ON THE ROAD, AGAIN...

With apologies to Willie Nelson, one of the most rewarding parts of being your international president is criss-crossing North America to visit Pi Kappa Alpha chapters.

Such visits confirm the values and inspiration of our beloved founders in the lives of real people, our undergraduates and alumnus brothers, who are seeking success as they live out the elements of our ritual in their chapters and their daily lives... The past few months have provided an opportunity for your international president to charter new chapters and visit venerable ones. Feeling the rhythm of our host campuses is exciting and positive... Early fall brought hometown visits to Alpha Delta (Georgia Tech) for an opportunity to greet rush-ees and Epsilon Nu (Georgia State) to talk with the chapter. Epsilon Nu has initiated nearly 900 brothers in 41 years, a remarkable feat for a commuter campus... On October 12-13, 2001, your international president returned to his Eastern Kentucky roots to recharter Eta Eta Chapter at Morehead State University. The vice president for student affairs arranged for a group photo of the new chapter to be taken and hung prominently on campus. Dr. Geoff Garner, a biology professor, has rekindled his Pi Kappa Alpha memories from his college days, and is mentor for the group. The expansion team initiated 47 men, and many parents attended the black tie celebration, showing support for the leadership and brotherhood experiences their sons had established... On November 3-4, 2001, your Supreme Council met to attend to the business of the Fraternity. Budgets, strategic plans, legal issues, expansion, and alumni issues demanded our attention... On November 9-10, 2001, a trip to the City of Brotherly Love, Philadelphia, was made for the installation of Lambda Zeta Chapter at historic Drexel University. A group of 62 new brothers were initiated, inspired by Chapter Advisor Eric Pettine, a 1997 initiate of Kappa Rho Chapter (Coastal Carolina). At the black tie banquet, more than 20 mothers of new brothers were invited to have the first dance with their sons. Supreme Council Vice President Howard Goldstein (Lehigh, Gamma Lambda '83) guided the visiting Pikes around historic Philadelphia, including a side trip to Pat's, for the world's most famous Philly Cheese Steak... A visit to Drexel's immediate neighbor, the University of Pennsylvania, provided the opportunity to visit brothers at the Beta Pi Chapter house... On November 17, 2001, your international president departed for Missouri for chartering events at Lambda Eta Chapter at William Woods University in Fulton, the quaint town where Sir Winston Churchill made his famous "iron curtain" speech in 1946. The university is a century old and was all female until recently. The wise university president decided that a fraternity system would support efforts to attract men to the university, and specifically invited Pi Kappa Alpha to colonize. Today, one in four men on campus are proud Pi Kappa Alphas... On November 30, 2001, your international president was off to attend three events in a single weekend. The National Interfraternity Conference, an annual gathering of all 68 college fraternities leaders was held in Washington, D.C., just blocks from Pi Kappa Alpha's Housing Summit, a seminar for house corporation volunteers. Ray Orians (Memphis, Delta Zeta '66), Pi Kappa Alpha's outstanding chief executive officer, was the center of attention, as other fraternity leaders sought the advice and wisdom of our chief executive, who has been employed by Pi Kappa Alpha for 35 years... Executive Real Estate Officer Dan Corah's (Colorado State, Epsilon Theta '83) real estate department conducts a top-rate housing seminar, which drew participants from as far as California. Loyal past international presidents Andy Morse (William and Mary, Gamma '76) and John Michael Williams (Oklahoma State, Gamma Chi '68) also participated in the event... On December 1, 2001, before the Washington events ended, an early flight to Dayton, Ohio led to the chartering activities at the University of Dayton and Lambda Theta Chapter. After 80 new brothers were initiated, dozens of parents joined in at the black tie celebration. It was immediately apparent that the Dayton Pikes were the center of attention on campus... January 2-5, 2002 took your international president to Memphis for the largest Chapter Presidents Conference in our history. PIKA's excellent staff coordinated a first-class event... On January 16, your international president traveled to Psi Chapter at North Georgia College in Dahlonega to speak with rush-ees... January 12-13, 2002 took your international president to San Antonio to meet with executive officers and volunteer presidents of fraternities and sororities... And on February 2-3, 2002, your Supreme Council met in Orlando in conjunction with the Sunshine Regional Leadership Conference. The newly chartered University of Florida and Florida State University chapters joined men from six outstanding Sunshine groups in demonstrating why PIKA's undergraduates represent the best and brightest among college men today.

(Vanderbilt, Sigma '63)

Faithfully,

King Buttermore

Executive Alumni Officer/Editor Steve Vincent Returns Home to St. Louis

The Pi Kappa Alpha Memorial Headquarters Staff, known for its longevity of service, recently lost one of its most tenured and respected employees with the departure of eleven-year veteran Steven S. Vincent (Missouri, Alpha Nu '83).

As an undergraduate, Vincent served Alpha Nu Chapter in capacities including vice president and rush chairman. Upon his graduation in 1987, he immediately joined the Memorial Headquarters Staff, and served as a chapter consultant visiting chapters in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Texas. After a year of service in this position, Vincent again hit the books, securing a master's degree in business administration from the University of Southern Mississippi in 1990. He then headed to New Orleans, and began a two-year stint as a staff consultant with Anderson Consulting (now Accenture). It was during this time that Steve met his future wife, Suzanne, whom he would marry in 1995.

Fortunately for Pi Kappa Alpha, Executive Vice President Raymond L. Orians (Memphis, Delta Zeta '66) was able to recruit Vincent to rejoin the Memorial Headquarters Staff in 1992, in the vital capacity of director of expansion. One need only look at the number and quality of chapters that were chartered or rechartered during Vincent's tenure in this position to realize just how successful he was in this arena. New chapter charterings during this time included Princeton, Maine, Florida International and UNLV, and the Fraternity's return to Canada with chapters at Western Ontario and Wilfrid Laurier. Under his guidance, Pi Kappa Alpha also returned to many prestigious campuses, including Michigan, Southern Cal and Oregon, where chapters had fallen silent.

According to PKA CEO Orians, Vincent took an already successful expansion program and took it to the highest level. "Steve brought a strategic, corporate approach to new chapter development" states Orians. "In the process, Pi Kappa Alpha's expansion program became the model which countless other fraternities continue to attempt to replicate. Under his guidance as director of expansion, we colonized and chartered some 40 chapters at many of the finest colleges and universities in North America."

Eager for additional challenges, Vincent accepted appointment to the position of director of alumni affairs in 1996, and in 1998 he was named as Pi Kappa Alpha's executive alumni officer and editor of the Shield & Diamond, which today is widely recognized as the finest fraternal journal in the world.

"With Steve's efforts, Pi Kappa Alpha chartered new alumni associations all across the country, and membership in these local clubs grew substantially. And without question, his significant impact on the quality of the Shield & Diamond will be appreciated by our readership for years to come," commented Orians.

An avid sports fan and golfer, Vincent's resume includes having witnessed games at practically every major league baseball park in the country, and a recent trip to Scotland to tackle several of the golf courses in the British Open rotation, including the Old Course at St. Andrews. Having only taken up golf some six years ago, he has developed an excellent game, and won the prestigious Samuel U. Kirkpatrick Invitational Tournament in 2001.

Steven S. Vincent (Missouri, Alpha Nu '83)

Perhaps more than anything else, the birth of Steve and Suzanne's first child, Molly Elizabeth Vincent, in September 2000 ultimately prompted their move to St. Louis to be closer to family. Family ties can pull hard, particularly when proud grandparents are involved. In January of this year, Steve accepted an appointment to serve as associate vice president for alumni relations at Saint Louis University in downtown St. Louis. No doubt the University is banking on similar magic from Vincent.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Shield & Diamond,

Thank you for including the efforts made by numerous chapters in response to the September 11 tragedies. I wrote a letter on behalf of my chapter that included some personal details, and the way it was addressed in the Shield & Diamond was in good taste without being overbearing or too detailed.

Thanks,

Gamma Upsilon Alumnus Todd Hays Claims Silver in Salt Lake!

As the 2002 Winter Olympics in Salt Lake City, Utah came to a close, no doubt alumni and chapter members from throughout North America swelled with pride. The United States celebrated unprecedented Winter Olympics success with the country's record-high medal total that finished second in the world only to Germany, and Canada claimed gold medals in both men's and women's ice hockey, the country's national sport. Well, please add Pi Kappa Alpha to the list of the proud.

As the world watched, Todd Hays (Tulsa, Gamma Upsilon '90) drove a United States four-man bobsled into American Olympic history. Hays, with Randy Jones, Bill Schuffenhauer and brakeman Garrett Hines, drove his USA-1 sled at over 80 miles per hour to second in 3:07.81 to win the silver medal, the country's highest finish ever and first Olympic medal in the sport in 46 years. What made it even more special for Hays was that fellow bobsledder Brian Shimer, a longtime bobsled driver appearing in his last Olympics, and his team took the bronze medal.

"That was amazing!" said Hays. "We've got a 46-year monkey off our back. I can't think of a better way for it to end. Two medals!"

After completing his career as a Golden Hurricanes captain and track athlete at TU, Hays was cut twice by the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League. He then became serious about kickboxing, and won the U.S. super heavyweight title in 1993. He first joined the United States bobsled team following a somewhat random tryout in Texas in 1995. Hays was awakened one morning at 5:00 a.m. by his brother, Lee, who'd seen an announcement on the 10:00 p.m. news the night before for Olympic team tryouts, and the two drove 80 miles across Texas to San Antonio to meet recruiters for the U.S. bobsled team. During a national tryout in Lake Placid, New York, Hays was invited to join the team as a pusher.

Hays retired from kickboxing in 1995 after winning the World Freestyle Fight Championship title in Japan. He used the $10,000 purse to buy his first bobsled. During the 1998 Olympics in Nagano, Japan, Hays was the alternate driver on the U.S. team. He made his World Cup debut during the 1994-95 season.

Gamma Upsilon Chapter at Tulsa had a great rush in 1990. Hays pledged Pi Kappa Alpha with a large group of football players including quarterbacks Gus Frerotte '90 and T. J. Rubley '90 (who both went on to professional football careers). According to Arkoma regional president and longtime Gamma Upsilon advisor William H. Vogle (Tulsa, Gamma Upsilon '66), "Todd and the other athletes pledged during the rebuilding period of the chapter. While they were strapped with the time demands placed on varsity athletes, they were really great guys that paved the way for improved university relations and exposure. Todd and his class anchored the re-emergence of Gamma Upsilon."

In Salt Lake, where in an amazing coincidence Hays competed against Armenian #1 team driver and fellow Pike brother Dan Janjigian (California Polytechnic State, Iota Theta '94), the bobsled competitions were spectacular. In the two-man event, Hays drove the U.S.A. #1 sled to a fourth place finish, just .003 off the bronze. Janjigian's team finished 33rd overall, highest ever for an Armenian sled. Then in the four-man event, Hays and teammate Shimer along with their sledmates made United States Olympic history.

For those aspiring to Olympic greatness, Hays said, "I've heard that the greatest asset an athlete has is the ability to endure, and I think that's my personal greatest asset. I've hung around long enough and found something that I had a knack for. And fortunately, it was bobsled, because I really enjoy what I'm doing now. So, find something you believe in, then educate yourself on what it takes to be the best in that sport. Believe in yourself, endure, and eventually you'll succeed."

And as for the Olympic experience, "Obviously, it was great to compete in the Olympics, wear the red, white and blue, and represent this great country. I'm proud to have represented all Americans, make them proud, and put a smile on their faces."

To find out more about Hays and the United States Olympic bobsled team, please visit www.usbsf.com or www.bobsleigh.com.

"After the events of September 11, I think everyone is forced to explore their patriotism. It makes me feel even prouder, and I feel luckier to wear the red white and blue and represent this great nation on the world stage."

— Todd Hays

Bill Moos: Oregon's Lead Duck

Quickly and emphatically, Bill Moos (Washington State, Gamma Xi '70) has changed the landscape of University of Oregon athletics, both figuratively and literally. Merely a glance at the gleaming new athletic complex amidst customary emerald lawns offers the magnitude of the ever-changing facilities enhancements underway in the college town of Eugene, Oregon.

A driving force behind the most successful era of the University's athletics department in recent history, Moos is in his seventh year as the ninth man to serve as Oregon's director of athletics. In his tenure, he has been responsible for initiating close to $40 million in facility improvements. Moos presided over the opening of the $14.6 million Moshofsky Sports Center as well as recent or future improvements to football's Autzen Stadium and basketball's McArthur Court. A visionary, Moos said, "It's often harder to keep a successful program moving forward than turning one around on the downslide, so it's my responsibility to keep us moving forward."

Autzen Stadium, home of the nation's 2001 #2 ranked football Ducks, saw the installation of a $4 million Optotech Megavision scoreboard, and future plans were recently unveiled for $80 million of renovations. The project will eventually add 12,000 new seats and an additional 32 skyboxes. When completed, the perennially sold-out stadium's capacity will increase to 53,800. For basketball and other indoor sports, $3.5 million was spent on 74-year old McArthur Court, known on campus and to visiting opponents as "The Pit". Attendance has soared at McArthur Court in both men's and women's basketball the past five years, and men's basketball has enjoyed trips to the NIT Final Four and NCAA Tournament squads in the last four seasons with another coming to the "Big Dance" this year.

Moos has positioned Oregon as a trendsetter in college athletic circles on and off the field. He's presided over six attendance record-setting football seasons, provided outstanding yet fiscally prudent bowl trips for the Ducks to the 1996 Cotton, 1997 Las Vegas, 1998 Aloha, 1999 Sun, 2000 Holiday and 2001 Fiesta Bowls, overseen record numbers in fundraising and development each of the past six years, and set in motion the aforementioned facilities enhancements. Additionally, Oregon has aligned itself with athletic apparel giant Nike through an all-sports contract partnership that outfits all Ducks intercollegiate sports teams and athletes with uniforms, equipment and sportswear. And to increase program visibility, Moos spearheaded a five-year, $3.7 million contract with ESPN Regional to become one of only six schools with such an arrangement. In total, the Oregon athletics budget is $27 million.

Moos assumed the duties of director in July 1995 after five successful years in the same position at the University of Montana. He began his athletics career in 1982 as assistant athletics director at Washington State University, his alma mater, and also served as the school's associate director. As a student-athlete, the three-time letterman was a Pacific-8 all-conference offensive lineman in 1972 that played in the East-West Shrine All-Star Game before being named a student assistant football coach in 1973.

Nationally, Moos has served as chairman of the Pac-10's long range planning committee, and has been a member of the Rose Bowl management and selection committees. He currently serves on the conference's compliance and enforcement as well as revenue sharing committees, and is a member of the NCAA's football issues committee.

Raised on a wheat and cattle ranch in eastern Washington, the 51-year old Moos received appointments to both the United States Military Academy at West Point and the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs. He earned his bachelor of arts degree in history at Washington State, and he and his wife Kendra have five children—Christa, Brittany, Bo, Kaiti and Benjamin.

PIKE ALUMNI MAKING HEADLINES

Pike Alumni Donate Millions To Florida State

Among fraternities, no name is more closely associated with Florida State University Seminole Athletics than Pi Kappa Alpha. When FSU's five-year $70 million Dynasty Campaign for athletics concludes next October, Pi Kappa Alpha alumni will have contributed nearly $8 million – more than 10% of the goal!

It's no surprise that the chairman of this ambitious campaign is Head Football Coach Bobby Bowden (Samford, Alpha Pi '49). It is Bowden's FSU football Dynasty that lends the campaign its name.

The campaign is driven by Seminole Boosters, Inc., one of the largest and most successful collegiate fundraising organizations in the country. Former Delta Lambda chapter president Andy Miller '70 is in his 28th year as president of the Boosters. Executive Director Charlie Barnes '66 has been with the Boosters nearly 25 years. Joel Padgett '71 returned to Tallahassee five years ago as the Boosters' director of gift planning.

Thirty Pike alumni have already made individual capital gifts ranging from $25,000 to nearly $2 million. Five individuals have made gifts of at least $1 million each: Barry Smith '72, $1.8 million; Roger Holler (Florida Southern, Delta Delta '61), $1 million; Tommy Williams '73, $1 million; and Maggie Allesee, FSU's first cheerleader, gave $1 million in the name of her father, Al Strum (Georgia Tech, Alpha Delta '19). One additional $1 million donor is a 1980 initiate who wishes to remain anonymous.

The rich Pike athletic tradition at Florida State began when Delta Lambda chapter founder Ken Maclean (Florida, Alpha Eta '44) caught the first pass in Seminole football history on October 18, 1947. Another member of early Seminole teams was three-sport letterman Bill Parker '49, who as national chairman of Seminole Boosters in 1987 founded the University's athletic endowment and contributed its first endowed scholarship.

At Delta Lambda's 40th anniversary celebration in the fall of 1987, fifty chapter alumni donated to create a $50,000 football scholarship, the first athletic scholarship ever endowed by a fraternity.

In 1958, wide receiver Tony Romeo '59 became the first Seminole football player to win Division I All-American honors. Romeo played eight years for the Boston Patriots. All-American Barry Smith '72 set FSU receiving records that still stand, and was drafted in the first round by Green Bay. FSU's receivers scholarship is named in his honor.

Golfing great Hubert Green '65 has been a mainstay of the PGA tour for more than thirty years. Green, the 1977 U.S. Open winner and 1985 PGA Champion has won more than twenty major PGA Tour events. A collegiate All-American, he served Delta Lambda chapter as pledgemaster.

Captain of FSU's freshman track team in 1966, Bob Ward '67 also served Pi Kappa Alpha as president of his pledge class. Today, Ward is senior vice president of Hollywood's Universal Studios. He is famous as the man who designed Universal Studios-Orlando.

In 1972, fullback Fred Miller '73 became the first Seminole, and one of the first players in college football, to win a varsity letter under the NCAA's newly instituted "Freshman Rule". Miller was later elected Delta Lambda's chapter president. FSU wide receiver Jeff Bowden '80 went into coaching, and today is Florida State's offensive coordinator.

Mike Fuentes '78 was just another brother living in the Pike house when he decided to walk on the baseball team. Fuentes rewrote both the FSU and NCAA record books as he shattered Bob Horner's record to become the all-time home run hitter in college baseball history. In 1981, the two-time All-American became the first winner of the Golden Spikes Player of the Year Award, collegiate baseball's highest honor.

Florida State is fortunate to have probably the nation's most recognizable collegiate athletic symbol. "Chief Osceola" riding on "Renegade" first appeared in 1978, and Pike Jim Kidder '79 was the first Osceola.

Until it ceased operation in 1988, Delta Lambda Chapter could claim more than a dozen All-Americans among its membership, in football, basketball, baseball, golf and swimming. Nearly two hundred varsity and club athletes were initiates of the chapter, many of them serving in leadership roles and as chapter officers.

Immediately upon being reinstated in 2000, Delta Lambda Chapter returned to its traditional role as the most prestigious fraternity on the south's most glamorous campus.

Pi Kappa Alpha is again the largest of Florida State's twenty fraternities. The chapter has the highest grade point average among fraternities, and once again can boast of having more varsity athletes than all the other fraternities combined.

And, of course in keeping with tradition, Pike brother Josh Halley '01 is next in line to portray the honored symbol, Chief Osceola.

Delta Lambda Alum Supports Florida State's Dynasty Campaign

His private study appears just as you'd imagine. Rising to the fifteen foot ceiling and surrounding the heavy, antique desk are ornately carved bookcases where the collected treasures of a lifetime of achievement are displayed.

There's the game ball awarded to him following the 1975 win against Dallas. "Packers over Cowboys 19-15", it says. Not far away, his very young face is recognizable on the front page of the Miami Herald issue proclaiming its 1967 All-City team.

Framed remembrances line the walls. Photos preserved, track and football medals still bright in their ribbons. High School All-American. College All-America. Hall of Fame. Golden Chief. A plaque from the inaugural 1972 Fiesta Bowl. A gavel from his term as president of the NFL Players Alumni Association headquartered in Tampa.

There's a framed Sports Illustrated cover from 1975. Nearby is his Dodge NFL Man of the Year plaque. Above that, a painting of his fellow stars lined up in Super Bowl XX.

In the center of it all, in a place of honor, next to the proclamation recognizing him as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America, is the framed certificate of Barry Smith's initiation into the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

Beta Nu Alum Making Mark in Hollywood

Jim Langlois (Oregon State, Beta Nu '82) is becoming a name to watch in the film industry. His new feature "Em & Me" marks his directorial debut, and will play at the New York Independent Film Festival, Las Vegas Film Festival, and Los Angeles Film Festival. A former Memorial Headquarters staff member, Langlois worked at Amblin Entertainment for Steven Spielberg for 3½ years. He then went into film editing and trained under Michael Khan on "Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade" and "Always", then trained under William Reynolds (Oscar winner for "Sound of Music", "The Sting" and "The Godfather") on "Newsies", "Home Alone" and "War of the Roses". Langlois went on to edit "Clueless", "Carpool", "Burn Hollywood Burn" and "See Jane Run". He has formed his own production company, Neighbors Entertainment, and currently has five films in development. He is also working with Fraternity brothers John Miranda (California-Davis, Theta Omega '85), and Larry Lunsford (Tennessee, Zeta '71).

Beta Phi Alumnus Recognized For Greek Excellence

During the 2001 Association of Fraternity Advisors/North-American Interfraternity Conference (AFA/NIC) annual convention, Scott Carter (Purdue, Beta Phi '84) received one of five AFA Distinguished Service Awards. The award recognizes college student personnel professionals who have exhibited professional standards and achievements in fraternity and sorority advising, as well as outstanding achievements in various other areas including campus programming, development and research activities, and service to the college community. Carter serves as Greek advisor at UCLA, and won the award for the western region.

Scott Carter

Carter has been a member of AFA, a professional organization that represents over 1,100 Greek professionals in the United States and Canada, for more than ten years, and he has served the association in several capacities. He was the Southern California area coordinator for three years, on the Publications Editorial Board for two years, and the western region's vice president in both 1999 and 2000. Carter's Greek contributions also include service on the Western Regional Greek Conference executive board and the Undergraduate Interfraternity Institute. And professionally, Carter served Pi Kappa Alpha as a chapter consultant from 1988 through 1990.

After more than thirty years, Barry Smith (Delta Lambda, Florida State '72) still holds receiving records at Florida State that may never be broken, including the career mark for average gain per reception (20.1), and the season record for 100+ yard games (8).

If they ever declare an official "glamor couple" at Florida State, Smith and his wife, Mary Ann Stiles, are favorites to claim the title. He is the legendary football star and media personality, a first round NFL draft pick in 1973; she is the founder and owner of the largest female-run law firm in the state of Florida, the lobbyist who represents Associated Industries, the state's powerful business coalition. The couple lives in Tampa, but they are familiar faces in all corners of the state. As alumni of Florida State University, their leadership and generosity has helped to substantially advance the strength of Seminole athletic programs. Smith is a past director of Seminole Boosters, and Stiles currently serves on the board.

In 2001, Barry and Mary Ann made a gift of $1.8 million to Florida State athletics. In recognition, the University placed their names on the new Team Building that anchors FSU's fabulous new soccer/softball complex.

Earlier, another generous gift fully endowed a football scholarship. From now on, FSU's starting wideout will carry the Barry Smith Endowed Wide Receiver Scholarship.

Barry is excited about Delta Lambda Chapter's return to campus last year, and plans to help the Chapter raise money to build a new house. "We were gone a long time," he says. "But I expect the Pikes to go right back on top. We were never content to be second best at anything."

Alpha Nu Alumnus Creates Greek Newspaper

In the college town that boasts the nation's #1 journalism school, there's no shortage of newspapers. The University of Missouri's student paper is known as The Maneater, and the small city of Columbia has both the The Missourian and the Columbia Daily Tribune. Lacking in all three publications, however, was coverage of the traditionally strong Mizzou Greek System. Well, Wes Milligan (Missouri, Alpha Nu '98) has created a solution to that problem.

Now six-months old, The Greek Chronicle is here to stay with a paid circulation of over 5,000, mostly members of the Greek community. According to publisher Milligan, "The Greek Chronicle chooses to fully represent the entire Greek community in the light it deserves. Through this coverage, it is our hope to gain the trust of that community and establish The Greek Chronicle as the first choice when it comes to reading about the Greek system at the University of Missouri." Milligan is aided greatly by editor Grant Cowan (Missouri, Alpha Nu '00).

The Greek Chronicle has an "all-Greek" contract through the Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council, and therefore every Greek student pays for and receives the publication, and every organization has a half-page advertisement each issue in which to promote scholarship, community service, or other important activities of an athletic, involvement, or social nature. Each fraternity and sorority, of which there are nearly 50, receive bi-monthly shipments, as do high-traffic area campus bins and local Columbia businesses. In the paper's first year, it won the award for Mizzou's Most Outstanding Public Relations Project.

Milligan got his start at a now defunct rival publication, and served the Greek system as IFC public relations chairman and Pi Kappa Alpha president. But it's with The Greek Chronicle that he made his entrepreneurial mark, and Milligan was recognized for the accomplishment by winning the university's Cecil B. Keasler Award that is presented to "the student that has impacted the Greek system the most over the last four years." To contact Milligan, please do so at greekchronicle@hotmail.com.

Double Duty For Zeta Phi's Booker In Stir And Now Gravity Kills

You'd think it would be work enough to play drums in one national act, but that's not how Brad Booker (Missouri-St. Louis, Zeta Phi '90) feels! As featured previously in the Shield & Diamond, Booker is the drummer for Stir, one of the most promising alternative bands in the business. In regular radio and video rotation on national stations, MTV and VH-1, Stir hit big with their 1996 release Stir and even bigger with 2000's Holy Dogs, with hit singles including "New Beginning", "Only a Dream" and "One Angel."

So, Booker as well as bass player Kevin Gagnepain (Missouri-St. Louis, Zeta Phi '88) and singer/guitarist Andy Schmidt obviously stay busy with touring, promoting the band and recording, and the band is scheduled to record its follow-up to Holy Dogs at Ardent Studios in Memphis in the spring... following Booker's national tour playing drums for hard-driving Gravity Kills.

That's right, Booker is currently on tour with national act Gravity Kills. And not only is he touring, Booker officially joined the fellow St. Louis-based band to record Superstarved, Gravity Kills' third CD. Following the departure of the original drummer for Gravity Kills, Booker was invited to join the band that had established studio and touring plans. Booker is enjoying the "break" from Stir, and has enjoyed both the touring and recording process with the harder-edged Gravity Kills. "Stir will always be my primary band and first love, but this has been a blast!" And as always, Booker greatly appreciates any Pikes that take the time to come up after a show.

As for the just-released Superstarved, Gravity Kills' most blinding musical statement to date and its first CD on Sanctuary records, it's a 13-track blitzkrieg of guitar-charged, industrially driven mayhem. As the band's bio states, "Gravity Kills members bleed an eerie, industrial ambience into a cathartic blast of metal that bridges good and evil with an emotional headlock and musical rapture." Booker and the band have high hopes that lead single "One Thing" will reach the status of 1995's "Guilty", the song that established Gravity Kills.

For touring and CD information on Gravity Kills, please visit either www.gravitykills.com or www.sanctuaryrecordsgroup.com, and Superstarved is available at any music store or CD website. And for information on Stir, please visit www.stirband.com.

Alpha Mu's Memory Hits Again With New Memory Dean CD

Jay Memory (Georgia, Alpha Mu '87) and bandmate Bubba Dean are back with their fifth CD, Love Is Love.

Needless to say, the band has come a long way and yet in some ways full circle from the early days playing clubs in Athens, Atlanta and Statesboro, Georgia and throughout the southeast.

Really, the only common thread since 1991 has been the partnership of guitarist/vocalists Memory and Dean. What once was two Georgia Bulldogs singing and strumming acoustic guitars became full bands, with extensive tours in 33 states (and Sweden), a debut cassette and subsequent CDs. Now its back to just the two of them, an amazing journey that led to Memory and Dean handling all of the musical and vocal duties on Love Is Love. Says Memory of his partnership with

Dean, "It's good to be on a winning team!"

Memory, ever the optimist, has high hopes for Love Is Love, yet also recognizes the amazing accomplishment of remaining an evolving band for 11 years. Says Memory, "I am as proud of Memory Dean's perseverance as I am hopeful of our possible success!" And while countless failed bands would already consider Memory Dean a "success", Memory pushes forward by constantly writing, recording and playing.

For touring and CD information on Memory Dean, please visit www.memorydean.com. And for booking information, please contact Mountain Entertainment's Marty Winsch (Clemson, Eta Alpha '89) at mtnent@aol.com.

2002 Chapter Presidents Conference and Rush Summit

The Fraternity's foremost educational program deemed "excellent" by chapter leaders.

Nearly 300 undergraduate leaders from across North America celebrated the 30th anniversary of Pi Kappa Alpha's Chapter Presidents Conference in Memphis, Tennessee during the weekend of January 3-6, 2002.

This annual event targets chapter presidents and rush chairmen with special programming in the areas of personal and leadership development. Feature presentations included "Winning Rush" by the International Rush Advisory Committee, "Pi Kappa Alpha's Ritual & History" by International Historian Dr. Jerry Reel (Tulane, Eta '57), "Improving Excellence Through Reducing Risk" by International Vice President Allen Groves (Stetson, Delta Upsilon '79), "Leading with Integrity" by special guest faculty member James Mitchell, and "Strategic Leadership" by Past National President Dr. Jerry Askew (North Carolina, Tau '73). New programming included personal and chapter development forums, which allowed attendees to choose from a variety of topics such as alumni relations, personal finance, public speaking and pledge education.

This year's conference set an attendance record for Pi Kappa Alpha, with 169 chapter presidents and 125 rush chairmen at the three-day conference. The attendance total represented a 10% increase from the previous year.

The conference was held at the landmark Peabody Hotel. First-class accommodations and the hotel's proximity to downtown Memphis' many sights and attractions helped enhance the overall experience. A tour of the Fraternity's Memorial Headquarters on day two provided an enjoyable break and an opportunity for undergraduates to visit the Fraternity's business office and view the newly constructed Lighty-Wade Pavilion and Courtyard. The 2002 Chapter Presidents Conference Leadership Banquet on the final evening was highlighted with a keynote were outstanding. Of the evaluations received, 100% responded that they would undoubtedly recommend this program to other brothers; 100% also stated that they felt the value of the program more than justified the expense of attendance. Overall, more than 90% of attendees rated the overall program as "excellent".

Through the support of the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation's Chapter Presidents Conference Endowment (created and primarily funded through the generosity of Marvin and Nancy Dennis), registration costs for this conference have remained extremely affordable. For the 2002 conference, programming and meals cost each participant only $65.

Next year's event, scheduled for January 9-12, 2003, promises to build on this year's success with cutting-edge programming and outstanding faculty. All chapter presidents and rush chairmen should be prepared to attend this outstanding event. ♦

Conference attendees enjoyed visiting the Freeman H. Hart Memorial Museum at the Memorial Headquarters.

Arriving by bus at the Memorial Headquarters, undergraduates had the opportunity to see the Fraternity's business office.

Drexel University Chartered As Lambda Zeta Chapter

by Clemett D. Thomas (Lambda Zeta '01)

On November 9, 2001, less than one year after formal colonization, 62 men at Drexel University in Philadelphia made the rite of passage as they entered the bonds of phi phi kappa alpha. Four initiation teams, including the colony's neighbor, Beta Pi at the University of Pennsylvania, Gamma Lambda at Lehigh University, Iota Tau at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, and Lambda Gamma at Montclair State University in New Jersey assisted in the historic evening. Expansion Coordinator Justin Buck (Southeast Missouri, Epsilon Iota '96) and former Expansion Consultant Jason Patocka (Northern Iowa, Theta Zeta '96), along with Chapter Consultant Ryan Van Andel (Berkeley, Alpha Sigma '98), represented the International Headquarters.

The next morning concluded the weekend's festivities with the official chartering ceremony. The evening of November 10 was highlighted by an extraordinary banquet held downtown at Philadelphia's beautiful Crowne Plaza Hotel. Present that evening were International President H. King Buttermore III (Vanderbilt, Sigma '63), North Atlantic Regional President Mark Robertson (Southern Methodist, Beta Zeta '82), International Vice President Howard Goldstein (Lehigh, Gamma Lambda '83), Patocka and Buck. 200 guests attended the banquet, including area alumni, parents, and friends. Representing Drexel were Assistant Dean of Campus Activities Gina D'Amato, Associate Director of Student Activities John Kappel, Chaplain Father John Brinkman, and Director of Greek Life Stephen Rupprecht. During the banquet the crowd was treated to a spectacular slide show presentation commemorating the past year of the Drexel Colony. The show was followed by a moving speech from the Lambda Zeta Chapter Advisor Erik Pettine (Coastal Carolina, Kappa Rho '97), who drew upon his personal experience as a founding father of Kappa Rho Chapter to provide invaluable help to the colonization process. Finally, International President Buttermore gave an inspirational keynote address.

Colony History

In the fall of 2000, current Expansion Coordinator Buck and Expansion Consultant Patocka visited Drexel's campus to begin the search for those who would be worthy to bear the name of Phi Kappa Alpha. They interviewed sororities, faculty, coaches, and university administration looking for the scholars, leaders, athletes and gentlemen who would become the newest colony of Phi Kappa Alpha.

Over 100 men were recommended, and after rigorous interviews, 41 were chosen to become the Drexel Colony. Buck and Patocka also appointed colony officers including Colony President Clem Thomas (Drexel, Lambda Zeta '01) and Vice President Brian Bizon (Drexel, Lambda Zeta '01) among others, many of whom were re-elected by the colony and still hold the same office today.

During the next 11 months, the Drexel Colony experienced much success, including becoming the fastest fraternity in Drexel's history to acquire a fraternity house from the University and holding the highest term and cumulative average GPA among all fraternities. In addition, the colony performed more community service hours than all other fraternities combined, and had the largest fall 2001 new member class while boasting 100% bid acceptance. The colony also has among their ranks many campus leaders including the vice president of student government, treasurer of student government, and a Young-Alumni member on the board of governors for the University.

University History

Drexel University, located in the heart of Center City Philadelphia, was first founded in 1891 as the Drexel Institute of Art, Science, and Industry by Anthony J. Drexel. Today, Drexel is one of the most recognized universities for engineering and computer-based professions.

A. J. Drexel wanted the Drexel Institute to reach as many people as possible. At one time, he had even hoped that courses at the Institute could be offered for free. However, he settled for modest tuition supplemented by free lectures and concerts open to the public. Lectures were given, on average, once a week. During the early years of the institute, attendance at lectures and concerts attracted some 35,000 Philadelphians annually.

Drexel University has one of the largest, oldest, and most successful cooperative education programs in America. Ninety-five percent of all undergraduates alternate periods of study with full time, paid positions in business, industry, government, and the professions.

Drexel University holds the distinction of being the first college campus to offer wireless access to their computer network and the internet.

Lambda Eta Chapter Chartered At William Woods University

William Woods University and Pi Kappa Alpha welcomed a new chapter on Saturday, November 17, 2001. Lambda Eta Chapter was installed after over a year and a half of hard work and dedication by colony members and the current chapter advisor.

In March 2000, Expansion Consultant James Kanary (Michigan, Beta Tau '95) and Chapter Consultant Dru Wilson (East Central University, Epsilon Omega '96) set out to Fulton, Missouri and the William Woods campus. They began the recruitment process by conducting interviews for what would be one of the first fraternities ever to exist at WWU. Initially, the team signed 22 men to start the colony and contacted Ronald Clendenny (Missouri-Rolla, Alpha Kappa '80) to serve as colony advisor. On April 2nd, the new members were pinned and the William Woods Colony was born.

Of the initial men recruited, over three-fourths were involved with varsity athletics on campus. The group featured soccer, baseball, golf, and volleyball players who were all on athletic scholarships. In August, the colony brought in 11 new men to become a part of Pi Kappa Alpha and increased its membership to 33. This accounted for an amazing 28% of the total male population on William Woods' campus at that time. Throughout their existence as a colony, the group experienced several outstanding accomplishments including first place in Chi Omega's "Omega Man" competition, raising $2,300 for charity during their annual Pike Auction, and achieving a grade point average higher than the independent men's average. Another big surge for the colony came after the recruitment of then faculty advisor, now Chapter Advisor Jack Dudley (William Woods University, Lambda Eta '01).

After setting the standard for fraternities on campus and meeting the goals they set upon forming the colony, the group sent in their chartering petition to Expansion Coordinator Justin Buck (Southeast Missouri, Epsilon Iota '96) in October 2001. The petition was approved and an inspection date set.

On October 27, 2001, representatives from Epsilon Iota Chapter (Southeast Missouri) and Alpha Kappa Chapter (University of Missouri-Rolla), along with Heartland Regional President Robert Cox (Southeast Missouri, Epsilon Iota '64), conducted the colony inspection with Chapter Consultant Beau Carlson (Iowa State, Alpha Phi '99) and Expansion Consultant Dean Snihur (Alberta, Lambda Epsilon '01). The team voted to approve the colony for chartering.

On Friday, November 16, 2001, 39 men received the honor of being initiated into Pi Kappa Alpha. Initiation teams consisted of brothers from Alpha Nu (Missouri), Epsilon Iota, and Alpha Kappa. The following day, Epsilon Iota Chapter, along with International President H. King Buttermore III (Vanderbilt, Sigma '63) and Regional President Cox, conducted the installation ceremony. The group was installed as the "Chartering Members" of Lambda Eta Chapter and Adam Patchett was installed as the chapter's first president.

William Woods University has evolved from its beginnings as a girls' orphanage following the Civil War.

International President Buttermore was also the keynote speaker at the evening's black tie event, which was held on the William Woods campus. Also attending the banquet were Cox, Wilson, Buck, and current Director of Real Estate Stewart Sapient (Northern Arizona, Theta Rho '95), along with the men from Epsilon Iota Chapter. Present from William Woods University were Director of Alumni Activities Becky Stinson, Executive Director of Enrollment Services Laura Archuleta, Director of Financial Services Liz Bennett, Head Baseball Coach Todd Vodnansky, and Professor of Geology Jack Dudley. Numerous parents and sorority women were also in attendance that evening. Thanks to the work of Lambda Eta Chapter and tremendous support from alumni, faculty, and sororities on campus, Pi Kappa Alpha has created a lasting impression at William Woods University.

University History

First known as the Female Orphan School, the institution that is now William Woods University was founded in 1870 in Camden Point, Missouri in response to the needs of female children orphaned during the Civil War.

During the late nineteenth century, the institution moved to Fulton, Missouri and expanded its elementary and secondary programs to accommodate young women who aspired to become teachers. Known briefly at the beginning of the twentieth century as Daughters College, the institution changed its name to William Woods College to honor a major benefactor and began offering a two-year college program. In 1962, William Woods became a four-year college. The institution became known as William Woods University in 1993 and began offering graduate degrees and admitting men as well as women into all of its programs.

Greek Life

The Greek System was started in the mid 1960s with the establishment of four national sororities. Currently, those sororities have been joined by two international fraternities and are supervised by the Panhellenic Council and Inter-Greek Council. The Greek System is composed of approximately 40% of the men and 40% of the women at William Woods University.

You're invited to participate in 2002 International Work Day!

Your chapter, or one near you, has planned a day for students, alumni, parents and guests to get together for the purpose of improving their chapter house or grounds. Every participating chapter and house corporation has planned house improvement projects, food and fellowship for all who attend.

Everyone is welcome to participate in this growing tradition. International Work Day has quickly become one of the most popular events in the fraternity world. This year will see more participation by chapters and individuals than the first four years of the program combined. Don't miss out on this fun and worthwhile opportunity!

The International Fraternity thanks the following groups for sending representatives to either the Denver or Washington, D.C. Housing Summit. Their dedication to advancing the fraternity housing movement is to be commended. At the Summits, each attendee created concrete direction for his house corporation in the form of short and long term goals. Much improvement in the Fraternity's housing is expected as a result of their planning. Pi Kappa Alpha looks forward to helping every corporation achieve its objectives and to recognizing our future successes!

Housing Summits Conclude With Unprecedented Success In D.C.

To the delight of all 108 attendees, the Fraternity successfully hosted its second of only two scheduled Housing Summits this past December in Washington, D.C. Over 70 house corporations were on hand for the event and attendees experienced a wide array of proactive educational programming specifically designed to help improve their efforts as house corporation officers. Combined with the attendees from the first Summit held in Denver, the Fraternity positively impacted nearly 120 house corporations and hosted over 180 participants.

The concept of hosting an expense-paid educational conference for house corporations achieved fruition after years of deliberation and planning by the Fraternity's Housing Commission and staff. With the overall goals of better educating and supporting alumni involved with chapter housing, and of reaching the most people in the most cost and time efficient way possible, the decision was made in May 2000 to coordinate two "Housing Summits" with all house corporations being eligible to send one representative to one of the conferences. Less than one year later, the idea became a reality when the first of two Housing Summits was successfully orchestrated in Denver, Colorado over the weekend of April 27-29, 2001. The specific focus of the program was to provide information on the best time-proven property and corporation management practices as they pertain to fraternity housing, and to help groups plan for the future of their chapter's housing. Professionals from related industries were on hand to present sessions and answer questions. The latest trends in student housing were conveyed, and the needs of the future student were outlined. Forums allowed attendees to share thoughts on what had and had not worked for their house corporations. All participants received in-depth materials and were informed of the programs and resources available to chapters and corporations from the Fraternity.

At the conclusion of the event many of the participants spoke enthusiastically about how much they gained from the conference, and many vowed to send their fellow house corporation volunteers to future educational programs hosted by the Fraternity.

If you would like to learn more about the Housing Summits or have additional housing questions, please contact the Fraternity's Real Estate Department at 901/748-1868 or via email at pikeshouse@pikes.org. Resource information is also available in the housing programs section of the Fraternity's website at www.pikes.org.

- ♦ "The summit was one of the most informative and worthwhile programs I have ever attended. The format was very professional. Being a sales engineer, I attend a lot of seminars, and this was one of the best."
- ♦ "So much material was presented that at one point Saturday afternoon my head began to hurt! I'm confident that our attendees went away with a greater appreciation of the Fraternity's housing issues and with the knowledge and focus to begin addressing their own housing needs."
- ♦ "Great Summit! I just wish the Fraternity had done this a decade ago when I first got involved with our house corporation."

Chapters Strong In Academics, Philanthropy As 2001 Ends

E EPSILON Virginia Tech

Epsilon Chapter had a successful semester settling into a new house, and enjoyed visits from many alumni during Fall Alumni Weekend. Community service events during the fall semester included co-hosting the annual Delta Gamma/PIKE Christmas party for the Head Start program for underprivileged children. On Halloween, the brothers of Epsilon went trick-or-treating for cans. Collecting over 2000 items, they won the IFC canned food drive for the third consecutive year. Fall rush proved extremely successful with nearly 100 students attending open rush and interviews. Pike had the largest rush and pledge class on campus, initiating 22 new brothers before the winter break.

AE ALPHA EPSILON North Carolina State

Alpha Epsilon Chapter's Founder's Day Golf Tournament was held on Friday, March 1-3 at Crooked Creek Golf Course, and was a huge success. The 6th Annual Brian Cardini '94 Volleyball Tournament will be held Friday, April 12-14, and the chapter has big plans for Homecoming 2002 festivities next fall. The men of Alpha Zeta Chapter boasted a 3.0 GPA last fall and hosted two events, homecoming and Riverboat. This year was a tremendous success, as many of their alumni returned for the fun. Also, in the fall semester alone, the brothers gave 2,100 hours to community service in various projects such as Make-a-Difference Day and helping with a Halloween carnival at a local elementary school. On campus, Alpha Zeta dominated the intramural fields and brother Steve Snyder '00 was elected president of the Interfraternity Council.

ZE

Western Kentucky

Zeta Epsilon Chapter at Western Kentucky University successfully performed an event that fulfilled community service goals while exemplifying the importance of the Greek community to the citizens of Bowling Green. Zeta Epsilon's premier fall community service event, "Pikes on Bikes" proved beneficial and enjoyable for children of Big Brothers and Big Sisters of South Central Kentucky. The ten-mile philanthropic bike ride and picnic was covered by numerous television and radio media, thus relaying to those outside the college community the great usefulness of organizations such as Pi Kappa Alpha. Numerous other Greek organizations participated in the event, creating an outstanding percentage of Greek representation.

II IOTA GAMMA Nebraska-Kearney

Iota Gamma Chapter received the most improved GPA award for fall semester, and brother Jim Farrell was selected for Epsilon Pi Tau honorary. In community service, Pikes raised several hundred dollars as well as several hundred cans of food for charity at their haunted house event during fall 2001. The large event, combined with dozens of others, put them in front of the rest of the campus for community service hours. Aaron Stubbe was elected vice president of the Order of Omega honorary, three members were elected to IFC offices and Albert Duckworth was elected secretary for the Great Plains Region. The chapter was in the top two for rush and ranked #1 in retention for the fall semester. They are also implementing a new semi-formal rush as well as several other new tactics that will be tested during the second semester. Iota Gamma is leading the campus in intramurals by over 150 points for the year.

ΛE LAMBDA EPSILON Alberta

On October 31, 2001, the men of Lambda Epsilon Chapter combined their Halloween celebration with the Cul-De-Sac For Cancer. The event involved brother Todd Wikjord '01 volunteering to shave his head, after one year of growth, in exchange for donations to the cancer society. Donations were collected on campus and in the surrounding community, at the party, and even from many members of the Edmonton Oilers NHL team. The party and charity fundraiser raised $1,475 for the Canadian Cancer Society and has led to a great relationship between the Pikes and the Canadian Cancer Society. Proud of the chapter's efforts, Wikjord sported his new hairstyle on campus for an entire week.

Why I Pledged: Gregg J. Ormond (Pennsylvania, Beta Pi '74)

Gregg J. Ormond has served as a commissioner of the Fraternity's Housing Commission since 1992. He is principal in the law firm of Gregg J. Ormond, P.A. in Coral Gables, Florida. He is also a broker/salesman with Kerdyk Real Estate. Ormond was an undergraduate vice president on the Supreme Council in 1976-77 and served Beta Pi in various capacities including chapter president. As an alumnus, Ormond was graduate advisor for Gamma Omega Chapter at the University of Miami from 1977-78 and Sunshine regional president from 1984-88. He has served Gamma Omega in various capacities on the housing corporation and alumni advisory board since 1978. Ormond is a member of the Educational Foundation's Lily of the Valley Donor Society and the International Alumni Association. He lives in Coral Gables with his son, Gregg, Jr.

The Shield & Diamond asked Ormond to reflect on his personal rush experience and Pi Kappa Alpha.

What first attracted you to Pi Kappa Alpha?

When I first arrived at Penn, some good friends of mine were there as well. We made a pact that when we joined a fraternity, we would all join together. I didn't really know much about Pi Kappa Alpha, but my friends told me it was the best, so I decided to go Pike. Walt Brodus, Rick Heaslip, Frank Kenlon, and Steve Salton were my pledge brothers as well as my best friends.

What rush techniques did the Pikes at your university use?

The Pikes at Penn spent a lot of time with my buddies, and that helped to break the ice on a large campus. Beta Pi had won the Madeira Cup, a prestigious award at Penn, and they were clearly the best fraternity on campus. The chapter was prominent in social activities, athletics, IFC and community service projects, as well as academics. When I was a freshman, Beta Pi won a Smythe Award. My brothers in the chapter, Bruce Wolfson '71 and Rick Schorr '72, developed the Beta Pi pledge education program that became the model for PIKAMEP, the recruiting program of the national Fraternity.

What role has Pi Kappa Alpha played in your life beyond college?

Pi Kappa Alpha has played a very significant role in my life. After graduating from Penn, I moved to Miami and began law school while serving as a graduate assistant. I met many Pikes from the surrounding area who helped me adjust, and who have impacted my legal pursuits. I became very good friends with former national chaplain Nick Minich (Virginia, Alpha '51), who officiated at my wedding and baptized my son. I also met John Lisk (Miami, Gamma Omega '71), who hired me to work at his law firm after I graduated from Miami Law. We later became partners in the firm. I met former Pi Kappa Alpha national president Jerry Askew (North Carolina, Tau '73) when he visited Beta Pi Chapter as a consultant for the national headquarters. He later became associate dean of students at Miami. By serving as a regional president and now as housing commissioner, I've expanded my horizons and made many new friends. What began as a close circle of friends at Penn has expanded to include Pikes throughout North America.

Why is rush so important?

It's been said before – rush is simply a process of making friends. Our ability and willingness to expand our circle of friends is at the heart of rush. This same principle will guide us in our personal and professional lives, and expand the range of possibilities open to us. The lessons we learn in the Fraternity stay with us throughout life.

SPRING RUSH TIP: Six Tips For Remembering Names

From Business Forum: Forgetting a person's name can be embarrassing. Here are six tips to help you remember those important introductions: 1) Pay careful attention during the introduction; 2) Find ways to work the person's name into the conversation; 3) Write the name down; 4) Try to limit multiple introductions; 5) After the people you are introduced to at a social gathering walk away, glance at them from time to time; 6) After you leave, review the names you've written down.

Focus on Leadership

Robert H. Dedman Jr.

(Texas, Beta Mu '78)

by Christopher M. Peters (Clemson, Eta Alpha '88)

Focus on Leadership is an ongoing series from the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation. Its purpose is to provide a forum through which ideas and insights on leadership can be communicated from Pi Kappa Alpha alumnus members who have demonstrated outstanding leadership in their chosen vocations. The development of our undergraduate brothers through leadership education and training is paramount to the future success of Pi Kappa Alpha, and as such, is one of the Educational Foundation's primary missions.

Robert H. Dedman Jr. (Texas, Beta Mu '78) literally grew up at ClubCorp Inc. The company, its leaders, and its founding values have always been a constant in his life. What better education and indoctrination into the corporate culture for the man who currently serves ClubCorp as president and CEO? During his childhood, Dedman could frequently be found at his father's side amid meetings at the ClubCorp offices where buying land and building golf courses were the topics of the day. Growing up he spent countless hours at the company's first property, Brookhaven Country Club, and as a teenager he worked in the bag room and in the golf and tennis pro shops. After receiving his MBA from SMU with highest honors, Dedman worked as ClubCorp's director of corporate planning. His only work outside of ClubCorp came during three years spent on Wall Street as an associate with Salomon Brothers, Inc. where he specialized in mergers and acquisitions. In 1987, Dedman came back to ClubCorp as chief financial officer, and became president and chief operating officer two years later.

Founded by Robert Dedman Sr. in 1957, ClubCorp is the world's largest owner and operator of private country clubs, private business and sports clubs and golf resorts with more than $1.7 billion in assets across five continents. Its mission is simple but direct, "To share the private club experience with the world." An international privately held company, its nearly 215 properties include such jewels as Pinehurst resort (where the U.S. Open was played in 1999, and which will again be the venue in 2005), Virginia's Homestead and Ohio's Firestone Country Club. Dedman Sr. did not set out to invent a whole industry by creating a private country club that would be accessible, affordable, and run with professionalism, but that is just what has happened over the last four decades.

In the three years since he succeeded his father as CEO, Dedman Jr. has taken ClubCorp to new levels by speeding its growth, forging alliances with new partners, and revamping its business club segment to meet the needs of its members in today's information age. In addition to its golf course and resort properties, ClubCorp operates business clubs in more than 70 major metropolitan markets internationally.

Dedman continues to lead ClubCorp's commitment to STAR Service, which encompasses the company's founding philosophies, values and culture. Applied to every aspect of the business, STAR Service unifies diverse and largely autonomous properties and ClubCorp's 23,000 employee partners with a common ethic. The goal of being the world-class leader in the golf and hospitality industries is distilled into the company's three steps of service: warm welcome, magic moments and fond farewell.

The Educational Foundation's Director of Development Chris Peters sat down with Dedman Jr. recently in Dallas, Texas to talk about his business, Pi Kappa Alpha, and his views on the importance leadership plays in life.

What is your vision for ClubCorp's future?

Right now we have roughly 215 properties in the United States and abroad, and we would like to grow our business 15-20% a year. Some of that will come from what I call the organic growth of our existing assets and then some obviously from new business development and things of that nature, including strategic partnerships with others.

With that said, our vision of where we're going really goes back to the opportunities we have to partner with our members, our employee partners, and what we call our financial or business partners. The kind of business we're in is really trying to enrich their lives by getting all three of those groups to work together and do significant things.

When we talk about enriching someone's life, there are four primary ways we do that. One is connecting leaders. Our clubs foster an environment where leaders can interact and forge positive relationships. Second is facilitating professional success. Many members join our clubs, in part, to help make themselves more successful in business – through the relationships they can establish in the club and by taking advantage of the resources we provide from an educational perspective. The third element is personal fulfillment, which includes the family aspect. Many of our clubs involve a lifestyle element for our members and their families, especially around our golf properties and country clubs. The last aspect is how we improve our communities. So our vision for our business is really a combination of all four of those. If we can hit on all four, I think we can provide incredible value for our members, our employee partners, and our financial partners.

How would you describe ClubCorp's approach to the private club experience?

We're very fortunate when you consider who our members are. They are really in the top 1-2% from a demographic standpoint. We have over 200,000 of the most influential leaders, certainly in America and in the countries where we do business, and they influence the lives of so many others. I think we really have the ability to control our destiny by connecting those leaders and getting them focused on how we can enrich their lives and the communities they serve. We're taking a multi-generational approach here by building institutions that will stand the test of time. I would like my daughter to understand someday that her daddy is a leader of leaders. Our clubs are all about fostering relationships between the affluent and the influential community leaders who will help raise the standard – just like a rising tide raises all ships. That is the fundamental purpose of a club and when we connect with that purpose, we're able to accomplish incredible things.

We changed our logo a few years ago to the trophy. It was very symbolic from the standpoint that we want everyone to be able to put their hands on the trophy and be able to know what it feels like to win. To us, the trophy represents leadership, personal achievement, tradition, competitive spirit, sportsmanship, and high attainment. Our members, our employee partners, and our business partners all want to be successful, not just in business but in life. We want everyone to be able to help carry the trophy as part of a winning team, so that symbol is very appropriate for us.

What is STAR Service?

STAR Service is really a statement of our corporate values. It defines our culture. We use an acronym for PRIDE in belonging and it is part of our strategy in business as well: Personalized service, Recognition and acceptance, Involvement, Developing relationships, and Empowerment.

Through a process we call STAR Service Line Ups, we communicate a very short message every day to each of our 23,000 employee partners in every department of every one of our corporate or field operations. This allows us to share our message, our culture, our victories, and let people know how we are doing. With this mechanism in place, every employee partner at sometime during the day is going to get indoctrinated or enrolled in the process, which helps to get more employee partners to buy into our culture.

What are some of the experiences that have prepared you along the way to lead ClubCorp?

There are so many influences on how you learn in life. I've been very fortunate in many ways. I have great parents who emphasized education a great deal. I have three degrees. My father has four degrees. Everyone else in my family has two degrees except my mother, who has one, but she's smarter than all the rest of us combined. So the importance of education has always been emphasized in my family. It has certainly allowed my father to succeed not only in business, but in life.

CLUBCORP™

I've learned a lot from my parents. I always say that there are two things parents give a child, one is roots and the other is wings. My parents were able to do both. The roots are the values that you learn through your life and the wings are really your aspirations to go out and do something. I've learned a lot from my father who has been incredibly successful in business. I've literally grown up here at ClubCorp and many of the senior leaders of the company helped raise me to a certain extent. Sir Isaac Newton once said, "If I have seen further than others, it is by standing upon the shoulders of giants." That's really true for me. I've been able to learn a great deal from watching others.

One of the greatest leadership lessons I've learned in my life was serving as president of Beta Mu Chapter at the University of Texas. A chapter president has to learn how to deal with people and influence them when he has absolutely no control over them. I think that is an excellent lesson for leadership. In the chapter, everybody has a mind of his own and each member has an equal vote. I think learning how to use influence in that setting is priceless.

How would you describe yourself as a leader?

I don't use the mirror probably as much as I should in looking at myself. I do think that part of my role as CEO is to create an empowering environment where our employee partners will do the right thing because they are guided by their enlightened self interest to help enrich the lives of others and partner with others in the most effective manner possible. That is certainly a style of leadership I would like to exhibit. I don't know if I always do it, but it is definitely something I aspire to and try to be. I also try very hard to lead by example. I try to do that by living my personal and our corporate values while achieving results. People do not judge us by our intentions; they judge us by our actions. So you have to make sure that they are consistent.

Do you have any words of wisdom for our undergrads who aspire to be successful?

I think one of the keys to any successful person is a willingness to learn, so exposing yourself to situations from which you can learn is a very good thing. There are many ways to do that. You can do it through formal education with an advanced degree, you can read, and you can do it through the relationships you establish with the right mentors. I think developing a personal relationship with someone who is 20 or 30 years older than you, who can offer a longer-range perspective, can be very beneficial.

It's interesting when you think about simple things that change your life. I learned so much from being in the Fraternity and being an officer—I would not only recommend fraternity membership, but I would also encourage men to run for office and get involved because the leadership learning you can gain is invaluable. By being a leader in the fraternity chapter you can learn a great deal about working with people and about responsibility at an early stage of your life. You are better prepared by far when you go out into the working world if you have been a leader in the chapter, because you will have learned to accomplish things that can only be done by influence and example.

If I had to recommend one thing for people to do when they get out of college, it would be to join one of our clubs. I say that very seriously because I really feel it will help them a great deal in life. They will learn so much from the other members and the opportunities those associations create.

What do you look for in the people you surround yourself with?

One of the great things about our business is our people. We are so fortunate to have what we consider to be the greatest employees in the world. We call them employee partners. When I wrote the book, Our STAR Service Journey, one of the things I tried to do was codify the characteristics that we look for in our employee partners. As I mentioned, at ClubCorp we call our core beliefs our STAR Service Values. The first of those values is personal integrity and character, and that is paramount. If you are going to build relationships that are based on trust, you have to start with trustworthiness. That is the foundation. If you do not have that, then nothing else matters.

In addition to upholding our values, you must be able to achieve results at the same time. So a second characteristic I look for, certainly in my direct reports, is someone who has a vision for the future and has the ability to turn that vision into reality. It is not good enough just to have a dream; you must be able to make that dream a reality through good planning and the ability to execute the plan.

The third thing I look for is people with passion for the business, who have energy and enthusiasm and who want to help others. I look for leaders who like to see other people win by helping to create incredible experiences for people that change their lives for the better. We call it having a servant's heart. That is what makes our company special. Once you join our team, you really do become part of the family. We have very much of a family culture among our employee partners and among our members as well.

Can you tell me more about your days at Beta Mu Chapter?

I had a truly great experience and I learned a lot along the way. Some of my fondest memories in life are the relationships I established through Pi Kappa Alpha. My best friends today are the people I met when I was a junior and senior at the University of Texas. It's very special to be able to continue the tradition of getting together and reminiscing. Serving as chapter president really was a wonderful experience, and I think I've gone on to apply many of the lessons learned. In our business, we talk about magic moments that become treasured memories, and I think that is really what the friendships you establish through the Fraternity are all about.

In a sense, we are in the fraternity and sorority business here at ClubCorp as well. Our clubs are associations of people just as a fraternity is, and both are based on the values that people share. So there is a great deal of commonality between the experiences I had through Pi Kappa Alpha and what I do today as the CEO of ClubCorp. One of the things that has really helped me is understanding that, in both cases, with the Fraternity and with our clubs, you are buying into an intangible thing. You may have a physical place like a chapter house, but you will still have a fraternity chapter even if the chapter house burns down. It is the association of those people that matters, what they believe and how they help each other that make the fraternity experience special. I believe the same is true for our clubs. I learned a lot from my leadership experience in Pi Kappa Alpha that continues to serve me well with our company. I'm not sure if I was smart enough to realize at the time what a great learning experience that was, but looking back, those lessons have helped me in business and certainly in the type of industry we are in with clubs and resorts.

Is it fair to say that you would recommend the Pi Kappa Alpha experience to young men entering college today?

Absolutely. One of the great things that both fraternities and sororities do, particularly when you are at a larger institution, is make life manageable from the size standpoint. It is impossible to get to know 50,000 people well, but fraternity and sorority chapters help break life down and help you establish relationships on a smaller scale. They allow you to learn from each other while at the same time helping you to assimilate into the larger world. So it is great for people to be part of the Greek system. I was an independent for two years, and then came back to Texas and pledged as a junior. I'm glad I did both, but I think students starting at a major university would be well advised to get involved with the Greek system as soon as possible, because it can help you in so many ways. I talked about the importance of having a mentor when you get out of school, and that is another advantage the fraternity chapter can provide. In the chapter there are people who are a few years ahead of you who can give you advice on what to do and what not to do. Especially on how to succeed.

The 7 Habits Of Highly Effective People

Stephen R. Covey (Utah, Alpha Tau '50)

Dr. Stephen R. Covey is a 1950 initiate of Pi Kappa Alpha at the University of Utah's Alpha Tau Chapter. He was pledge number 22 in a class of 26, and he and his pledge brothers still gather each year for a reunion at Covey's cabin in the mountains of Utah. Covey is the founder of the Covey Leadership Center and the co-founder of the Franklin Covey Company, the largest management and leadership development organization in the world. He is the author of several best selling books and is perhaps best known for The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People, First Things First, and Principle Centered Leadership.

Covey's goal is to bring principle-centered leadership to the world. His writings and teachings have helped millions improve their lives, and he is now turning his attention specifically to his Pi Kappa Alpha brothers. This ongoing 7 Habits of Highly Effective People series is being produced in conjunction with the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation, whose primary mission is supporting the development of our undergraduate brothers through leadership education and training.

Habit 2

BEGIN WITH THE END IN MIND

In your mind's eye, see yourself going to the funeral of a loved one. As you walk into the chapel, notice the flowers, the soft organ music. You see the faces of friends and family; you feel the shared sorrow of losing; the joy of having known.

As you reach the front of the room and look inside the casket, you suddenly come face-to-face with yourself. This is your funeral, three years from now.

Take a seat and look down at the program in your hand. The first speaker is from your extended family; the second is a close friend; the third is an acquaintance from your business life; the fourth is from your church or some community-service organization where you've worked.

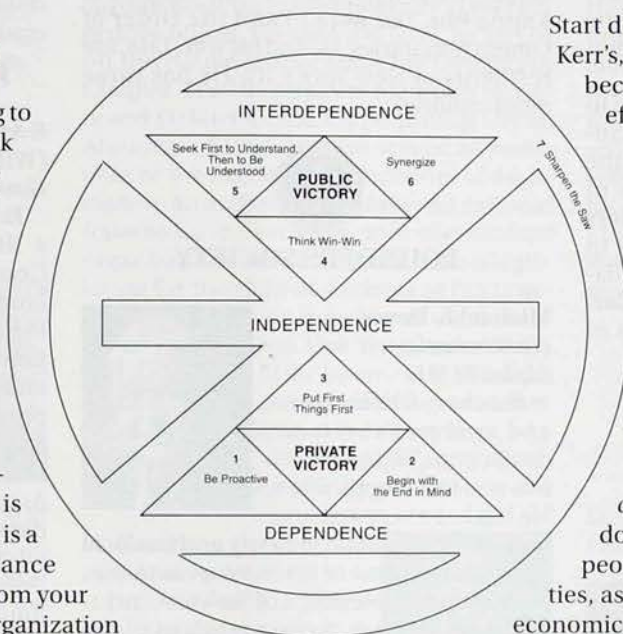

What character would you like each of these speakers to have seen in you – what difference would you like to have made in their lives?

The second habit of effectiveness is to begin with the end in mind. It means to know where you're going so as to understand where you are now, and take your next step in the right direction. It's amazingly easy to get caught up in an activity trap in the busyness of life, to work harder and harder at climbing the ladder of success only to discover it's leaning against the wrong wall. We may be very efficient by working frenetically and heedlessly, but we will be effective only when we begin with the end result in mind.

The best way to start is to develop a personal mission statement. It describes what we want to be (character) and to do (achievements). The following is from my friend Rolfe Kerr's personal mission statement:

- ♦ Succeed at home first;
- ♦ Seek and merit divine help;
- ♦ Remember the people involved;
- ♦ Develop one new proficiency a year;
- ♦ Hustle while you wait;
- ♦ Keep a sense of humor.

You could call a personal mission statement a sort of written constitution – its power lies in the fact that it's fundamentally changeless. The key to living with change is retaining a sense of who you are and what you value.

Start developing your mission statement, like Kerr's, from a core of principles. I mention this because all of us are drawn away from real effectiveness when we make our center something other than our principles.

Being spouse centered might seem natural and proper. But experience tells a different story. Over the years, I have been called on to help many troubled marriages; the complete emotional dependence that goes with being spouse centered often makes both partners so vulnerable to each other's moods that they become resentful.

The self-esteem of someone money centered can't weather the ups and downs of economic life; money-centered people often put aside family or other priorities, assuming everyone will understand that economic demands come first. They don't always, and we can damage our most important relationships by thinking that they do.

Being pleasure centered cheats one of lasting satisfactions. Too much time spent at leisure, on the paths of least resistance, insure that our talents stay undeveloped, that our mind and spirit become lethargic, and our heart unfulfilled. Pascal described a life of pure self-gratification as "licking the earth."

We want to center our lives on correct principles. Unlike other centers based on people and things subject to frequent change, correct principles don't change. We can depend on them. Our Pi Kappa Alpha ritual is a great example. In the ritual, our founders speak to all the higher principles in life and encourage all our members to align their values to those true north principles.

Your mission statement may take you some weeks to write, from first draft to final form; it's a concise expression of your innermost values and directions. Even then, you will want to review it regularly and make minor changes as the years bring new insights. Be guided by Viktor Frankl, who says we detect rather than invent our mission in life: "Everyone has his own specific vocation in life... Therein he cannot be replaced, nor can his life be repeated."

Organizations need mission statements. So do families, so that they do not simply lurch from emotional crisis to crisis – but instead know they have principles that will support them. The key is to have each member of the group contribute ideas and words to the final product. That contribution alone generates real commitment.

R. Craig Hoenshell Honor Society Award Endowment Adds Three New Honoraries

$120,000 Gift

Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation
By Endowment Sponsor R. Craig Hoenshell
Brings Phi Kappa Phi, Tau Beta Pi and
The Order of Omega On Board

R. Craig Hoenshell (Nebraska-Omaha, Delta Chi '63) recently contributed nearly $120,000 in additional funds to the R. Craig Hoenshell Honor Society Award Endowment at the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation. This endowment, generously created by Brother Hoenshell, has, since its inception in 1989, paid the initiation fees for those undergraduate brothers tapped for induction into the prestigious Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa honoraries. With these additional funds, the Hoenshell Honor Society Endowment now adds Phi Kappa Phi, Tau Beta Pi and The Order of Omega to the listing of those prestigious honoraries which achieving PKA undergraduates can join at little or no expense to them personally.

R. Craig Hoenshell

"The R. Craig Hoenshell Honor Society Award Endowment is, without question, one of the finest programs we administer," states Educational Foundation President W. Bram Govaars, II. "Recognizing and encouraging academic excellence and demonstrated leadership are at the very core of our mission at the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation. Thanks to Craig Hoenshell, we are, through this endowment, acknowledging and rewarding a substantially larger number of our finest undergraduates for their outstanding efforts in the classroom, on campus and in the community," Govaars added.

With the addition of these three new honoraries to this program, the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation will now provide financial and educational assistance to an exponentially larger number of undergraduate brothers, in perpetuity.

R. Craig Hoenshell is the former chairman and CEO of Avis Rent A Car, Inc., and the former president of American Express International. He served as a trustee of the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation for eight years, and currently serves the Foundation as a commissioner of the Endowment Fund.

Brother Hoenshell was inducted into the Educational Foundation's Order of West Range in 1993, and received Pi Kappa Alpha's Distinguished Achievement Award in 1998. He is a member of the Foundation's 1868 Donor Society, and the Oak Trust.

He and his wife, Lisa, are residents of New York City. He has three adult children.

Rose-Hulman Pikes Endow Iota Delta Chapter Fund

At a banquet honoring their newest class of 13 initiates, the men of Iota Delta Chapter made another significant commitment to the future of the chapter. By making a gift of \$3,800 to the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation, the chapter has now brought the Iota Delta Chapter Fund at the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation to \$10,000. This will allow the endowment to begin providing annual scholarships for the benefit of the chapter. The donation of \$3,800 was made possible by individual gifts of over \$36 by each of the chapter's 103 members and associates. Additionally, the Pikes of Rose-Hulman have had 100% participation in the Educational Foundation's $\phi\phi\kappa\alpha$ club for the past three years. These contributions are directed to the chapter's endowment fund as well.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation has created a Chapter Endowment Fund for each and every chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha. This program allows alumni and undergraduate brothers to directly impact the future leaders of their respective chapter by making tax-deductible gifts to these funds. Annual scholarships are generated from these endowments once the respective funds hold $10,000 or more.

How can you make a significant investment in the future of Pi Kappa Alpha?

Through a planned gift to the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation.

These days, in addition to their generous annual support, many farsighted PKA alumni are investing in the future of our great Fraternity through a planned gift to the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation. With their loyal support, these Pikes are guaranteeing that throughout the 21st Century and beyond, Pi Kappa Alpha will remain the finest fraternal experience in North America!

The benefits of making a planned gift to the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation are many.

- ◆ Planned gifts, distributed from one's estate, often allow an alumnus to make a substantially larger gift to PKA than might be possible during the donor's lifetime.
- ◆ Planned gifts to qualified charitable entities, including the Pi Kappa Alpha Educational Foundation, can provide tax advantages to the donor's estate.
- ◆ Planned gifts, with the donor's counsel, can establish permanent scholarship endowments, allowing the alumnus to perpetually enhance the lives of our undergraduate brothers.
- ◆ Planned gifts, in most cases, are easily implemented through a specific bequest in one's will, through a gift of life insurance proceeds, or a charitable trust.
- ◆ Planned gifts often qualify generous donors for membership in the Foundation's prestigious planned gifts recognition club, the Oak Trust.

Alpha Phi (Iowa State) Alumni Association 2001 Nester Gold Award

Over 60 alumni and friends from the Alpha Phi Alumni Association at Iowa State University gathered in Ames for a pregame party before the Iowa State Cyclones took on the rival Iowa Hawkeyes. Later in the same month, the association hosted a bowl party in Johnston, Iowa. The Cyclone faithful cheered on the team as they played Alabama in the Independence Bowl. All at the party agreed the controversial missed field goal was actually good and the Cyclones really won the game! Children will participate in all traditional camp activities (baseball, basketball, tennis, waterskiing, soccer, hockey, sailing, hiking, etc.) as well as have grief counseling available for those who wish to talk to someone.

This camp is already fully funded by CampGroup, a small company that owns seven of the premiere children's summer camps in the USA. Dorfman has established a partnership with the Center for Grieving Children of Portland, Maine, has met with different NYC firemen's and policemen's unions, and is working with the restaurant union that represents the employees who worked at Windows on the World on top of the WTC.

Dorfman is currently working to staff with the camp with a combination of certified grief counselors, experienced camp counselors from the CampGroup camps, and outside celebrities who the children might enjoy getting instruction from or just getting to know. Anyone wishing to help, or volunteer their services, can reach Dorfman at 800-548-6295 or jed@campwalt.com.

News of Bygone Days

100 years ago... In 1902, the Alpha Chapter correspondent wrote, "Our [base]ball team played Pennsylvania and Yale each a tie game, and yesterday played Princeton a very close game... It is a rather singular circumstance that in three of these games, the score at the ninth inning was a tie, therefore requiring an extra inning to play off the tie."

75 years ago... K.D. Hurley (Mercer, Beta Psi '26) wrote in 1927, "The Pi Kappa Alpha quintet solved with little difficulty the famed defence of ΣAE in the finals and won the Third Annual Interfraternity Basketball Tournament at Mercer University by the decisive score of 30 to 13. The Pikes began the victorious march to the championship in the first game by defeating the Kappa Sigma outfit 39 to 24. The closest and hardest game was in the semi-finals against the Alpha Tau Omegas, winners of the trophy in 1926. The ΠΚΑ quint grabbed the lead on the first tip-off and held it throughout the game, winning 25 to 19."

50 years ago... In March 1952, the Shield & Diamond reported that "Bobby Bowden of Howard was chosen again as All-Dixie Conference quarterback. Down South, Bobby is known as the Vito Parelli of the small colleges. Bullet Bob is a little fellow, 5-foot-8 and 155 pounds, but he has speed, shiftability and hustle."

25 years ago... The March 1977 issue of Shield & Diamond carried excerpts from Dr. Gene Mason's (Northwestern, Gamma Rho '46) book, Minus Three. Mason was then the world's most accomplished mountain climber, having conquered Mt. Aconcagua in Argentina, Mt. McKinley in Alaska, Mt. Kilimanjaro in Africa and Mt. Elbrus in Russia. Minus Three describes his extraordinary experiences on Mt. McKinley.

Oklahoma Alum Runs in New York Marathon

by Charles R. Fellers
(Oklahoma, Beta Omicron '95)

I swore the 2001 New York Marathon would be my second and last marathon, and I only ran it because I wanted to break the four-hour bragging-rights mark.

In August, I began canceling my social life to make time to train. Weekend benders were banned and dates were canceled to make time for 20-mile, death-march training runs and subsequent recovery. Deadlines were tighter with a two-hour run scheduled before the earliest meetings. It cost me hours of sleep, hundreds of dollars in pasta and a toenail.

On September 11, every New Yorker reconsidered everything. Like others, I contemplated leaving, avoiding the outdoors for fear of environmental toxins and skipping the marathon out of safety concerns.

However, on November 4, the race came together, and a race number was again the hottest ticket in town. On Staten Island, 30,000 jittery runners lined up at the foot of the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge, listening to an emotional preamble from Mayor Giuliani.

Then, after months of anticipation, the gun sounded, and we ran.

As the course wound through ethnic neighborhoods, every nationality cheered us on. First, the Latinos cheered in South Brooklyn, then the young married professionals with children in Park Slope, then the Orthodox Jews in Williamsburg, then the whole world hanging out of the bars on First Avenue in Manhattan, then the African-Americans in Harlem and back to the whole world waiting in Central Park at the finish. The whole City egged us on like they were our brothers and sisters.

Children leaned over the rails offering orange slices and holding out their hands for high-fives – so many that I wore a callus on the palm of my right hand. People spilled over the barricades along the entire 26.2-mile route, and as I rounded each corner I felt like a bull at Pamplona or a racecar in the Grand Prix. At every weak moment, the crowd yelled, "Go Chuck," and that was my nitrous.

In a sputter of glory, I finished the race in 3:57, satisfying my goal. However, I recently dedicated another two weekends to qualifying for the 2002 Marathon, and despite all the sacrifices and pain, I might do it again. I hate marathons, I hate the training, but I love New York.

Fellers is a freelance writer, and an associate editor with Venture Capital Journal in Manhattan. He is active in the OU Club of New York and the Beta Omicron Alumni Association. He can be reached at soonerpike@aol.com.

John Hanahan

(Tennessee, Zeta '44)

Jack Hanahan entered Chapter Eternal on October 26, 2001. A premiere educator, he received his B.S. and M.A. degrees from the University of Tennessee. He served as curator to the National Science Museum in Charleston, South Carolina, as the rules chairman of the Eastern Federation of Mineralogical Societies and as a national uniform rules chairman for the American Federation of Mineralogical Societies. He received recognition for his active work with the Smithsonian Institute and Colburn Museum in Asheville, and for authoring many articles on minerals.

His studies in Spanish led to many trips to Mexico and Spain, where he conducted tours for students at the University of Madrid. Throughout his life, Jack was a spirited individualist who pushed his students to excel. His standards for himself were no less high, as he strove to achieve complete satisfaction from whatever he was engaged in – travel, music, reading, gardening, conversation or social evenings. Jack leaves a legacy of “Hanahan stories” that will be exchanged for many years.

Virgil McBroom

(Illinois, Beta Eta '25)

Virgil McBroom, one of Pi Kappa Alpha's most beloved national presidents, passed away in his sleep on January 24, 2002. He was 95 years old and lived in a nursing home in Stuart, Florida. McBroom served the Fraternity as national president from 1980 to 1982.

McBroom was initiated in 1925 at Beta Eta Chapter at the University of Illinois, and served the chapter as president for two terms. Nationally, he served Pi Kappa Alpha as district president, real estate management commissioner, chairman of the endowment fund and three terms as Supreme Council vice president before being elected national president in 1980. In all of his service, McBroom visited a grand total of 134 chapters.

For his wonderful contributions to Pi Kappa Alpha, in 1978 McBroom received the prestigious Loyalty Award. And in 1988, he was inducted into the Educational Foundation's Order of West Range. And lastly, McBroom became a member of the Diamond Chapter on March 1, 2000, in recognition of his 75-year membership in Pi Kappa Alpha.

McBroom's service was not restricted to Pi Kappa Alpha. His civic affiliations included the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Elks, Masonic Lodge and Navy League. He held the rank of lieutenant commander in the United States Navy, and was a Kentucky Colonel since 1967.

McBroom is survived by his son Steve McBroom (Illinois, Beta Eta '71). Condolences may be sent to his son at 9186

Virgil McBroom

Southeast Mercury, Hobe Sound, Florida, 33455.

Much like former national president Andy Knight (Samford, Alpha Pi '23), even though his “official” service to the Fraternity was complete, McBroom was a regular at every international convention until failing health prevented him from doing so. In all, McBroom attended every convention from 1928 through 1996, except for the years he was in military service. In the words of Executive Vice President Raymond L. Orians (Memphis, Delta Zeta '66), “Many of us have fond memories of Virgil and his untiring love and dedication to the Fraternity. He was a true gentleman in Pi Kappa Alpha, and he'll be missed by the many brothers who knew him or benefited by his service.”

He served Alpha Lambda Chapter as president for two years. He was president of his 1941 senior class and president of the student body.

Rudy worked at RCA Records in Indianapolis for 38 years, and retired in 1979.
