AM/FM radio or TV anywhere in your home, or by your patio/pool with the DATAWAVE wireless speakers and headphones.
